Sigmund Picks Bliss As Borough Attorney; 2 Democrats Dissent

Is it Borough Hall or Tammany Hall?

If you listen to her critics, Mayor-elect Barbara Sigmund's move to appoint Walter Bliss, the current Mercer County Democratic chairman, to the position of Borough attorney, is an act of political partisanship that has been virtually nonexistent at this level of government in recent years.

If you listen to Mrs. Sigmund, the appointment is political, yes, but only in the sense that she sought an attorney with "experience in policy making and the passage of legislation necessary to achieve the goals" that were promised during the election campaign.

Either way, it will not be business as usual at Borough Hall, which had been represented by a member of the Nassau Street law firm of Mason, Griffin, and Pierson for the last 22 years.

"We're disappointed—we had hoped to carry on," said the outgoing attorney, Edwin Schmierer. "No. 1, we hate to lose the business. No. 2, the Borough has blossomed into a longstanding client. A number of years ago our firm made a decision to stay on Nassau Street while some other firms were moving to new offices out of town and on Route 1. One reason we wanted to stay was our affiliation with the Borough."

At the request of Mrs. Sigmund, Mr. Schmierer and four other candidates, including Mr. Bliss, were interviewed by her and the six representatives who will serve on Council in the new year. Mr. Bliss's name was put to a straw poll. John Huntoon and Irv Urken, who ran with Mrs. Sigmund in the November election, joined Peter Bearse in supporting Mr. Bliss. Richard Macgill, Richard Woodbridge, who lost to Mrs. Sigmund in the mayoral election, and Barbara Hill voted against him. Mrs. Sigmund's tie breaker vote gave the job to Mr. Bliss.

Mrs. Sigmund praised Mr. Schmierer, and noted that all the applicants were capable of handling "the day-to-day business of the Borough." She noted that all the candidates, all Democrats, had contributed "to one or another of my political campaigns." The deciding issue, she said, was the superior response of Mr. Bliss to questions concerning tax policy and political land use law. "What is showed to me was that Walter knows all this legisla-

Borough, Township Reorganize January 1

Champagne punch at Morven, swearing-in ceremonies at Borough Hall and at the Township meeting room at the Valley Road building, then a nonpartisan reception at the Hook and Ladder Firehouse on Harrison Street, sponsored by the Republicans and Democrats of Borough and Township.

If you are thinking of over-doing it New Year's Eve and then sleeping late Sunday morning, think again: the elected officials and assorted politicians will be putting on their annual New Year's Day show and you might not want to miss it.

The big changes are in the Borough, where Mayor-Elect Barbara Sigmund will host the champagne punch reception at Morven, next to Borough Hall, beginning at 11 a.m. At noon the Borough will swear in Mrs. Sigmund as mayor, along with two new Council members: Irv Urken and John Huntoon.

Collins, Sewers, Rain, Littlebrook School Topped List of Memorable Stories in 1983

It's an odd assortment — the things that made 1983 memorable for Princeton: Collins' plans for Palmer Square, sewer overflows, the closing of Littlebrook School, the snowstorm of February 12, the heat and the rain.

Yes, the town is changing. Been said before, probably will be again. Uneasy about the kinds of change that could occur, the Planning Board looked around and decided that some buildings were ugly (don't want any more of THOSE) and some were — well, all right (could have more of THESE). Examples, said the Board, were the Witherspoon Street addition to what used to be called the First National Bank (no!) and the half-timbered structure right across the street (yes! — worth saving.)

The Heart of Princeton got a new zip code — 08542 — and Borough residents were resigned, at the end of the year, to pulling beer cans out of regular garbage so a new recycling collector could pick them up.

New restaurant coming, it was announced: a 160-seat Stouffer Cheese Cellar in One Palmer Square ... a splendiferous new Hyatt Regency opened its doors with a flourish in September ... in June, a new main post office was promised "within the next year" off Alexander Road ... Home Link began stringing its cable TV ... and, horrendous thought! maybe there will be no more Mary Watts' store, if plans to erect an office building there materialize.

There's been a change in the kind of music coming from the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club, and grumpy neighbors began protesting three bands each playing two hour gigs. The Club protested, too: if the ordinance were stiffened, the Club's finances would be hurt and besides, are those police decibel counters reliable?

Some things, of course, never change:

The library begged for money, Township Mayor Pike said, well, it's either the library or fixing potholes and I'm not sure the public understands that ... the Loop Bus was saved, yet again, on New Year's Day.

Municipalities still strained against state-imposed caps on their budgets, but a loosening of the bind allowed a 7.5 percent increase instead of the former 5 percent.

Still hunting for a home to call its own, even while celebrating its 50th anniversary, Community Players announced defiantly that the show would go on, in spite of a lost lease. At present writing, Players are moving scenery into Mill Hill Playhouse, Trenton.

Concerned Princeton-area residents still protest stoutly against nuclear weapons, and the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament held a discussion of the television film, "The Day After"

Just to remind Princeton that change has occurred in the past, came the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Paris, ending the Revolutionary War. Such celebration! A feast! a bonfire with fireworks and singing! a 13-gun salute! a splendid ball!

And to top it all, ceremonies at Nassau Hall, reminding every one that Princeton was capital of the United States for four summer months in 1783, and it was here that Congress received news of the signing of the Treaty. There was, in Nassau Hall, a re-enactment of Congress receiving the Treaty and the startling

REMEMBER THE KIOSK? Some day a Princeton history book may include the simple entry, "1983 — the Battle of the Kiosk." The tiny building with the copper roof in front of One Palmer Square was the first visible step in the Collins plan for the central business district. The result was an early public relations loss for Collins. But by year's end the kiosk was still standing, business was said to be improving, and management was preparing to add lottery tickets to the bill of goods.

How can 1984 top that?

Governor Thomas Kean and Mrs. Kean made some history of their own when they said no, they would not live in "Drumthwacket," the new — well, newly designated — Governor's Mansion. About $200,000 worth of antique furniture was removed from Drumthwacket and sold by the Historical Society which had purchased it for the mansion.

At year's end, Drumthwacket was back in the news, as neighbors began to protest microwave security arrangements around its perimeter.

Busy Year for Collins. For Collins, owner-developer of Palmer Square, the year began with the announcement by post office officials that they had no intention of moving the Nassau Street post office from its present location. Collins had suggested a spot in its proposed office building farther northwest.

In March, the Environmental Design Review Committee chair announced that, in his view, Collins' bridge over Palmer Square East was "pornography," and in that same month, Collins, to loud trumpets of scorn and protest, opened its Palmer Square kiosk.

In April, a Princeton Area Committee to Save Palmer Square collected 361 names opposing Phase II — the phase including expansion of the Nassau Inn across Palmer Square East, connected by That Bridge.

In June, the Nass offered Princeton diners a 36-year-old menu to soften the fact that the Inn would be closed all summer. You could get sirloin for $2, leg of lamb for $1.75, and the lines were as long as the prices were short. Gary Green joined Collins as vice-president and point man for the expanded Square.

Air Rights Granted. The June approval (with conditions) by the Planning Board was followed in July by Council's granting of air-rights (after two tries) to build the bridge, for $120,000. Council upheld, in an appeal, the Board's approval. A citizen protesting air-rights went to court, lost, and says he will continue his appeal.

In November, Phase III was presented, and after much debate was finally approved by a majority of the planning board members. However, opponents are certain to carry their fight into 1984 with an appeal to Borough Council.

Sewer Problems Studied. Back in January, the head of the Sewer Operating Committee proposed a $30,000 capacity study of Princeton's sewers, the suggestion was adopted and the study is now under way. Adding it up, the Borough (Princeton's sewer banker) said there was $1,450,000 on hand, and no need to borrow.

With an opaque crystal ball, Borough Council member Richard Macgill said "we might even get another refund from the Stony Brook Regional Sewer Authority," little knowing that even as he spoke, a meter was being factored incorrectly, and the two Princetons would be socked $1.2 million by the Authority for its own error in underbilling. But that didn't happen until November.

In May, Harry's Brook residents begged for a "voluntary" ban on sewer hook-ups. Borough Mayor Robert W. Crawley said "it's possible" the H. Brook problem would be 80-90 percent solved by the end of the year.

That $1.4 million is "just peanuts," was the scornful remark of Olivia Applegate, a Brook neighbor who became the Joan of Arc for embattled Brook residents.

Sewer Hookup Ban Rescinded. In June, the state DEP said it had "no alternative" but to stop approving connections to the Brook trunk sewer. Surprised Princeton officials hastened to Trenton, laid out plans for sewer repair that were even then beginning on Princeton streets and convinced the state it should rescind the restrictions, which it did a month later.

Martin Dorward was hired in August, an engineer charged with figuring out what to do next. Mr. North charged that the Brokaw report, foundation for present repair work, was inadequate. In September, high counts of fecal coliform bacteria were found and the Brook was posted with warning signs.

Maybe deer and goose feces are polluting the Brook, suggested the state, but nobody really believed that one. Eleven places along the Brook were tested, and in some areas, the count went right off the scale.

Two public hearings were held on sewers and the DOT man present produced the quote of the year: "You have a really nasty problem, here in Princeton."

People in the News. We mentioned Mrs. Applegate

Xmas Fund Nears $10,000

A few days after Christmas, the TOWN TOPICS' Christmas Fund is just $200 shy of $10,000.

There is still plenty of time to contribute to the fund, administered by the Family Service Agency of Princeton, for the benefit of needy families and individuals living in this area. The 1983 appeal does not officially close until January 31.

Please make checks payable to the TOWN TOPICS' Christmas Fund, and send them to P.O. Box 664, Princeton, or drop them off at 4 Mercer Street. All contributions are tax deductible.

A FAREWELL FOR LITTLEBROOK: School enrollment is not exactly ballooning — in fact just the opposite — but the resulting closing of Littlebrook School was marked by the sending up of balloons, each containing the name and address of a Littlebrook child. (Michaela McMillan Photo) and Mr. North, fine examples of the kind of community participation and passionate involvement so characteristic of Princeton. Other people appeared in the news in 1983, as well.

Robert W. Cawley, Borough mayor for 14 years, announced he would not run again.

Brooke Shields, the 17-year-old actress-model, became one of the 1,100 members of the freshman class at Princeton.

Katherine Baker turned 100 in June, as sprightly of eye and mind as a 17-year-old.

As there are every year, there were a lot of retirements:

Joseph R. Nini retired as Administrator of Princeton Township; Nancy White Worthington as head of Corner House, the drug-abuse prevention center; Walter B. Foster as head of Nassau Savings and Loan; Dr. James I. McCord as president of Princeton Theological Seminary; Arthur P. Morgan as executive vice-president of Princeton Bank.

Celebrators were Emma Epps, "volunteer of the year;" Bill Lockwood, 25 years as McCarter's booking manager; physicist and atom bomb expert Henry De Wolf Smyth, his 85th birthday; Walter Nollner, his 25th anniversary as director of the Princeton University Glee Club.

National Newsmakers. And people made news: David Dodge, acting president of the American University in Beirut, was released by his kidnappers in July, one year after they had seized him.

James Gunn, of the University faculty, received a prized MacArthur Fellowship.

Ariela Gross, 17-year-old Presidential scholar at Princeton High School, sparred with President Ronald Reagan as she presented her anti-nuclear war views at the White House.

Borough Council decided not to take action against Bernard Lesko, a Borough employee, for alleged racial slurs but announced that Council would not tolerate such behavior.

Helen Van Cleve, in the real estate business for many years, closed her agency and joined another.

A Food Coop, designed for Princeton's elderly, closed after only nine months. Safe Rides, designed for Princeton's youth, announced its new program: a safe ride home from a teen party if you or your date have had too much to drink to drive.

And William Rodweller was the 1983 Fire Chief.

Another School Closing. Remember Littlebrook School?

A student body shrinking every year — should a school be closed and if so, which one? "We want public input," announced the School Closing Advisory Committee in January, and that's what they got, in six public hearings.

In March, the school board voted 5-4 to close Littlebrook, and everyone on the board agreed it was an "agonizing decision." Stung and unhappy, the Littlebrook PTO announced that while it would never work "actively" against the school budget, it would not support the budget unless the board's decision were reconsidered. "We feel very, very strongly the situation cannot be left as it is," they stated.

But the decision stood, the budget passed, Michael Tomalin — who had voted to close Littlebrook — was re-elected to the board.

Quietly, but with balloons, Littlebrook School closed on the last day of school and principal George Petrillo moved to Riverside. In a move to make sure PHS principal John Sakala was not bumped — he is the junior principal — the board offered retirement inducements. Eugene Biringer is the one who accepted, and left as Riverside's principal with $20,000 and another $7,000 payable over time.

School Aid Restored. Actually, the year began with the restoration of $524,000 in lost state school aid. An anonymous Princeton resident then called the state and said the money should be used for tax relief, not expenses. Faced with this unexpected development, the school board moved the pieces on its budget checkerboard and satisfied the state — and apparently the anonymous caller — without affecting taxpayers.

A temporary restraining order in January prevented the state from requiring one minute of silence at the start of each school day. Two Princeton residents — Jean Ross and her 10-year-old son, Damon, and Bonnie Schorske, joined the suit.

In June, a Long Range Report declared that "the

In Memoriam

Princeton lost a part of itself during 1983. These are townspeople who died during the year who had helped to make and shape a part of the community.

Dr. Pia Chu Tan, January 10, Princeton physician for many years.

William R. Bonthron, January 17, world-record (1934) 1500-meter runner, outstanding amateur athlete.

Warren E. Huff, February 13, active in civil rights and community service groups.

Frank W. Notestein, February 19, world-renowned demographer.

Sebastiano Conte, March 15, founder of the restaurant that bears his name.

Norton C. Jefferson, March 25, founder of N.C. Jefferson Plumbing and Heating.

Michael Carnevale, April 4, co-founder of The Annex restaurant, father of the Borough's police chief.

The Rev. Dr. William L. Tucker, April 30, pastor emeritus of the former St. Andrews Presbyterian Church.

J. Seward Johnson, May 23, Johnson and Johnson heir, benefactor of Princeton Medical Center.

Dorothy F. Crossley (Mrs. Archibald), May 28, an officer of Archibald Crossley, Inc., the public opinion firm; founder of the school that later became Miss Mason's.

Elisheva Velikovsky, June 24, sculptor, art teacher, widow of Immanuel Velikovsky.

Charles R. Sperling, July 8, lawyer, Borough police chance man.

LeRoy Purvis, July 27, president and chairman of the board, Gallup and Robinson.

Phyllis Riley, August 12, co-founder of The Princeton Gourmet.

Adele V. Mitchell, September 1, former executive director of the Stony Brook Millstone Watersheds Association.

The Rev. John V. Butler, September 19, former rector of Trinity Church.

ability to handle change" is the most important skill a child can learn. Highlights: children must have "functional literacy" in computers; they must learn critical reading (and viewing); their math courses should emphasize problem-solving; they should encounter math and statistics in all their courses in one way or another.

There was fun in September, as Community Park learned it would get a new playground with equipment made from old truck tires. Parents put it together on an October work-week-end.

In December, the public approved by a 9-1 margin, a $3.7 bond issue for renovating school buildings and playing fields.

In the private sector, James W. Gramentine became the new Headmaster at Princeton Day School.

Other Institutions in News. Other institutions made their own news. In May, Princeton University dedicated its Tokamak fusion test reactor, and this fall, received approval for plans to build a new building devoted to molecular biology.

"No fraternities allowed" was the word from the University last spring. And officials warned that, if men did not register for the draft and lost Federal loans thereby, they would not receive money from the University to replace those lost loans.

The Medical Center finally received approval for construction of an office-classroom building on the corner of Witherspon and Henry.

Most Significant News? Well, Route One began to have growing pains like a teen-age kid. Looking back, it may well be that 1983's most significant news was the start of Route One planning by the state's Department of Transportation.

With office buildings and hotels nudging against shopping malls and each other, with intersections packed to bursting at rush-hours, with drawing-boards almost as busy as the intersections, it looked as though Route One might strangle itself as well as its neighbors, unless the state did something.

Princeton University reminded the town of its foresight, ten years ago, in acquiring the 1600-acre Forrestal tract on Route One and assigning to it open space, as well as corporate offices and housing.

By December of this year, the Mercer County Planning Board had announced it would not approve any more building on Route One until the state came up with a plan and began work on at least some of it. But in November, the state had said that re-designing the highway would not begin until two years from now — January of '86.

Plans for 92-A By-Pass. Meanwhile, there's another route — hoary old 92-A, if that's what you want to call it (has several names, appropriately, in one so old). This route, scheduled to veer off, north of Princeton, allowing truck traffic to by-pass the town on its way south and east, was the subject of discussion in March, when 300 residents crowded into West Windsor-Plainsboro High School to talk about it.

In June, Princeton Township had a nasty surprise when officials learned that the route had been pushed down toward Princeton by a change in DOT plans. Montgomery Township developer Carlton Homes showed a letter of agreement with the DOT on that change of plans. Outraged, Township officials filed suit in August aginst both the DOT and Carlton.

A Montgomery Township citizens group, CARS, developed an alternate route, and there was talk of greater collaboration between Montgomery and Princeton townships, considering their joint boundary line.

More Traffic News. What's the worst intersection in this part of the world?

Mercer County says Nassau-Washington-Vandeventer, almost tied with Nassau-Harrison.

If you're a parker, you found an increase in parking fees last January, and this fall, you found a new Park and Shop lot next to the library.

When communities grow, they grow on land and properties were in the 1983 news almost as much as people — and sewers.

In February, Kingston Trap Rock announced that it wanted to expand its quarry operations, and proposed to re-locate Route 518, build a new road along the canal to Route 27 and construct a water storage facility which could, presumably, be used for boating, and similar water-borne recreations.

Institute Plans Houses. At the other end of Princeton, the Institute for Advanced Study took to the Planning Board in March a "discussion document" proposing 400 to 600 units of housing, retention of the Institute Woods and 70 acres of open space. The Institute said it planned to develop its acreage because it needed the money.

The next month, a coalition of citizens announced that it would try to buy the Institute's development rights to preserve both the land and the Institute's financial stability. "It's worth a try," the coalition said.

Institute director Harry Woolf, who had said the Institute wanted $2 million, agreed to hold off for 90 days. In May, after the Planning Board had said, "come back with a wholly new plan," the Institute extended that 90 days to December 31. So far, the coalition is still canvassing for the money.

J. Robert Hillier obtained final approval to develop the Knox property on Mountain Avenue. This fall, it was announced that a developer planned 56 houses in the $300,000 to $400,000 range on the 81-acre Russell estate.

The 60-acre Cook property on the Lawrenceville Road, denied to Mercer Christian Academy for a school, was proposed for development and the 80-acre Clarke property at the foot of Mountain Avenue was sold, but no development planned. And another developer had an option for development of the Foulet property on Cherry Hill.

PCH Housing on Elm Road. When opponents of Princeton Community Housing's project for the elderly on Elm Road did not appeal a Superior Court ruling backing the Borough Zoning Board's variance, they left the way open for PCH to break ground. Now, PCH is waiting for HUD, the Federal Housing and Urban Development agency, to take the final steps.

Princeton citizens in the John-Witherspoon Street area learned that they will be able to renovate their houses, courtesy of an $85,000 Neighborhood Rehabilitation grant. Painting, weatherstripping, roofing — many kinds of improvements are available under the grant. Michael Floyd was hired by the Borough to run the program.

A Second Grant. Another $85,000 grant came to the Borough. For a time, it looked as though it might be part of a package for construction of six units of elderly-handicapped housing where the John Street basketball court now is — at least, that's what neighbors said they wanted — but at year's end, the project was in limbo with no decision on how to spend that particular $85,000.

Merrill Lynch bought 250 Forrestal acres for a national training headquarters, and Princeton Airport is still for sale.

Princeton University settled its suit with the Township over re-zoning of land, including University properties, in the northwest part of the municipality.

If you live in the Borough, you learned this year that a new assessment has been completed, with properties assessed about 10 to 30 percent more. Hardly a ripple of comment, but Borough officials will hide behind the barricades next June when the first tax bills arrive and results of the new assessments are right there in black and white and dollars and cents.

If you rent in the Borough, you became aware of the new Rent Registration ordinance and began to watch for its effects on your rental bill.

New Borough Officials. The elected officials who lead you through the labyrinth of Collins, sewer lines, school

News of The THEATRES

LAST FIVE DAYS

For Christmas Carol. With the first week of "A Christmas Carol" a complete sellout, McCarter Theatre announces availability of excellent seats for the final days of the run, Dec. 28-Jan. 1.

Performances between Christmas and New Year are unique this year for many reasons: it is the first time McCarter has run "A Christmas Carol" the week of school vacations when children and college students are home for the holidays; it includes two matinees on New Year's Eve Day at 1 and 5 p.m. — leaving ample time to celebrate in the evening; and a 2:30 matinee on New Year's Day — an alternative for those who won't be glued to football games on TV.

The first week of "A Christmas Carol" included four sold-out student matinees, attended by elementary, junior high, and senior high students from area schools. The December 22 student matinee was unique as it was the only performance interpreted for the hearing-impaired by two "signers" using American Sign Language.

Signed performances, made possible by the McCarter Theatre Company, have been an important part of the Christmas Carol season for the past few years — and often schools without hearing-impaired students come to these performances, as it is an educational experience for all. It is also a special opportunity for hearing-impaired children to see live theatre, and many students who come to the signed performances of McCarter's "A Christmas Carol" are coming to a theatre for the very first time.

An addition bonus is offered the last week of the run by the Group Sales department: groups of 20 or more who wish to attend "A Christmas Carol" between December 28 and January 1 only will receive a 10 percent discount. For information, call Jim Olson, 452-6133.

Tickets in all sections of the theatre are available now through the box office, 92 University Place, Princeton. Call 609-452-5200, Monday through Saturday, noon to six. Visa, Mastercard and American Express are welcome.

TEMPORARY HOME FOR PLAYERS: The Mill Hill Playhouse in Trenton will serve as a temporary home for the Princeton Community Players until they can find a permanent spot here.

Saroyan at the Mill Hill Playhouse in Trenton.

We earnestly hope that the audiences which supported us for nearly ten years at our Broadmead theatre will continue to follow us to new locations until we find a permanent base in Princeton. We are hopeful for two reasons.

"In the first place, the Mill Hill Playhouse is a charming theatre and very easy to get to from the Princeton area. It is exactly 11.5 miles from Palmer Square (10.5 miles from the Penns Neck circle). The directions are simple: stay on Route 1 — the Trenton Freeway — to the exit for State Street and Front Street. Turn left off the ramp on Front Street, and drive two blocks. The Mill Hill Playhouse is at your left just before the traffic light on Montgomery Street. A large parking lot, free at night, is across Front Street from the theatre.

"Our second reason for asking you to stay with us concerns loyalty and survival. Without your continued support it is doubtful if the Princeton Community Players can long endure. We have contributed to the pleasure and theatrical life of Princeton for the past 50 years, and we hope you will help us keep going. Enjoy, we hope, 'The Cave Dwellers.' "

NEW BALLET CLASSES

For Adults. New classes for adults have been added to the curriculum of the Princeton Ballet Society's School of Ballet. Classes will start in early January at the studios, 262 Alexander.

Esther Seligman will offer a ten-week session in creative modern dance, combining slow and stretching warm-ups with vigorous floor work. The classes are geared to non-dancers, as well as to dancers, and will be given Fridays from 9:15 to 10:45 a.m.

Mary Pat Robertson will teach a new Saturday afternoon beginner ballet class for high school students and adults. Her class will be given from 1:45 to 2:45 starting January 7. Ms. Robertson is co-founder of Teamwork Dance and recently received a choreographic fellowship from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts.

Nancy Thiel, co-director of the Mercer Dance Ensemble, will continue Tuesday and Thursday morning Dance Exercise for women, starting January 3. The exercise classes are given at 9 a.m.

Registration may be made by calling 921-7758 between 10 and 5 week-days.

Alvin Ailey Here. Because the first two performances are sold out by subscription, McCarter added a matinee on Sunday, January 8 at 2:30 p.m., so that more Princeton dance audiences could celebrate the 25th anniversary this season of the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theatre.

Since it was founded 25 years ago, the company has performed for approximately 10 million people in 43 states and 44 countries on six continents.

Among the troupe's appearances are performances in Moscow and Leningrad as well as in parts of Russia where Western dancers had never been seen before (1970); at the First World Festival of Negro Arts in Senegal (1966) and at London's Sadler Wells Festival (1966).

Ailey dancers have performed regularly at McCarter for the past 15 years. Mr. Ailey was the recipient of an honorary degree from Princeton University in 1975.

Now everything you've always wanted for less... is less.

when almost everything is 10% to 40% off regular prices.

At Workbench, we don't have lots of storewide sales. Just one a year. But it's a dilly. Because we mark down all our best stuff. Not just a few things. Not even just a lot of things. But almost everything. And mark down is all we do. Because, unlike a lot of other places, we don't bring in so-called specials or things no one wants or that were over-priced in the first place. At Workbench we just go through the store with our red pencil and slash prices. Which means that right now you'll find Workbench's best at 10% to 40% less than you'd expect to pay.

That's right, 10% to 40% off on butcher block tables, upholstery, storage systems, bookcases, carts, music benches, desks and chair after chair after chair. Even the already reduced "Foreign Policy" prices on most of our imports have been further price cut for this sale.

Of course, there are a few things currently oversold that we can't put on sale. But, odds are, the great things you've been promising yourself to get are here.

Is there a catch? Only time. Because we have only one storewide sale a year. So hurry. Because if you wait too long, you'll have to wait a whole year for our sale to come around again. And that's more time than anyone should spend waiting to spend less.

Our Danish high back swivel chair from Kebe. Black tube frame covered in either rust or black fabric. $179 reg. $199.

Our [illegible] with [illegible] drawer. Made by Ingvar Sikenius of Denmark. Oak veneer with [illegible] trim. $179 reg. $[illegible]. Also from Denmark: the teak bookshelf unit pictured. $85 reg. $95. And this lamp from Massive of Holland, white [illegible] cotton. $17.50 reg. $19.50.

Classic Danish bookcases from Westergaard in oak or teak veneers. As shown, wide tall book case: 76h x 35w x 12"d $99 reg. $119; narrow tall bookcase: 76h x 21w x 12"d $89 reg. $99; single door $20 reg. $25.

EXTRA FINES SET

For Convicted Motorists. Motorists who refuse to take a breathalyzer test or who are caught driving while suspended or without insurance will be subject to heavy surcharges under new regulations proposed by the Department of Insurance and the Division of Motor Vehicles.

The new surcharges will be in addition to those already mandated for motor vehicle point violations and drunk driving convictions. They are expected to generate approximately $25 million a year in additional revenue to help underwrite the operation of the Joint Underwriting Association.

The motor vehicle point and drunk driving surcharges already scheduled for collection in 1984 for violations occurring in 1983 will generate from $31 to $42 million a year.

Under the proposed regulations, motorists convicted in court or administratively suspended by the Division of Motor Vehicles for driving while suspended or driving without insurance will be required to pay an annual $250 surcharge for a three-year period. Drivers suspended by DMV for causing a fatal accident also will have to pay the $250 annual surcharge for three years.

Motorists found guilty of driving while unlicensed, and moped operators who fail to insure their vehicles will be required to pay $100 annual surcharges for three years.

In addition, any motorist who refuses to take a breathalyzer test, whether the violation occurs in New Jersey or out of state, and any motorist convicted of drunk driving out of state will be subject to one-time surcharges of $1,000. The drunk driving surcharge currently required under the Reform Act only applies to convictions occurring in New Jersey.

"The regulations have been proposed to assure that motorists, who would have previously been required to pay higher insurance premiums under the soon-to-be abolished Assigned Risk Plan because of such violations, don't reap financial rewards under the new Reform Act," said Joseph F. Murphy, the State's Insurance Commissioner.

Under the old plan, motorists convicted of motor vehicle violations could face premium increases ranging from 20 to 220 percent. Under the new Reform Act, insurance companies will no longer be allowed to impose those increases for motor vehicle violations.

PROGRAMS LISTED

In Basketball, Volleyball. The Recreation Department will begin its informal open basketball program for women on Tuesday, January 10, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., in the John Witherspoon School gymnasium. Bob Smyth will supervise this free program.

Men interested in playing basketball may do so on Monday and Thursday nights from 7:15 - 10 in the John Witherspoon gym. Monday nights are for the recreational player while Thursday evenings are reserved for more competitive play.

The Recreation Department will also sponsor an informal coed volleyball program on Wednesday nights from 7 to 9 in the John Witherspoon gym beginning January 11.

For additional information on winter programs, call 921-9480.

HOSPICE IS TOPIC

Of Lecture. "Hospice: a Better Way to Care for the Dying," is the title of a lecture to be given on Tuesday, January 3, at 8 p.m. at the Unitarian Church of Princeton. Maureen Eng will be the speaker at the event, which is sponsored by the Holistic Health Association.

Hospice care is an interdisciplinary approach to the care of the dying. The talk will focus on the philosophy and history of the hospice concept. Discussion will also include the rapid growth of hospice programs offering care in New Jersey. The film "Day by Day" will be shown.

Maureen Eng, R.N., M.A., is executive director of the New Jersey Hospice Organization, a private, non-profit organization representing more than 30 programs offering service in New Jersey. For further information, call the HHAPA office, 924-8580.

closings, parking problems and taxes, will change this New Year's Day.

The Borough's first woman mayor and its first mayor from the Democratic party in 22 years will take office January 1. She is Barbara Sigmund, a former member of Borough Council and a former Mercer County Freeholder. She defeated opponent Richard Woodbridge by 449 votes. Mr. Woodbridge will remain on Council, where he has two more years in his third term.

The Borough mayoralty contest looked, for a time, like a primary contest as well, because Democrat Barbara Hill had announced her interest in the job before Mrs. Sigmund did. But Ms. Hill withdrew, declaring cryptically "I am not a street-fighter," and a primary battle was avoided.

In the Township, Winthrop S. Pike won re-election and will presumably remain as mayor. A small political skirmish developed in the Township last New Year's Day, as Mayor Pike nominated Gail Firestone to be deputy mayor, although William Cherry had just completed a year in that office.

Mr. Cherry was also relected, nosing out Democrat Eleanor Lewis by only eight votes, after a re-count.

Year's Worst Crime. Any community, bad news is always news, and crime filled the columns of newspapers in 1983, as it has in other years.

In January, Christine Thick died after she had been shot while walking in the parking lot of Franklin Township high school. A suspect later committed suicide.

In March, Borough police began pressing Council to remodel their headquarters for greater efficiency, and in the same month, Township police appeared in phalanx before Township Committee to ask that vacant positions in their ranks be filled.

An astonished Township Police Chief Anthony Pinelli told reporters one week in April that there was absolutely no crime news — no breaking-and-entering, no burglaries, no thefts. But it didn't last.

Parents, worried by stories in other communities about children who had disappeared, began to consider having their children fingerprinted at police headquarters, and many families took advantage of an opportunity to do this. The prints are given to the family and no record is kept in police headquarters.

The juveniles who went on a rampage of vandalism in June, left behind thousands of dollars in damaged property. Police do not release the names of juvenile offenders.

The October rape of a Seminary student in the parking yard of Princeton University housing was difficult for Township police to investigate because the victim herself would not come forward and discuss the crime with police. It has, apparently, remained unsolved.

Old Crime Solved. But in October, the books were closed on other rapes, committed two years ago, when the rapist was sentenced to 60 years in prison.

Also in October, two Princeton pharmacists pled guilty to Medicaid and Blue Cross fraud.

And for 1984 — horses?

Borough Police Chief Michael Carnevale has made a case for mounted police — he'd like two horses — for the Borough, and had said that a mountie from Philadelphia would be happy to visit Princeton and give a demonstration. So far, no horse show.

The year was only about six weeks old, that February Friday when it began to snow. By the time it stopped, the morning of Saturday, February 12, there were 12 to 16 inches on the ground, depending on how deep your shovel would measure.

It wasn't even a record depth.

Tell that to the baby who was born in a four-wheel drive truck while mother was on her way to the hospital. Or to the hospital workers themselves who showed up for work with toothbrush and a change of socks prepared to stay as long as needed, or the hospital crews that worked 48 hours on snow removal.

The Valentine Dance at the Art People Place went on as planned that Saturday night and that takes a lot of heart. There was even champagne. And during the snowstorm itself, there was thunder — remember?

Then the Rains Came. March and April were like a couple of squeezed sponges. In March, 8.12 inches of rain fell in the month's 31 days. (In New York, it was the wettest March, ever). On Easter Sunday alone, in Princeton, we had 1.37 inches. Enough to make the flowers grow on your bonnet.

April 18 and 19, almost a month into spring, brought snow (and overflowing sewers, but what's new?).

Along in there somewhere, we had six wet week-ends in a row.

All this was getting us limbered up for one of the hottest summers Princeton has ever had.

The 95 degrees on September 19 was a record. The high of 99 on September 10, ditto.

Drouth Follows Rains. And who would have guessed, in April, that Princeton would have a summertime drouth! Dead lawns were having a record year, and the dry weather was bad because it was hot, and because the dry heat went on so long. In July, there were eight consecutive days when it was 90 or above, and throughout the month, only 3.27 inches of rain.

Yes, the Fourth of July in 1966 was hotter.

You may have spent the Fourth with the other 1,000 Princeton residents who were at the Community Park swimming pool complex. Or maybe you were in the newly-opened Turning Basin Park, on the west side of Alexander Road on the way to Route One: canal for canoeing, tables and grills for picnicking, trails for walking.

As the year waned, nature and animal lovers were on the horns, if not of a buck deer, at least of a dilemma: what to do about the Township's fat and sassy deer population, growing by leaps and bounds and taking those leaps and bounds into the paths of cars, the gardens of gardeners?

Fewer children in the schools, more deer in the tulips, more cars on Route One and George Orwell waiting around the bend for 1984 ...

Happy New Year!

—Katharine H. Bretnall

JEWELRY IS MISSING From Two Township Homes. Township police report jewelry missing from two Township homes but no sign of forced entry in either theft.

Approximately $1800 in jewelry was removed from a jewelry box in a master bedroom in a Hunt Drive home last week between 6:30 and 11 in the evening. The victim told police that a party had been going on in the house during those hours.

Taken sometime during a three-week period in December from a Dogwood Hill home (off Mt. Lucas Road) was approximately $2300 in jewelry from a jewelry box in a master bedroom dresser. During the period, police were told, workmen had been about the premises. Ptl. Virgil Angelini investigated both thefts.

A window facing an alley was broken to enter a Witherspoon Street store between 8:30 Friday evening and 9:45 Saturday morning.

Taken from the store was a paper copying machine valued at $1,595. A binding machine worth $1,895 was damaged during the entry.

TWO ARE CHARGED In Coat Thefts. Two Trenton residents have been charged with possession of stolen property following the theft of two coats Monday from a coat room at the Nassau Inn.

They are Michael George, 22, and William Shaw, 21. Both were later released, pending their appearance in Borough court scheduled for next Wednesday.

A third suspect was arrested when he was seen walking with George and Shaw outside the Inn. Michael Linton, 23, also of Trenton, was turned over to the Trenton Police Department after a crime check revealed he was wanted on a warrant for burglary issued by that department.

Patrolmen Chris Boutote and Mark Stillitano arrived in separate patrol cars after a manager at the Inn called at 1:15 p.m. to report the theft of two customers' coats from the Greenhouse Restaurant. He gave police a description of two suspects he had seen acting suspiciously in the Inn and were later seen wearing the stolen coats.

Moments later, Ptl. Boutote observed two suspects fitting the description at a Palmer Square bus stop. Both were wearing Shearling coats which had been discovered missing by the victims as they

Battle of Princeton

There will be a talk on the events of the Battle of Princeton Tuesday at 11 at the flagpole in Battlefield Park on Mercer Road.

Given by Richard W. Baker Jr., president of the Princeton Battlefield Area Preservation Society, the talk will be given on the 207th anniversary of the historic turning point in the American Revolution, which took place January 3, 1777. Clarke House, where General Mercer was cared for after the Battle, and where he died nine days later, will be open for visitors for a brief time after the talk.

were getting ready to leave the restaurant.

One of the suspects fled across Nassau Street and was apprehended on the university campus. The second was pointed out by the manager, whom police had taken to the scene in a patrol car. He fled into a Nassau Street building where he removed the stolen coat and placed it on a chair. He was also apprehended and police recovered both coats.

One coat was valued and $400 and contained a $30 pair of gloves; the second was valued at $160.

CAR SNAPS POLE On Murray Place. A car turning left from a private drive onto Murray Place last week, jumped the curb and struck a service pole, snapping it 15 feet above ground level.

The driver, Brian Wagner, 21, of Burd Road, Pennington, was taken by the Princeton First Aid Squad to Princeton Medical Center where he was treated for contusions and abrasions to both knees.

Mr. Wagner, an employee of Larry's Sunoco service station on the corner of Murray Place and Nassau, told Sgt. Peter Hanley that a car traveling in the opposite direction was on his side of road. He tried to pull right, hit the curb and lost control. Sgt. Hanley was unable to locate any witnesses to the mishap.

The car, a 1979 sedan, was a customer's car that had been left at the station for repair.

THEFT REPORT Wallet, Tapes Stolen. A wallet and cassette tapes were among items reported stolen last week by police.

The wallet, containing $10, was removed from a purse that had been left unattended last week on a shelf in a room in a Nassau Street church; the seven cassette tapes valued at $28 were taken from an unlocked car parked last week in the Park and Shop lot off Spring Street. The victim is a Princeton resident.

Front and rear New York license plates were stolen last week from the car of a Westminster Choir College student who discovered the overnight theft while he was parking his car to return home for the holidays.

When a Princeton resident arrived home last week after dining at a Nassau Street restaurant he discovered that someone had removed his wallet from his coat while it was unattended in a booth. He lost $5; the wallet was valued at $20.

Five dollars worth of gasoline was siphoned from the car of a Hopewell Township resident last week. Police report the car, found abandoned on a roadway, was issued a summons by Montgomery Township police and then towed to a Princeton garage. Police were unable to determine whether the gas had been siphoned while the car was left on the roadway or in the garage.

What police are calling an attempted motor vehicle theft involved the 1978 sedan of a Clover Lane resident. The owner told police that when he had parked his car in the drive at 7:30 in the evening, it was

Ice Safety Brochures

Ice Safety rules and regulations for Lake Carnegie and the pond at Community Park North are available at all Princeton Schools, the Public Library, Borough Hall and the Township offices at the Valley Road Building, the Township Police headquarters and the Recreation Department.

Those who like to skate are asked to pick up a brochure and study it. To find out whether there is skating on any particular day, call the Recreation Department at 921-9480 or listen to radio station WHWH.

Flags will be flown at both locations indicating ice conditions and whether or not skating is permitted. A white flag signifies safe condition--skating is permitted. A red flag indicates unsafe conditions and no skating.

clean. The next morning he found that the car's tires were muddy, the ignition switch had been pried and broken and the car had been moved. Ptl. Virgil Angelini, who investigated, reported that it appears the car had rolled backward in the driveway but he was unable to determine if the car had been driven.

Borough police, after he refused to pay a $15 cab fare.

Pfl Ronald Wohlschlegel had responded to a 10:36 p.m. call from a Trenton cab dispatcher who reported that one of their drivers needed assistance at the intersection of William Street and Washington Road. When he arrived, the driver pointed to a bush where he said his fare was hiding after refusing to pay for a ride from Trenton.

When the officer ordered the suspect to come out, Hendershot complied, was issued a summons and is scheduled to appear in court next Wednesday.

DRIVER IS CHARGED

With DWI, Leaving the Scene. Eighteen year-old Peter Gambino,3d of Somerset was charged by Township police last week with driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident.

According to police, Gambino allegedly struck the car of a Cherry Valley Road resident about a mile west of Mountainview Road on Cherry Valley and continued on. Pfl Robert Nesbeu responded and was given the supect car's license number.

As the officer passed Mountainview he observed the suspect car parked off to the side with the driver attempting to jack it up to repair a flat. Gambino was given a balance and coordination test at the scene and then taken to police headquarters where he was given a Breathalyzer test and later charged. He is scheduled to appear in Township court in January.

THE HOSPITAL GOES TO THE CLASSROOM: Kelly Fegely, Princeton Medical Center Nursing Care coordinator, explains medical equipment to West Windsor-Plainsboro kindergarten children in Wicoff School. The school tour was arranged by the eight-member volunteer staff for the children in order to reduce possible fears that youngsters might have about medical care and experience.

SCHOOL BUS WINDOW SHOT

By Pellet. A 10- by 18-inch glass pane in a school bus was shattered, apparently by a BB pellet, as the bus was traveling last week on Princeton Kingston Road near Locust Lane.

In the Borough, police report that the gas cap and side view mirrors of a car were broken off while it was parked overnight on Stanworth Drive. Police found footprints in the snow leading from the car toward John Street. The victim is a resident of Stanworth Drive.

THREE ARE FINED

In Township Court. Three Princeton area residents were fined last week in Township court.

Constance Wolff, 111 Red Hill Road, was fined $65 for a stop sign violation and Frani E. Johnson, 30 Sayer Drive, paid the same amount for failure to give proper signal.

In criminal court Judge Sydney Souter fined Theodore H. Kennedy, 76 Franklin Corner Road, Lawrenceville, $75 for criminal mischief and ordered him to pay $25 to the Violent Crime Compensation Board. Kennedy had been charged by police with ripping off the door of Cenerino's Restaurant on Leigh Avenue.

TWENTY-SIX ARE BORN

At Medical Center. The births of eight girls and eighteen boys were reported last week at the Princeton Medical Center.

Daughters were born to Health Screenings Set

The Health Department will sponsor a health screening session on Wednesday, January 4, from 2 to 3 in the basement of Borough Hall. Screenings will be for blood pressure and diabetes, in addition to hemocult checks.

Persons wishing to participate may do so on a walk-in basis; appointments are not necessary. However, the Health Department recommends that those persons wishing to be screened for diabetes eat a full meal, preferably with dessert, 1½-2 hours before the test is to be done to insure greater accuracy in the test reading.

$3 MILLION EARMARKED

For Junction Station. If all goes according to schedule—a significant "if" when dealing with the railroad, the aging train station at Princeton Junction will be demolished this spring and a spanking new station will be built within a year.

That good news for commuters comes from New Jersey Transit, which last week announced that it had received a $15.7 million grant from the Federal Urban Mass Transit Administration. Of that money, about $3.1 million will be allocated to the reconstruction of the Princeton Junction station, which will also benefit from parking and traffic improvements that will be financed by $1.5 million from a previous federal grant.

The new station, to be located just south of the present one, will include a high level platform that will enable passengers to board trains without climbing stairs and will enable the railroad to operate with fewer crewmen and shorter station stops.

The new waiting room will have more seating capacity. New Jersey Transit officials said, and will include longer canopies to protect passengers waiting outside.

The traffic improvements will include widening Wallace Circle, the loop off Wallace Road that serves as a drop-off and pick-up point next to the station. Access for buses will also be improved.

New Jersey Transit officials said that the work has been planned in stages "to minimize interference for passengers" during the reconstruction process.

Fund Hits 73 Percent

With approximately another month to go, the United Way-Red Cross campaign for the Princeton area has achieved 73 percent of its goal.

To date $1,100, 365 of the $1.5 million goal has been collected. Recent strong employee campaigns at some area companies pushed the total up several percentage points, and there is still a strong feeling among the volunteers that the drive will reach its goal if everyone contributes.

Contributions can be sent to the United Way Offices, P.O. Box 1152, Princeton, 08540.

PEOPLE in the News

Robert C. Kuser Jr. of Green Avenue, Lawrenceville, has been elected senior vice president of The Bank of New York.

Mr. Kuser, 41, previously headed the bank's strategic planning department. He now assumes new duties as assistant sector head, central operations, responsible for the corporate trust, mutual fund and trust operations divisions and the bank's securities processing marketing department.

He joined the bank in 1966 with an A.B. degree in history from Princeton University and an M.B.A. degree in finance from the University of California at Berkeley. He became an assistant treasurer in 1969, an assistant vice president in 1972 and a vice president in 1974. He was recently elected Councilman for Lawrence Township for a three year term.

"Games Computers Play," by Pennington resident Keith Reid-Green, has just been published by Digital Press, publisher of trade and technical publications.

The book shows the owner of a personal computer how to design, program and play computer games and computer graphics games on any such computer. It has approximately 150 line drawings of actual game graphics, and a programming guide, giving basic algorithms and pseudocode needed to run the games.

Inquiries about the book may be addressed to Digital Press, 12 Crosby Drive, Bedford, Massachusetts, 01730.

Peter Bearse, president of Peter Bearse Associates, a Princeton economic consulting firm with offices on Leigh Avenue, has been invited to speak before the Technology Council of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce on January 5. He will talk on the subject, "High Technology in New Jersey." Dr. Bearse served as a member of the Capital for New Technology Task Force of the Governor's Commission on Science and Technology. He is the author of "Mobilizing Capital" and "Services: The New Economy."

Joseph M. Binney of Beechtree Road, Plainsboro, has been named division manager - sales and marketing of Uni-lock Systems, a division of Key Tech Corporation located in Ocean Township.

As division manager, he will direct the marketing of systems designed to improve packaging performance during in-plant handling and shipping.

Mr. Binney, a graduate of Purdue University, joined Key Tech after 15 years of sales management at Container Corporation of America's Composite Can Division. He was previously affiliated with Continental Can Company in Chicago and Minneapolis.

John A. Olszewski, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Olszewski of 81 Cleveland Lane, was among 13 students initiated as members of the New York Eta Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at Colgate University where he is a senior. Having prepared for college at The International School of Brussels, Boitsfort, Belgium, he is concentrating in mathematics at Colgate.

Claire H. Willis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Willis of 24 Evergreen Circle, sang with the Vassar College Choir in their fall concert. Ms. Willis, an alto, is currently a freshman at Vassar and is a graduate of Princeton High School.

Richard G. Anderson of Plainsboro has been appointed assistant treasurer of Crestwood Village, Inc., developer of retirement and preretirement housing in New Jersey and Maryland.

Mr. Anderson was previously associated with the Washington, D.C. office of Arthur Andersen & Co., an international accounting firm. As a tax manager with Andersen, he specialized in international taxation, working with multinational corporations, foreign direct investors in the U.S., and expatriate employees of foreign and domestic companies.

Emily J. White of Lawrenceville was one of four speech-language pathologists and audiologists representing New Jersey at the recent meetings of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association in Cincinnati. As a state delegate to the legislative council of the association, Ms. White participated in four days of policy-making for the speech and hearing profession.

She has also been appointed to the Committee on Amplification for the Hearing Impaired, a committee of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association which studies policies and procedures involving hearing aids. She will serve a three-year term beginning January 1.

Ms. White is director of PENTA Audiology Consultants at 33 State Road and audiology consultant to the New Jersey Medicaid Program. For the 1983-84 year she was elected vice president for public affairs and marketing within the New Jersey Speech-Language-Hearing Association. She is also a trustee and vice president of the New Jersey Association for Children with Hearing Impairments, and an active member of the New Jersey Noise Control Council.

Sally M. Moren of Poe Road has been appointed communications-publications associate at Princeton University.

Ms. Moren will assume the responsibilities of managing editor of the Princeton Weekly Bulletin, the official university newspaper that is published 30 times during the academic year. The Weekly Bulletin has a circulation of 13,500 and covers news and features of university events, personalities, research and policies.

Author of three novels and a number of scholarly articles on Near Eastern studies, Ms. Moren has been an assistant editor since 1980 of the Journal of Cuneiform Studies, a quarterly devoted to primary research on Mesopotamia and other ancient Near Eastern cultures. She is the author and principal editor of a study of Babylonian terrestrial omens which will be published in three volumes, beginning early next year.

George D. Eggers Jr.

Princeton University has named George D. Eggers Jr. of Southern Way as its new director of development.

Mr. Eggers has served as associate director in the Leadership Gifts section of Princeton's Development Office since July 1980. In his new position he is responsible for managing capital giving activities in A Campaign for Princeton, the University's $275 million fund-raising effort.

In addition to his experience as a fund raiser, he is a retired Army brigadier general, a member of the Princeton class of 1947 and a 1980 graduate of Princeton.

Mr. Eggers matriculated at wartime Princeton in July 1943, but left the following year to join the army. After the war he decided to make a career of the service, eventually earning a government-sponsored B.S. from the University of Maryland and a Master in Public Affairs from Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School of Public national Affairs. Following retirement from the army in 1978 he returned to Princeton to complete the undergraduate work he had started 35 years earlier.

He fills the vacancy left by Charles L. Taggart who resigned in August to become director of development for the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

Area residents are among the 70 New Jersey crafts men and women who were selected by a jury for inclusion in the New Jersey Designer Craftsmen Crafts Weekend held this month at William Paterson College Student Center.

From Princeton, Ann Johnson, exhibited basketry; Ann Stefan and Jill Wasserman, fiber wearables; and Laurel Scheeler, weaving. Stephanie Katz of Princeton Junction also exhibited weaving, and Akiko Collcutt, E. Berry Jones and Connie Bracci-McIndoe, all of Hopewell, displayed ceramics.

Harleigh R. Kemmerer, former manager of grounds and maintenance and landscape architect at Princeton University, has been appointed a trustee of the Marquand Park Foundation in Princeton.

Mr. Kemmerer is currently associate professor of agricultural studies at Mercer County Community College and coordinator of the ornamental horticulture technology/land use management program at MCCC. Marquand Park is the 17-acre arboretum bordered by Mercer and Stockton Streets and Lovers Lane. The foundation was formed in 1955 to support the park.

E. Macklin Roby, Rolling Hill Road, Skillman, president of Gulton Industries, Inc., will also become chief executive officer effective March 1, 1984. Walter F. Gips, Jr., Brookstone Drive, who has been chairman since 1978 and chief executive officer since 1969, will continue as chairman.

Mr. Roby, 52, president and chief operating officer since September 1979, has been associated with Gulton since 1958. He was elected executive vice president in 1978 and for nine years prior to that served as a corporate vice president. Mr. Roby was general manager of Gulton's Data Systems Division in Albuquerque, New Mexico, from 1965 until 1973 and earlier had served as engineering manager of the division.

Prior to his association with Gulton, Mr. Roby held engineering positions with Sandia Corporation, Albuquerque and Bell Laboratories, New York City. He holds at B.S.E.E. degree from the University of Maryland, an M.S.E.E. degree from the University of New Mexico and is a graduate of the Harvard Business School's Advanced Management Program.

Warren H. Simmons Jr. of Stuart Road has been elected president of the board of trustees of the Friends of New Jersey Public Broadcasting, Inc.

The Friends of New Jersey Public Broadcasting, Inc. is an independent, non-profit organization that exists to support the goals and activities of New Jersey Network, the statewide system of four public television channels, 23 in Camden, 50 in Montclair, 52 in Trenton and 58 in New Brunswick.

Mr. Simmons recently retired as a senior vice president for personnel and industrial relations of R.H. Macy and Co., Inc., but remains a consultant to the corporation.

His election to the Friends' board is not his first exposure to the field of broadcasting. As an undergraduate at Princeton University, he managed the campus radio station, WPRU (now WPRB). After graduating in 1949 with a degree in English, Mr. Simmons began a four-year stint with NBC. In 1953 he joined Bambergers and moved to R.H. Macy in June 1970.

Mr. Simmons is a member and former chairman of the board of governors at Muhlenberg Hospital in Plainfield. He is a trustee of McCarter Theatre Company and the Princeton University Store. He has also served as a trustee of both the New Jersey Symphony and the New Jersey Historical Society.

Ten Mercer County residents have been named to seats on the newly formed Mercer County Agricultural Development Board by County Executive Bill Mathesius.

Farmer members include Gary Mount of Cold Soil Road, a fruit farmer; Charles S. Bryan of Federal City Road, Hopewell Township, a dairy farmer; Robert Reed of Rabbit Hill Road, West Windsor; and Donald Woodward of Hopewell Township, grain farmers.

The council will also have three non-farming members. They are Winona D. Nash of Lawrenceville, who was appointed to a two-year term; Nancy Tindall, former mayor of Washington Township, who will serve a four-year term, and Peggy McNeill of Princeton Township, for a three-year term.

Mercer County Planning Board member Samuel Humes will also serve on the special board, joining Charles Holmes, chief of the Mercer County Extension Service, and Edward DiPolvere of West Windsor, a representative of the Soil Conservation District.

Patrick R. Brannigan, of Vannoy Avenue, Pennington, former deputy director of the New Jersey Department of Motor Vehicles, has been named executive director of the new Center for Information Age Technology (CIAT) at New Jersey Institute of Technology.

He will be responsible for developing programs in which the center's resources can be used to help government, educational and business institutions make the leap into "the information age." Mr. Brannigan says CIAT is a technological version of agricultural extension programs, in which the expertise and facilities of state universities are made available as a public service.

Mr. Brannigan was responsible for implementing the Division of Motor Vehicles' plan for computerization and the redesign of its data base. He also served as deputy director for the Division of Citizens Complaints for the N.J. Department of the Public Advocate, assistant director of the New Jersey Public Service Insitute and community service officer for the state's Department of Community Affairs.

BUSINESS

NEW FIRM FORMED

For Practice of Law. After 22 years with the law firm of McCarthy and Hicks, A.C. Reeves Hicks has joined another group of attorneys who have formed the new firm of Smith, Lambert, Hicks and Miller.

Mr. Hicks joins attorneys Marsha Beidler, Samuel W. Lambert III, Nicholas Miller, Edith S. Rose and Louise M. Samaroo who have formed a professional corporation located at One Palmer Square. According to a press release, the firm's specialized practice will be available to those individuals who are interested in personal and business tax planning, trust and estate planning and administration, and real estate and matrimonial matters as they relate to the individual's personal planning and family situation.

Mr. Hicks is a graduate of Princeton University and the University of Pennsylvania Law School. He spent a number of years in the corporate world of marketing and advertising research before joining the McCarthy firm in 1961. His emphasis is on trusts and estates, and he has been involved for many years in corporate and real estate law.

He is active on the boards of numerous civic and charitable organizations, including the Chamber of Commerce and the YMCA-YWCA.

Ms. Beidler, who is admitted to practice in the New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Florida courts and the U.S. Tax Court, has limited her practice to estate planning, estate administration, corporate tax planning and tax litigations. She received her law degree from Rutgers University and has a Master's degree in taxation from New York University. Her background also includes employment with the Internal Revenue Service in the estate and gift tax section.

Mr. Lambert, a graduate of Yale University and Harvard Law School, is admitted to the New Jersey courts and the U.S. Tax Court. He is particularly active in the fields of trust and estate law as well as corporate law. He is a member of several corporate and foundation boards, such as Horizon Trust Company and The Bunbury Company, In.

Mr. Miller graduated from Yale University and the University of Michigan Law School. He is admitted to the bar in New Jersey and New York. He concentrates in financial, estate and trust planning and administration.

Mrs. Rose is involved primarily with matrimonial law and its many ramifications. A graduate of Barnard College and Columbia University Law School, she is admitted to practice in New Jersey and New York as well as the U.S. Tax Court.

Ms. Samaroo graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and Temple Law School. She is admitted to the New Jersey Courts and the U.S. Tax Court. Her principal interest is matrimonial law and litigation associated with such practice.

Thomas P. Cook, a graduate of Princeton University and the University of Virginia Law School, has engaged in trust and estate practice in the Princeton area for many years. He has also been attorney for numerous public bodies, including the Princeton Housing Authority, the New Jersey School Boards Association, and the Princeton Township Conservation Commission.

Having retired as a director of Smith, Cook, Lambert and Miller, he now serving as Counsel to Smith, Lambert, Hicks and Miller.

PERSONNEL NOTES

John McGuire of Washington Crossing, Pa., has been named vice president of the Pennsylvania Division of Princeton Mortgage Company, located at No. 2, Route 31.

His responsibilities will be in the areas of public relations, account development and mortgage placement in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. He is a former vice president of Financial Programs, Inc. of Morrisville, Pa., and vice president of Suede and Leather Industries of Trenton.

Princeton's Generosity

To the Editor of Town Topics:

More than 100 Princeton families had a merrier Christmas, thanks to the generosity and caring which exists in this community. The integrated efforts of various public and private agencies, social and civic groups and interested individuals is, I believe, unique to Princeton, which should justly predicate itself on its concern for those less fortunate.

Princeton Shopping Center merchants, under the able direction of Caryn Fenton, coordinated total Christmas dinners for 75 families. Contributing money to that effort were the Princeton Soroptimists, Lioness Club and private individuals.

The Princeton Post Office employees, under the inspired guidance of Pam Hendricks, collected canned goods and staples to supplement another 22 families' holiday meals.

Ed Tkacs spearheaded a food collection among his colleagues at the Princeton University Paint Shop and provided two enormous baskets.

Distribution was arranged with the cooperation of employees of Princeton Community Village, the Princeton Housing Authority and Carol Kirled of Crisis Ministry, who chauffeured as van Gallant unstinting muscle power in lifting boxes was supplied by Fred Toto through the good graces of the Township Public Works Department.

Salvation Army provided funds for dolls and trucks for 96 girls and 55 boys and private individuals also donated toys and sweaters. Dolls were dressed by senior citizens, sixth graders at Stuart, the Soroptimists, YWCA groups and employees at Borough and Township Halls.

Such a concerted effort on the part of many to bring some joy to others truly typifies the Christmas spirit. For all the recipients, a heart-felt thankyou.

SPORTS

PHS VS. PENNSBURY

This Wednesday. This Wednesday evening at 6:45 at the Ewing High School gym Princeton High School will oppose Pennsbury High School in the first game of the Blue Devil Classic. Host Ewing and Simon Gratz High of Philadelphia will meet in the second game at 8:15. The winners will meet Friday at 8:15 for the championship, while the losers will clash in a consolation game, starting at 6:45.

This is a new tourney for PHS which last year competed in the Manalapan Tournament. It lost in the opening round to host Manalapan High, 59-43, and then came back to win the consolation round, defeating Matawan, 75-52.

It's hard to get a handle on how PHS will do in the tournament. PHS coach Marvin Trotman said that he knows nothing about the Pennsbury team. The Pennsylvania school is noted more for its fine football teams year after year.

Other Sports on Pages 28-30

PHS itself is largely untested. The Little Tigers defeated Lawrence High by 25 points last week in their only game of the season but the Cardinals, 5-15 last year, are not expected to be one of the top teams in the area this year. Trotman, who started five underclassmen against Lawrence — juniors Scott Fisher, Keith Green, Freddie Young and Frantz Massenet and sophomore Marvin Trotman Jr. — acknowledged that, realistically, his team is a year away from being a good team.

But then maybe not a whole year away. The Little Tigers did so many things right against Lawrence — played good defense, passed well, shot well from the foul line — that Trotman said later that he had to be pleased. The potential of the team has yet to be tested.

It will in short order, however, should both PHS and Ewing win and meet for the title game. Ewing had a sensational year last year, winning 27 of 29 games and losing the Group 3 state championship game to Philipsburg by one point.

Although hit hard by graduation, the Blue Devils have been given the nod again as the team to beat in the Colonial Valley Conference league where every coach — including Trotman — predicts that the league will much more balanced this season.

Ewing's edge in the area is based almost entirely on the return of Tom Berry, its 6-2½ swingman and a member of the All-Mercer County team last year. Berry is a prolific scorer and in Ewing's last start, he poured in 34 points to lead the Blue Devils to a 75-46 victory over Hightstown — their third in a row without a loss.

If Pennsbury has an advantage over PHS, it most certainly is in experience. The Falcons have already played ten games to one for PHS, winning six. In its most recent start, Pennsbury shaded rival Bristol, 63-61, in overtime on a shot by Chris Ford (20 points) at the buzzer.

In its only game, PHS was paced by Young and Fisher who combined for 34 points.

OBITUARIES

E. George Kuser, 90, died December 20 at his home on Lambert Drive. He founded the Hemphill-Noyes brokerage office in Trenton in 1919 and remained active in the business until his retirement five years ago.

The son of Frederick and Teresa Doelger Kuser, he was born in the family home on East 57th Street in New York City. Five years before his birth, his father built a summer home in Hamilton Township, where the family moved year-round in 1926. Always known as Kuser Farm, it has been operated by Hamilton Township as a park and museum since 1976.

Mr. Kuser was a graduate of De LaSalle Academy and Manhattan College in New York. He was briefly associated with his father in the insurance business before opening the Hemphill Noyes brokerage office on September 3, 1929, in a suite on the mezzanine floor of the Stacy Trenton Hotel, now the site of the state Taxation Building.

At that time the large board he had built across the front of the suite's main room listed 100 stocks, making that office the biggest brokerage house in town. In later life, Mr. Kuser liked to recall that he had remained in business through the stock market crash the month following the opening of the office and throughout the Depression, the only brokerage house in Trenton to do so.

Hemphill Noyes remained at the Stacy Trent for 35 years before moving to the Hotel Hildebrecht and later to a building betwcen the two hotels on West State Street. Following a number of mergers, it is now the local office of Shearson American Express in Lawrence Township.

Mr. Kuser worked five days a week until his retirement at age 85, and he prided himself that he still had as clients many of the families whose accounts he had begun in 1929.

He is survived by his wife of 60 years, the former Mary Kerney; a daughter, Mrs. Arthur S. Lane of Harbourton; two sons, R. George Kuser Jr. of New York City and James K. Kuser of Napoleon, Ohio; 16 grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; and a brother, Frederick A. Kuser of Rossmoor.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Trenton, followed by private burial. The family requests that contributions be made to the Church of the Sacred Heart, 343 South Broad Street, Trenton.

Daisy Brooks Parker, 88, of Leigh Avenue, died December 21 at her home. She had lived in Princeton for more than 50 years.

The widow of the Rev. W. T. Parker, former pastor of the First Baptist Church of Princeton, she was born in Savannah, Georgia, and graduated from Savannah College. She taught school there before moving to this area and attending Rider College.

Mourners include the Turner family, Mrs. Ida Dixon, other relatives, and many friends. The funeral was held at the First Baptist Church, with the Rev. Edward Smith officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery.

Barbara J. Packer, 53, of 71 Patton Avenue, died December 23 at her home.

She was born and raised in Princeton. For the past 20 years she worked as a secretary at the Westminster Choir College.

Surviving are her mother, Elizabeth A. Packer of Princeton; a sister, Elizabeth P. Kleiber of Mercerville; and a niece and two nephews.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated Wednesday morning at St. Paul's Church. Burial was in St. Paul's Cemetery under the direction of the Mather-Hodge Funeral Home.

David Hugh Jones, 83, a former Princeton resident and a member of the faculty at the Princeton Theological Seminary from 1934 until his retirement in 1970, died December 21 in North Conway, New Hampshire.

Born in Jackson, Ohio, Mr. Jones graduated from the Guilmont Organ School in New York City in 1920 and studied at the American Conservatory in Fountainbleau, France. In 1926 he became a charter member of the faculty of the Westminster Choir College, where he continued to teach composition and organ after his appointment to the seminary.

While at the seminary, he founded the Seminary Touring Choir, which sang in more than 2,000 churches across the country and in Cuba, Canada, Mexico, Colombia, Venezuela, and the Caribbean. In 1953 the choir was invited to sing at more than 100 military bases in Japan and Korea. A composer of numerous choral works, Mr. Jones was editor of a hymnbook published in 1955 by five Presbyterian and Reformed demoninations.

After his retirement he served as organist in several churches in New Hampshire.

Surviving are his wife, Mildred Palmer Jones; three daughters, Jane Ann Smith of East Williston, New York, Kathryn Johnson of Atlanta, and Ellyn Jones of Victor, Montana; and six grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held Thursday in New Hampshire.

Ruth Rieschick, 78, of Philadelphia, died there on December 10. She formerly lived at Rossmoor in Jamesburg and in Princeton, where she was a member of the Present Day Club.

She is survived by two sisters, Laurena Rieschick of Philadelphia and Kathryn R. Wengel of Princeton; and a nephew, Douglas Wengel of Princeton.

Burial was in Falls City, Nebraska, her birthplace.

Elizabeth L. Ehart, 70, of Valley Road, Hopewell Township, died December 20 at the Princeton Medical Center. She helped organize and was the director of the New Jersey State Scholarship Commission and the Scholarship Loan Commission, which she led until her retirement in 1979.

Born in Camp Point, Illinois, she earned her master's degree and doctorate in educational psychology from the University of Illinois. She was a guidance counselor at Cornell University for four years before beginning her work with the scholarship commission.

A nationally recognized authority on the administration of higher education financial aid, she served in 1970-'71 as the first woman president of the National Association of State Scholarship and Grant Programs.

Surviving are a son, William W. Ehart of Hopewell Township; a brother, Roy Harvey Liggett Jr. of Washington, D. C.; and a sister, Dorothy Swallow of Quincy, Illinois.

The Rev. James H. Biggs of the United Methodist Church of Pennington is officiating at a memorial service being held this Wednesday. Memorial contributions may be made to the Visiting Nurses Association, Hamilton and Whittaker Avenues, Trenton.

John L. Morrell, 86, of Friends Village, Newtown, died December 20 in Chandler Hall, Newtown, after a long illness.

Born in Pennington, Mr. Morrell had lived there all his life before moving to Newtown 2½ years ago. He had been employed by Public Service Electric & Gas Co. for 30 years before his retirement.

Mr. Morrell was the oldest living member of the First United Methodist Church of Pennington, having joined the church in 1915. A meeting room in the church had been named in his honor. He was the former superintendent of the Sunday School and was a member of the choir for more than 30 years. He was also a member of the administrative board, a former member of the board of trustees and a member of the Social Lights.

His most recent position with the church was that of supervisor of grounds and buildings.

He was a member of Cyrus Lodge No. 148 F&AM of Pennington, Scottish Rite Valley of Trenton and the LX Club of Pennington. Surviving are his wife, Minnetta Gulick Morrell, and many nieces and nephews.

The service was held at a Pennington memorial home, the Rev. James H. Biggs, pastor of the First United

SERVICES, FELLOWSHIP

For New Year's Eve, Day. A number of area churches have planned special services or holiday gatherings this weekend to mark the start of the new year.

All Saints' Episcopal Church, Terhune and All Saints' Roads, will hold a New Year's Eve service beginning at 10 p.m. Saturday. The first hour will be a time for watch and prayer. Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 11 p.m.

Bunker Hill Lutheran Brethren Church, Bunker Hill Road, Griggstown, will hold a New Year's Eve Potluck Fellowship and Watchnight Service Saturday at 7 p.m. The Rev. Robert Sletta is pastor. For information call (201) 359-6302.

Trinity Church choirs and clergy will present the annual Festival of Lessons and Carols Sunday, New Year's Day, at 11 a.m. at the Princeton University Chapel. John Bertalot, organist and director of music at Trinity, will direct the music.

All are invited to this traditional service of lessons read by choir members alternating with Christmas carols.

Nassau Presbyterian Church, Nassau Street across from Palmer Square, will hold a special coffee and fellowship hour following the 10 a.m. worship service, Sunday, New Year's Day.

All Saints' Episcopal Church, Terhune and All Saints' Roads, will hold its annual Homecoming Party Sunday after the 11:15 a.m. service of Holy Eucharist. Each family is asked to bring a dozen cookies (as well as a festive spirit) to share with the students home for the holidays and other visitors as well.

Mark and Diane Yasuhara, known as The Hawaiians, will be appearing in concert on Sunday, New Year's Day, at 4 p.m. at Nassau Christian Center, Nassau and Chambers Streets.

The Hawaiians have been frequent guests of the Billy Graham international television crusades, the 700 Club and the PTL Club. They blend the music of their native Hawaiian Islands with traditional hymn favorites and contemporary gospel arrangements to provide a concert program for all age groups and musical tastes. They have recorded seven albums during their concert ministry career.

All are welcome.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Jewish Center, 457 Nassau Street, is considering offering a course on the United States in the 1920s and 1930s if there is enough interest. The course will be taught by Elizabeth Ettinger and will be taught on Wednesday mornings beginning in March. The fee will be $25, again depending on enrollment.

Those who are not members of the Jewish Center are welcome to participate. For more information call Florence Nathan, administrator at 921-0100.

UNUSUAL VIEWPOINT of Victorian home, painted by Jonnylee Gore of Pennington, whose work will be shown at the Hopewell Frame Shop Tuesdays through Saturdays, from January 3 to February 11.

ART

ON VIEW IN HOPEWELL

Paintings by Jonnylee Gore. The watercolors and paintings of Jonnylee R. Gore of Pennington will be featured at the Hopewell Frame Shop's Gallery through January.

Ms. Gore, a Delaware Valley artist and designer, works with striking realism yet executes paintings which are gentle and beautiful. Ms. Gore is also a calligrapher and illustrator. A former art teacher, she graduated from Pennsylvania State University and taught at the Walter C. Black Elementary School in Hightstown and at Our Lady of Sorrows in Trenton.

Currently, Ms. Gore is President of the Princeton branch of the National League of American Pen Women and a member of the Princeton Art Association and the Lehigh Art Alliance. She has earned numerous awards in Delaware Valley invitational and juried art shows.

The exhibit of Ms. Gore's work will open Tuesday and continue until February 11. It can be seen Tuesdays through Saturdays, 10 to 5. The Hopewell Frame Shop is located in Hopewell House Square, Broad and Mercer Streets. For more information, please call 466-0817.

AT MONTGOMERY BANK

Kristin Naumann's Paintings. "Vistas 19," an exhibition of Kristin Ragnhild Naumann's recent paintings, will be on view during the month of January in the Montgomery National Bank in Rocky Hill.

A native of Princeton, Miss Naumann is a member of the Princeton Art Association and the Tri-County Art Association. She graduated from the Princeton Day School and is presently pursuing a major in art at Smith College in Northampton, Mass.

Miss Naumann's paintings have earned her ribbons in New Mexico competitions and in 1981-82 the National Foundation for Advancement in the Arts designated her a "Promising Young Artist in Visual Arts." Two years ago she was part of a two-person show, "People, Places, and Things," at the Princeton University League. Last January she had a one-woman show, "Vistas 18," at the Montgomery National Bank.

Her extensive travels have directly influenced her work. Frequent trips to the American Southwest have been devoted to painting the desert scenery there. Similarly, her Long Island vacations have yielded a number of seascapes. Miss Naumann's lengthy stays in Europe have also shaped her work.

This past summer she studied art and architecture in Munich, Germany and this current exhibit features a number of canvases painted while in Bavaria. All her paintings project her solitary contentment in peaceful locales where nature's moods are not only colorful, but everchanging. Miss Naumann paints in watercolor, oil, and acrylic.

The lobby hours at the Montgomery National Bank are 9 to 5 Monday through Friday and 9 to 12 on Saturdays.

Apple Strudel Muffins

2 cups sifted flour
½ cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
⅓ cup butter
2 cups chopped APPLES from TERHUNE ORCHARDS
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 egg, beaten
¾ cup milk
¼ cup chopped walnuts
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind

Sift together flour, ½ cup sugar, baking powder and salt into a large bowl. Cut in butter with a pastry blender until mixture is crumbly. Reserve ½ cup mixture for the streusel topping. Stir apple and ½ teaspoon lemon rind into mixture in bowl. Add milk to egg and add to apple mixture; stir lightly until moist. Spoon into greased muffin cups. Blend the ½ cup reserved mixture with walnuts, 2 tablespoons sugar and ½ teaspoon lemon rind. Sprinkle over batter in each muffin cup. Bake in 425° oven 20 minutes or until golden brown. Serve warm. Make 12 muffins.

Here's the story of one of the most amazing football players of all time. This man was so outstanding that he became the only player in football history ever named All-America at 2 different positions the SAME YEAR! His name: Bronko Nagurski. He played fullback on offense and tackle on defense for the University of Minnesota in 1929 and was selected All-America at BOTH positions.

DON'T READ YOUR POLICY. Insurance policies are too technical. Let us read them for you. Trust our judgment and take our advice.

The longest professional boxing match of all time happened when Andy Bowen and Jack Burke fought for 110 rounds in New Orleans in 1893. . . the fight lasted an incredible 7 hours and 19 minutes before it ended in a draw when neither man was able to continue.

Did you know many famous football schools once had entirely different names than they have today? For instance, UCLA (which, of course, stands for University of California, Los Angeles) originally was named UCSB (University of California, Southern Branch). Pitt started out as Western University. Princeton was named The College of New Jersey. Duke was Trinity. TCU was Add-Ran College. And Notre Dame was originally called Notre Dame du Lac.

TIGER 5 IN GOOD SHAPE

For Rochester Classic. What many thought would be just a proverbial rebuilding year for the Princeton basketball team, now has more promise thanks to the performance of two returning players and two freshmen.

Off to upper New York state for the Rochester Classic, the Tigers have bagged four victories in six games, and stand a decent chance of capturing the championship in this one. They meet Northeastern this Wednesday night at 7 in the opening round. WPRB-FM (103.3) will carry the game live.

The two returnees who have exceeded pre-season expectations are Kevin "Moon" Mullin and Howie Levy. The sixth man for the Orange and Black a year ago, Mullin is having a stellar season in his role as a starting forward. He has scored exactly 100 points or 16.7 per game to lead the team.

He also tops the squad in rebounding with a 6.2 average. His 23 points against Santa Clara, a career high, and 11 against Houston earned him all-tournament team honors at the Christmas Kettle Classic.

Mullin's abilities were perhaps discernible a year ago as a substitute, but the real surprise has been the play of Levy at center. As back-up to Rich Simkus last season, Levy often looked uncomfortable and awkward in competition. He averaged less than two points a game, never scoring more than six.

As a starter this winter, he has gotten off to a better start than anyone including coach Pete Carril would have thought possible. His 12.5 scoring average, includes 20 against Rutgers, and is second on the team. He has missed scoring in double figures only once.

More importantly, his stamina has improved considerably as well, and Levy has averaged 34 minutes of playing time per game. He needs to do better under the boards, but Levy has definitely proved he belongs on the starting team.

The other forward spot was a question mark at the beginning of the season, and two freshmen are helping to fill it. Aaron Belz, averaging 5.3 points, appears to have nailed down the starting role, and Jay Bubniak (4.8 ppg) is ready when needed.

Carril is not hesitating to use eight or nine players in a game when needed, including Alan Williams, Joe Scott, and Isaac Carter. This experience will help not only down the stretch, but future seasons as well.

The only minor disappointment so far has been the point production of sophomore John Smyth. He carried an 11-point average as a freshman, but is managing only 7.3 to date.

Northeastern 5-2. Princeton has little or no prior experience against the teams in the Rochester event. The game against Northeastern will only be the second meeting between the two schools.

The Huskies captured the first in 1979, beating the Orange and Black, 74-52, in Jadwin. Coach Jim Calhoun's team is led by senior forward Mark Halsel, who has averaged 26.3 points in seven games. The Huskies have won five of those, with one of the losses coming against Cornell by 10 points.

Howie Levy

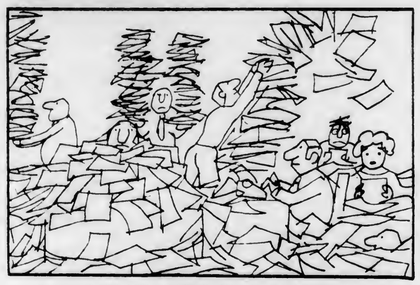
A victory over Northeastern would put the Tigers in the final Thursday night at 9 against the winner of the St. Bonaventure-American contest. The Bonnies, favored in this one, have a 4-1 mark, and are paced by sophomore forward Barry Munger. Princeton has split the two games it has played against St. Bonaventure.



It would be the first-ever meeting should the Tigers play American University. Off to a slow start with a 1-5 mark, the Eagles lost three key players from last year's team that went 20-10 and won the ECC's East Division.

The Ivy race will begin the first weekend in January, and it appears the defending champion Tigers will again be in the thick of it. No team is strong enough to run away from the pack this season, and the title will go to the one who plays best on the road.

Fortunately for Princeton, the basketball team, unlike its counterpart in football, often finds a way to win crucial Ivy contests. Credit Carril with an ability to get full measure from his players when it counts most.

TOUGH ROAD AHEAD

For Tiger Hockey Team. Hoping to break a three-game losing streak and improve its 2-5-1 record, the Princeton hockey team will face five opponents in 10 days beginning Thursday.

And only some very good hockey on the Tigers part will keep them from falling to 2-10-1 by the night of January 7. It's a familar problem for coach Jim Higgins.

The level of competition in the ECAC Division 1 has always presented a difficult challenge for the Orange and Black, and Higgins' team will be meeting some of the best of it over the next several days. First up is Colgate in the opening round of the Syracuse Tournament Thursday evening.

Colgate's three leading-returning scorers from last year are pacing the team again this season: senior center Jim Wallace, sophomore wing Gerald Waslen and senior center Steve Smith. So far this season, the Red Raiders are 6-5.

The Tigers, who lost a 5-4 decision last year in Hamilton, have not beaten them since 1980. Colgate holds a 19-14 edge in the series; two games have ended in ties.

Paired in the tournament's other bracket are St. Lawrence and North Dakota. Princeton has beaten the Saints only four times in 26 tries. It has never faced North Dakota, and would be a distinct underdog if the second night's game works out that way. The Fighting Sioux were 21-13-2 last season against strong western opponents.

Following the tournament, Princeton will head back to upper New York state for a return contest with Cornell, Tuesday, January 3. The Big Red captured a 6-4 decision here in mid-December. Later that week Clarkson will be here for a game Thursday, January 5, followed by Boston University on Saturday, January 7. Both games begin at 7:30 p.m.

A Tiger victory in any of these five games would have to be considered an upset, as is almost always the case each season. If they cannot pull one off, they'll be 2-10-1, a poor record, but understandable given the circumstances. Two or three victories in the five games would be a major accomplishment for this young team, especially with defenseman Rob Scheuer out with a dislocated knee.

Leading scorer for Princeton through eight games is Ed Lee with 18 points, double the number of any other player. Steve MacDonald follows with nine, and Bill Brady and Pat Brodeur are tied with eight apiece.

Wally McDonough has a save percentage of .883, and a goals against average of 4.60. Both figures compare very favorably with those posted by Ron Dennis last season.

Power play goals present an interesting statistic. Princeton has converted on only five of 43 attempts for an anemic .116 per cent. However, its opponents are only three-tenths of a percentage point better, scoring just five times in 42 tries.

Third-Leading Scorer

NOTRE DAME TOPS PHS

On Mat. 39-24. The Princeton High School wrestling team will start the new year hoping for more success than it had in its first three matches this season.

Last week, the Little Tigers fell to Notre Dame, 39-24, for their third loss without a win. They will resume next Wednesday, January 4, when they entertain Hopewell Valley. The Bulldogs are also winless — having lost their last match, 72-0 — and are struggling with a lack of depth, as are the Little Tigers.

PHS scored half its points in the last two matches against Notre Dame. Brett Van de Bovenkamp raised his record to 2-1 in the 188-pound class with a pin in 64 seconds over the Irish's Mike Walsh. Heavyweight Tamer El-Shakhs followed with a pin over ND heavyweight John McDonald in 1:19 for his second win in three bouts.

The Little Tigers got a third pin in the 126-pound class where junior Gabby Ondetti flattened Alex Verdi with five seconds remaining in the first period. Ondetti thus joined El-Shakhs and Van de Bovenkamp at 2-1 as these three have been the early season standouts for PHS. All three are juniors.

Princeton jumped off to a 6-0 lead when freshman 98-pounder Paul Crystal won by forfeit. This was offset, however, when PHS forfeited the 138 and 145-pound bouts. The rest was all Notre Dame which was wrestling its first match of the season.

The Irish, which posted a 9-6 record last year and expect to be one of the leaders in the chase for the Colonial Valley Conference title with eight returning lettermen, put a hammerlock on the match by winning five matches in a row following Ondetti's pin.

Steve Wetzel of ND handled PHS veteran Evan Cohn, 7-2, in their 132-pound bout, and after the two forfeits, Notre Dame extended its lead when Al Varrichio edged Princeton's Dominic Tracey, 4-3, at 155 pounds and Pete Nolan decisioned PHS 167-pounder Paul Johnson, 13-3.

Earlier in the match, Notre Dame had recovered quickly from its 9-6 start. Jeff Rich tied the match when he pinned Princeton's sophomore 105-pounder Marco Cucchi in 2:21; Tony Reres routed PHS freshman Jeff Robinson, 19-0, for a superior decision at 112 pounds and Eric Wells decked Brad Schwartz of PHS in 1:55 at 119 pounds for 17 points.

HUN IS FAVORITE

In Pennington School Tourney. Off to a fast 4-1 start, bolstered by three post-graduate students all of whom are averaging in double figures, the Hun School basketball team rates as the team to beat in the Pennington School Tournament which will be played Thursday and Friday. Hun has won the event the last two years in a row.

Last year Hun defeated Wardlaw in the first round and then outscored Pennington, 20-10 in the fourth period to win the championship game, 65-43.

This year Hun's biggest test is likely to come in its opening game when it meets rival Princeton Day School at 6:30 on Thursday. Pennington will oppose Wardlaw at 8.

"PDS has a nice ball club this year," commented Hun coach Bob Hendrickson. One of the things Hendrickson constantly has to caution his team about is overconfidence. Hendrickson insists Hun never takes any opponent — or tournament — lightly.

Still the Raiders have looked impressive so far this season. Their only loss was a one-point setback to undefeated Valley Forge Military Academy in the final seconds in the championship game of the eight-team Peddie Invitational Tourament — a tourney Hun had won the previous two years.

Hun does not have the speed down the court it had last year when it won 22 games, but it does have, as Hendrickson pointed out, some fine shooters. Hendrickson said before the season that he had hoped to compensate for the lack of speed by working very hard.

The hard work and fine shooting have been provided by three newcomers to the team: 6-3 Ted Bransfield, a former player for Pennsbury High; 6-4 John Goeke from McCorristin, and 6-2 John McDonough from Christian Brothers Academy. They are joined by Hun's two co-captains, center Pat Marlatt, a 6-6, 228-pound force under the boards, and junior point guard Terry Dearden.

When you draw a lot of new players together it takes time for them to mesh as a team, observed Hendrickson. The blending process hasn't been perfected yet — Hun's play has been uneven — but another Pennington Tournament title would indicate it is further along than maybe even Hendrickson had hoped for.

ONE OF FOUR

PHS Girls in Hopewell Tournament. The Princeton High School girls basketball team will be one of four teams competing in the Hopewell Valley Invitational Basketball Tournament to be played at the HV court in Pennington.

In the opening round this Wednesday evening, PHS will oppose New Hope High of the Bicentennial Athletic League at 6:30; host Hopewell Valley will meet South Hunterdon at 8. The championship and consolation games will be played Thursday night with the title game set for an 8 p.m. start.

The Little Tigers have played only once so far this season, dropping their opening game last week to Lawrence High. They will resume their regular season schedule Tuesday afternoon when they host Nottingham in a non-conference

OUR FOUR BEST SELLING OPTIONS.

Contrary to popular belief, Volvo doesn't make a wagon.

We make four.

To start with, there's the rugged yet refined DL, our most popular (and least expensive) wagon.

For amenities above and beyond most other wagons, the GL gives you a choice of either a gas or diesel engine.

And for a richly appointed, truly luxurious wagon that can blow an Audi 5000S right off the road, try the Volvo Turbo.

A test drive will demonstrate the 4-wheel power-assisted disc brakes, rack and pinion steering, tight 32.2 ft. turning radius and solid, reliable feel—the same as a Volvo sedan.

That's why no matter which model you choose, you'll get a superb, well-made wagon. One that holds 76 cu. ft. of cargo. And holds up for years.

JOSEPHINE WEBB, Executive Director of Consumer Bureau, broadcasting a Consumer Bureau announcement. Mrs. Webb personally investigates consumer complaints received by Consumer Bureau and in most cases she is able to resolve them to the satisfaction of all concerned. (For what happens to unresolved consumer complaints, see below.)

OUR PROMISE TO PRINCETON CONSUMERS:
IF YOU HAVE A COMPLAINT against any local business firm, just call 924-8223 and a Consumer Bureau representative will respond and investigate; then,

IF CONSUMER BUREAU'S ALL-CONSUMER PANEL AGREES WITH YOU, the business firm involved has only two choices: either satisfy your complaint promptly or lose its Consumer Bureau Registration.

DON'T STAY MAD at any business firm - until you first give Consumer Bureau a chance to help straighten matters out. Call 924-8223 any time of any day or night and a Consumer Bureau representative will go into action. There is no charge.

Join the Princeton Rep Company For Fun and Dancing New Year's Eve

If you're put off by the high prices charged by some commercial establishments for their New Year's Eve bashes, if you're reluctant to join the traffic madness on the highways, and if you're bored by Dick Clark on television, you might consider the community New Year's Eve party being sponsored by the Princeton Rep Company at the Arts Council of Princeton, 102 Witherspoon Street.

You won't be alone. Outgoing Borough Mayor Robert Cawley will stop by to greet the partygoers at 10 p.m. The new mayor, Barbara Sigmund, will lead the toasts at the stroke of midnight. The rest of the evening, and no doubt much of the morning, will be filled with a multitude of performers and with dancing to the music of the Maple Street 7, led by Westminster Choir College student Dennis Shafer and featuring vocalist Wenonah Brooks.

Other performers include dancers Nancy Arnot and Paul Liberti, poet Ron Kostar, a Princeton resident who teaches comparative literature at Rutgers, and the comedy duo of Mr. and Mr. Smith. Yes, that's Mr. and Mr., who are really Ben Chatrer of Lawrenceville, a student at Rutgers, and Jim Beckerman, a Princeton High School graduate who now teaches English at Rutgers when he is not cracking jokes. George Orwell's Big Brother will have a cameo role.

Carol Kehoe of Princeton Junction, who performed in the Princeton Rep production of My Cup Ranneth Over, will serve as emcee. The $15 admission includes membership in the Princeton Rep Company as well as hot and cold hors d'oeuvre, soft drinks, coffee and set-ups. Patrons are responsible for their own alcoholic beverages.

Reservations can be made by calling 924-9559 or at the door, which opens at 9 p.m. The festivities begin at 9:30.

Township swearing-in ceremonies will occur simultaneously, with Mayor Winthrop Pike leading a team of incumbents back into office.

The reception at the firehouse on Harrison Street, just north of Nassau, begins at 1 p.m., and is reputed to be an excellent tonic for pernicious hangovers from the night before.

tion from the other side," she said, in reference to his experience in state political circles.

While emphasizing that Mr. Bliss will not continue in his role as county Democratic chairman ("that would be a legitimate concern"), she argued that his service in that role "shouldn't be a disqualifer."

Mr. Schmierer, interviewed after he concluded a two-hour transition meeting with Mr. Bliss, saw matters somewhat differently. "I'm a registered Democrat and I may have sent Barbara $25 or so, but I sent Dick Woodbridge the same. We do everything evenhandedly."

Citing statements from Mrs. Sigmund that she wanted a lawyer who concurred with the Mount Laurel II case advocating low and moderate income housing, Mr. Schmierer noted that he was "a pro-Mount Laurel attorney. I agree with the decision and the direction it sets. But the thrust of the questions during the interview was Collins." The outgoing lawyer indicated that the Sigmund forces were looking for an attorney who would help them place a low and moderate income housing requirement on the Collins plan for the expansion of Palmer Square.

Mr. Schmierer clearly did not meet that criterion. "There's only so much you can do on a site plan that was approved years ago," said Mr. Schmierer. "I'm not sure the municipal land use law allows that—you can't force a lot of that stuff on a developer."

The replacement of the attorney sent salvoes flying back and forth between the Mayor-elect and the Council. "She's a fulltime politician, with a tremendous appetite for more power," said Mr. Macgill of Mrs. Sigmund. "My question is who's next? The Borough places a lot of insurance, it has an accounting firm, and a magistrate. I hate to think that Princeton is adopting the standard practice of many New Jersey cities, the notorious policy of the victor getting the spoils."

Mrs. Sigmund insisted that the attorney's job was related to policy and that her change was a reflection of her belief that "we have to make policy at a broader level than just the Borough to keep this town the varied place that it is." She showed some pique of her own when she noted that "when an executive at any level makes an appointment, the legislative body should support the executive unless it has some deep felt difference with the appointee. I did it when I served on Council with Mayor Cawley, and with Arthur Sypek and Bill Mathesius" as a Freeholder. She clearly was less than enthused when three members of Council, including two from her own party, opposed her on the straw vote determining the future attorney.

The most nonpartisan display of the week, ironically, came from the office of the lawyers. Mr. Schmierer reported that he and Mr. Bliss had had a productive meeting.

"I transmitted a couple of files to him and we agreed that our firm would continue to handle some pending matters," including the appeal of Gerald Boswell on the air rights decision.

"I'm very happy to cooperate with the Borough," said Mr. Schmierer.

SENIOR PARTY SET

Friday at Firehouse. The Princeton Senior Citizens Club will hold its Christmas and New Year's party this Friday at 1 p.m. at the Chestnut Street firehouse. Each person is requested to bring a covered dish to serve four people, an exchange gift worth no more than $2, and an ornament for the tree.

HOURS LISTED

At County Ice Rink. The Mercer County Ice Skating Rink is extending its hours for the holiday season.

The rink will be open Wednesday through Friday, December 28-30, from 9 to 4 and 7 to 10. Saturday, December 31, there will be one session from noon to 3, and on New Year's Day the Skating Center will be open from 12:30 to 5:30.

The next session for group skating lessons will begin on January 7. Arrangements for both group and private lessons can be made at the skating rink or by calling 586-9091. For further information on any of the activities at the Rink, call 586-9081.

Insurance Will Not Cover Underbilling for Sewers

"Do Borough and Township owe the money, is the tough question, and probably we do owe it, on basic equity grounds."

Borough attorney Walter Bliss, asked by Council at its agenda meeting Thursday to report this Tuesday on whether the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority's insurance policy might be tapped to make up Princeton's sewer cost underbilling, said on Tuesday afternoon that he had come to this reluctant conclusion.

He was scheduled to take his final words on the matter to Council's regular Tuesday night meeting.

By factoring one of Princeton's meters incorrectly, the Authority underbilled Borough and Township $1.2 million over a three-and-one-half-year period ending this June.

The Authority's insurance policy protects against loss caused by the negligence of

Approval of School Budget Next Tuesday Means Board Will Not Appeal State Caps

A quiet, low-key budget of $13,774,356, representing a 4.6 percent increase in the operating budget and a 4.3 percent increase in school tax revenue, was scheduled for approval this Tuesday by the school board.

Approval means the board will not appeal the state's 4.6 percent cap — "considerably lower," in the words of board president Ann McGoldrick, than caps of previous years.

On April 3 (unless the state changes the date), voters will pass only on a current expense budget. There will be no capital budget on the ballot this year because that money is not being raised by tax revenues.

Instead, the board is taking $200,000 from reserves and applying it to the capital budget to keep taxes down. That still leaves $552,000 in reserves, which the board wants to hoard in case the state suddenly slices minimum aid, as it did last year.

Remembering the debacle of July 1, when the state wiped out Princeton's minimum aid, Mrs. McGoldrick points to the "promised" $623,145 in state aid and warns that if it's reduced, taxes would be affected.

"Usually," she remarked philosophically, "we get less than the state has told us we'll get."

The budget could change also if current litigation is settled and Cranbury high school students begin phasing in to Princeton High, bringing tuition and an unknown effect on staffing. About 60 students are scheduled to be phased in, with 15 to start.

The budget shows a decrease of only six staff, the smallest reduction in several years. The board hopes natural attrition will do the work so that little "riffing" — reduction in force — will be necessary.

State Releases Detailed Outline To Improve Route One Corridor

Warning that the alternatives in a 19-page report on Route One are "not to be viewed as the only possibilities," the state Department of Transportation last week released a detailed outline of things that could be done to improve the Route One corridor.

Some of the alternatives "are not necessarily realistic," especially in the short run, the report conceded, but emphasized "a compelling need" to make short-term decisions about what to do with the $75 million in I-95 de-designation money.

The DOT will now ask for reactions from the people who constitute the three task groups of citizens invited by the DOT to study Route One.

Of most immediate interest to Princeton are proposals relating to the Harrison-Washington corridor. Which road, the report asks, should be the most important entrance to Princeton?

Harrison, the only continuous east-west road through Princeton, has the Shopping Center and is close to, but not in, the Central Business District; however, it is narrow and lined with homes and improvement of Harrison "would probably encounter political resistance."

Washington bisects the campus, and Princeton University would like its traffic kept down, to minimize disruption of the campus.

Four possible routes into town are suggested, either of which could be connected to Harrison or Washington. One is existing Washington Road.

Two others are new roads passing through RCA and University land, and blending into Washington and Harrison between Route One and Lake Carnegie. The fourth is a by-pass along the Millstone, tying into Harrison Street and involving "significant environmental impacts" because it is so close to the river.

Other suggestions with political implications are in the DOT's section on Alexander Road. The report revives older proposals to straighten out Alexander at its northern end — where it intersects with Mercer Street — and align it with

Separate Accidents Claim Lives of 2 Area Residents

Two Princeton residents were killed this week in separate car crashes.

A funeral service was held Monday afternoon in Princeton University Chapel for 20-year-old Kimberly Hillier, 87 Ridgeview Circle, who was burned to death when her car left Cherry Hill Road early Saturday morning, fell down an embankment and caught fire.

Monday night, Alfred E. Merron, 55, 24 Sayre Drive, suffered an apparent heart attack while driving on Route I-95 near the Route 31 exit. His 1984 sedan went out of control, smashed into a railing and skidded 195 feet into a ditch. He died two hours later at 6:40 p.m. in Princeton Medical Center.

A junior at Cornell University, Miss Hillier was alone in her car. There were no witnesses to the tragedy. Township police were called at 4:12 a.m. by a passing motorist who observed a wooden fence burning but did not see a car.

When Sgt. Mario Musso and Ptl. Mark Emann arrived, they found her 1978 Honda engulfed in flames. Attempts to rescue the victim were impossible, Capt. Jack Petrone reported, because of the heat and flames. Firemen were called to the scene.

Humanitarian Aspects of Trip to Seek Goodman's Release Stressed by Princeton Resident Involved in Negotiations

The Princeton area resident who headed the ecumenical delegation accompanying Jesse Jackson to Syria to seek the release of Navy Lt. Robert Goodman Jr. characterizes that mission as "a faith journey filled with some of the most profound prayers I have ever known."

The Rev. M. William Howard, former president of the National Council of Churches, held a press conference last week in the Martin Luther King Jr. Chapel of the First Baptist Church where he served as a seminary assistant in the early 1970s to emphasize the humanitarian aspect of the trip which many are suggesting was undertaken primarily to enhance the presidential aspirations of Mr. Jackson.

Mr. Howard said the group left the U.S. on December 30 "in doubt" as to whether they could obtain the release of the navigational bomber whom the Syrians called a prisoner of war and the U.S. authorities described as a hostage. " We went on faith," he said, "and even if we had not obtained Goodman's release, all the time we had an obligation as pastors.

"Mr. Goodman had become a symbol of the tension between the U.S. government and the government of Syria, and we felt if he were removed from the scheme of things we could open a whole room full of possibilities." President Reagan's letter of thanks to Syrian President Assad following the release and his indicated willingness to meet with the Syrian leader were evidence, Mr. Howard said, "that a log jam seems to have been removed."

Mr. Howard was one of three church leaders who were permitted into Iran to bring Christmas to the U.S. embassy personnel held hostage there in 1979. He has travelled all over the world, including trips to the Mid-East and two missions to the Soviet Union, to meet with religious and political leaders on human rights and world peace issues.

He thinks it was this international experience as well as his knowledge of the Christian community in the Mid-East that prompted Mr. Jackson, whom he describes as a longtime associate in the civil rights movement, to call on him for advice when the trip to Syria was first being considered on December 19.

Accidents

Miss Hillier was pronounced dead at 6:20 at Princeton Medical Center by Dr. Joseph Hamlett.

The accident took place two-tenths of a mile from Route 206 where Miss Hillier's car heading north crossed over the roadway and plunged down the embankment into the fence. Capt. Petrone reported that investigators from the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office were scheduled to try to determine what caused her car to burst into flames.

Asked if it were possible Miss Hillier had swerved to avoid a deer because of the Township's heavy deer population Capt. Petrone replied it was quite possible. "If you know the area you know there is nothing but deer coming out from both sides of the road. It may have been another car. We'll never know."

He reported that there were no skidmarks at the scene. The roadway was a little wet, he added, but was not freezing. The temperature at the time was 35.

Miss Hillier, who attended Princeton Day School and graduated from Andover, is survived by her parents, J. Robert and Susan Hillier; a brother, James B. of Cranbury, Vt. and her paternal grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. James Hillier of Princeton. She was the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. Baldwin Smith.

The Rev. Dr. Edward A. Frost officiated at the service for Miss Hillier in the University Chapel. Contributions may be made in her memory to Phillips Academy, Andover, Ma., 01810.

Was Chamber Head. Mr. Merron had just left office after serving as president of the Princeton Chamber of Commerce in 1983. He was a stockbroker and a vice-president of Merrill Lynch, working at the firm's Lawrence Township branch.

He was found in his car at 1:40 Monday afternoon by State Trooper Jay Caruso. He was transported by paramedics to Princeton Medical Center where doctors listed the preliminary cause of his death as a heart attack.

Bayard Lane (Route 206).

"There is lack of a good through connection between Mercer Street and Route 206," the report remarks, adding that "such a connecton would probably provide strong political opposition in Princeton."

Maps show Springdale Road connected with Alexander south of Springdale Golf Course and just north of Turning Basin Park, also a proposal made in past years.

In one proposal, Alexander goes along the right-of-way of the Princeton Dinky. Or, the Dinky could be used as the westbound road for a pair of one-way streets, making Alexander one way eastbound. If this were to be done, the Nassau-Bayard intersection would be made into a traffic circle, with signals.

Intersections Major Concern. Route One intersectons are a major concern of the study. The Penns Neck intersection problem is complicated by the historic Princeton Baptist Church,

REPLY TO BOND QUERY

On School Renovations. A letter in last week's Town Topics warning the public to be wary of school board expenditure of bond issue funds, drew replies this week from Ann McGoldrick, school board president, and Robert Powell, a member of the Bond Referendum Advisory Committee (BRAC) and head of the citizens committee that worked for passage of the bond referendum.

Joan Forscher, also a BRAC member, wrote that figures in the BRAC report, distributed to the public, were not approved by BRAC members but were "very hasty estimates ... tacked alongside the projects we approved in our report."

Both Mrs. McGoldrick and Mr. Powell said the estimates came from, in Mr. Powell's words, "very competent consultants", and were understood to be only estimates. Consultants were architects CUH2A; landscape architect Henry Arnold and energy management consultant Viron, Inc.

"The public voted for a bottom-line figure, defined as closely as possible," Mrs. McGoldrick says. "A bond issue is a vote of confidence, not a requirement that each dollar be spent in an exact way — you never know in an old building, for example, when you'll open up a wall and find rotted beams you couldn't know were there."

BRAC encouraged the consultants not to underestimate the costs, Mr. Powell explained. "They were not guessing; they gave us the best possible figures at the time, building in a 15 percent inflation factor at our request.

"Nobody knows precisely the cost," he added, "and it is just not true that there was an inadequate effort to quantify."

He pointed out that the board is not obligated to borrow all the money that was authorized by the public in the December 3 referendum and may not have to, but will not know until contracts for about three-fourths of the projects have been let.

Regarding the proposed energy system, criticized by Mrs. Forscher, Mrs. McGoldrick said the board's finance committee has examined further which kind of system to use, and may well decide on a less expensive one than suggested.

Both Mr. Powell and Mrs. McGoldrick questioned the timing of the letter.

"She has not come to the board with her concerns," the board president said, "and she did not go to the public before the vote. The timing is peculiar.

"We expect the public to hold us accountable. We don't feel solely accountable to parents, but to all taxpayers."

LEVELS CHARGES AT SOC

To Appeal Collins on Sewer Grounds. The Sewer Operating Committee had no authority to wipe out a no-connection sewer zone after the state rescinded its May 24 ban, Random Road resident Olivia Applegate charged this week.

She also announced that she and Random Road neighbor Dwight O. North will appeal the Planning Board's Collins approval on grounds of inadequate sewerage. (It is expected that R. William Potter will also file an appeal related to lack of moderate-income housing. All appeals are to Borough Council.)

Mrs. Applegate said SOC ledgers show that last October 26, developers of the former Salzman property in the north-central Township in the no-connection zone, paid money into the sewer trust fund and were given sewerage allocations in return.

The no-connection zone in question, established in 1981 by the SOC, comprises the Valley Road-Route 206 area. Mr. Olexa said this week that

Some Surprises Emerge in Survey Of Families in John-Witherspoon Area

Two things are emerging as co-ordinator Michael Floyd moves ahead with the Borough's Neighborhood Preservation Program.

He is finding more families than expected in the very-low-income category in the John-Witherspoon neighborhood.

And three or four families have told him they are not applying for the grants — although their homes could use renovating — because they want to be sure the money goes to very-low families.

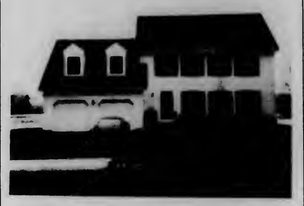
Mr. Floyd is now accepting applications for grants. Forms have been mailed out, but if you need another you may obtain one by calling him at 924-3119. You must be an owner-occupant of a residential structure of not more than two dwelling units in the John-Witherspoon area. If the building is a duplex, the owner-occupied side is the eligible side.

On the application blank, give your total family income in 1982 (no proof of income needed: Mr. Floyd will check that out later) and your total repair needs, and take the application to Borough Hall or mail it to Mr. Floyd at Borough Hall, 08542.

Any exterior or interior repair is eligible; for example, weatherizing; heating, plumbing, electrical repair; structural repair like cracked foundations; surface repair like wallpapering or painting; work on floors, siding and the like.

Your house will be inspected, and if your application is approved, Mr. Floyd will talk with you about the amount of money you will receive. Unless you are in the very-low-income category, you will need to pay something toward the cost of the project. But the grant is not a loan — Mr. Floyd emphasizes this — and does not have to be repaid.

Do-it-yourself owners may receive a materials grant of up to $300 or a painting grant of $200.



To qualify, the total 1982 income in your family must have been no more than $36,625, regardless of family size.

To qualify for very-low-income grants, the family income can be no more than $19,350 for a family of nine. Mr. Floyd says that many families of around five, in the income bracket of $14,000 to $19,000 would probably be eligible.

His omnibus survey found that, of the 40 houses in greatest need of repair, 15 belonged to those in the very-low category. Nobody before had ever surveyed the neighborhood to this extent, he explains, so no one had any idea of numbers of very-low-income families.

"The more we looked at our information and the information we obtained from other sources," he remarked, "the more we saw a pattern of what we had to address."

in 1981, he and Township officials understood the state to want a no-connection zone in that area only.

Then, in 1983 when the state extended its temporary ban to the Harry's Brook system, Mr Olexa said he recommended lifting the no-connection ban in the Valley Road area, because he thought "what we'd done before, wasn't what the state wanted."

"We think she's wrong," said Mr Olexa, of Mrs. Applegate's charge, "we discussed it with (former Borough attorney) Edwin Schmierer and he agrees with us."

Mrs Applegate cited the 1932 agreement between Borough, Township and Princeton University establishing the SOC. According to her interpretation, the SOC can only suggest; decisions must be made by the two governing bodies and University trustees.

The Environmental Commission is scheduled to decide this Tuesday to ask Borough and Township to declare a new "no-connection" zone in the Harry's Brook basin.

APARTMENT ENTERED

On Witherspoon Street. An apartment in a building on Witherspoon Street was entered without force Friday between 10:10 in the morning and 10:30 in the evening. Taken was a color television set valued at $454.74.

Sometime during the Christmas holiday break, a room in Patton Hall on the Princeton University campus was entered and a trumpet valued at $1,000 and a $250 typewriter were stolen. Police report no signs of a forced entry.

A color television set and a stereo system were stolen between 1:40 and 6 p.m. Thursday from a Birch Avenue home. Capt. Jack Petrone reported that a storm window on the side of the house was lifted out and a pane of glass was then broken to unlock an interior window. Police have not yet received a value of the missing items.

There was an attempt made to enter a Jefferson Road home Saturday. The occupant told police when she returned home at 8:40 that evening after being away for two and a half hours, she discovered an entry attempt had been made on a rear bathroom window.

After prying open a storm window, the would-be intruder then broke the glass in an upper interior window and attempted to push open the bottom window. He was unsuccessful, police report, because it had been painted shut. Ptl. David Cromwell investigated.

TWO CARS COLLIDE

At Jefferson-Terhune Intersection. Two drivers and a passenger were injured and one driver was issued a summons following a collision last week between two cars at the intersection of Jefferson and Terhune Roads.

One of the drivers, Elizabeth Randall, 23, 12 Red Oak Row, was charged by Ptl. Anthony Gaylord after his investigation at the scene, with failing to stop. She was driving south on Jefferson Road.

The second driver, whose 1978 sedan had to be towed from the scene, was identified as Nita Rome, 57, 55 Linwood Circle. She received head injuries.

Ms Randall complained of neck pains, while her four-year old passenger, Christopher Randall, suffered contusions and abrasions of the head. All three were treated at Princeton Medical Center. The mishap took place shortly before 6 p.m. on Friday.

TEENAGER CHARGED

With Impersonating an Officer. Eighteen-year-old Ronald Carroll of Greenwood Avenue, Hopewell, has been charged with impersonating a Borough police officer. He was later released after being issued a complaint summons and is scheduled to appear in Borough court next Wednesday.

Police were informed of the incident by a Nassau Street merchant who reported that the suspect had entered his store dressed in civilian clothes. He identified himself as a Borough detective and said that he was looking for a girl whose pictured he produced.

The owner notified police when he felt the "detective" was too young to be a police officer. Det. Randy Sutton was assigned to the case and as a result of his investigation, Carroll was arrested and charged. Chief Michael Carnevale declined to reveal

WALLET IS STOLEN

Princeton Woman Arrested. A 19-year-old Berrien Court resident has been arrested and charged with theft in connection with the larceny of $13.40 from a wallet in a pocketbook at the Princeton Medical Center.

Gabriella Hart was apprehended by a hospital security guard and held until Ptl. Chris Boutote arrived. She was later released and is scheduled to appear in Borough court next Wednesday.

Police report that the victim, an employee of the Medical Center, had left her pocketbook at a nurses' station for a five-minute period Friday morning between 4:30 and 4:35.

Ms. Hart was detained after she had been observed in the immediate area of the theft and was later seen exiting from a women's rest room where the wallet was later recovered.

TWO ARE CHARGED

With Trespassing. Township police last week charged two men with trespassing.

George J. Kelly, 28, of Trenton, was issued a complaint summons after he had been warned on several occasions by an owner and a Township Detective not to trespass on a Lawrenceville Road property.

According to police, the property had been for sale and Kelly had allegedly been representing himself as a brother of the person who had partially paid for the property. He wasn't and Kelly was arrested by Ptl. James Vandermark.

Te Hai Yao, 42, who police say is from Hong Kong, was arrested last week and charged with trespassing in front of the Magie Apartments off Faculty Road. Police say he has no home here and had been warned repeatedly by Princeton University officials about trespassing on the campus.

Yao was also charged with resisting arrest when he refused to accompany the arresting officer, Ptl. Peter Savalli. Held in $500 bail, he was given a preliminary hearing before Judge Sydney Souter and later released, pending his appearance in Township Court January 17.

DRUNK DRIVER CHARGED

Refuses to Take Test. A 59-year-old South Amboy resident, Francis G. Trpisovsky, has been charged by Township police with driving while intoxicated and refusing to take a Breathalyzer test.

IN THE BEGINNING: Mrs. Robert J. McNeil, left, and Mrs. James J. Harford, two of the three "Founding Mothers" of Stuart Country Day School, spoke at a special anniversary assembly about how the school got started 20 years ago. Mrs. John P. Murray, the third Founding Mother, was unable to be present, but Jennifer Priory, Mrs. McNeil's granddaughter, who is a Stuart 6th grader, consented to be photographed on the occasion. The 20th anniversary year will culminate May 25 with a Mass of Thanksgiving at the Princeton University Chapel.

Yes, Sigmund Is First

Since Barbara Sigmund was elected mayor of the Borough last fall, Town Topics has commented from time to time that she is the Borough's first woman mayor.

Several people have called to challenge this, most of them citing Philina Fine Locke or Alice Male.

But Mrs. Locke and Mrs. Male were both members of Borough Council, not mayors. Mrs. Locke, in fact, was the first woman on Council, serving in the early 1930s. Mrs. Male was elected to Council in 1968 and again in 1971.

Confusion may arise because Mrs. Male did run for mayor. She ran in 1969 and was defeated by Robert W. Cawley, then running for his first term. Also, Mrs. Male's husband, Raymond, was mayor of the Borough from 1958 to 1962.

So, Sigmund is first.

Mr. Trpisovsky was arrested last Wednesday afternoon on Grover Avenue by Ptl. Peter Savalli after a resident in the area called police to report an intoxicated driver. He faces a hearing in Township court.

$300 BONUS INCLUDED

For Laundry Thief. Prefacing his report with the comment, "Here's an interesting theft," Chief Michael Carnevale went on to describe the theft of a box of laundry detergent from a laundry room in the basement of Hodge Hall on the Princeton Theological Seminary campus.

When the victim returned to the room after having been away for a half-hour, she discovered the box was missing. Inside, she told police, in addition to the detergent, was $300.

"Whoever 'borrowed' the box came out $300 ahead," commented Chief Carnevale.

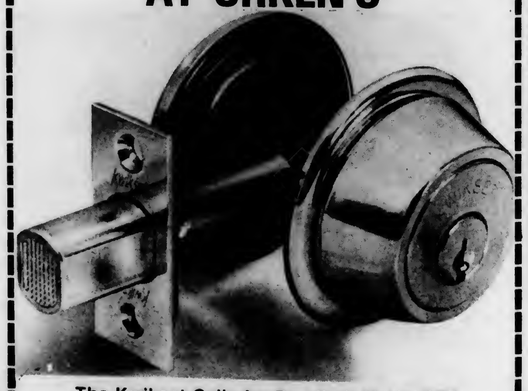
Three separate thefts were reported at the Charter Club, 79 Prospect Avenue — two on Sunday.

A tan, corduroy coat valued at $160, containing a $20 pair of gloves, was taken from a coat room between 12:15 and 1:15 in the morning, and a wool coat valued at $300 was taken between midnight and 2 a.m. It contained a scarf valued at $10. Both victims were university students.

During a 45-minute period early Thursday evening, $8 was removed from a wallet in a pocketbook left in a coat room at the club. Also taken from the victim's coat was a $40 Walkman stereo. Both the purse and wallet were left at the scene, police said.

Four hubcaps were removed from a Ford Mustang last week while it was parked in a Spruce Circle lot — the victim is a Princeton resident — and the unlocked car of a Skillman resident was looted while it was parked for a few minutes on the corner of Nassau and Witherspoon Street. The victim lost clothing valued at $160, including a wool coat, cashmere sweater and dress, a $60 cassette tape deck and seven tapes worth $30.

Township police report the theft of video equipment valued at $2,170 from a home in the Edgerstoune area. There was no forced entry.



Among the missing items are a video camera and Super 8 movie camera. The theft took place in mid-November but police were not informed until last week.

An AM-FM stereo cassette radio was stolen from the 1981 Camaro of a Birch Avenue resident while it was left for a week at a Bayard Lane service station. The car had been locked and police report extensive damage to the car's console in removing the radio cassette player. There was also an attempt, police add, to steal the car, by jimmying the car's ignition switch.

STONY BROOK AT WEST WINDSOR is the name of the development in which 110 new homes will be constructed off Penn Lyle Road near the West Windsor High School. Construction financing is being provided by Nassau Savings and Loan. From left, Carol Beske, ex-mayor of West Windsor, Joseph Banduran, president of Nassau Savings and Loan, Andrew S. Roscoe, president of JBR Development Corporation, developers of the project, Stanley Perrine, mayor of West Windsor, and Barbara Evans, utility coordinator, participate in the ground breaking ceremonies.

COCAINE AND MARIJUANA

Neshanic Man Charged. Benjamin Evans, 22, of Neshanic has been charged by Township police with possession of cocaine and under 25 grams of marijuana.

Evans was a passenger in a car parked near the sailboat dock by Carnegie Lake off Princeton-Kingston Road that was checked out Saturday afternoon by Ptl. Robert Buchanan. A computer crime check revealed that Evans was wanted on a warrant issued by the Hillsboro Township Police Department. In the process of searching the suspect, police uncovered some marijuana cigarettes, a plastic bag containing green vegatation and a white, powdery substance believed to be cocaine.

Evans was held in jail when he was unable to post $500 bail but was released Monday when his bail was posted.

The driver of the car was identified as Ewing M. Housel of Flemington. A National Crime Information Center check revealed that he, too, was wanted on a warrant by Hillsboro police.

Housel was placed under arrest and later released pending his appearance in court when he was able to post $65 bail.

Do You Have Any Marijuana? Walter Ensor, 34, of Lambertville, was charged with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana following his arrest Friday night in his car parked on Witherspoon Street near Lytle Street.

Det. Randy Sutton and Ptl. Dennis McManimon had requested a lookup when they became suspicious of the car. The computer check did not check out with the license plates on the car, Chief Michael Carnevale said.

As Det. Sutton approached the car, he saw a marijuana cigarette in the ash tray. He then asked the driver if he had any marijuana and Ensor, who was alone in the car, allegedly produced a plastic bag containing less than 25 grams of the drug.

He was arrested and taken to headquarters and later released, pending a court appearance January 18. A further investigation revealed that that there was no discrepancy with Ensor's registration and the license plates on the car.

CAR TIRES PUNCTURED

By Vandals. Borough police report two incidents last week of car tires being punctured by vandals.

Two tires of the car of a Princeton resident were punctured while it was parked overnight during the weekend at the Park Place lot, and two tires on the right side of a car of a Plainsboro resident were punctured while it was parked early last week in a rear lot in the 300 block of Nassau Street.

The right window of a car parked in the Palmer Square West lot was completely smashed while it was parked there between 6 and 10 Friday evening. The owner is a Trenton resident.

Damage was estimated at $95 last week after a brick was thrown through a second-story window of a Richard Court townhouse under construction on Houghton Road.

Township police listed another car window shot out, apparently by a BB pellet. The latest incident occurred last Wednesday while a Princeton resident was driving in the area of Dodds Lane and Bertrand Drive.

The target was the rear window of a 1982 Honda. Ptl. Anthony Gaylord checked the area for a suspect — unsuccessfully — after police were called at 5:30.

TREES SET ON FIRE

Discarded for Pickup. Two Christmas trees placed outside for pickup were set on fire last week in the Borough.

One, set outside a Moore Street home, was torched, causing cardboard boxes placed next to it to ignite. The fire was extinguished by the home owner, police said.

A second tree, put out for pickup behind the rear of a building facing the Park Street lot, was found burning by police at 2:58 Sunday morning. It was almost totally burned but caused no damage, police said.

Now everything you've always wanted for less... is less.

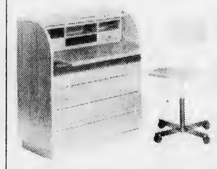
when almost everything is 10% to 40% off regular prices.

At Workbench, we don't have lots of storewide sales. Just one a year. But it's a dilly. Because we mark down all our best stuff. Not just a few things. Not even just a lot of things. But almost everything. And mark down is all we do. Because, unlike a lot of other places, we don't bring in so-called specials or things no one wants or that were over-priced in the first place. At Workbench we just go through the store with our red pencil and slash prices. Which means that right now you'll find Workbench's best at 10% to 40% less than you'd expect to pay.

That's right: 10% to 40% off on butcher block tables, upholstery, storage systems, bookcases, carts, music benches, desks and chair after chair after chair. Even the already reduced "Foreign Policy" prices on most of our imports have been further price cut for this sale.

Of course, there are a few things currently oversold that we can't put on sale. But, odds are, the great things you've been promising yourself to get are here.



Is there a catch? Only time. Because we have only one storewide sale a year. So hurry. Because if you wait too long, you'll have to wait a whole year for our sale to come around again. And that's more time than anyone should spend waiting to spend less.

Our Danish cart from Ervi measures a full 20"x31"- so it can hold even a big 19" color set. And the bottom shelf is perfect for a video recorder. In oak or teak $99

From Denmark and a Workbench exclusive, our Twist storage units in oak or teak veneers (walnut available in limited quantities). We've shown only a few – there are many other configurations. As shown: 2 wide base cabinets $75 ea. reg. $85 ea. 2 wide low cabinets $65 ea. reg. $75 ea. 4 wide drawers $29.95 ea. reg. $32.50 ea. double glass doors $59 reg. $65; double doors $45 reg. $50.

Our roll top desk in oak or teak veneer offers compact work space on top of a four drawer chest. Made in Denmark by Taifo Stil. $405 reg. $450 oak. $382.50 reg. $425, teak. Shown with our Kevi desk chair in oak $109 reg. $125. Also in white $99 reg. $115.

YMCA's Year-End Report Reviews Progress; Showing 1000 New Members; Budget Surplus

Faced with declining enrollment and chronic indebtedness a year ago, the YMCA has ended 1983 with more than 1,000 new members and a slight surplus in its operating budget.

Robert Abernethy, president of the YMCA, has issued a year-end report reviewing the progress made by the United Way agency to strengthen its operation and put itself on a sounder financial basis.

Mr. Abernethy begins his report by noting that a year ago in restructuring the agency, it was decided to operate without an executive director for the time being. Alan Taback, former basketball coach at Princeton Day School, was hired to direct Youth Sports Programs and has evolved into what Mr. Abernethy calls "our senior guy on the premises--whether or not you call him executive director or by any other title."

The plan was "to break even in 1983, and demonstrate operational and financial credibility." The focus, the report continues, has been on current operations and programs. Board members have assumed responsibility for key areas such as personnel, program management, administration, communication and fund raising. The staff, meanwhile, participated in an evaluation of the overall offerings to the community.

New Programs. Reporting on an increase in membership from 2,792 in 1982 to 3,931 in the year just ended, Mr. Taback attributes the rise to "a whole new track (of activities) that never before existed at the YMCA." He cites the Adult Sports Leagues in co-ed soccer, volleyball, softball and ultimate frisbee; in men's 18 and up and men's over-30 basketball, and in touch football as having "reached out to the community in a very special way."

Some of these adult sports leagues are on their second time around, and their popularity shows up in the numbers. The co-ed volley ball league has grown from six teams in 1982 to 16 last year. Similarly the number of 18 and up men's basketball teams has doubled, from six to 12.

"These teams have brought a lot of old friends back together," Mr. Taback says. Princeton Day School and Princeton High School graduates living and working in the community who used to compete against one another in their high school days are once again playing with or against each other on YMCA sponsored teams. It has made for a nice mix of people, from all parts of the community, Mr. Taback says.

The other area that has grown by leaps and bounds is youth sports. Co-ed basketball, two age groups, had 70 youngsters last year, 110 this year. Similarly midget league baseball, for which the YMCA was justifiably well regarded, has doubled the number of teams. Enrollment in summer camps was up 40 percent last summer over the previous year, partly due to a new summer sports clinic that will be expanded this summer from four to eight weeks.

The third area of strength, according to Mr. Taback is the full day care for preschoolers. "A waiting list developed for the 3-5 year olds, and the YM is going to add a new section for 1½-2½ year olds. Although other programs exist in the community, Mr. Taback sees a real need for full day care for toddlers with more and more parents working and yet wanting quality care for their children.

He says the YMCA was "lucky" with the person hired to staff this part of the program--Jan Gill--and says she has done so in "a caring way."

All three areas--adult sports, youth sports and all day pre-school care have, in Mr. Taback's view, "created a base of people and enthusiasm, and have become our energy source for growth." In addition, he says that the YMCA and the YWCA "are working in harmony" (a point on which Mr. Abernethy readily concurs), and "that has helped us."

Mr. Taback describes his staff--John Matune, Mary Bates-Klein and Ms. Gill--as "hard working and really caring." He adds, "It is just a question of keeping it going, keeping the spirit going." He thinks the YMCA's health center is "a well-kept secret" and "a special place" which unfortunately the women lack.

He would like to see it become better known and more used, to the benefit of business men in town who "owe it to themselves and their work to have clearer minds and better minds" as a result of taking advantage of the health center's equipment.

Mr. Abernethy's report predicts that the YMCA's 1984 operation "should be substantially above the 1983 levels, reaching more people with stronger programs." He says he is "very, very encouraged" by the progress the YM has made over the past year and adds that he and Marge Smith, president of the YWCA, have initiated a Capital Committee to assess the amount of money that would be needed to improve the building and how the money might be raised.

In contrast to a year or more ago, when there were rumblings about one Y or the other leaving the building, he describes their present coexistence as "a happy situation in which each is doing what they do best." He feels the YMCA must operate with "top notch offerings to the community in terms of good, solid, well executed, physically oriented programs."

OPEN HOUSE SET

At YMCA. The YMCA will hold an Open House on Sunday, January 22, from 2-4 p.m.

Information will be available on memberships, summer camps, youth sports, after school sports, aquatics, leagues, programs, courses, and the Children's Center. Tours of the facilities will be given, including the Mathey Health Center, weightroom, pool, light exercise room, and gym.

Sam the Clown will entertain children and there will be demonstrations of such programs as computers for preschool and school aged children by Eva Kaplan. Storyteller Susan Weiner Reiman will also be present to captivate young imaginations.

A slide show of The Children's Center Preschool Program will be shown and the YMCA Flying Fish Swim Team will demonstrate a typical team practice.

Fitness Director John Matune will demonstrate his "Y's Way to a Healthy Back." Nutritional consultant Susan Wachtel will be present. Art will be displayed by Eli Dunell, Constance Bonotto, Alan Taback, and their students. David Nachman and his Aikido students will show off this martial arts form which uses the opponent's strength.

Information and discounts will be available for full year participating athletic memberships, summer camps, and some programs. The YMCA is a member of the United Way. Princeton area communities. For more information call 924-4497.

LEAGUE TAKES POSITION

On Nuclear Weapons. The League of Women Voters of the Princeton Area, along with more than 900 other local Leagues throughout the country, has taken part in the recent National League consensus on arms control.

The study resulted in support for a bilateral, mutually verifiable freeze with the Soviet Union on the testing, production and deployment of nuclear weapons, followed by reductions in those weapons.

The National League, as a result of this national security study conducted by local Leagues at the grass-roots level, is also supporting a Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty and negotiations to prohibit deployment of anti-satellite weapons. The League opposes the deployment of space weapons that would violate the Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty.

In addition, the League urges the resumption and merger of the Strategic Arms Reduction Talks and the Intermediate Nuclear Forces talks in Geneva.

The two-year national security study conducted by the League will continue with consensus on questions of military policy and defense spending. For further information, call Margaret Peel, 799-2482, or Bettie Schrader, 924-4344.

ORIENTATION SET

By Big Brother, Sister. Big Brothers-Big Sisters of Mercer County invites all who are interested in learning about becoming a Big Brother or Big Sister to a child in need of adult companionship to attend an orientation session.

The orientation will be held on Saturday, January 21, at 11:30 a.m. at the agency's Princeton office in the Nassau Presbyterian Church.

For more information on how several hours each week of time can make a difference in the life of a child from a single-parent home, call Big Brothers - Big Sisters of Mercer County's 24-hour phone at 695-BIGS.

Message from I.R.S.

Taxpayers must file their final 1983 estimated income tax installment by next Tuesday, January 17, the Internal Revenue Service points out this week. The only exceptions are people who can file their 1983 returns by January 31.

Taxpayers are advised to include all taxable interest and dividends when they make calculations, since many people may not have increased quarterly payments since Congress repealed the mandatory withholding requirements earlier in 1983.

Total estimated and withheld taxes should equal at least 80 percent of tax liability; otherwise, late payment penalties may be imposed.

GILBERT AND SULLIVAN

Next for Musical Amateurs. The Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs will gather Sunday to sing Gilbert and Sullivan's "Patience" at the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill Road and Route 206.

Robert W. Jones, former assistant to the president of Westminster Choir College and a Gilbert and Sullivan specialist who will return here for this occasion from his present home in California, will be the conductor.

The session will start promptly at 3 p.m. with a rehearsal for the chorus. At 4 p.m. the chorus will be joined by orchestra and principals, and "Patience" will begin.

The principals, who will speak comic and dramatic lines as well as sing, will be Sharon Alexander, Evelyn Chan, Michele Disco, Cynthia Lake, Gordon Myers, Susan Rodgers, Alan Seale, Robert Thick, Bruce Truner, Scott Ward, Judy Avitabile will be at the piano.

As is true whenever the Musical Amateurs meet, the session is not a performance. Of particular appeal to Gilbert and Sullivan fanciers, it is open to all choral singing enthusiasts, for whom no auditions are required, although modest sight-reading ability is helpful.

A small charge for those without yearly membership in the Society helps cover music and refreshment costs. Students are admitted free. For further information call Mrs. Melvin Gottlieb at 921-7214.

FLANNERY O'CONNOR

Stories to Be Discussed. A series of lecture-discussion classes on the short stories of Flannery O'Connor begins at Stuart Country Day School on Wednesday, January 18.

Sister Dorothy Holmes, who will lead the classes, requests that each participant have a paperback copy of "The Complete Stories of Flannery O'Connor."

Sister Holmes has taught the same series at the Princeton Adult School and at a summer institute in Albany, N.Y. The classes are scheduled for 10:30-11:45 on January 18 and 25, February 1 and 8.

Call 921-2330 if you wish to participate. A voluntary offering will be received.

TIBET IS TOPIC

Of Slide Lecture. The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will present a program on "Travel Highlights of Tibet" with Jack Rieur on Thursday, January 19 at 7:30.

Mr. Rieur, a resident of Montgomery Township, is a retired sixth grade teacher whose hobbies include travel and photography. The program will consist of slides and commentary on Tibet where he has traveled extensively.

The program is free and open to the public. For further information, call the library at 924-7073.

TRIP PLANNED

To Duke Gardens. The Adult Department of the YWCA plans a special winter trip to Duke Gardens, the famous conservatory in Somerville.

Seating is limited for this excursion, which will leave from the YWCA on Paul Robeson Place at 12:30 p.m. Thursday, January 26, and return at approximately 3:30. Participants must sign up ahead of time in person at the YWCA. For further information, call the Adult Department at 924-5571.

W.E. IS AHEAD

In United Way Giving. Employees of Western Electric in Princeton have given $87,284 to the United Way campaign — the largest contribution so far from employees of one company.

Gifts average out to a pledge of $150 per employee, also the highest of any local company, according to Way officials. Western Electric achieved 89 percent employee participation.

This year's drive has lagged far behind what the United Way expected, and there is doubt that the campaign will reach its $1.5 million goal.

HEALING TALK PLANNED

By Holistic Health Unit. An informal seminar entitled "Becoming a Channel for the Light" will be given by David Pomerantz Monday at 8 at the Unitarian Church. The event is sponsored by the Holistic Health Association.

FOR CANCER RESEARCH: Richard Katen, left, lifelong friend and business partner of Harold Shamyer, co-founder of Home Decor in the Princeton Shopping Center who died of cancer last May, presents a check for $11,500 to Dr. Sadek K. Hilal, chief of neuro-radiology at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center for continuing research in nuclear magnetic resonance, a promising new method of cancer detection. Harold Shamyer's sister, Mrs. Joan S. Shalhoub, at right, organized the dinner dance at St. Anthony's Church Hall, Bergenfield, at which the funds were raised. Some 195 friends and relatives attended.

which is on the National Historic Register and by an 18th century farmstead and a private cemetery.

Route One could be widened by 300 feet near Penns Neck; the present Route One could be north only, and a new south-bound road built; the existing northbound lanes could become service roads, the southbound lanes widened and northbound lanes built.

By 1992, the report estimates, this section will need a minimum of four to five lanes each way. The DOT suggests that it is "reasonable" to build a 3-2-3 Route One between Princeton and Quaker Bridge Road, using the middle pair of lanes for buses and the like.

The DOT sugests a new Princeton-Hightstown Road (Route 571) from the present AMTRAK bridge through RCA to a new overpass feeding Harrison, Washington or both. This would remove heavy through trips from the existing residential area.

Infamous Quaker Bridge. Farther down the road, the DOT has several alternatives for the Quaker Bridge intersection. In one, Quaker Bridge Road in a new alignment, swings south of Quaker Bridge Mall to connect with Province Line Road at a full clover-leaf at the present Quaker Bridge Mall bridge, continuing across the Delaware and Raritan Canal to Princeton Pike.

In a similar alternative, Quaker Bridge would stop at the Mall bridge and not continue to the canal.

The first proposed alternatives have grade separation — that is, an overpass — at the Route One-Quaker Bridge intersection, often described as one of the worst on Route One.

In other proposals, the DOT maps a major parallel road connecting Forrestal Center to Princeton Junction, and urges provision for parallel access roads as alternatives to Route One for traffic with local destinations.

Several by-passes are shown on the maps accompanying the alternative proposals — they are cheaper. New roads or new alignments, the DOT says, mean less traffic disturbance during construction and purchase of less valuable land.

"Banzai Sigmund!"
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I have been puzzled by former mayor Robert Cawley's graceless attacks on his successor, just as she assumed office as mayor of Princeton Borough. People voted for Barbara Sigmund with enthusiasm — because she brings enthusiasm, verve and freshness to whatever she touches.

We should all expect that as mayor, Barbara Sigmund would want key people in policy-making positions who share her views and her confidence. The former mayoral administrations, Republican since 1962, hired a Borough attorney comparable with their views. Mrs. Sigmund has chosen as attorney for her administration an excellent lawyer, Walter Bliss, with a superb education and broad government experience — a most honorable human being, who works for a distinguished law firm that has long been the pride of this community — McCarthy & Schatzman.

Critics are carping, however, that this logical development is "political" as if the transparent inspiration for their own attacks was not partisan politics in the first place.

Mr. Bliss was indeed the County Democratic Party's chairman — and led his party on a course of openness and reform of which any Princetonian can be most proud. That cannot disqualify him from public service.

Most of us are looking forward to an exciting four years with Barbara Sigmund as Borough mayor. I for one, resent the ungentlemanly efforts by the departed administration to give her "a black eye" before she even took office.

Banzai Barbara Sigmund!
Banzai Walter Bliss!

Praise for Mr. Bellows.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

This letter is written to congratulate you on the wonderful article (Dec. 14, 1983) concerning Stuart Bellows.

Not many people have the necessary courage, dedication, and enthusiasm to risk everything to even try to make their dream come true, nor to plan well ahead for the day when the challenge could be met.

There is nothing in this world so envied as the individual who has the enthusiasm, capability and dedication to pursue a goal, completely oblivious to insults and criticisms of all kinds. When I reached the part of the article wherein the professor discouraged Mr. Bellows by telling him that he would never be able to write a Ph.D. dissertation in music, I felt like shouting, "Hallelujah," because Mr. Bellows was now going to show up that professor with something far greater. Once possessed, a Ph.D., by the limiting nature of the required subject division, is hard to outgrow in the marketplace, anyway.

Individuals who are successful in life often refer to having their hearts in their efforts. "Where your heart is" is probably where your treasure lies. What a different world it would be if everyone was devoted to encouraging others. Young people impress me as being far more sensitive today to the pursuit of a dream. Perhaps this is due to the times in which we live — they still have hope! I often see young people with smiling eyes stared through by glaring older people. These older people, it seems to me, are attempting to lower the morale and self-esteem of the young, but actually what they are doing is wasting their own energy and potential in a desperate attempt to inflate themselves and their ego, to cover their own lack of initiative and enthusiasm — their own lack of goals and dreams.

I don't know Mr. Bellows — but I do know his mother! She is a great inspiration to many people. Just this past August she played a work of

EDITH INGRAM WRAY

New Attorney to Cost Less.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

As members of Borough Council, permit us to point out a significant economic reason for the appointment of Walter Bliss to the position of Municipal Attorney.

Mr. Bliss has said that he will be happy to serve under the fee structure that prevailed in 1983 while the previous attorney projected an increase in fees for fiscal 1984. For just the basic retainer and prosecutorial function we expect this will result in a savings of at least $4500. Add to this the fact that Mr. Bliss is more than willing to commit whatever number of hours are necessary to fulfill the expectations of Mayor and Council without increasing over last year's costs, and the overall benefit to the taxpayer seems convincing.

Last year, the Municipal Attorney received approximately $34,000 as a basic retainer and provided 560 hours of service for that fee. Mr. Bliss has assured us that he does not view this as an upper limit on his hours of service and thus any "learning-on-the-job" (of the sort any person new to any position needs to undertake) will not occur at Borough taxpayer's expense.

In addition to these savings, the Borough will benefit from the fact that all litigation above the Municipal Court level will be performed by Mr. Bliss at the 1983 fee of $65 per hour. The previous attorney has projected an increase in this category of service for 1984.

It is sometimes claimed that the level of professional fees should not be a factor in hiring professional help. But given our judgment that Mr. Bliss is eminently capable, the savings to Borough taxpayers should not be ignored as a factor to weigh in the balance among others.

Toy Drive a Success.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

We extend our heartfelt thanks to the many contributors who gave to our Fifth Annual Toy Drive to benefit needy children.

The generosity of people throughout the area made this by far the biggest toy drive we have ever sponsored.

We wish to express our deepest appreciation to the people in the community for their generosity again this year.

Good Responsive Politics.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Recent articles in the local press have suggested that there is something unusual about the appointment of Walter Bliss as Borough attorney.

Mayor Sigmund was elected by a very healthy majority. Her views on development in downtown Princeton were well publicized during the campaign and evidently consistent with the wishes of the majority of the electorate.

It only makes sense that Mayor Sigmund would support an attorney who shares her views about the quality of life in our downtown, rather than reappoint an attorney who is necessarily linked with the policies of the past.

That's good, responsive politics in the best sense of the word.

From Rep Company: Thanks.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Princeton Rep Company would like to take this opportunity to thank all those people who helped make its first annual New Year's Eve Fundraiser a resounding success.

We applaud our wonderful audience and welcome them as new members. To those of you who were turned away because seating was limited we apologize and promise to rectify the situation next year.

We were especially honored to have in attendance Mayor Robert Cawley, Mayor Barbara Sigmund, and U.S. Congresswoman Lindy Boggs of Louisiana. Thank you all for your remarks and good wishes.

A particular thanks to the artists and crew who donated their time and talent so generously: our emcee for the evening, Carol Kehoe; Mr. and Mr. Smith (Jim Beckerman and Ben Chatrer); Denny Shafer and the Maple Street 7, Paul Liberti and Nancy Arnot; Three of a Kind (Marni Rice, Bill Kibbel and Maryanneke Bower); Ron Kostar and Rich Reim, set designers Richard Kapolka, Karl Lessig, and Fred Berman; Peter Beckerman and his crew.

And finally to the Arts Council of Princeton and to Anne Reeves and June Cawley whose unfailing support and encouragement contributed to the overwhelmingly positive response we received.

The Princeton Rep Company looks forward to bringing new and exciting theatre to our area. Your support now and in the future will make this possible.

Happy New Year 1984.

OFFICE COMPLEX SET

For More Tenants. The first phase of construction at Montgomery Knoll office condominiums on Route 206 north of Princeton is nearing completion, and 11 offices are open for business.

Developer Sandra Persichetti expects completion of the entire development of 48 offices in early 1985.

The Montgomery Knoll professional roster already includes: Joel D. Moore, Tax & Financial Services; Jane R. Altman, Esquire; Samuel Stettler, Princeton Financial Group; Edward J. Bergman, Esquire; Tom Hopkins Training Center; E. R. Keller & Co., Inc; Princeton Equipment Corporation; Clive Samuels & Associates, Inc; Micro Masters, Inc.

Also Multimodal Therapy Institute, P.A.; Uniforce Corporation; Baltzer Enterprises, Inc; Ivanhoe Industries; Harry A. Stroh Associates; and K-Mont Management Services.

SUBSIDIARY SOLD

By Gulton Industries. Gulton Industries, Inc. has sold Southern States, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary, to members of the subsidiary's management. Terms of the sale were not disclosed. The transaction will result in a gain of 18 cents per share in Gulton's fourth fiscal quarter.

According to Walter F. Gips Jr., chairman and chief executive officer, the sale of Southern States is consistent with Gulton's strategy to transfer assets from the corporation's older, more mature businesses into the newer and more dynamic technologies of its growth sectors.

Southern States, located in Hampton, Georgia, manufactures transmission and distribution products for high-voltage application to the electric utility industry. Sales of the subsidiary were approximately $16 million last year and Southern States has been a profitable operation.

Gulton Industries, a NYSE company headquartered in Princeton, specializes in the design and manufacture of electrical and electronic components, equipment and systems in four principal business sectors: audio, defense, graphic display and industrial.

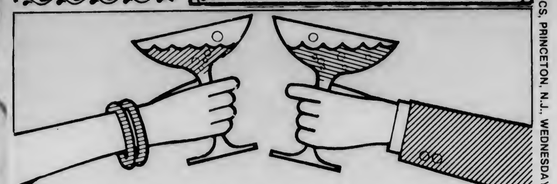
William H. Van Pelt Jr., of Lawrenceville, has been appointed senior vice president at Gallup & Robinson, an advertising and marketing research firm.

Mr. Van Pelt joined the firm in 1975 as a general service executive, bringing with him experience in senior research, advertising and marketing positions at Opinion Research Corporation, Westinghouse and Ketchum Advertising Agency in Pittsburgh. He became a vice president and director at Gallup & Robinson in 1977.

Kevin G. McConville of Levittown, Pa., is the newest member of the art department at Princeton Partners, an advertising agency at 245 Nassau Street.

He will be responsible for advertising layout and mechanical design. Mr. McConville is a graduate of the Hussian School of Art in Philadelphia, where he majored in advertising design, and the Bucks County Technical School.

Moore Gates Jr. of Hun Road has been appointed President of Dresdner and Company Inc., investment counselors at 19 Vandeventer Avenue.



Mr. Gates has specialized in the management of investments throughout his career. He joined the United States Trust Company of New York in 1947 where he followed initial experience in investment research with many years of portfolio management. Before leaving U.S. Trust in 1979, Mr. Gates had been senior vice president for more than ten years, was a member of the Investment Policy Committee and had carried major responsibilities for individual, institutional and pension relationships.

From 1979 to 1983 he was executive vice president of Pulsifer and Hutner, Inc., investment managers in New York City where he continued to handle investment portfolios.

Sewer Underpayment

employees or public officers, Mr. Bliss said, adding, "But is there 'loss' in the sense that Borough and Township are not obligated to pay the Authority for the underbilling? Probably we do owe the money, on basic equity grounds."

At the Thursday session, Council also squirmed over the question of giving itself a raise; decided to give William Sutphin's plan for reorganizing the Planning Board, in Richard Woodbridge's words, "death, with dignity"; and debated the relationship between library and Park and Shop lot.

John Huntoon made a lengthy plea for assigning Mr. Bliss to "investigate" to determine "accountability" for the underbilling, asking the Authority for a written assessment, and proposing an "options paper" by Mr. Bliss before Mayor Sigmund signs the repayment agreement..

"We paid our bill and lived up to the service agreement," he declared. "It's hard to conceive that we should have to repay with interest."

Nobody seconded his motion

Peter Bearse remarked that "it is not productive to attach blame, and there are no good options: we're going to have to eat it, one way or another."

It is West Windsor and South Brunswick, Princeton's partners in the Authority, who were harmed by the underbilling because they had to pay more, Richard Macgill said

"Council has ratified the repayment agreement," he continued. "If it is repudiated, it's a spectacular start for this new Council. West Windsor and South Brunswick have the right to demand the entire payment now, but have enabled us to defer with a three-year-loan at six percent"

When Mr. Bearse asked Mr. Bliss whether the Borough could continue with the negotiated settlement, but file suit against the Authority to see whether "we can recover something," Mr. Bliss replied, "You can't settle, then sue: it's either-or."

One Payment Made. One payment has already been made (for $134,000) and another is due in March for $91,705.

Regarding insurance, Mr. Bliss remarked, in legal phraseology, "it's West Windsor and South Brunswick who need to be made whole."

So Council asked him what he could find out about the possibility of using the Authority's insurance instead of Borough-Township money.

Pointing out that four of Council's six members are self-employed, Mr. Macgill proposed salary increases: from $1,200 to $1,800 for Council and $1,800 to $2,500 for the mayor. The self-employed are Urken, Woodbridge, Bearse and Huntoon. Mr. Macgill is retired, Barbara Hill and Mayor Sigmund do not have other jobs.

Township Committee salaries are $2,500, with $3,500 for the mayor.

"But we knew this when we ran," Mr. Huntoon protested. "To be sworn in and the next day you ask for a salary increase — !"

"It's not a matter of dollars, to serve here," Mr. Bearse commented.

Mayor Sigmund pointed out that Council doesn't yet know what its budget will be, adding that although she would recommend the sums paid in the Township, she felt it an "untimely introduction."

Library users are threatening not to use the library because it's so inconvenient to enter and leave the Park and Shop lot, says library director Robert Staples, reporting an 11 percent decline in library use in November. He would like re-routing and the entrance on Witherspoon Street, rather than Spring.

(He said this week that the library had been assured last spring of seven free parking slots on Witherspoon for drop-off use, and that nothing had ever been done about the assurance.)

Council agreed not to give the library 20-minute free parking or any free parking for volunteers, and to obtain usage figures from the library, relating its costs to public use.

"Why should the Borough taxpayer subsidize library users?" asked Mr. Macgill. "And it's not the 'library lot', as it's often called. Let's sell it to the library."

Plan Mt. Laurel Meeting

At the request of Mayor Barbara Sigmund, Borough Council has set Wednesday, January 25 as the date for public discussion of a possible "Mt. Laurel ordinance".

The meeting will be at 8 in Borough Hall.

The New Jersey Supreme Court's Mt. Laurel decision in January, 1983, stated that municipalities must make it possible for people in low and moderate income brackets to obtain housing.

TELLING HIS VERSION: The Rev. William Howard, left, held a press conference last week at First Baptist Church to describe the ecumenical nature of Jesse Jackson's trip to Syria and his role in the mission. With him is the Rev. Edward Smith, pastor of First Baptist.

Rev. Howard

As Mr Howard describes it, advance preparations for the trip included consultation with the Archbishop for North America of the Antiochian Church, who is based in Teaneck, a State Department briefing for Mr. Jackson arranged by Senator Charles Percy, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, whom Mr. Howard contacted; and a meeting with the Syrian Ambassador to the U.S. in Washington, Rafic Jouejati.

The ecumenical delegation included the president of Church Women United, the chief minister of the Nation of Islam, the head of the Unitarian-Universalist Church in Boston, and a black civil rights leader who served as head of protocol for the mission.

Initially, the goals were to obtain a meeting with the Syrian Foreign Minister, Abdel Khaddam, to visit Goodman in detention, and to present a humanitarian appeal to President Assad for Goodman's release. All three goals were met within 24 hours of their arrival in Damascus, Friday, December 30, Mr. Howard said.

"I believe the hand of God was in the whole mission," Mr. Howard said. "If we had gone simply as a quasi-legal or political mission, we wouldn't have stood a chance. God opened the hearts of the Syrian government, not necessarily with their permission or their cooperation." The trip was marked by prayer--"some of the most stirring prayer meetings I have ever attended"--and even by fasting on the part of some participants.

The group had a meeting with the nine Patriarchs, religious leaders of the major faiths in Damascus, and participated in a Mass for World Peace in the cathedral of the Greek Catholic Church, concelebrated by the Papal Nuncio and the Archbishop, at which the American delegation--white, black, male, female, Unitarian, Baptist and Muslim--took Communion.

Asked if the success of the mission would help Mr. Jackson in his bid for the presidency, Mr. Howard replied, "Jesse Jackson would have gone on this mission whether or not he was a presidential candidate, because of his fundamental commitment to world peace and to human rights."

Mr. Howard described the tension in the hotel room the night of January 2 as the group awaited word on whether or not the governing council reconvened by President Assad for the purpose of considering Mr. Jackson's personal appeal to him earlier that day would be accepted.

Delayed Deparature. Due to fly out at 8 a.m. the following morning, the group was asked to delay its departure. At 10 a.m., January 3, they were taken by motorcade to the Foreign Ministry, where, after a suspenseful pause, Mr. Khaddam told them Goodman would be released. There were tears in the eyes of the foreign ministers, Mr. Howard said, as Jackson and Khaddam embraced and called for prayer.

There were tears, too, in the eyes of the Syrian Ambassador, Mr. Jouejati, during the ecumenical service in Washington, D.C., following their return, when he said, in effect, "This is the most spiritually moving experience of my life."

All the way to Damascus, the 30 or so members of the press corps had been openly cynical about the outcome of the mission, Mr. Howard said, but "even the doubters expressed new faith in the powers of God." Back at home, he discovered that Paul Tillich's book, "Dynamics of Faith," which he took with him, had not been returned by the ABC correspondent who said he had not been to church since childhood.

PEOPLE in the News

In the first edition of "Why Trade It In?", published exactly seven years ago, in December, 1977, George Fremon and Suzanne Fremon were on a soapbox. Their sermon: don't buy that old snake-oil from General Motors and Ford and the rest about how you gotta have a new car every year or two. You can keep your car running almost indefinitely without spending all that money, so "why trade it in?"

In their new edition, now in bookstores, the Fremons no longer need to mount the soapbox. The sticker price of a new car does their preaching for them.

The new bright royal blue paperback "Why Trade It In?" is only two thirds the size of earlier editions, because, as Mr. Fremon says, "the economics are now self-evident. We no longer feel the moral imperative to persuade them to keep the car. The soap-box isn't needed any more."

In spite of its smaller size, the book has new material: data on diesels, turbochargers, fuel injection, electronic engine control systems and other elements not around six years ago.

The book is easy to read, illustrated with Mr. Fremon's sharp drawings of various automotive systems. There is a lot of clear advice, like "When you turn the ignition key to 'start' and you hear nothing but a click, tell your mechanic 'the solenoid just goes click; the starter isn't cranking the engine. When the starter goes 'ruh-ruh-ruh' but the engine won't start . . ."

Advice like that. There are things to have the mechanic check once a month, things for you to do at 5,000 miles, 10,000 and on up to 100,000; blank records for you to fill in; warning boxes about red temperature lights and what cold water can do to a very hot engine.

"We make it clear," Mr. Fremon emphasizes, "that we aren't opposed to new cars. We are opposed to having you go to great expense if you really don't want to, to buying a new car you don't really want to buy."

Navy Lt. j.g. Lauren Schnorbus, daughter of Joan F. and Ronald H. Schnorbus of 122 Review Avenue, Lawrenceville, has been selected as one of 38 Military women of Achievement in the San Diego area. She is currently serving with Naval Base, San Diego.

The annual award is conferred by the San Diego County Women's Council of the Navy League of the United States. Each award recipient receives a $500 scholarship from National University.

Dr. Paul H. Rutherford of 192 Bertrand Drive, associate director of the Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory, is one of five recipients of the 1983 Ernest Orlando Lawrence Memorial Award.

The Lawrence Award, which consists of a medal, a citation and $5,000, is given to American citizens who have made meritorious contributions to the development, use or control of atomic energy. Dr. Rutherford was praised for "his outstanding contributions to the basic theory of plasma confinement, and to the toroidal fusion reactor concept that has led, in recent years, to excellent agreement between computer predictions and experimental measurements."

Dr. Rutherford has made notable contributions to the basic theory of plasma confinement, plasma instabilities, plasma transport, and impurity behavior. He played a leading role in the development of the first sophisticated computer models of tokamak transport.

Dr. Rutherford, 45, was born in England. He received a B.A. with First Class Honors and a Ph.D. in theoretical physics from Cambridge University. He served as a research associate at the Culham Laboratory in England prior to joining the Princeton research staff in 1965.

HARTFORD BLOWN OUT

By Tigers, 80-66. When was the last time the Princeton basketball team scored 80 points, before Tuesday night's 80-66 victory over Hartford in Jadwin?

It was four years ago against Long Island University, and the fact that the feat is so rare for one of Pete Carril's teams, gives the best indication of the kind of opposition the Orange and Black faced. Hartford had won but once in seven tries coming into Jadwin, and it never had a chance in this one.

Princeton jumped out to an 8-0 lead on three consecutive baskets by John Smyth, and never looked back. There was no need to work patiently for the right shot in this contest, the Hartford defense, or lack of it, gave the Tigers one opening after another, inside and out.

By halftime, the Bengals had opened up an 18 point advantage, 43-25, scoring more points in the first 20 minutes than they had in both halves of many games. The second half rolled along like the first with neither team particularly worried about defense. Carril never saw any need to call a time out, and Hartford called but one.

All five Tiger starters finished in double figures, another rarity. Kevin Mullin was tops with 19, Howie Levy, enjoying an easy night in the pivot had 17, Smyth finished with 15, Billy Ryan, 11 and Jay Bubniak, 10.

Against a team this weak, its hard to tell if this contest will manage to be a confidence-builder for the Orange and Black, after the devastating trip to New England. At any rate, the team will have 15 days off for exams, before its next game.

And that might just be more of a test than this one. On January 25, Princeton will head for Chicago to face DePaul, currently ranked number three in the country.

A year ago, it lost there 51-41.

Marine Commissioned Warrant Officer Thomas H. Turner, son of Theresa A. and Harold J. Turner of 181 Driftway Road, Hopewell, recently participated in training exercise "Red Flag 1-84." He is an officer attached to a marine fighter attack squadron in El Toro, Calif.

The exercise, held at Nellis Air Force Base, included realistic air combat scenarios that provided both Marine and Air Force aviators an opportunity to refine aerial combat tactics.

Georgine Hall of Wheatsheaf Lane is currently standing by for actress Anne Pitoniak in the role of Thelma Cates in Marsha Norman's Pulitzer Prize winning play 'Night Mother on Broadway.

'Night Mother is a two-character drama between a daughter who determines to overcome the successive failures of her life by committing suicide, and her mother who tries in vain to stop her. It runs 90 minutes without a break, and Mrs. Hall played the role for eight successive performances during Thanksgiving week.

Georgine Hall previously appeared on Broadway in Present Laughter with George C. Scott, in Jules Feiffer's Grownups and Top Topor's Nuts. Off Broadway she has played in Veronica's Room, Casualities and True West at the New York Shakespeare Festival.

Born and raised in Princeton, Mrs. Hall has appeared in several productions at McCarter Theatre.

PRINCETON CLUB SET

By Young Life. Young Life, an international, nondenominational organization for high school students which began in 1947, has started a club for high school students in the Princeton area.

For the past seven years, Young Life has been active in Montgomery and Hopewell High Schools under the direction of Bob Roden and Diane Hlidey. The organization has more than 500 active clubs with approximately 700 full and part-time staff workers throughout the United States and in 12 foreign countries. There is a national board of trustees composed of prominent civic and business leaders.

In this area, Young Life is sponsored by an Adult Committee of business and professional persons. Representing the Princeton area on the Mid-Jersey Committee are Dr and Mrs. Andrew Shelpuk, Dr and Mrs. Jimmy Roberts, Mr and Mrs. Burke Mathes, and Mr and Mrs. James Swartz.

The Princeton Club meets on Wednesdays at 8, and any high school student in Princeton is welcome. The hour long informal meeting consists of singing, humorous skits and a talk by one of the leaders on how to relate the Christian lifestyle to today's youth. In addition to the weekly meetings, there are also special events during the year.

Forty-five Princeton High School students recently participated in a Young Life weekend at the New Jersey shore with some 100 other students. Plans are underway for an all-night racquetball club or event in January and a ski trip to Killington in February.

For further information contact a member of the Adult Committee or call the Young Life office, PO Box 302, Pennington 08534, or call 883-1440.

GROUP FORMED HERE

For Humanistic Judaism. A group has formed in Central New Jersey based on the philosophy of the Society for Humanistic Judaism, known as "The Fourth Alternative of Judaism."

Humanistic Judaism is a celebration of Judaism through philosophy, history and culture that is not God-oriented but people-oriented. Humanistic Jews appreciate Judaism as a cultural phenomenon – a matrix of ethical values, traditional music, dance, language and humor. Rabbi Sherwin Wine of Birmingham, Mich., is the founder of the Society for Humanistic Judaism.

Humanistic Jews don't use prayer, because that implies talking to God. Instead, they concentrate on poetry, philosophy and song, both in Hebrew and English. A holiday such as Passover is treated as spring festival and historical event. Life cycle events such as births, marriages and bar mitzvah are celebrated.

Since Rabbi Wine founded the society in the 1960s, more than 12 congregations have been formed in the U.S. and Canada. For information about the New Jersey group, call Esther Pollock, 924-3323.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Jewish Singles of the Windsors will have a brunch on Sunday, January 22, at noon at Congregation Beth Chaim, Village Road and Old Trenton Road, Route 535, West Windsor. For additional information call 799-8281 or 448-7075.

An adult class on the subject of Jesus and the Passover will be conducted Sunday at 9:30 by the ministry of Jews for Jesus under the sponsorship of Princeton Presbyterian Church. The church meets at the John Witherspoon School, Walnut Lane. Morning worship service begins at 11.

For further information call the church office at 921-1020.

Anna T. R. Smith, 93, of Vandeventer Avenue, died December 31 at her home.

Born in West Philadelphia, Mrs. Smith had been a resident of Princeton for more than 80 years. She was a regular worker for the Board of Elections in Princeton and had also worked for the Board of Education in the 1920s. In the early 30s, she organized teen dances at Princeton High School.

She was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church; the D.A.R.; the Huguenot Society of Pennsylvania; Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America; Colonial Daughters of the 17th Century; the Vermont Society of Colonial Dames; the U.S.D. 1812; the National Society Sons and Daughters of the Pilgrims, and the National Society Daughters of the Colonial Wars.

She also belonged to the National Society Daughters of American Colonists; the National Society of New England Women, Wyckoff House and Association, the Monmouth Battlefield Association; the Garden Club of Princeton; and the Historical Society of Princeton.

Wife of the late James F. Smith, she is survived by a duaghter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Otten of St. Petersburg, Fla.; a sister, Mrs. Walter H. Hoffman of Princeton; three grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

A private service was held at her request.

Mary H. Lambert, 82, of Carter Road, Lawrenceville, died January 7 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Schenectady, N.Y., she grew up in Princeton and attended Miss Fine's School. Mrs. Lambert was a descendant of Jonathan Dickinson, the first president of the College of New Jersey, later Princeton University. She was a granddaughter of the Rev. Samuel M. Hamill, headmaster of the Lawrenceville School who organized the school into its present form, and daughter of the late Mrs. William Kelly Prentice of Lawrenceville.

At the time of her death, Mrs. Lambert was a member of the board of directors of Grosevenor Neighborhood House in New York City. She was a former president of the Colonial Dames and the Garden Club of Princeton. She had also served on the board of the Marion Manufacturing Co. in Marion, N.C. for more than 25 years.

An enthusiastic angler and sportswomen, she was a member of the Women Fly Fisher Club of Oliveria, N.Y., Balsam Lake Angler's Club in Turnwood, N.Y., the Oquossoc Angling Association in Oquossoc, Maine, and Megantic Fish and Game Corp. of Coburn, Gore, Maine.

She was a member of Pretty Brook Tennis Club, the Nassau Club and the Colony Club of New York City.

Wife of the late Dr. Samuel W. Lambert Jr., she is survived by a son, Samuel W. Lambert III of Princeton; a daughter, Sarah L. Morgan of New York City; a brother, Samuel M. Hamill of Lawrenceville, and six grandchildren.

The service was held at Trinity Church, the Rev. John Crocker Jr., rector, officiating. Contributions may be made to the Grosevenor Neighborhood House, 176 West 105th Street, New York, N.Y., or to Princeton Day School, Box 75, Princeton.

Willis H. Green, 82, of Hopewell, died January 6 in Middlesex General Hospital, New Brunswick.

Mr. Green was born in Hopewell and had lived there all his life. Before retiring, he worked as an auto mechanic for Maleck Chevrolet in Hopewell. He was a member of St. Alphonsus Church.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Magyar Green; two sisters, Helen Mills and Caroline Vannoy, both of Wilmington, Del.; two nephews, Hartwell Vannoy of Pennington and J. Maxwell Mills of Newark, Del.; and several grandnephews and nieces.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Alphonsus Church with burial in Highland Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to St. Alphonsus Church, 54 East Prospect Street, Hopewell.

John J. Panek, 69, of Belle Mead, formerly of Little Rocky Hill, died January 3 at Princeton Medical Center.

Mr. Panek was born in Perth Amboy and had lived in Belle Mead for the past 18 years. He retired three years ago as a chief operator from American Cyanamid Co. in Bound Brook after 40 years with the company. He was a charter member of the Little Rocky Hill Volunteer Fire Co. and of the Lutheran Church of the Messiah.

He was a member of the "Arbeiter Manner und Damen" Choir of Trenton.

Surviving are his wife, Gertrude E. Panek; three sons, John K. of Somerset; James A. of Titusville and Joseph F. Panek of Marblehead, Mass.; nine grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Rose Wetzel of Trenton; and a brother, Frank Panek of Lawrence Township.

The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home, the Rev. Harry Haysbert, associate pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Messiah, officiating. Entombment was in Franklin Memorial Park, North Brunswick.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Montgomery Township First Aid Squad, Box 105, Belle Mead 08502.

J. Marie V. Fabian, 86, of Pennington, died January 2 in Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Rahway, Mrs. Fabian lived in Ewingville for 20 years before moving to Hopewell Township 40 years ago. A graduate of the N.J. State Model School in Trenton, she attended the University of Pennsylvania, Rider-Moore and Stewart College (later Rider College), and West Chester State Teachers College.

She was a teacher in Bucks County and had taught in one-room schools at Aquetong and Taylorsville and at the William E. Case, Manor Park and Capital View schools in Morrisville.

She was a lifelong member of the First Presbyterian Church of Morrisville who had also been associated with the Ewing Presbyterian Church. She was a former member of the Lawrenceville and Hopewell Garden Clubs.

Wife of the late Jesse Morris Fabian, she is survived by a son and daughter-in-law, Morris S. and Marilyn A. Moorhead Fabian, and two grandsons, Morris G. and Mark Fabian, all of Pennington.

The service was held at a Pennington memorial home, the Rev. Richard E. Kauffman, pastor of the Morrisville Presbyterian Church officiating with the Rev. Philip Zink, associate pastor. Burial was in Pennington Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the First Presbyterian Church of Morrisville, 771 North Pennsylvania Avenue, Morrisville, Pa., 19067, or Princeton Medical Center, Witherspoon Street.

Nellie E. Riley, 90, of Leesburg, Fla., formerly of Hopewell, died January 4 in the Leesburg Nursing Home.

Born in the Hopewell area, Mrs. Riley had lived in the area most of her life. She was a member of the Hopewell Methodist Church.

Wife of the late John S. Riley, she is survived by a daughter, Hilda Orr of Leesburg, Fla.; a son, Mahlon Riley of Hopewell; three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

The service was held in a Hopewell memorial home the Rev. Michael Smith, pastor of the Hopewell Methodist Church, officiating. Burial was in Highland Cemetery.

Ronald C. Berger of Raleigh Road, Kendall Park, died January 4 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Queens, N.Y., Mr. Berger earned a B.S. degree in business in 1951 at Syracuse University and also did graduate work at New York University. He joined RCA in 1958 as an accountant and later served as controller of the truck division of Hertz, then owned by RCA. Most recently he was with the semiconductor division of RCA in Somerville.

Mr. Berger was a veteran of the U.S. Army and served as a lieutenant in the Korean War. He was a member and former elder of the Kingston Presbyterian Church.

Survivors include his wife, Marjorie K. Berger; a son, Gregory R., at home; a daughter, Deborah Liwoscz of Princeton, and a sister, Beverly A. Burke of Branford, Conn.

A memorial service was held at the Kingston Presbysterian Church, the Rev. John Heinsohn, pastor, officiating. Contributions may be made to the American Heart Association, 3490 Route One, Princeton.

Nunzio Stellitano of North Greenwood Avenue, Hopewell, died January 6 at Princeton Medical Center.

Mr. Stellitano was born in Italy and had lived most of his life in Hopewell. He was a retired carpenter and had worked out of Princeton Local 781.

Surviving are his wife, Marie V. Stellitano; two daughters, Freda S. Modaffare of Hopewell and Nancy Krell of Trenton, Fla.; a son, Frank Stellitano of Hopewell; two sisters in Italy; eight grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Alphonsus Church, Hopewell, with burial in Highland Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the Heart Fund.

ISN'T IT TIME TO BUY A VERY SPECIAL PRINCETON HOUSE?

THIS JUST-LISTED CUSTOM WILLIAMSBURG COLONIAL NESTLED ON TWO ACRES OF WOODS AND PLANTINGS ON BROOKSTONE DRIVE IS THE ANSWER! Well back from the road, with farmland behind, totally fenced for privacy...the setting is hard to believe. Brick patios, inground pool, pool house, deck and more ... it's a veritable wonderland ... yet virtually in town for convenience! The house on two levels with full basement is warm and gracious with a French country feeling throughout the traditional touches and custom appointments. Formal living room with French doors and fireplace; inviting dining room and a country kitchen with fireplace. There's a cozy library with lots of built-ins as well. As many as five bedrooms with 3½ baths for luxurious comfort and privacy. The somewhat finished basement and oversized two-car garage almost complete the picture, not to mention oodles of storage areas. Please call for an appointment to preview this exceptional opportunity.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

WINTER PRUNING - EVERGREENS AND ORNAMENTALS
with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates

Last week we discussed pruning of deciduous plants and trees. This week we thought it might be advantageous to talk about the pruning of evergreens, such as hollies, rhododendrons, azaleas, mountain laurel and andromeda. Most need and require very little pruning. Our suggestion is that you remove overlapping and disproportionately large branches in late winter or early spring before new growth appears. You might consider removing any shrub that is too overgrown for the site. Rhododendrons and old mountain laurels can be revived by cutting them almost to the ground.

The best time for pruning or shaping trees is the same as for shrubs. The collar of the tree is cleaned in late winter before the leaves unfold. They should be pruned to shape and all crossed branches should be removed. Water sprouts, the vertical shoots that grow from the main branches of crab apples and other small trees can be removed almost anytime but most effectively in summer when their growth has subsided. Cut suckers away from the base of a tree whenever you see them.

When you are pruning shrubs or small trees, always rinse every few minutes, stand back from the tree and inspect the work. When in doubt, underprune. You can't replace a removed branch. Deciduous trees like the shears and trees with symmetrical shapes are best left the character. A sloppy, uneven shape tends to look to an ordinary eye or tree.

EXCITING COUNTRY RESIDENCE

On six plus wooded acres. Imposing 2 story stucco house in neo-classic, post modernist design entered through a formal courtyard with miniature fruit and espaliered trees. The main floor of this unusual house has a living room with working wood burning stove, a dining room which looks out to a glorious view of the patio and woods, kitchen designed for a gourmet cook, a ceramic tiled plant room, and guest bedroom (or study), bath and powder room. Upstairs there are three bedrooms, two art-deco styled baths, a study and sleeping balcony - and three outdoor decks to enjoy different views of woods and grounds.

Separate from the house is a little jewel of a studio offering office or guest apartment possibilities. This is a most unusual listing, and one that must be seen.

Call for more information and an appointment.

A WONDERFUL WAY TO START THE NEW YEAR...

On Bedens Brook Road in Montgomery Township, there's a super house in "move-in" condition! Built seven years ago, it is tastefully decorated, beautifully landscaped and meticulously maintained. Colonial in design, the first floor consists of a lovely foyer, living room with fireplace, dining room, kitchen with eating area, laundry room, powder room and family room with cathedral ceiling and fireplace -- all generous in size. The master bedroom on the second floor has a raised fireplace, full bath and good closets. Three other bedrooms and bath complete the second floor. An additional two bedrooms and full bath are on the third floor! A wonderful house in this estate area, priced to sell quickly... $248,000

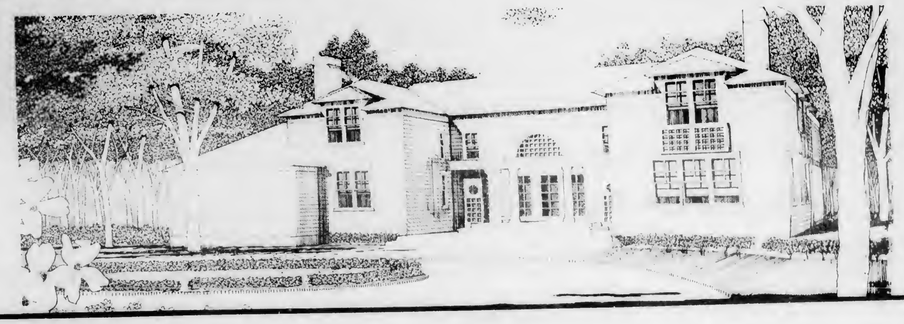
ONE OF A KIND ... ROBERT A.M. STERN ... COMES TO "COLFAX"!

COLFAX

AT BEDENS BROOK

This is just one of the beautiful new designs by exciting world-renowned architects available this very day for one of the exquisite COLFAX lots still available.

This particular blend of traditional design with classic detail and materials contains a massive 30' living room with oversized brick fireplace, enormous family/living areas with expansive foyers and hallways, four bedrooms, three and a half ceramic-tiled baths. A three-car garage is also a must! A dramatic enclosed terrace is an integral part of this exceptional masterpiece.



Call your nearest Henderson office for details on this Robert A.M. Stern design or one of many other outstanding plans available for COLFAX. Or bring your own plans for review. But do it soon. There are only 14 sites still available.

At COLFAX you'll find a lovely very private cul-de-sac lined with Norway Maples and Belgium Block curbs winding its way upwards for perhaps the most spectacular views available today. Each building lot has been carefully delineated with rows of flowering dogwoods for beauty and privacy and with an eye towards nature, views and seclusion. Absolutely perfect to create your own private world.

The name is COLFAX. And COLFAX may well be the most beautiful place to live in the entire Princeton area. Yet COLFAX is only minutes from Nassau Street in downtown Princeton, the University, shopping, outstanding day schools and clubs. COLFAX is really part of the Princeton lifestyle.

Over 18 acres of rolling hillside have been permanently dedicated as a "Green Acres" site to remain untouched in perpetuity for the exclusive use of the COLFAX community. If you're considering Princeton as a place to live and prosper, you really must pay a visit to COLFAX!

Kingston Acres II

Yes, after five years of planning and developing KINGSTON ACRES II has arrived. And it was worth the wait.

A limited edition of just fourteen outstanding colonial houses, KINGSTON ACRES II has begun construction and two models have been completed for your inspection.

Basically, the houses are expanded, oversized models with proven floor plans to delight the most discerning family. Large entry foyers are just the beginning with tremendous living rooms and formal dining rooms. Enormous eat-in kitchens are standard, too. The family room is available with brick fireplace and wooden panelling if desired. Large 2-car garage, of course. And don't forget the tiled powder room.

Upstairs you'll find four super bedrooms and two full baths. The master suite is especially oversized with many extras.

Please make it a point to visit KINGSTON ACRES II. We're open for inspection from 10:30 to 6:00 on weekdays and 11:00 to 4:00 on weekends. Closed Tuesday.

DIRECTIONS: From Princeton take Nassau Street through the Village of Kingston. (Route 27.) Turn right on Fairfield Drive. Follow Fairfield to Schuh Drive and the models. See you there.

RELO: World Leader In Relocation

Expansion and Construction at Princeton Hospital Necessitate Complicated Logistical Manoeuvers

You're well enough to go home, but grateful for the volunteer who gives you a wheel-chair ride to the hospital door. Then you look out the door: rain, sleet, buffeting wind.

"Do I have to go out in that!"

Before the end of the month, the hospital will have a new canopy extending from the door all the way to the curb and you'll be able to step directly from wheel-chair to car with hardly a raindrop to show for it.

That's what all the construction is about at the main entrance to the Medical Center's hospital building. It's part of Phase III, the Center's $2 million-plus renovation project scheduled for completion this summer. (Up to Phase X, and the 1990s.)

NOW, ABOUT STRESS ... : Arms at the sides so you won't knock anything over, take a deep breath — but don't inhale any of the equipment ... the Cardio-Pulmonary Laboratory at the hospital is the place where you take a stress test or find out how well your lungs and heart are working. It's stressful just to get in the door — but there's a cot you can lie down on, partly visible between two machines. This laboratory and its state-of-the-art machines will have twice as much space when renovations at the hospital are complete.

Logistics Puzzle. It's like one of those puzzles where you maneuver squares into empty spaces. Hospital departments operating in agonizingly small areas are either moving to bigger ones or expanding into space left by another department, which in turn — and so on.

When the School of Practical Nursing moved out of Lambert House to the second floor of the Princeton Regional Schools' Valley Road Building, it freed most of Lambert House for hospital expansion.

So — Social Services moves to larger quarters in Lambert House and Cardio-Pulmonary expands into the former Social Services area ... the Outpatient Clinic and Department of Medicine have moved into Lambert House ... the Pharmacy is expanding into space formerly occupied by the Clinic ... Physical Therapy is doubling its area by moving into Lambert House space — and the employees' cafeteria is getting a covered patio-atrium, reducing the amount of coffee spilled because elbows have been too close together.

Actually, the 250-bed hospital (about 90 percent of the beds occupied) has not had booming growth; only what Medical Center President Dennis Doody calls "a slow, steady growth of four or five percent a year."

But keeping up with medical and computer technology, to say nothing of state codes regarding fire, safety, heating, electrical systems, corridor width and the like, make running a hospital rather like painting a bridge — finish, then go back and begin again.

Take Pharmacy as an example.

Four years ago, the department had chief pharmacist Stanley Reuben and a staff of four. Today, Mr. Reuben has 16, including an assistant director and eight pharmacists. One physician thinks the hospital has as many pharmacists as there are in commercial pharmacies in the whole community.

And it's a money-maker for the hospital. Mr. Reuben will not reveal his budget, but he runs a big business

There are several reasons for this pharmaceutical explosion but one is the increasing use of hyperalimentation — medical language for complete feeding of a patient intravenously. If you go into the hospital for surgery, you may have hyperalimentation before the operation to make sure you're in good shape, and afterwards to help you recover more rapidly.

A team with interlocking skills, known as the Nutrition Support Team, began work about 18 months ago in this area of IV feeding. The team consists of dietitians, pharmacists, nurses, doctors, each contributing specialized knowledge toward the specialized care of a particular patient.

Also, Pharmacy must, by New Jersey law, maintain patient medication profiles. Pharmacists also keep a careful watch on drug therapy to prevent allergic reactions or to make sure various drugs don't fight within the patient's body.

A crowded little IV room will be moved to the main pharmacy, and the pharmacy will go where the Outpatient Clinic has been ...

That Clinic is already occupying the big, pleasant space that was the Lambert House living room. Here, windows give a wide outdoors view and patients have a comfortable place to sit while they wait. Doctors in the Department of Medicine, once four-to-an-office, now have individual — and private — consulting rooms.

If you can prove you're poor and if you live within the Center's geographic area, you're eligible for the Outpatient Clinic. Once established, you have open access to the hospital and can be admitted, in spite of the "outpatient" description. Admission for you is on the same basis as for anyone else: the hospital does not have special wards for low-income patients.

Six full-time attending physicians assigned to the hospital, work in this clinic. The clinic is their major responsiblity, and within the clinic, their main function is working with young resident physicians, teaching them the care of ambulatory patients. Incidentally, the hospital says that because there are not enough patients for teaching purposes, each patient receives exceptionally good care.

Physical Therapy Still Crowded. Down in the lower reaches of the hospital building in small quarters that look like some purgatorial ante-chamber is the crowded Physical Therapy room. Director Carol Keyes is looking forward to the day when renovations will be completed and she can move into what used to be the practical nursing school quarters. She'll be doubling her space.

Today, in the Physical Therapy room, a kid who twisted his knee playing soccer works doggedly on a special bike ... six feet away an elderly man is learning how to use crutches (yes, that's a skill that must be learned) ... three feet from him a therapist bends over a patient on a bed, gently maneuvering the patient's leg ... a woman, putting her feet wherever she can find empty floor space, is learning to cope with a walker ...

And upstairs, occupational and speech therapists are working with patients "on the floor," as they say in the hospital, because there isn't space in the Physical Therapy room.

The irony strikes Mr. Doody: " ... overcrowding in Physical Therapy, where the whole idea is to improve your range of motion!"

Severe Blockage. The Cardio-Pulmonary Laboratory has an advanced case of arteriosclerosis. Sophisticated, computerized machines that can measure gases in your blood, how you utilize oxygen, where disease is located and what stage it's in, are jammed into a room no bigger than a red blood cell (see photo).

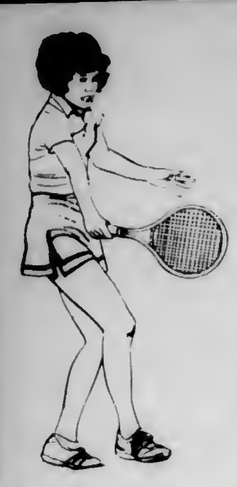
When it moves to the space formerly occupied by the desks of Social Services, the Laboratory will have doubled its space.

Here, the hospital tests asthmatic children or elderly men and women with such ailments as emphysema and bronchitis.

Cardio-Pulmonary is the place big corporations send their executives for various kinds of stress tests, pulmonary function studies, exercise testing. Wedged between two machines is a bed to lie down on between rounds. So far, the hospital has never lost an executive. And only one has passed out.

The people who run all these departments have been using a cafeteria built to accommodate 700. The Center's staff today is 1,400, although some of that number work in Princeton House or Merwick.

Already the patio adjoining the cafeteria has a roof, and when construction clutter has been hauled away and the wall removed, there will be an atrium with plants, and more room for that morning cup of coffee and the lunch sandwich.



These are the laboratories and treatment rooms seen by

Herbert McAneny Captivating in Saroyan's "The Cave Dwellers" at Mill Hill Theatre

KING AND COURT: Herbert McAneny, right, plays the King in William Saroyan's "The Cave Dwellers," now in a Princeton Community Players production at Mill Hill Playhouse, Trenton. With the King are the Duke, played by Robert Watson and, snoozing on the chaise, the Queen, portrayed by Lila Hawley.

There's no sense raging at life. It is what it is. We are what we are. And others — well, others are ... just who they are, too. Take the late William Saroyan, for instance.

"In this playwriting," he says in an introduction to "The Cave Dwellers" now being performed by the Princeton Community Players at the Mill Hill Theatre in Trenton, "there is no hysteria, not because there is none in human reality, but because there is, and because as far as I'm concerned it is no longer in order. There is no emotionality, excitement, or crime, there are no heroes or villains, no right way or wrong way, no big questions and no big answers; no shouting of protests, no cheering of righteousness."

The patron may ask then — and certainly should — what is the reason to go and see such a play? Presumably, Saroyan would answer: to participate in art. "There is drama in my plays," he continues, "because I am in them and because I equal an order of the human race which is not unfamiliar to any other member of it."

So, Saroyan's plays are peopled with himself, and therefore, universal. He says he wouldn't know who else to people them with, other than the ones he knows best. And as for the drama of them, the hating of the human race, Saroyan has no interest. "As long as I am willing to go on being a member of that race, it goes against both nature and truth for me to hate it. I cannot mind, further, that the tone of my plays is decent, as charged: that I am with it all and not against it."

A Philosophy Lecture. An interview with playwright Saroyan must have seemed like a benign philosophy lecture. Actually, so do many of his plays and "The Cave Dwellers" is certainly one. As hard as the cast tries to be believable and entertaining, and to make sense out of their predicament — impoverished and luckless, finding each other in an abandoned theater building about to be demolished — the harder it is to understand why they're in it at all.

This is, of course, not entirely the fault of Saroyan, whose deceptively simple characters and minimal settings encourage amateur companies to perform his plays, but then demand a level of sophisticated professionalism to carry them off which is not often found in such organizations.

But back to the question: what can a director do with a piece of dramatic material whose author readily admits: great playwriting is only another name for the human race? What can he do?

In the case of Churchill Clark, he can find the most experienced actor in the community to play the part of the most experienced actor in the play and count on that actor to pull off the production. For Clark, it's a gamble that nearly pays off.

Certainly, the audience is captivated by the gentle, merry and energetic ruminating of Herbert McAneny as The King. Whether he is comforting the Girl, played with winsome incredulity by Kacie Drury; or encouraging the Queen, his companion of the theater whose regal nature is worn competently and compassionately by Lila Howley; or managing the affairs of his tiny adopted kingdom by keeping them hopeful about life through acting out "bits" from his former successes — whatever McAneny does, the audience believes in. He is the master of the troupe. And he is a delight — stamping around the stage on one foot while he curses the gambling that lost him his show; or befriending the bear (yes, a tame and fuzzy cousin of homo sapiens played with ursine tentativeness by Dick Newman). Above it all, the King stands benevolently, charmingly, graciously. Long live the King. Long live Herbert McAneny.

Redeeming a Life. The Duke, Robert Watson, whose lack of rage caused his failure as a prizefighter, finds redemption for his troubled life in bringing together the Girl and the Silent Boy (played with wide-eyed pathos by David Neuman) in the clinch he could never effect himself. The Father (Philip Weisman), trainer and friend of the bear and leader of his own intrepid little troupe, brings us some funny moments instructing his animal friend in the art of wrestling with a man.

The wrecking crew chief, Mark Donnelly, is suitably macho and appealing. And the Mother, played by Betsy Januszewski in her first stage appearance, is tender and protective.

What the modern audience wanted, Mr. Saroyan, in that compassionate gem of a play, was a little DIRT. I'm not talking smut here, or Garpian outrage, but rather enough tension between characters to make us care about which choices they make and what they do. The fault may be in the play. But it also may lie with the local staging.

After re-modeling the old church, cleaning the streets, creating a sparkling exhibit hall and making the intimate theater space so new and special, perhaps dirt was an unthinkable prop to the PCP. But we needed it — smudged faces, ragged clothes, stained bed covers, lots of dust (the patina of poverty) — to really believe what we were seeing and hearing.

I wonder what Saroyan thought about dirt?

Here's what he thought about the play: "'The Cave Dwellers' happens on the stage of an abandoned theater because all buildings are caves, and because the theatre is the cave at its best — the last arena in which all is always possible."

Long live Saroyan, the Armenian optimist and the gentle man of modern theatre.

And by all means, long live the King, Herb McAneny.

—Sue Allen

O'NEILL'S DREAM

"Ah, Wilderness!" It has been said that the plot for "Ah, Wilderness!" came to Eugene O'Neill in a dream, and McCarter says that set designer David Potts has collaborated with director Margaret Booker to create a dream-like, intimate atmosphere within a realistic setting to emphasize the illusory qualities of O'Neill's script.

"Ah, Wilderness!", next in the season for the McCarter company, will preview January 18 and 19, and run through February 5.

Mr. Potts has constructed the walls of the Miller's 1906 parlor and dining room from scrim — the gauze-like material that can be lit from front or back — to create soft-edged effects ranging from opaque wallpaper to the translucent shadows of early sepia-toned photographs.

Ms. Booker also believes the use of scrims makes the big McCarter stage seem more intimate, evoking the warmth and love within the Miller family.

FOR BLACK HISTORY

"Langston," Crossroads Theatre in New Brunswick will celebrate Black History Month with "Langston," adapted by Rick Khan — executive director of Crossroads — from the poems, plays, writings and biography of the black poet, Langston Hughes.

"Langston" will play January 20 through February 12, with previews January 19. Crossroads, a black professional theatre company, is at 320 Memorial Parkway.

Langston's home was the Harlem of the 1920s and 1930s, where he championed the men and women who worked all day in factories and beauty parlors and went "stompin' at the Savoy" in the evenings.

His plays, "Tambourine to Glory" and "Simply Heavenly," and his classic character named Jessie B. Semple, have been enjoyed for more than 50 years. In "Langston," Khan has created a theatre pastiche incorporating songs and dances of the Harlem renaissance years.

The role of the black writer will be played by Clifton Powell. Nick Smith will be Langston's father. Others in the cast will be Candy Mayfield, Ron Talton and Brenda Thomas, all members of the Crossroads company.

Reservations may be made by calling 201-249-5561.

UP VERMONT WAY

With McCarter. There's Antoine, who's working in the woodlot; Hermie and Florence who are dancing to the music of the chainsaw; Anson who's about to lose his farm; crazy Granny; a priestess of junk and a priest of the welding torch — all in and around and from a Vermont town called Judevine.

"Judevine: A Vermont Anthology" is also the name of McCarter Theatre's Stage Two production this year, booked for Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus from January 17-29, directed by McCarter's Associate Artistic Director, Robert Lanchester.

Four actors will play a variety of characters who speak the verse of poet David Budbill, as arranged in this collage by Mr. Lanchester. It was originally compiled for a staged reading in McCarter's "Playwrights-at-McCarter series" in November, 1980.

Tickets may be reserved through the McCarter box-office, 452-5200, at $6 each.

'THE TEMPEST'

With M.I.T. Actors. Three performances of Shakespeare's "The Tempest" will be given Sunday through Tuesday by the Shakespeare Ensemble of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Performances have been scheduled for 8 p.m. in Princeton Inn College on Alexander Road.

The Ensemble was formed in the spring of 1975 when students from M.I.T. and Wellesley presented "Twelfth Night." Since then, the group has expanded and now offers two major productions annually, maintains an active repertory of 80 scenes and goes on an annual tour. Robert L. Lane is the director.

Tickets, at $5 ($3 for students and senior citizens) are available at the door on the evening of the performance or may be reserved by calling 466-3934.

AUDITIONS SCHEDULED

For MCCC 'Winnie.' Auditions for the Mercer Children's Theatre production of "Winnie the Pooh" will be held on Monday and Tuesday, January 16 and 17, between 7 and 9 p.m. in the Kelsey Theatre on Mercer County Community College's West Windsor campus.

Auditions are open to anyone 14 years of age or older. Participants should bring a one-minute vocal selection to present (an accompanist will be provided). Scenes will also be provided for the acting portion of the auditions.

Additional information may be obtained by calling MCCC's Cultural Events Office at 586-4800, ext. 581.

SOPRANO TO SING

At Choir College. American soprano Arleen Auger will give a recital Sunday, January 22, at 4:30 in Bristol Chapel at Westminster Choir College. She will be accompanied by the pianist Dalton Baldwin.

Miss Auger will sing works by Schumann, Debussy and Strauss in a program which she and Mr. Dalton will perform at Carnegie Hall. The recital is one of a series of free concerts and recitals at Westminster that are open to the public.

Miss Auger has recently returned to this country after several years of residence in Europe where she was a leading singer with the Vienna Opera, the Berlin Opera and other major houses. She has performed with the Philadelphia Orchestra and at the Academy of Music and Carnegie Hall.

Mr. Baldwin, a native of New Jersey, has lived in Paris for many years. He has recorded and concertized widely, performing with Elly Ameling, Jessye Norman, Gerard Souzay and Rosemarie Landry.

WORLD PREMIERES SET

At Choir College. To most music lovers in the New York - New Jersey area the name Laurie Altman is associated with jazz.

But Princeton area concert-goers will have the opportunity to hear another side of this composer's musical style in a series of two concerts to be presented by the Westminster Conservatory. The concerts will highlight the classical side of Laurie Altman's composition.

The first of the programs, "An Evening of Original Music for Winds," will take place on Saturday at 8:30 in Bristol Chapel, on the Westminster Choir College campus. The performance will include two world premieres: Sonata for Oboe and Piano (written in 1982) and "Straight Up," for saxophone and piano (also written in 1982).

Featured in the program will be several members of the Westminster Conservatory faculty, including Maria Bisaccia, guitarist, Janice Holms, flutist, George Jones, clarinetist, and Amy Wolfe, flutist. Other performers will be Holly Blake, bassoonist, Melissa Bohl, oboist, Mack Goldbury, saxophonist and Karen Sanford, soprano. Mr. Altman will appear as pianist for the concert.

The second of the concerts will take place on Saturday, April 7 at 8:30 p.m. in the Playhouse and will feature vocal compositions by Mr. Altman. Receiving its world premiere that night will be an operetta called "Vanuk, Vanuk," performed by members of the Westminster Choir. Songs by Mr. Altman will be sung by Sharon Alexander, soprano.

Although best known for his jazz compositions and improvisation, Laurie Altman has had formal training in the classical idiom as well. He studied composition at Mannes School of Music, where he worked with Peter Pindar Stearns and William Sydeman. Tickets for both recitals in the series will be available in advance at the Westminster Conservatory Office, or at the door the night of the concert. Admission will be $3, or $2 for students and senior citizens. The concerts are partially funded by the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission and the New Jersey State Council on the Arts.

PIANIST IS SOLOIST

With N.J. Symphony. Pianist Ruth Laredo will be soloist with the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra in the Piano Concerto of American composer Samuel Barber Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at the Trenton War Memorial.

George Manahan, associate conductor, will also lead the orchestra in Le Corsaire Overture of Berlioz and Brahms' Symphony No. 2 in D Major.

Ruth Laredo

The Barber Piano Concerto was first performed by John Browning at the opening concert of Philharmonic Hall (now Avery Fisher Hall) at Lincoln Center in 1962, and the following year Mr. Barber was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in Music for the work. Miss Laredo, a personal friend of the late composer, won a Grammy Award nomination last year for her recording of solo works by Barber. She will give her first performances of the Concerto with the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra.

Since her debut with the New York Philharmonic, after which the New York Times called her "the present generation's first truly major American woman pianist," Miss Laredo has performed all over the world. Her career has included a broad repertoire and equal success as an orchestra soloist, recitalist, recording artist and chamber musician.

Tickets are available at $16.50, $13.50, $11.50 and $9.50, with student and senior citizen rush tickets available one hour before performance at $6.50. Tickets may be purchased at the door, or in advance from the New Jersey Symphony box office, (201) 624-8203, or toll-free in New Jersey, (800) 631-3407.

MEMBERS SOUGHT

By Trenton Choral Group. The Greater Trenton Choral Society, the reorganized Mercer County Chorale, will hold auditions for new members on Monday evenings Jan. 9, 16, 23 and 30, at 7:45 at the War Memorial building in Trenton where the group has its rehearsals.

Funded in part by a grant from the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission, the reorganized society of veteran performers has completed a successful fall season under the direction of Doug Keilitz. The Messa di Gloria by Puccini was performed on December 13. With a new name, a new director and a new manager, the group is now in quest of new members.

The spring offerings by the Society include the Bach Cantata No. 191, the Mozart Requiem, a pops concert and an encore of the Puccini mass.

SPECIAL CALLERS SET

By Country Dancers. The Princeton Country Dancers will sponsor a contra dance Thursday evening featuring caller Cammy Kaynor from Connecticut.

With him will be musicians Nick Hawes on banjo and mandolin and Van Kaynor on fiddle. Pick-up band musicians are welcome to join them. The dance begins at 8:30 at St. Paul's School, Nassau Street.

On Saturday, the Country Dancers will feature Brad Foster, also from the New England area. This dance will be held at the Harlingen Reformed Church, Route 206 and Harlingen Road. An afternoon dance, featuring traditional English dances, will begin at 2:30 and end at 5:30.

From 5:30 to 7:30 there will be a covered dish potluck supper, but participants are asked not to bring food that needs to be heated. The evening session from 7:30 to 10:30 will feature contra dances. Mr. Foster will play the accordian while he calls.

Accompanying him will be Laurie Andres on accordian and piano and Ruthie Dornfeld on fiddle. Previous experience is not necessary, and interested persons are welcome with or without a partner. For further information call Trish at 359-4848.

CLARINETIST DUE

In McCarter Series. Clarinetist Richard Stoltzman, an Avery Fisher Prize winner, will make his Princeton recital debut on the Music-at-McCarter series on Tuesday, January 31, at 8. All seats for the concert have been sold, but standing room is available from the McCarter Theatre box office.

Mr. Stoltzman will be accompanied by pianist Irma Vallecillo. He will open his program with Bach's Chromatic Fantasy in D Minor, followed by the Reger Sonata for Clarinet and Piano

Murray Perahia Gives Absorbing Performance Of Beethoven, Chopin, Schumann Piano Works

For the third event in its 1983-84 season, Music-at-McCarter presented the widely-acclaimed pianist, Murray Perahia. In this performance, Perahia played Beethoven's Sonata No. 7 in D Major (Op. 10, No. 3); Barcarolle in F sharp (Op. 60), Berceuse in D flat (Op. 57), and Fantasy in F minor (Op. 49), all by Chopin; and Schumann's Fantasia in C (Op. 17).

Although best known for his performances of Mozart's sonatas and concertos, Perahia seemed very much at home with the Beethoven sonata. The technical and musical difficulties of this forward-looking work were of little consequence to the pianist. His control of phrasing and dynamics and his great facility with the work's cascading broken sixths made the performance of this piece one of exquisite beauty. Throughout the slow, serene second movement and the rather disjointed fourth, his sense of inner continuity made the work both sublime and thoroughly comprehensible.

Of the three works by Chopin, the Barcarolle and the Berceuse were by far the best played. The pianist's intuition for the natural flow of these delicate pieces gave them a magical quality fed by the composer's musical imagery. The double trills and runs in parallel thirds in the Barcarolle had a fluidity which defies description. With the hypnotic Berceuse, Perahia struck a perfect balance between the virtuosic variations of the work's simple melody and the incessant ostinato in the left hand.

The most demanding works of the program, both from physical and musical standpoints, were the Fantasy by Chopin and the Fantasia by Schumann, the latter of which comprised the entire second half of the performance. These immense works are riddled with loud, fast-moving passages which necessitate both virtuosity and power.

While Perahia gave an absorbing performance in both cases, he needed to throw the full weight of his somewhat slight frame into the keys in order to gain the required power. As a result, the tone sounded forced, leading to some minor abrasions of the otherwise flawless textures of these works.

His sense of line and continuity fortunately did not suffer. It was surely to his advantage that the Schumann closed uncharacteristically with its slow movement, ending the program with the audience remembering his strongest virtues as a performer — his remarkably poetic touch and his controlled facility.

The fact that Perahia was clearly fatigued at the conclusion of the Schumann was indicative of his tremendous expenditure of energy. Despite repeated, enthusiastic curtain calls, Perahia declined the opportunity for an encore.

in B-Flat Major. He will also perform works by two contemporary composers written especially for him: Erata No. 2 by William McKinely, and Joan Tower's Fantasy. Following Poulenc's Clarinet Sonata, he will play Melodies by Theolonius Monk, for which he will be joined by bassist Eddie Gomez.

Standing room tickets are available for $7.50 from the McCarter box office, 452-5200, Monday through Saturday, noon-6.

AUDITIONS SET

For Children's Choir. Auditions are now being held for the Princeton Children's Choir, an opportunity for boys and girls ages 8 through 13 to sing and perform as part of a community choral ensemble.

For information and audition appointment please call the director, Cheryl Sabetta-Moya, at 924-8873. Class-rehearsals are held each Tuesday evening beginning January 24.

MUSICAL WORKSHOP SET

For Children. Suzanne H. Huntoon, author and performer of Joy Goodsong, will present a musical workshop on stress designed for children entitled "I Want to Be The Best I Can Be."

The workshop will be held Saturday, January 21, at 10 a.m. and Sunday, January 22, at 2 at the Art People Center, 102 Witherspoon Street. Admission is $3 for adults and $2 for children. Tickets will be available at performance time and at the box office beginning Wednesday, January 18. For reservations write TAT, PO Box 1441.

FOLK SHOWCASE DUE

At Nassau Inn. The Nassau Inn will present a Folk Showcase, featuring singers and instrumentalists from New Jersey and Philadelphia every Monday evening beginning January 16.

The Showcase, which will take place in the Tap Room, will be devoted to "acoustic" music — folk, blues, Irish, bluegrass and traditional music from other countries. It will afford performers a stage outlet, and will offer music lovers a relaxed atmosphere in which to have a drink and hear some songs. There will be no cover charge.

The Folk Showcase is being produced by Joan Ogden and Brad Hill, both of whom have been active in the folk music scene for several years.

Joan Ogden plays a variety of string instruments, including guitar, mandolin, bouzouki, autoharp and oud. She is also a singer and recently toured Europe with a folk troupe from New York.

Brad Hill plays several rhythm instruments, including bones, dumbek, guitar and the Irish bodhran. He recently spent several months doing ethnological field work in Eastern Europe, and has played and taught extensively in the Princeton area.

The two have been partners in many musical endeavors, including the making of a record on an independent label, and they expect to perform traditional Irish instrumental music as part of the Showcase.

The Folk Showcase will run from 8 p.m. to midnight every Monday night, beginning on the 16th. Musicians who are interested in obtaining information about playing may call (201) 297-4317.

ART

RICH PASTEL DRAWINGS

Work of Harvey Hammond. It's rare to find a good pastel drawing. The familiar chalks are so easy to use in a simple manner and so difficult to use properly that many people never get a chance to see the rich surfaces and clear, crisp tones that are characteristic of this medium.

The collection of black and white chalk drawings by Harvey H. Hammond, on display at the AT&T Corporate Education Gallery (nee Western Electric), demonstrates the clarity and richness that one always expects but rarely discovers. In most cases, these carefully developed figurative works have been so well resolved in terms of both concept and execution that they function, visually, in the manner of completely developed paintings.

Although Hammond works only in black and white, the included drawings are so deftly executed and so varied in tone that they are every bit as rich, possibly richer, than if they were in full color. Contrasts created by sharp white highlights and velvety, deep dark tones intensify a wide range of middle values. Dozens of greys, ranging from delicate tints to robust, deep tones demonstrate the surprisingly varied "color" effects possible within the limits of black and white.

Each drawing work is an elegant statement. The subjects are varied. Musicians and dancers, children at play and portraits — all traditional forms — appear fresh and, at times, evocative as well. And, although there is a photoreal quality to Hammond's style, there is a depth here that goes beyond the limits of realism, a combination of well designed and, especially, well executed imagery.

Hammond's drawings are on display with the work of Thomas Malloy — an exhibition in honor of the late Dr. Martin Luther King. Malloy's work is traditional, with a romantic cast. The softly executed watercolors offer pleasant contrast with the technical precision of Hammond's drawings.

Mostly architectural scenes of Trenton, old factories and streetscapes, the paintings are rendered in naturalistic color applied as clear wash. Exhibited works include views of such nearby urban landmarks as an old Trenton foundry, relics of port Trenton, the East State Street overpass, industrial memories and an occasional rural landscape, as well.

Abstractions at ETS. Robin Gary Wood's Freedom Series is aptly named. Looking at the collection of expressive abstractions that are on exhibit at the Henry Chauncey Conference Center at ETS is an aesthetically liberating experience. Nearly one dozen paintings, including some that are imposingly large and several that are quite modest in scale, join to form an impressive and dynamic display — one in which color and surface are constantly working together to produce an unusual quantity of easily absorbed artistic energy.

To begin with, there is a strong sense of visual drama. The entire gallery space seems to be filled with the effects of vigorous movement and intense color. Even the smallest of the paintings are incredibly powerful — a relatively easy achievement in large works, but no small accomplishment when an artist works within the expressive limits of a few square

News of Clubs and Organizations

TELETHON SET FOR SUPER SUNDAY: Rhona Porter and Alvin Gordon brush up on their telephone techniques in preparation for the United Jewish Appeal's 1984 fund raising telethon which will be held on Sunday, January 22, from 10 to 1. UJA meets humanitarian needs by supporting hospitals, schools, family services and homes for the aged among the people of Israel and in Jewish communities throughout the world. Many volunteers from the community will participate in the telephone drive.

The Mercer Alliance for the Mentally Ill (Mercer AMI), a support advocacy group for families with mentally ill relatives, will meet Monday at 7:30 at 145 Witherspoon Street, headquarters of the Association for Advancement of Mental Health (AAMH). Sheila Albert, director of development for AAMH, will discuss services that the agency offers to the mentally ill and the area that it serves.

Mercer AMI, composed of volunteers, offers relatives of the mentally ill a caring, confidential atmosphere in which to deal with problems that are overwhelming if faced alone. In addition, the organization hopes to improve the quality of life of their afflicted relatives. The primary goals are to explore the possibilities of permanent supervised housing, increase job opportunities and to support legislation to improve programs and research.

Interested persons are invited to the meetings, held on the first and third Mondays of the month, to share ideas, experiences and information and learn how to use federal, state and local programs which help the mentally ill.

The Better Hearing Society of Central New Jersey, an organization for hard of hearing adults, will meet on Monday in the library of the Merwick Unit of Princeton Medical Center, 79 Bayard Lane. Jean Metzger, director of communications disorders, will speak on the "Rights of the Hard of Hearing."

Hard of hearing adults are invited to become better informed about assistive devices and ways of coping. For information call 882-7966.

The Princeton Chapter of the National Association of Accountants will meet for dinner Wednesday, January 18, at Good Time Charley's Restaurant in Kingston. Fred D. Shapiro, audit manager of Arthur Anderson & Co., one of the "big eight" CPA firms, will speak on "No More Deferred Taxes."

The meeting, which begins at 5:30, will be preceded by a social hour starting at 4:30. Guests are welcome. For information and reservatios, call Glenn Savarese at (201) 464-8100, ext. 2304.

The American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) will meet Thursday, January 19, at 2 in the Assembly Room of Nassau Presbyterian Church. The Honorable Joseph H. Rodgriguez, N. J. State Public Advocate and Public Defender, will speak on "The Role of the Public Advocate as it Relates to the Interests of Retired Persons and Senior Citizens."

Guests are invited and refreshments will be served.

The Princeton branch of the National League of American Pen Women will meet Saturday at 10 at the Mary Jacobs Library, Route 518, Rocky Hill.

Charles McVicker, an artist and illustrator who switches from fine to commercial art and back again, will speak on "The Business of Art and the Art of Business." Mr. McVicker, a Princeton resident, is a professor at Pratt in New York City whose paintings are in the permanent collection of the White House, the U.S. Capitol and Princeton University, among other places. As an illustrator his clients include the Franklin Mint, AT&T, Hertz, Ted Bates, Random House and magazines such as Good Housekeeping, Family Circle and the Saturday Evening Post.

For further information about Pen Women, call president Lee Stang Harr at 655-2908.

The Dogwood Garden Club will meet Thursday for lunch at the home of Mrs. Alan Lavine, 415 Terhune Road. Mrs. William Aiken will be the co-hostess. Till Miller, "the Plant Lady" of Princeton, will give a talk entitled "Communicate with Plants."

The Soroptimist International will meet Wednesday, January 17, for dinner at the Nassau Inn.

Eileen McCall, a vice president of the United Jersey Banks in the Commercial Banking Department, will speak on "Banking and the Professional Woman." Diane Barcellona of the bank's Marketing Department will be on hand to answer questions.

The Women's College Club will meet Monday at 1:30 at All Saints' Church, Terhune and All Saints' Roads. Joyce Carol Oates, a leading American novelist and Princeton resident, will be the guest speaker.

Miss Oates, a prolific writer in several genres, was the winner of the National Book Award for fiction in 1970. She teaches in the Creative Writing Program at Princeton University and with her husband Raymond Smith publishes the Ontario Review and directs the Ontario Review Press which they founded.

Regional Jewish Singles, a newly formed group for singles ages 27-49 in Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth and Somerset Counties, will hold its first dance on Sunday, January 22, from 8 to 12:15 at the Flagpost Inn, Route 1, New Brunswick.

Tickets are $6 for continuous dance music, door prizes and hors d'oeuvres. For information call 882-5102, or write Box 7742, West Trenton 08628.

The Central Jersey Parkinson Support Group will meet this Wednesday at 2 at the St. Lawrence Rehabilitation Center, Route 206, Lawrenceville Road.

Pamela A. Moore, director of occupational therapy at St. Lawrence, will speak on the problems of day-to-day living for the Parkinsonian. All interested persons are welcome.

The Princeton Chapter of the ACM/IEEE will meet Thursday at 8 in the convocation room of the Princeton University Engineering Quadrangle. Norman Agin will speak on "Integrated Systems for Decision Support Data Processing," discussing decision support systems as implemented on micro computers.

The Woman's Club will meet on Thursday, January 19, at 1 at All Saints' Church, Terhune and All Saints' Roads.

Anna Lincoln, author of "Escape to China" and a Princeton resident, will be the speaker. The book describes Mrs. Lincoln's flight from Poland with her family to China where they lived from 1941 to 1948. Mrs. Lincoln is at work on a new book, "China the Beautiful," for which she recently made a trip to that country.

Hostesses for the meeting are Irma Aandahl, chairman, and Judy Soons, decorations chairman. For information on membership or club activities call 921-7573 or 799-8979.

The West Windsor Lions Club will meet Wednesday, January 18, at 7 for dinner in the American Legion Hall in Penns Neck. Bus Saidl, a sports writer for The Trenton Times, will be the speaker. For information call Ted Begun at 799-2194.

feet. And, although all of the paintings employ a common stylistic vocabulary, the collection is characterized by subtle but important variations that make each work a unique visual statement.

At first glance, these powerful paintings appear simple in concept. All employ a common structural syntax. Each is, essentially, an expanded linear statement – a form of exploded contemporary calligraphy that fills the rectangular surfaces with visually active, dense black forms creating a collection of gigantic filigrees of seemingly random masses and movements.

The random impression is deceptive, however. A close look reveals that these apparently casual movements are in no way accidental. Instead, they are actually complex constructions: intricate arrangements of volumes and series of energetic spatial relationships created using the artistic vocabulary of the abstract expressionist. An important visual substructure is created using bright spatters, vigorous brushwork and small but important passages of intense color.

The artist's presence is strong in this collection. This is partly a result of the intimacy created by the dynamic style and partly because these are thoughtful, intelligent paintings; paintings in which decisions involving spatial balances, surface effects and the impact of the various contrasts work both clearly and well.

REGISTER NOW

For PAA Classes. Registration ends this Friday for the winter session of classes and workshops given by the Princeton Art Association.

Classes are offered for children as young as four through high school age and adult levels. Four-year-olds, for example, are encouraged to express their reactions to multi-media experiences through painting, drawing, collage and sculpture.

Adults may sign up for First Steps in Art, Beginning Watercolor, Basic Painting, Fundamentals of Drawing or Beginning Etching. Levels of skill continue on to courses for the most advanced, including Advertising Graphics and a Life Workshop.

Details are available from PAA studios, Rosedale Road, 921-9173 or 921-9177.

DRAWINGS FOR 'AIDA'

In Choir College Exhibit. Drawings and sketches of costumes and scenery for Verdi's "Aida" going back to the 1871 premiere of the opera in Egypt, are now on view in Talbott Library of Westminster Choir College.

The exhibit, "Images for Aida," is open to the public without charge and will remain through February. Information about library hours is available by calling 921-7826.

Most of the color drawings are being shown to the public for the first time since their recent discovery. The earliest drawings are by the archaeologist August Mariette, who had been hired by the Egyptian Viceroy to create the visual part of an opera based on the history of Egypt. Verdi was commissioned to write the opera.

Later sketches by other artists reflect the styles of the artist's own time, rather than those of ancient Egypt; for example, Max Ree's highly-stylized d ings for scenery are characteristic of the art deco period.

Exhibition catalogues are on sale at the main circulation desk of the library.

LITHOGRAPHS AND MORE

By Barnett Newman. An exhibition of the 43 lithographs, etchings and aquatints by the late Barnett Newman will be on view at the Art Museum, Princeton University from January 19 through March 25. The museum is open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 to 4 and Sundays from 1 to 5.

The artist is widely known for his large monochromatic paintings divided by a "zip," or vertical band, painted in the late 1940s and early 1950s. His first prints, made in 1961, were three untitled black lithographs. In the third, he presented two abutted vertical rectangular panels, one solid black, the other grey, symbolizing the duality characterizing his work in all media – smooth-rough, spontaneous-calculated, sensual-cerebral.

EXHIBITS

Princeton artists Jim Colavita and Mary Peck are among the 19 professionals who will be represented in the Visual Arts Faculty Exhibit at Mercer County Community College (library, West Windsor campus) from this Thursday through January 27. Information on exhibit hours may be obtained by calling 586-4800, ext. 588.

Paintings by Robin Gary Wood are now on view at the Henry Chauncey Conference Center on the Educational Testing Service campus. The show includes 20 specially selected large abstract paintings from the artist's "Freedom Series." The display will remain until February 14. Hours are 9 a.m. to 11 p.m.

AN ORDINANCE CONCERNING THE LICENSING AND CONTROL OF DOGS AND AMENDING THE "CODE OF THE BOROUGH OF PRINCETON, NEW JERSEY, 1974."

BE IT ORDAINED by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of Princeton:

1. Section 8-2 of the "Code of the Borough of Princeton, New Jersey, 1974," which concerns the licensing and control of individual dogs, is amended to read as follows:

Sec. 8-2. License for individual dogs.

(a). Every person owning or harboring a dog within the borough shall, during the month of January of each year, apply to the borough clerk for a license and affixed metal registration tag for each dog so owned or harbored, whereupon, after payment of the fee hereinafter set forth, the borough clerk shall issue to such person, a license together with an official tag which shall be fastened to the collar of such animal. In the event of a dog being acquired after January of each year a license and tag shall be obtained as prescribed within ten days from the date of acquiring the dog. The fee for each license shall be seven dollars, and the fee for each registration tag shall be one dollar. Licenses and registration tags shall expire on January 31 of the succeeding year. If application shall not be made within the time limit set forth hereinabove, there shall also be a late charge of one dollar for each month or fraction of month which shall have elapsed between the time so limited and the making of the application.

(b) In addition to the license fee referred to in paragraph (a) above, an additional fee of three dollars shall be paid by any person applying for the license with respect to any dog of reproductive age which has not had its reproductive capacity permanently altered through sterilization. Any person claiming to be exempt from such fee shall provide a copy of a veterinarian's certificate of neutering. Such fee shall be collected, where applicable, with respect to licenses applied for on and after August 2, 1983.

(c) In addition to the license fee referred to in paragraphs (a) and (b) above, a surcharge of twenty cents shall be paid by any person applying for a license on and after August 2, 1984.

(d) Fees collected pursuant to paragraphs (b) and (c) above shall be forwarded to the state treasurer in accordance with law.

(e) The license and surcharge fees mentioned in this section shall not apply to dogs kept within a duly licensed kennel.

2. This ordinance shall take effect upon its passage and publication, as provided for by law.

Notice To All Dog Owners!

All dogs, 6 months of age or older, kept within the Borough of Princeton are required to be licensed. Dog licenses must be obtained by January 31st. Owners of unlicensed dogs after that date will be subject to the penalty of $1.00 per month or fraction thereof for each month the license is not obtained as provided by Boro ordinances. Dog licenses may be purchased in person at the Borough Clerk's Office or by mailing the attached application with proof of rabies vaccination for each dog (rabies must be valid for 6 months at time of issuance of license) and a check or money order made payable to the Borough of Princeton to:

Penelope S. Carter, Borough Clerk
Boro of Prn, Boro Hall, Monument Dr.

Losses to Harvard and Dartmouth Put Tigers Behind Early in Race for Ivy Basketball Title

The Princeton basketball team returned from New England early Sunday morning, having written a new script for "The Lost Weekend." And if Pete Carril now takes to the bottle, no one can blame him.

Playing a tight and uncertain style of basketball at best, the Tigers lost to both Harvard and Dartmouth back to back for the first time since the Cappy Cappon era almost three decades ago. They never led in Cambridge, falling 49-47; in Hanover, the home team squeezed out a 47-46 triumph in double overtime.

Lest anyone get the idea the two New England teams are the class of the league, an average Penn team defeated them both to break on top in the Ivy title race. Princeton is squarely in the cellar at 0-2.

Chances of the Orange and Black rebounding with a successful defense of its league crown appear to be highly improbable at the moment, but it's much too soon to count anybody out. It's doubtful a dominant team will emerge as the season progresses.

After a Tuesday night game with Hartford (see first section for details), Princeton has a two-week exam break to regroup. The next league game will not come until Saturday, January 28 against Penn.

That should give Dr. Carril plenty of time to attempt to cure his players' ailments: inconsistent shooting from the outside, trouble getting the ball inside, lack of rebounding, far too many personal fouls, and overall inability to take charge of a game up for grabs. No one is playing well at this point.

Carril may not be able to come up with the right formula to make champions out of this team, but the Tigers still should be able to win their share of games, especially at home. It should be an interesting race.

Disaster at Dartmouth. Of the two losses, the one at Hanover Saturday night had to hurt the most. Princeton had a chance to win it at the end of the first overtime, but could not get off a decent shot.

Regulation time ended with the teams tied at 36 apiece, after Dartmouth had held the ball for the last three minutes, waiting for one shot. The Tigers held two-point leads three times in the first overtime, but each time the Big Green tied it up.

Carril then decided to hold for one shot, and took three consecutive time outs with 15 seconds left to set up the play. John Smyth, who led all scorers, with 19 points, took it, but the ball bounced off the rim, and a frantic tip by Billy Ryan missed also, leaving the teams tied at 42.

It was Dartmouth's turn in the second overtime; Smyth missed two more jumpers and two sophomores, John Kilroy and Scott Schroeder, hit on four straight foul shots for a 46-42 lead. Howie Levy narrowed the gap to two, with a tip-in of a shot by Joe Scott with 53 seconds left, but Dartmouth had the ball and ran 44 seconds off the clock before Kilroy was fouled. He sank one of two for the eventual margin of victory, Smyth's lay-up in the final seconds making it 47-46.

During the first 40 minutes of play, first year coach Reggie Minton had his players match Princeton's patience in shot selection; the Big Green shot only 26 times from the field. However, for the second consecutive night, the Tigers gave up a big edge at the foul line. The Tigers canned just four of eight, while the home team sank 15 of 19.

The two teams were never more than six points apart. Princeton led early in the first half by that margin, but had to settle for a 22-20 advantage at the intermission. Dartmouth ran off six points for a 32-28 advantage in the second half, before the Orange and Black tied it at 34 all.

Kevin Mullen continued in his recent slump, hitting just three baskets in eight attempts. Levy was six of seven for 14 points; no one else was a factor. Smyth did manage 19, but he needed 20 shots to do it. Both Aaron Belz and Ryan fouled out.

Hopeless at Harvard. The previous night the Tigers looked like anything but defending

ONE FOR WALLY: Sprawled on his back Princeton's Wally McDonough made this third period save against Boston University Saturday night, while freshman defenseman Scott Howe (18) stood guard. champions in the loss to Harvard. For 37 of the 40 minutes of play they were barely able to hang in the ball game, and their frantic rally in the final three minutes fell one basket short.

Carril, who owns a 28-2 lifetime mark against the Crimson, saw his team fall in a hole from the opening tipoff and never climb out. Joe Carrabino hit his first four shots, and the home team was off and running.

Meanwhile, the Orange and Black could not connect from the outside (7 of 23 from the field in the first half), and could not get the ball to Levy inside. Levy picked up three fouls in short order, battling the 6-8 Carrabino and 6-7 Ken Plutnicki for rebounds.

Given this edge, the Cantabs slowly pulled away to a 21-14 halftime advantage. Throughout most of the second half, their margin swung between five and 10 points, as the Tigers could not mount a sustained rally.

Princeton was its own worst enemy, committing one foul after another. Harvard's junior guard Bob Ferry, the nation's leading free throw shooter, hit 11 straight, before missing near the end. Overall the winners enjoyed an incredible 20-2 advantage in foul shot conversions.

With all its problems, Princeton still stood a chance of pulling out a victory in the final minutes. Leading 49-40 with less than three minutes to play, Harvard finally got a little careless, and allowed the Tigers to score six straight points, the last two coming on a steal and lay-up by Isaac Carter.

The teams traded quick baskets, to make it 51-48, and then freshman Joe Scott stole the ball at midcourt with less than a minute to go and drove for the basket, banging into Ferry on the way. He was charged with an offensive foul, putting Ferry on the line. He missed his first of the season with 16 seconds to go, and a lay-up by Levy brought the Tigers to within one, 51-50.

Carril had the smarts to call a time out even though the Tigers had none left. The team was hit with a two-shot technical, but Ferry could only hit one of them, giving Harvard a two-point advantage. It then threw the ball away on the inbounds pass, giving the Tigers a last desperation chance at a tie with three seconds left. Carter's toss from midcourt missed, but without the illegal time out, Princeton would not have had this chance.

To his credit, Levy rebounded from a poor first half, and kept the Tigers in the game in the second. He scored 13 points, playing a good part of the way with four personals. Smyth finished with 12.

For Tiger Hockey Team. In past years, the two and a half week break for exams has not always been beneficial for the Princeton hockey team.

At this point in time, however, it's probably the best possible occurrence for coach Jim Higgins' skaters. Just about a month ago, they walloped Yale 9-4 for their second consecutive Ivy victory, and stood 2-2-1 overall.

Eight games and eight straight losses later, they are 2-10-1, and it's definitely time to call time out and regroup. The latest two losses came by the identical score of 5-2 against Clarkson Thursday night and Boston University Saturday night in nearly identical contests.

Feeling the loss of veteran defenseman Rob Scheuer, the defense has been shaky, while the offense has been unable to generate any kind of sustained attack. The Tigers were outshot by wide margins both times.

Just clearing the puck out of its own zone into center ice has become a problem for Princeton, thus subjecting goalie Wally McDonough to constant pressure. As a result he has not looked as sharp as he did at the outset of the season.

To make matters worse, Ed Lee, the team's leading player in point production, is also near the top in penalty minutes. Lee precipitated a major fight in the second period of Saturday's game when he pursued BU's Dale Dunbar to the team bench and started to pummel him from behind. Dunbar had elbowed Lee a few seconds before behind the Princeton goal.

Lee and Dunbar were ejected for fighting, so his considerable talents were lost to the Tigers not only for almost half of that contest, but under college hockey rules, the next game as well. That will be against Brown, Friday, January 27, and will mark the third game Lee has missed for disciplinary reasons.

CUSTOMERS WHO COULD AFFORD HIGHER PRICED LUXURY CARS ARE ROLLING IN IT.

Many people who find high priced European sedans well within their means, find the Volvo 760 GLE more to their liking.

And for good reason.

Inside, a climate control system completely changes the air five times a minute—even when the car's standing still. And for even more comfort, electrically heated, orthopedic calfs designed front seats put your back at ease.

On the underside, a unique rear suspension system keeps the drive wheels in constant alignment. Which helps keep the car on the road in wet or slippery conditions.

And on the topside, there's an electric sunroof.

In all, the 760 GLE is the finest, most comfortable Volvo ever built.

So before you spend a small fortune on a prestigious European sedan, come in and test drive a gas engine or Turbo Diesel* Volvo 760 GLE. In addition to superior comfort and handling on the road, you'll find a lot less to handle in another important area. Price.

"The Lost Weekend"

On a weekend when the Princeton basketball team became the first since 1957-58 to lose consecutive games to Harvard and Dartmouth, other things went wrong as well for Princeton fans trying to listen to them on radio.

Neither radio station carrying the games, WPRB or WBUD, got on the air before halftime Friday night, because of transmission problems from Harvard's Briggs Athletic Center.

On Saturday, few people including the Princeton Athletic Department, were aware that Dartmouth had scheduled the start of its game for 6:30, instead of the more normal 7:30. The Big Green had a home hockey game starting at that time.

Of course, it could easily be argued that Tiger fans didn't miss much anyway.

Sports in Princeton

Terriers Take Charge. One team or the other often is aroused enough after a major brawl to take command in a close game, and in this case Boston University certainly gained the momentum.

The score had been tied at two apiece when the stoppage of play occurred, but it was 4-2 in favor of the visitors by the end of the second period. Both teams were skating three men a side, when Scott Shaunessy went the length of the ice, and fired the puck between McDonough's pads from 25 feet away.

A silly cross-checking penalty on Scott Howe cost the Tigers another goal with just four seconds left in the period. BU's Kevin Mulch tallied from just in front of the net on this power play opporunity.

Neither team scored in the third period, until McDonough was lifted in favor of a sixth skater near the end. Mulch hit the empty net with 10 seconds remaining.

A goal by Bill Brady, assisted by Tim Oshier and Howe, gave the Orange and Black a 1-0 lead about nine minutes into the game. That held up throughout the first period, and almost eight minutes into the second before BU tied it up.

The visitors took a 2-1 lead just nine seconds later, but Steve Biss brought the Tigers even at 10:59, assisted by Dan Titus and Jaime McPherson. Skating five on four, Princeton scored when McPherson's slap shot was tipped first by Titus and then by Biss past the BU goalie.

McDonough made 30 saves, while Cleon Daskalakskis stopped 17 for Boston University.

Clarkson Coasts. The Golden Knights have now beaten the Tigers eight consecutive times, and never did the one-sided series look more lopsided than last Thursday night.

Clarkson has been struggling a bit this season, needing the victory over Princeton to push it over the 500 mark at 8-7-1, 4-3 in ECAC competition. However it had no trouble dominating the Orange and Black.

Princeton's offense managed only eighteen shots on opposing goalie Jamie Falle, while the visitors fired 35 at McDonough. Rarely were the Tigers able to put any pressure on the Clarkson defense with a concerted attack. Poor passing by the Bengals, and excellent forechecking by the Golden Knights broke up most of Princeton's rushes in the center zone.

One of Princeton's two goals gave it a short lived lead in the first period. Brodeur fed Lee at the left face-off circle, and he whipped a shot along the ice into the corner for a 1-0 lead at the eight minute mark. Steve MacDonald also got an assist.

Clarkson tied it at 17:58, after the Tigers had wasted three power play opportunities, getting off only one shot with the extra skater. The Tigers took only five shots in the first 20 minutes.

The teams traded goals in the first half of the second period, Clarkson scoring at 5:58, and Danni Titus bringing the Tigers even at 8:46. This time, Princeton took advantage of another power play as Scott Howe made a perfect pass to Titus, skating toward the goal.

It was lights out for the Tigers from that point on. The visitors regained the lead less than two minutes later when Gord Sharpe carried the puck the length of the ice and slipped between two Princeton defenders. McDonough stopped his shot, but Michael Harvey was there to ram home the rebound from point-blank range.

An insurance goal at 14:34 gave the winners a 4-2 lead, and they added one more into an empty net in the third, after McDonough had been pulled. Held scorless for the final 20 minutes, the Tigers did manage to double their shot total from the previous two periods, getting off nine.

PHS FIVE SPLITS

Notre Dame Here Friday. Princeton High basketball coach Marvin Trotman had viewed his team's participation in the Blue Devil Classic over the Christmas holiday as a good opportunity to pick up some needed experience. And it was.

PHS played well, Trotman said, in losing to two good teams — Pennsbury, the eventual tournament champion, and Simon Gratz High out of Philadelphia. "We did some things we wanted to do offensively and defensively," said Trotman.

Unfortunately, whatever lessons the Little Tigers may have learned in the tourney were forgotten in their very next start when they fell apart in the final period to lose a game they appeared to have won, 51-43. Three nights later, following a team meeting after the Nottingham loss, PHS regrouped and sent Hopewell Valley to its eighth consecutive loss, 52-23.

"One of the good things about that (the win over Hopewell) is that we played a real fine game, even though they are a poor team," said Trotman. "We executed well."

Because Hopewell is struggling this year under new coach Lenny Carmichael — it won its first the next evening when it edged Montgomery, 39-35 — Trotman had a chance to use his entire squad. Nine players scored for PHS as the Little Tigers jumped to a 12-5 lead after the first eight minutes of play and went on to hold the Bulldogs to under double digits in all three remaining periods.

Keith Green led the PHS attack with 14 points while 6-7 senior Jon Davidson contributed nine — his top effort of the season. John Lysaker added eight — his best so far — while Marv Trotman Jr., Frantz Massenat, Darryl Hemmingway and Jason Petrone added four each.

The only sour note was an ankle injury to Trotman, who had poured in 40 points in Princeton's first three games. He is expected to miss at least the next two games.

The unexpected defeat at the hands of Nottingham was hard to take, although as Trotman pointed out, in the Colonial Valley Conference's "magic formula," the game doesn't count in the CVC league standings. None of the league games played by any team start "counting" until next week.

"We had nothing at all against their press," said Trotman. "There was too much individualism, no team concept.

"When we had them 18-9 in the first period, we figured they were going to lie down. But we were the ones who lay down; we took them for granted."

Nottingham's jubilant coach Charlie Moore agreed. "We hurt them in the fourth period with a full court press. I told the boys, good things come to those who work hard ... and we've worked hard." For Nottingham, winner of only one game all last season, it was their first CVC victory ever (this is the North Stars second year in competition) and its second win of the season.

"We're real pleased to be able to beat a team like Princeton, commented Moore after the game. "This is a real credit to our program."

PHS led 34-30 before the start of the disastrous final period. Freddie Young and Green paced PHS with 13 points each and Trotman added six. Nottingham was led by Mark Young who had a game-high 15 points and by Brian Greene who tallied all six of his points in the final period when Nottingham stole the game from PHS.

Trotman should benefit in future years from this year's freshman team, which won its third in a row this week without a loss when it overwhelmed Hopewell Valley, 79-28. Coach Ed Beacham's team led 27-2 after the first period and were led by the shooting of Mike Riddick, 18 points, Tim Rumer, 16, and David Gross, 16.

PHS GIRLS THWARTED

In Second Court Win. That second win of the season was denied the Princeton High School girls basketball team twice last week as the Little Tigers bowed to Hopewell Valley, 64-34, on Friday and to Nottingham, 57-47, earlier in the week. The two setbacks left PHS with a 1-4 record.

This week Coach Joyce Jones's squad will be at Notre Dame Friday at 3:45 and entertain Hightstown Tuesday at the same time.

Hopewell had too much offense for PHS, as the Bulldogs outscored the Little Tigers in every period. Chris Turner led the 4-3 victors with 16 points while Paige Walden tossed in 14 and Monica Greenland 12 to account for most of Princeton's points.

For three periods, PHS was very much in the game with visiting Nottingham. Paced by the shooting of Waldren (20 points) and Greenland (15 points) again, PHS grabbed a 10-4 lead after the first period and still led 22-20 at intermission. Both teams connected for 14 points in the third period.

It all evaporated in the fourth period when the North Stars outscored PHS, 23-10. "We played three good quarters but lost our composure in the fourth," said Jones.

The visitors' Chris Hahn who finished with 19 points and Vicky Harris (14) combined for 17 points in the final period to trigger Nottingham's winning rally. The win was the North Stars' sixth straight without a loss.

ONE OF THOSE GAMES

Hun Fails Ewing Test. The Hun School basketball team had been pointing to it for days but the meeting between Ewing and Hun Monday afternoon turned out to be just one of those games.

One of those games in which nothing seemed to go right for Hun, one of those games in which Ewing's Tom Berry shows why he is considered to be the premier player in the area this season. With Berry tossing in 25 points to trigger a Ewing offense that carried the Blue Devils to a 33-17 halftime lead, Ewing handled Hun 76-53. The margin was a lot more than the Hun team, which had won eight of its first ten games, had expected.

There will be no time to reflect, however. Hun will begin a three-game home stand this Wednesday afternoon at 3:45 against prep rival Lawrenceville School and then take on another big public school when it entertains Steinert Saturday at 8. Next Wednesday it will host Delbarton.

Against Ewing, Hun never got its offense in gear. Said Berry after the game, "We wanted to come out and jump on them with some tough defense." The Blue Devils' game plan worked to a "T" as in "total," as Ewing held Hun to just seven points in the second period, 17 in the half.

Ewing, meanwhile, was erupting for 23 first-period points — 14 by Berry. By the end of three periods, the Blue Devils had a 25-point lead and the game in their hip pocket.

"We just weren't ready to play," commented Hun coach Tom Hendrickson after subs from both teams had completed the fourth quarter. "It's always tough," he observed, "playing against a player of Berry's caliber. He is a super player."

"It was just one of those days for us and one of those days for Hun," summed up Ewing mentor Emil Wandishin. The win was Ewing's seventh against two setbacks.

Ted Bransfield and John McDonough were the top scorers for Hun, combining for 33 points, Bransfield hitting for 18. John Goeke was next with seven.

Pete Manning with 16 was the only Blue Devil player besides Berry in double figures.

The Ewing game was the fourth for Hun in the past seven days. The busy Raiders defeated Newark Academy, 58-33, here Friday afternoon; outlasted a stubborn Princeton Day School, 48-62, again last Wednesday; and the previous day led the area's top-ranked team, Trenton High, 55-52, at the start of the fourth period before finally bowing, 77-71 to the Tornadoes.

Jeff Kakur, who was an assistant to Hendrickson when Hendrickson was coach at NA Hun, felt the only way he could stop Hun was to slow the tempo of the play and wait for an opening under the basket. The Minutemen's deliberate style failed from the start as Hun quickly took an 8-0 lead and were ahead comfortably, 34-9, at halftime.

"When it was evident we would win, we didn't do anything to try to embarrass our opponent," said Hendrickson, who kept out his starters for most of the second half. "To get into a run and gun with Hun would have been even more suicidal," said Kakur later in defending his slowdown.

John Goeke, the former McCorristin standout, led Hun with 19 points, the only Raider in double figures. Hun connected on 44 percent of its shots (26 of 59) while Newark converted 12 of 33 attempts for 37 percent.

Panthers Tough. Princeton Day School which had carried Hun into two overtime periods before losing in the first round to Hun in the Pennington Tournament during the Christmas holiday period, was just as tough again last week.

After PDS had tied the game late in the third period, Hun entered the final eight minutes of play up by two and then broke the game open from the foul line where it opened a 10-point lead. The final score was Hun 68, PDS 62.

Seven points by Ted Bransfield in the final period helped Hun get a lock on the outcome. The 6-3 forward and former player from Pennsbury, finished with a game-high 18. John McDonough and Pat Marlatt added 11 each while Goeke and Terry Dearden contributed nine each to Hun's balanced attack. Senior guard Joe Mackin and his younger brother, junior Chris Mackin, each had five points. Jamie Zahner's 15 paced PDS.

THS Five Prevails. The highlight of the week had to be Hun's six-point loss to Trenton High, the area's top team. A measure of Hun's success against the Tornadoes came with 3:30 left to play when Trenton was forced to hold the ball and play a delaying game. Trenton prevailed when it managed to convert nine of ten free throws in those final minutes.

Actually, as was evident to all who watched the game in the Hun gym, it was two games. Hun won the first and third periods when it outscored Trenton, 19-14 and 25-15; Trenton won the second and fourth periods by 23-11 and 25-16 margins.

"It was like two different games," agreed Hendrickson.

Hun, which entered the contest ranked third behind THS and Morrisville, surprised the Tornadoes with a zone defense and bolted to a 19-8 lead. The cold-shooting Tornadoes caught fire in the second period, canning 11 of 19 shots to take a 37-30 lead into the locker room.

After Hun regained the lead in the period, Trenton scored the first four points of the final period to go on top, 56-55. Goeke followed with two foul shots to give Hun the lead again for the last time. Hun's last stab at an upset came with a little over a minute to play when Dearden followed Goeke's drive to the basket for a layup with a jumper to cut the visitors' lead to 73-69.

PHS MATMEN WIN

And Lose. The Princeton High School wrestling team won its first match of the season last week when it took the measure of winless Hopewell Valley High in a forfeit-shortened match, but then absorbed a twin drubbing in a tri-meet Saturday with Green Brook and Keyport.

The Little Tigers face a busy schedule this week, starting this Wednesday evening when they will entertain a strong Hightstown team at 8 p.m. Saturday afternoon at 1 it will host South Hunterdon and on Monday evening it will welcome Trenton High to the PHS gym.

As PHS coach Lee Merrill sees it, Princeton's best opportunity will be against South Hunterdon which he described as "moderately tough."

Not until the day before did Merrill find out that the dual meet with Green Brook at Green Brook High had been turned into a tri-meet which included powerful Keyport.

Against Green Brook, PHS lost the first ten matches, eight by falls and then won the last two by forfeit. The final tally was Green Brook 54, Princeton 11.

PHS was penalized a point by the referee in the 157-pound match, where Princeton's Dominic Tracey was pinned by Dave O'Keefe in 2:33. Tracey did not think he had been pinned, got up and yelled at the ref, reported Merrill. "I've heard of it (being penalized for arguing a referee's decision)" said Merrill, "but I had never seen it done before."

Against Keyport, which won the meet with a 33-20 victory over host Green Brook, PHS produced three pins.

Guillermo Orlanski pinned Jeff Elzer in 5:05 in their 147-pound match, Paul Johnson flattened Keyport's 19-pounder Jack Stinemire in 50 seconds and PHS heavyweight Tamer El-Shakhs needed only 40 seconds to dispose of his opponent.

The most exciting match occurred in the 187 battle between Brett Van de Bovenkamp of PHS and Keyport's Miguel Hernandez. With 30 seconds to go in the match, Van de Bovenkamp was leading Hernandez, who has statewide recognition, said Merrill, by a point. Hernandez was able to grab a 7-5 decision, however, when he was able to score three points in the closing seconds. "It was a very close match, the best of the meet," said Merrill.

"They were two strong teams," conceded Merrill, "but we didn't do that well. We had a couple of guys out but our light men just didn't do well at all."

Six Bouts Forfeited. Those who attended the match between Hopewell Valley and PHS earlier in the week should have paid only half the admission price, as six of the 12 bouts were forfeited — four by HV. PHS won four of the remaining six and the match, 49-18.

Hopewell took a short-lived 6-0 lead when the Bulldogs' Matt Sked pinned Princeton's Paul Crystal in 3:04 at 101 pounds. PHS got even when freshman Mike Lanes, wrestling in his first match, won by forfeit, and then took charge when Brad Schwartz also won by forfeit, Gabby Ondetti decisioned Tom Sincak, 12-4, and Evan Cohn pinned Hopewell's 134-pounder Bob Weasner in 3:25.

Princeton's other two wins on the mat came at 157 pounds where Tracey decisioned Tom Irwin, 6-4, and Van de Bovenkamp pinned Tom Weasner in 29 seconds at 187 pounds.

Princeton's fortunes in the lower weights were further patients and the public. Undergirding them are departments like Dietary and Housekeeping, also due for bigger quarters ... four cool, bright new Lambert House classrooms for the medical education of residents, physicians, nurses ... a Computer Room ...

Computers now provide print-outs at every nurses' station. Software was designed by the hospital's own people, Mr. Doody says, involving employees themselves in developing programs for the software they would be using.

"Instead of hiring a consultant," he explains, "we assigned a nurse in the Education area and various others to a team that designed the software and then instructed the staff. As a result, implementation went smooth as silk."

A new IBM has replaced a 1970 antique. Eventually, "everything" will be computerized, Mr. Doody says, and the hospital is particularly interested in what computers can do to cut down paper work.

John Gribbin, vice-president for planning and corporate development, has guided the renovation and remodeling, asking department staff for their ideas, blocking out a Master Plan and obtaining approval from the Board of Trustees. Nathaniel McKee, long-time clerk of the works for the hospital, was brought back from retirement and is once again bending over blueprints, working out what comes next. Architects are Ewing, Cole, Cherry, Parsky of Philadelphia.

The $2 million-plus cost of the renovation is being financed through a bond issue. For several years, hospitals have been allowed to go into the tax-exempt bond market, and the Medical Center, having financed the "J" building that way, has done so again for this renovation.

"Philanthropy and debt — the only ways to go," is Mr. Doody's observation. "We have no other sources."

What's next?

"The next expansion depends on demands for service," Mr. Doody points out. "It's hard to tell what impact the growth of the Route One corridor will have — what will be the age of these people, and where will they be living?

"Right now, 50 percent of our hospital population is Medicare — that's average for any hospital."

But the people who live in places like Plainsboro are young, and the hospital finds that in today's world there is more awareness of health, with people of all ages taking better care of themselves. This, too, could affect hospital expansion.

The Center was pleased when a group of doctors went to Monroe, so that retired couples in nearby Clearbrook and Rossmoor wouldn't have to make the half-hour drive to Princeton.

"We like to have doctors going out there," Mr. Doody observes. "We don't want any unnecessary traffic around here."

He adds that doctors aren't predicting any startling developments in medicine that might reduce the number of patients at the hospital.

The Grand Plan, going into the 1990s, is to top off the "J" building with two more floors, raze the original 1926 building and replace it with a smaller five-story structure. By summer, the Center hopes to start the office building that will rise on the corner of Witherspoon and Harris.

"There won't be any change from the Center as a community hospital," Mr. Doody says. "We'll continue to offer diverse service and to grow at a small rate."

weakened with the loss of Jeff Robinson. Robinson, Merrill reported, broke his finger in a freak accident during a workout and will be sidelined for an undetermined period of time. "It's just one of those things; it's going to take time to heal," said Merrill.

HUN MATMEN DEFEATED

By Academy of New Church. Hun wrestling coach Dave Faus predicted that the match last week with Academy of New Church, the first of the new year, would be a tough one and it was as ANC routed Hun, 42-19. With the loss the young, inexperienced Hun team dropped to 0-5.

"We're not expecting miracles," said Faus, after pointing out that seven of his starting lineup are freshmen and sophomores. "What makes it exciting," he added, is the contemplation of the next two years when Hun will be able to put its hard-won experience to use and the "creation of a middle school program this year."

A program for sixth, seventh and eighth-graders this year has attracted 20 who will compete in a half-dozen competitive matches. "Even if we get only two or three out of it a year it will make a big difference," said Faus.

Hun, who opposed George School early this week, will compete in a tri-tournament Saturday with Blair Academy, Wyoming Seminary and North Warren at the Blair campus. Noting that all three schools have strong wrestling programs, Faus commented, "It's going to be merciless."

Hun collected a pin, two decisions and a forfeit for its 19 points against New Church. The pin was engineered by Seth Wheaton, Hun's 187-pounder and heavyweight Paul Szott followed with a forfeit win.

Freshman Dennis Bustos captured a decision at 114 pounds -- his first win of the season -- and Hun's standout wrestler at 157 pounds, Todd Lipani won a major, 9-0 decision. With the victory, Lipani upped his record to 5-0. "He's the one who is keeping me sane this year," said Faus, who reported that Lipani has already received wrestling offers from interested colleges.

PANTHERS SPLIT A PAIR

Beat Peddie, Lose to Hun. The Princeton Day basketball team could not beat Hun on its second try last Wednesday, but it had no trouble knocking off Peddie two days later to raise its season's record to 6-5.

Three games are on tap for this week, a Wednesday night contest against Hightstown away, and Montclair-Kimberly and Hill home on Friday and Saturday afternoons, respectively.

Against Peddie, the Panthers rolled to a 15-8 first period lead, and never looked back. They increased that to 27-15 at the half, led by Andrew Bing who scored 10 of his 15 points in the first half. Jon McConaughy and Frank Little scored 11 points apiece for the Blue and White.

Hun Takes Another. Last Wednesday, the Panthers played another good game against a strong Hun quintet, but found themselves on the short end of the score for the second time in two weeks.

Led by the scoring of Ted Bransfield, Hun built up an 18-12 lead in the first period, but the Blue and White chipped away two points at a time in each of the next two quarters. Princeton Day tied the score briefly in the fourth, but the winners then zoomed to a 10-point margin, mostly on free throws.

Little led PDS with 13 points, McConaughy had 11.

SQUASH TOURNEY HERE

This Weekend. The New Jersey State Women's Squash Racquets Championship will be held this weekend — for the 41st year — at Princeton University's Jadwin Gymnasium.

Preliminary matches for the draw of 32 top players from around the country will be held Friday evening and Saturday morning. The semi-finals will be held Saturday at 2 and 3, while the championship match will be held Sunday at 11 a.m. All are open to the public free of charge.

Among players entered in the event from the Princeton area are Dede Webster of Hopewell Township and Emily Yeoman, former captain of Princeton University's 1976 squash team and currently ranked 14th in the U.S.

Also, Patrice McConnell, ranked No. 15 and present Princeton University captain, Nancy Gengler, another former PU captain now ranked No. 2 nationally; Gail Ramsay, new teaching pro at the Brooklyn Heights Casino and four-time intercollegiate champion, now ranked third in the nation; and Goldie Edwards, who has won the New Jersey state title three times.

Pollution of Harry's Brook Traced to Sewer Leakage From Spring Street Pipe

A leak — if not "the" leak — has been found in a sewer pipe on the corner of Vandeventer and Spring, Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund announced Monday.

It has almost certainly been leaking pollution into the Harry's Brook system although Borough engineer George Olexa says, "We're not saying it is the only source of pollution."

(For another account of sewers in Princeton, see "Mailbox," page 14.)

Meanwhile, the Environmental Commission has voted to ask both Borough and Township for a complete ban on the Harry's Brook trunk line until there is "measurable proof" of reduced flows. But Mayor Sigmund said on Monday that she will not ask for an immediate ban.

"I think we should get the pipe fixed first, and see if that has any effect."

The pipe will be replaced as soon as Seminole, the contractor now working on sewer repair in the Olden Street area, completes work there, Mr. Olexa said. Replacement cost will be an estimated $3,000.

The leak was found by actual physical inspection. Assistant engineer Martin Durward and a crew of two, have been lowering themselves into storm and sanitary sewer manholes wherever they suspect problems and it was Mr. Durward who last week found the sewage when he climbed down into the storm drain at Vandeventer and Spring, on the north side of Spring.

Mr. Olexa thinks it's a crack in the sewer pipe.

At this point, he explains, the sanitary sewer crosses above the storm sewer pipes in two places, and sewage has leaked out into the earth between the two pipes and

Medical Center Supportive Care Can Now Expand Into Full-Fledged Hospice under New Federal Rules

Under new federal regulations that make hospice care for the terminally ill reimbursable by Medicare, the Supportive Care Program at Princeton Medical Center will be expanded into a full-fledged hospice program.

Hospice care means a palliative or pain-reducing program of care for the dying when curative medical intervention is no longer appropriate. The term "hospice" derives from a medieval word for a place of hospitality and rest for travellers on a difficult journey.

By extension, hospice today refers to programs that seek to improve the quality of living during the last days of the journey through life. A relatively recent concept in health care, hospice offers the patient and his or her family physical, emotional and spiritual support according to their expressed wants and needs.

No longer thought of in terms of the place in which the care is given, hospice care is an autonomous, centrally administered program of coordinated outpatient and inpatient services, primarily in the home but with hospital or nursing home backup when needed.

Characteristically, a hospice draws upon the skills of a team of doctors, nurses, homemakers, clergy, social workers, psychologists, therapists of different kinds and trained volunteers as needed. The primary unit of care is the patient and the family, with services available on a seven-day a week, 24-hour basis and with bereavement counseling for a period of 13 months following the death of the patient.

Another Princetonian Dies in Auto Accident

Princeton's second fatal car crash in six days claimed the life last week of Sabatino A. Russo Jr., 51, of 58 Cleveland Lane.

Mr. Russo was returning to Princeton Friday afternoon after having had his portrait taken for business purposes by his wife, Barbara Lewis Russo who maintains a studio in Hopewell. According to police, Mr. Russo was traveling on Rosedale Road, and had just passed a car near the entrance to the Johnson Park School building, when his 1979 Jaguar began to lose traction and then spun out of control. It crossed over the opposite lane, struck and jumped a seven-inch curb, traveled 37 feet, and struck a tree with its left side. The car spun off the tree and continued on another 21 feet before coming to rest.

Mr. Russo was removed from the wreck by Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad workers and taken to Princeton Medical Center where he was pronounced dead about an hour later. Death resulted from injuries sustained in the 4:37 p.m. accident. Township Traffic Safety Officer Sgt. Mario Musso investigated the crash.

Collins' Plans Facing Four Separate Appeals Before Borough Council

Four appeals from the Planning Board's December 20 conditional approval of Collins' Phase III have been filed with the Borough clerk. By law, appeal is to Borough Council; after that, the next move for losing parties is to Superior Court.

Also, Gerald Boswell said on Tuesday that he will carry to the Appellate Division of Superior Court his fight against the Borough's granting of air rights to Collins for a bridge across Palmer Square East connecting old and new Nassau Inn buildings. Mr. Boswell has already sued the Borough over the air rights, but Superior Court ruled against him.

Those appealing to Council are R. William Potter, Dwight O. North, the Greenholm Association and the Witherspoon-Jackson Corporation. Transcripts necessary for these appeals will cost about $3,000 according to Borough Clerk Penelope Carter. It is possible that the appellants will share the cost.

Commenting on his decision to travel to the Appellate Court, Mr. Boswell, an attorney with New Jersey's office of the public advocate, said this: "People think all it takes to fight city hall is time and energy, but before you can even get in the door, you've got to have money."

It will cost him $300 to file the appeal, and between $100 and $200 for the necessary transcripts, he said, adding "If those who believe as I do are willing to help me defray these costs, I won't object, but I'm not soliciting funds."

Mr. Boswell served as his own lawyer before Superior Court, and will do so again.

The Greenholm Association consisting of residents who live on the cul-de-sac into the storm drain — or perhaps directly from sanitary to storm pipe, if the earth between them has eroded away, Mr. Olexa suggested.

At one point last year, Arnold Schiffman of the state's Department of Environmental Protection, suggested that animal feces might be the cause of Harry's Brook pollution.

Last November, the Sewer Operating Committee did dye-testing, pouring dye into the sanitary sewers. But no leaks were found.

Because coliform bacteria had been discovered, the problem was then turned over to the Health Department. Mr. Durward and two others on the engineering staff joined the under-staffed Health Department in hunting for the source of the trouble.

By December, after several samplings, the problem was narrowed down to the streets between Moore and Vandeventer and Spring and William.

DO YOU HAVE MONEY FOR SCHOLARSHIPS? If so, the Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation would welcome your tax-deductible contribution. Last year, the Foundation distributed $26,000 among 30 graduating seniors at Princeton High School for whom the money meant a chance to continue their education, a chance they might not have had otherwise. Flanking PHS Principal John Sakala are Nancy Henkel, left, and Bobette Lister, co-presidents of the Foundation.

FOCUS: DOWNTOWN

At Monday Meeting. If you have any thoughts, worries or ideas about the Central Business District — Princeton's downtown — you're invited to talk and listen on Monday at 3 in Borough Hall when the new Downtown Economic Development Committee holds its first public meeting.

Co-chairmen are Borough Council members Irv Urken and Richard Woodbridge.

"Anybody who is affected by the CBD or wants a change, is invited to come," Mr. Urken says, and from this meeting, plus notes and phone calls from those who can't attend, the two Council members plan to form their committee.

Why 3 p.m. for a public meeting?

Because, Mr. Urken says, late afternoon is bad because businesses are closing up shop, and evening is bad because everybody is tired.

Long-term parking is Mr. Urken's chief concern. "If meter-feeding is enforced," he warns, "where will the waitresses and secretaries park? I'm not saying there must be a garage or deck, but there has to be a solution. Is there land the Borough could rent for parking, outside the CBD, from which people could walk to work? They do it now, parking on the 'free' streets all day.

"We reduced the number of 10-hour meters, then removed them entirely, then raised the rates; now we have an ordinance against meter-feeding. Where are people who work here going to park?"

Business mix is another. "If, suddenly, there is no longer a food market, a place to buy designer dresses, a shoe store, a hardware store — then, is it worthwhile to come downtown? And at $20 a square foot, a 5,000-square-foot store would cost $100,000 in rent. A hardware store like mine just couldn't afford that."

Mr. Urken and his family own their Witherspoon Street building.

"For those rents," he says, "you must have a lot of people coming in to Princeton to buy. Sometimes you hear worries about traffic — well, if you're delayed a little getting home, or getting in to town ... " and Mr. Urken shrugs.

"We don't want Princeton to be New Hope or Great Adventure, but we need some aspects of these places to draw people here."

Hoping to unite merchants eager to keep the CBD vital, Mr. Urken mentions the expensive trash cans — so designed that householders cannot use them for dumping garbage — bought by merchants for around $4,000. He adds, ruefully, that only one food establishment contributed money for the cans, "when that's the kind of place that causes litter."

Mr. Woodbridge also talks about commercial vitality, warning that Princeton has been slipping "seriously" compared to the malls, so that the proportion of the tax burden carried by businesses

Davidson's To Stay

"We'd like to stay where we are," said Leroy Davidson last week, concerned because Leonard LaPlaca, who owns the building where the supermarket is located, had said he did not plan to renew Davidson's lease when it expires in 1986.

But this week, Mr. LaPlaca had a prompt and positive answer to the lease question: "Yes, I plan to renew it," he said. Asked whether, in light of Mr. Davidson's comments, the decision was a recent one, he replied "Yes."

Davidson's has been in its Nassau Street location for 30 years. A recent poll showed that customers overwhelmingly want the market to stay where it is, and not move outside Princeton.

"We feel we're a part of the Princeton community," Mr. Davidson remarked, "and we'd hate to leave."

is less. This means a heavier burden on taxpayers in a community where 60 percent of the property is tax-exempt, he says.

"And this in turn makes it increasingly hard for low-middle people to hang on, and it's something people concerned about low-income housing should think about seriously."

ASK SEWER DETAILS

Before Borough Signs. Accounting and billing procedures followed by the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority were questioned last Tuesday by Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund who said she wanted more information before she will authorize payment of the next installment of the amount owed the Authority in back fees.

Borough engineer George Olexa, Administrator Mark Gordon, Borough attorney Walter Bliss, and the Borough's auditor will meet with Authority officials to examine billing procedures and find out whether the Authority has given Borough and Township accurate figures.

For more than three years, the Authority underbilled both Princetons because a meter reading was multiplied by a factor of 100 instead of 1,000. The two communities have been given a bill for $1.2 million representing the underbilled amount.

Mayor Sigmund asked why Authority members West Windsor and South Brunswick didn't question their own billing, which was presumably more than they might have expected to pay. They have said their own meters are correct and accurate.

Mr. Bliss told Council the Authority's insurance cannot be used to pay back the money.

PHARMACIST IS FINED

For Fraud. Melvin Atlas, co-owner of The Forer Pharmacy, 160 Witherspoon Street, was fined $7,500 by Judge A. Jerome Moore last week in State Superior Court and placed on a year's probation on two charges of Medicaid and Blue Cross fraud.

The Forer Pharmacy was also fined $7,500. Mr. Atlas had pleaded guilty to the charges September 15, 1983.

According to Deputy State Attorney General Roger Mitchell, Mr. Atlas had allegedly billed the state for $200 a month for the past five years for services to patients at Merwick, a nursing facility for the elderly off Bayard Lane and a division of the Medical Center at Princeton. Mr. Atlas was charged with collecting more than $10,000 in the fraud which was uncovered last year by an audit.

Mr. Mitchell said that a hearing will be held later by the state Board of Pharmacy to determine if any further action will be taken against Mr. Atlas.

Earlier, another Princeton pharmacist, Edwin D. Panitch of East Windsor, a druggist at the Nassau Pharmacy, 70 Nassau Street, was fined $7,500 and placed on two years probation December 2 in Middlesex County Court.

Mr. Panitch had pleaded guilty to seven charges of defrauding Blue Cross in October. He was sentenced by Superior Court Judge Erminie Conley. Attorney General Mitchell reported that both pharmacists may have their licenses suspended, pending an investigation by the state Board of Pharmacy. Each, he said, has had his license suspended previously.

LOTS OF ACCIDENTS

Few With Injuries. Last week's snow storm which began as freezing rain and left road surfaces still slippery when the snow was cleared, led to a number of skidding accidents in the area.

Township police had reports of 14 skidding accidents. On the busiest day — Thursday — six were recorded. Only one involved injuries. In the Borough there were three skidding mishaps.

The lone accident with injuries took place shortly after 11 last Wednesday evening when a car operated by Michael S. Chyi, 30, 417B Butler Avenue, began to skid on patches of ice and snow on Princeton-Kingston Road near Carnegie Drive. His car slid into the opposite lane, turned completely around and struck a tree on the property of Walter Foster, 740 Princeton-Kingston Road.

Mr. Chyi was treated at the Princeton Medical Center for lacerations of the hands and arms. A passenger, Yuhju Chyi, 24, was also treated at the hospital for lacerations of the head.

Car Is Totalled. A 1969 Camaro was totalled and a second car had to be towed following an accident Saturday afternoon on Harrison Street opposite the Princeton Shopping Center.

According to police, Ruth W. Lester, 65, 29 Forester Drive, was stopped at the southern exit of the shopping center, intending to turn left onto Harrison. She then drove across the northbound lane of Harrison, failed to yield to a car operated by Dennis G. Murray, 19, of Keansburg, and the two cars collided. Mr. Murray's Camaro was judged a total loss by police.

Mr. Murray and a passenger, Martin Velazquez, 19, of Newark, both refused medical treatment for minor injuries. Mrs. Lester was treated at the Medical Center for contusions and abrasions of the head. She was issued a summons by Ptl. Virgil Angelini for improper exiting from a private driveway.

Three-Car Crash. Three cars were involved in a turning mishap last week on a Route 206 curve near Birch Avenue.

Phyllis A. Greene, 53, 121 Mt. Lucas Road, was heading south on Route 206 just north of Birch Avenue, when her 1977 Datsun went out of control on a curve. It crossed over the center line into the north lane, striking on its left side a car driven by Ronald M. Phillips of Manville. Still out of control, Mrs. Greene's car continued on and struck a second car on the front end and right side. The second car was operated by Edward R. Walker of Pt. Morris.

Issued a summons for careless driving by Sgt. John Hammond, Mrs. Greene was treated at the Medical Center for minor leg injuries. Her car was a total loss.

Mr. Walker and Mr. Phillips escaped injury and both were able to drive away from the accident scene.

CHECK PASSER CHARGED

With Three Offenses. A 55-year-old Union Township resident has been charged with three bad check offenses by Borough police, after being tripped up by an alert bank teller here.

Vincent DePascale has been charged with passing a worthless check, possession of stolen checks, and theft. He was later released in $11,500 bail and turned over to another police department where he was wanted on a bad check charge. Chief Michael Carnevale reported that DePascale was wanted by a number of police departments for passing bogus checks. The checks cashed here, he said, had been stolen from a cocktail lounge in Orange.

According to Chief Carenvale, DePascale, on November 14, successfully cashed a check for $490 at a Nassau Street bank. On Dec. 19, he went to the same bank — which Chief Carnevale declined to identify — and tried to cash another check for the same amount. This time he was questioned by the teller.

DePascale took the check back and told the teller he would return with the proper passbook number. The alert teller followed DePascale, Chief Carnevale said, and wrote down the license number of his car. "This was

Appeal at Record High

The running total for the Town Topics Christmas Appeal this week reached $17,894.16 — about $7,000 more than the final amount last year, and contributions are still coming in.

Several shares of stock from an anonymous donor, whose lawyer acted as intermediary, brought in $3,244.41 when sold. That is the largest amount ever contributed by a single individual, followed closely by the anonymous gift of $2,500 recorded last week.

Town Topics turns all of this money over to the Family Service Agency for distribution to the needy of Princeton. Administrative costs are borne by the newspaper.

The money you give — and it's tax-deductible — goes to the young and the elderly, the lonely single and the troubled family, the physically ill and the mentally frail.

You need not contribute $3,000 — many give only a fraction of that — but whatever you give, you know that it is warmly and gratefully received.

Make out your check to the Town Topics Christmas Appeal and send it to Town Topics, Box 664, Princeton, N.J. 08542.

The 33 carat "Carlotta" Diamond, once owned by Emperor Maximillian of Mexico, was eventually acquired by a New York Jeweler. Years after the purchase, a member of the jeweler's family, suspecting a burglar on the premises, hid the precious stone in a garbage pail. The garbage, however, was collected--and the Carlotta Diamond has not been seen since!

You may never have been tempted to stash your treasures in a refuse pail, yet safeguarding your valuables is an important concern. Pleasure of ownership and use is preserved only when you know that what you cherish is protected.

Hospice Program

Princeton Medical Center has had such a program in place for the past three years. It is The Supportive Care Program, designed, as the Medical Center brochure describes it, "to provide coordinated multidisciplinary services for the limited life expectancy patient and his family through a team approach to the physical, emotional, spiritual, social and economic needs experienced during the final stages of illness and bereavement."

Averaging 50 patients a year for the past three years, Supportive Care is administered by the Medical Center's Department of Community Health Services. In addition to nursing provided as part of the regular caseload of the 13 public health nurses in the department, services to these patients include social work, rehabilitation therapy, spiritual support, home health aid and volunteer assistance.

According to Mary Strzlecki, department director, this program was the first hospital home-based hospice program to be inspected and approved by the New Jersey Department of Health for Medicare reimbursement. Approval, which was granted this past November, means that the program meets federal regulations for hospice and is entitled to use the term.

For reasons having to do with what Ms. Strzlecki calls "the very, very low rate of reimbursement" under Medicare regulations that were scheduled to go into effect November 1 but cannot be implemented at Princeton Medical Center until certain administrative conditions are clarified, the program will be known as The Supportive Care-Hospice Program, rather than simply as a Hospice or Hospice Program.

Levels of Care. As mandated by federal regulations, it will offer four levels of care to meet the changing condition of the patient and the needs of the family. The first is Routine Home Care in which a visiting nurse comes once a week to supervise the plan of care that has been decided upon with the attending physician and to instruct the family member or the home health aide who is in the home five days a week, four hours a day.

The next level is Continuous Home Care when nursing is needed on a continuous basis during periods of crisis. "Continuous home care is the real reason a patient will elect hospice," Ms. Strzlecki observes. Not covered previously by Medicare, as routine home care has been, Continuous Home Care will make it possible for a family worn out by the physical and emotional stress of taking care of a gravely ill relative around the clock to have a nurse or home health aide at the house for up to 24 hours a day.

Inpatient Respite Care, the next level, will also provide relief for the family by providing direct admission of the patient into a nursing home or skilled nursing facility for a few days. Under previous Medicare provisions, a patient had to be admitted to an acute care hospital for three days first in order to receive Medicare reimbursement.

General inpatient care in an acute care hospital for pain control or for acute or chronic symptom management is the fourth level. In each instance, the plan of care will follow the patient, and the visiting nurse from the Department of Community Health Services who has been managing the case will visit the patient in the nursing home or hospital and can pass on instructions to the floor nurse.

Administrative Foresight. From an administrative point of view, the hospice program will require careful juggling in order to come close to breaking even under the Medicare reimbursement. But Ms. Strzlecki is grateful to what she calls "the futuristic thinking" of Jack Kaufman, longtime hospital administrator before Dennis Doody, the current Medical Center president. During the Kaufman administration, the visiting nurses were incorporated into the hospital as the Department of Community Health, and Merwick was established as the rehabilitation/long term care unit.

Unlike many hospice programs in the state, she says, Princeton is fortunate in that its program is part of a home health agency that in turn is affiliated with a hospital that also has an extended care facility. Under the regulations, core nursing care must be provided by the hospice and not contracted out, as it would be if the home health agency was an independent organization. For a hospice to hire its own nurses to meet this regulation would be very costly.

Moreover, with hospice reimbursement rates pegged below what an acute care hospital can get, even under the Diagnostic Related Groups (DRG) rates, there will be little incentive, as she points out, for a hospital or long term care unit to take the hospice patient, unless there are surplus beds. By being part of a hospital which already has the long term facility for respite care and an administration that is committed to the hospice concept, the Princeton hospice is in a better position than most to offer hospice care in accordance with the regulations and in the full sense of what the term has come to mean.

"We're very lucky," Ms. Strzlecki says. "Mr. Kaufman had a great deal of foresight to see that home care was going to be the wave of the future." Having everything under one umbrella, as she puts it, will also mean greater continuity of care for the patient and less stress for the family.

Little Change to Patient. For the patient and the family who have experienced the 24-hour on call availablity of the visiting nurses and the other services of Supportive Care, things will not change dramatically once hospice is added to the title of the program.

Next week, TOWN TOPICS will take a look at what this program has meant to three different families. The big change will be for the patient 65 and over for whom there will be hospice reimbursement under Medicare for the first time.

There will be changes in the administration of the program. Kay Heidore, the Community Health nurse who has made supportive care her specialty and has kept track of pending hospice legislation over the past two years, is expected to be named clinical and financial supervisor of Supportive Care-Hospice. Dr. Henry Dudnick, Medical Director of Merwick, will also be Medical Director of the hospice program.

A clergy person will be hired on a part time basis, and the volunteer component will be expanded and given greater support. Under the hospice regulations, volunteer services must equal at least five percent of the total number of hours of patient care rendered by paid employees and contract staff. In a future article, TOWN TOPICS will also describe what volunteers presently do for supportive care patients and what the plans are for training and support programs.

—Barbara L. Johnson

the key bit of information that led to his arrest and charges," Chief Carnevale said. The investigation is being continued by Det. Randy Sutton.

Van Driver Charged. The driver of a commercial van was charged last week with possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana.

Scheduled to appear in Borough court February 1 is Barry Petrone, 29, of Trenton. He was stopped on Mercer Street by Ptl. William Nathan and Ptl. Ralph Terraccino for having no name on his commercial vehicle. As the officers approached the van, they detected an odor of burning marijuana, and then observed some marijuana cigarettes in an ash tray. A subsequent search uncovered a plastic bag which is alleged to contain marijuana.

ID Card Stolen. Eighteen-year-old Keith Patterson of Trenton was charged Monday with theft of the ID card of a Princeton University student.

Proctor James Collins called Borough police to report that he had Patterson in custody at Dillon Gym. The victim told police that his ID card, watch and some clothing had been stolen in the gym on December 10 while he was playing ball. Patterson was charged only with the theft of the ID card; the investigation into the theft of the other items is continuing.

Ptl. Chris Boutote signed the complaint againt Patterson. He is scheduled to appear in court February 15.

HOME IS ENTERED

On John Street. A stereo cassette player valued at $127 was stolen last week from a home on John Street. Police report that a storm window was pried open between 8:30 and 11 in the evening and the intruder then broke a window pane to unlock an interior window to enter the house.

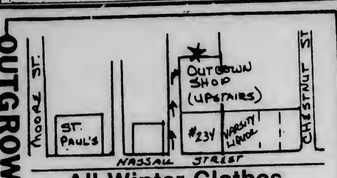
A Berrien Court apartment was entered Friday between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. The only item taken was an $85 black and white television set, police said.

The same day, Township police report a window was broken to enter a Birch Avenue home between 6:30 a.m. and 7 in the evening while the victim was working. A stereo system valued at $375 was stolen.

A Nassau Street service station was entered overnight last week and police report that $235 was taken from an office. Police found a broken window, which they say was probably used to enter the station. Once inside, the thief pried open the office door.

There were two entries into dormitory rooms on the Princeton University campus.

A room in 1901 Hall was entered Monday and $47 was removed form a desk top, and an unlocked room in Blair Hall was entered Saturday between 4 and 4:30 in the afternoon. One victim lost a 35mm camera valued at $350 and two lenses worth $250; a second student victim lost a Walkman cassette player valued at $95.



THEFT REPORT

Jewelry Stolen in Inn. In a late report received by Borough police this week, a Chicago couple stated that items of jewelry valued at $2,375 were stolen while they were guests of Nassau Inn on December 29.

Included in the loss are two gold bracelets, a gold chain and a watch. The victim told police that she did not discover the theft until she had returned to Chicago.

When a Princeton resident returned home at 1:45 Saturday morning, after having visited a Nassau Street restaurant at 11:45 in the evening, she discovered that someone had removed her wallet, containing $60, from her pocketbook.

A university student reported the theft of $40 from his wallet and a pair of sweat pants while he was playing squash for a half-hour at Dillon Gym on campus; a second victim lost a university ID card and a credit card.

Another university student reported the theft of a $75 Walkman tape player from her coat pocket while her coat was hanging in a Charter Club coat room between 12:15 and 2:15 p.m. Saturday, and a battery was stolen early last week from the car of a Princeton resident while it was parked for four hours in a private lot off Nassau Street near Moore.

It was a case of "sighted clothing, took same" last week in the Township.

A resident of Ewing Street, who was moving, had packed her car, but was unaware that some of it had spilled from the trunk. A car came by and picked up the clothing leaving some clothing into the trunk of the victim with a $500 loss.

The suspect is described as a white female driving a light blue Volkswagen.

Houston in Top 100

Dr. Paul Houston, Princeton's superintendent of schools, has been named one of the 100 best school managers in the United States and Canada by "The Executive Educator," a magazine for school professionals.

Following a nominating system last year, a panel of nine educators set up selection procedures and evaluated the nominations. By the fifth round of screening, nominations had been reduced to 200. Each of the final 100 was chosen by a majority vote of the panel.

Among the ten criteria were maintaining and improving academic achievement of students; conceiving and implementing curriculum improvements; developing professional competence of staff; establishing successful links with the community; showing stable and consistent leadership and excellence in human relations.

Dr. Houston, who is 39, came to Princeton in 1977.

WOMAN IS CHARGED With Driving While Intoxicated. Louvena Starks, 54, 5 Juniper Row, has been charged by Township Ptl. David Cromwell with driving while intoxicaed and refusing to take a Breathalyzer test.

She was found sitting in her car by Ptl. Cromwell, after he answered a call reporting a woman sleeping in her car in the Edgerstoune Road area. She was taken to headquarters, charged and later released.

CAR ENGINE IGNITES On Arreton Road. Five firemen repsonded to a 7:50 call Thursday morning from police reporting a car fire on Arreton Road.

The victim, a resident of Arreton Road, told police later that she had experienced trouble trying to get up the sharp Arreton incline and that smoke had begun to come out of the engine compartment of her 1977 Plymouth. The fire was confined to the engine area and is believed to have started in the carburetor.

TWO ARE FINED In Township Court. Two Princeton residents were fined last week in Township traffic court.

Bernard Caras, 104 Leabrook Lane, paid $65 for speeding, and Louise H. Wilcox, 161 Ridgeview Circle, paid the same amount for improper entering or leaving a highway.

28 BIRTHS LISTED By Medical Center. In the week ending January 12, there were 17 girls and 11 boys born at Princeton Medical Center.

Daughters were born to Tito and Gunnild Sandoval, 125A Northgate Apartments, Cranbury; Michael and Barbara Lysenko, 8 Rockleigh Drive, Ewing; Ronald and Elouise Horan, 5 Ontario Way, Lawrenceville; Barrett and Sarah Quick, 301 Beckman Lane, Somerville, all on January 6; Carl and Audrey Shafer, 820 Kennedy Boulevard, Manville; Joseph and Debra Cardone, 940 Kingston Road, both on January 8;

Also to Francis and Virginia Petrone, 108 Beacon Avenue, Trenton; Mark and Evelyn Boada, 89 Brooklawn Drive, East Windsor; Guiseppe and Nina Scotto-Daniello, 11 Dove Place, Kendall Park, both on WOMEN TO BE HONORED By YWCA Program. Leaders of more than 250 business organizations in the Princeton area have been asked to nominate a woman executive from their company to be considered for a 1984 TWIN achievement award which will be presented in May. TWIN (Tribute to Women and Industry) is a nationwide program initiated by local YWCA's.

William A. Schreyer, president and chief operating officer of Merrill Lynch & Co. Inc., is honorary chairman of the 1984 Princeton YWCA TWIN program. All the businesses approached by TWIN are within the geographic boundaries of the United Way - Princeton Area communities, of which the Princeton YWCA is a member agency.

Other area business leaders who have agreed to serve on the honorary board are: Michael Bongiovanni, president, Squibb S.H.P.G.; Raymond A. Bowers, chairman, Lewis C. Bowers & Sons Inc.; James E. Burke, chairman and chief executive officer, Johnson & Johnson; William H. Clark, treasurer and assistant secretary, Lenox Inc.; George W. Conover, proprietor, Nassau-Conover Motor Co.;

Also, Barbara Clayton Garretson, president, H.P. Clayton; Herbert W. Hobler, chairman, Nassau Broadcasting Company; John F. Hoff III, chairman of the board, United Jersey Bank-N.A.; William Sword, managing director, Wm Sword & Co, Inc.,; and F. Helmut Weymar, chairman and chief executive officer, Commodities Corporation.

The purpose of TWIN is to honor women who have made a significant contribution to industry in a managerial, executive, or professional role and to recognize those businesses whose personnel policies have created the opportunities for those achievements.

A TWIN honoree review committee will carefully examine the qualifications of all nominees and select finalists. The finalists will be honored at a dinner to be held May 11 at the Institute for Advanced Study. A special brochure describing the women and their organizations will be distributed at the awards dinner.

As the TWIN program evolves, the Princeton YWCA will offer through it a wide selection of opportunities and support for the working woman, such as skills training for women seeking entry, re-entry or change of work; career planning and development; on-the-job training; and child care. The awards dinner will be an annual event.

MONEY FOR COLLEGE

Fund Drive Begins. You're a senior at Princeton High School, eager to go beyond high school but you just can't find the money.

The Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation, formed to help students in this predicament, has launched a fund-raising drive to help members of the Class of 1984 who need financial help. Last year, the Foundation made grants totaling $26,000 to 30 seniors.

Cuts in Federal and college loan programs and rising tuitions may force many graduates to abandon plans for college or technical school, according to Nancy Henkel and Bobette Lister, Foundation co-presidents.

Each applicant's need is determined by a professional financial aid advisor who considers both the student's own resources — other scholarships and the like — and the family's financial situation.

Scholarships are awarded solely on the basis of need, from money contributed by individuals, alumni of the high school, businesses, student fund-raisers and the Foundation's own fund drive.

Tax-deductible contributions may be sent to PRSF, care of Princeton High School, Princeton, N.J. 08540. Checks should be made out to the Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation or PRSF.

Trustees for 1984, in addition to the co-presidents, are

PERSONNEL CHANGES

At Community Service. Constance Camner of Plainsboro has been named interim president of the board of directors of the Council of Community Services, replacing Nancy Nygreen who is moving to California.

The Council also announced that Kathryn Tracy, who has been serving as assistant director to the Council since September, has been formally appointed to the post.

Mrs. Camner has served on the Plainsboro Township Committee, Public Assistance Board, Recreation Advisory Committee and Youth Guidance Council, and has been liaison to various citizen committees. She participated in the development of a latch-key program for school children and a Plainsboro Directory of Human Services which grew from a Human Services Forum she organized.

She is also the author of several books and articles on the performing arts, and is a painter as well as writer.

Ms. Tracy joins the Council from Syracuse, where she was a consultant and administrator in health and gerontology. She holds a master's in public administration from the Maxwell School at Syracuse University and is a candidate for the doctorate in public health at Columbia University.

At the Council, she will handle public information and will work with the Committee on Aging and the Health Committee.

APPLICANTS SOUGHT

For Scholarship Funds. Applications for the scholarships to be awarded by the Women's College Club are now available through the guidance departments at the Hun School, Princeton Day School, Princeton High School and Stuart Country Day School. Completed applications are to be returned to these departments on or before February 28.

Applicants must be senior girls who have attended Princeton secondary schools for at least two years, have applied to an accredited four-year American college or university, and have taken the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test or the American College Test. The grants are made on the basis of financial need, scholastic standing, qualities of leadership and character, extracurricular activities and promise of service.

Funds for College Club scholarships come from membership dues, donations and from the annual Card Party-Silent Auction to be held in March.

Members of the Scholarship Committee are Betty Chenicek, Fannie Floyd, Martha Hartmann, Rita Ludlum, Dell Stifel and Mollie Updike.

73 CLASSES SET

By Adult School. Booklets describing the 73 classes offered by the Princeton Adult School this spring have been mailed to residents of Princeton and surrounding communities.

Mail registration is now under way. Additional brochures are available at the Princeton Public Library, and a complete listing of courses is contained in an advertisement in last week's TOWN TOPICS.

Students are urged to enroll early by mail to ensure a place, as many classes are limited in size. In person registration will take place on Thursday, January 26, from 7:30-9:30 p.m. in the Princeton High School cafeteria.

All interested persons, whether residents of Princeton or any surrounding community, are eligible to enroll, and there are discounts available to senior citizens.

Political lectures include a five-week series entitled "Middle East Minorities: Behind the Headlines," taught by Douglas Crow, Mansour Ajami, Ira Silverman, Charles Issawi and Bayly Winder; and two ten-week courses, "Latin American Politics and Culture: Selected Aspects," by David Burks, and "Twentieth Century American Presidents and their Foreign Policies," by Richard Challener.

Other lectures offered are "History and Cultural Development of Afro-American Art," by Wendy McNeil, "A Selection of Shakespeare," by Thomas Roche, "Sleep and Insomnia," by Fredrick Evans, and "Twentieth Century Fiction," with Joseph Greenberg.

Logo Contest

The Recreation Department, a joint agency of the Township and Borough, was established in 1964 to provide recreational opportunities to the Princeton Community.

To celebrate its 20 years of existence, the Recreation Department is sponsoring a Logo Contest. High school students who reside in the Township or the Borough are eligible. The winning logo will be introduced to the community in April as the cover of the 1984 leisure guide.

Entries are to be submitted with name, address, phone number and shcool to the Recreation Department, Township Hall Annex by Friday, February 3. For additional information call 921-9480.

MERCHANTS SOLICITED

For United Way Help. The head of the United Way's mercantile division, Alan Frank of Langrock's, is in charge of a 14-member team of volunteers soliciting merchants in Princeton, Montgomery, West Windsor, Kingston and Plainsboro this week, asking for contributions to the Way drive. Visits are being made to merchants who have not yet contributed.

The mercantile goal is $40,000 and merchants in the communities listed above have contributed about $21,500. Volunteers working with Mr. Frank are Pamela S. Kelsey; Judy Leondar, Lawrence Borkowski, Kevin C. Clancy, John J. Hamel III, Grace Terhune, Pete Peters, Betty Gilbert, Ann Plumb, Glen Heins, Leon Christen, Elizabeth Sword and Gilbert Halliez.

Contributions to the United Way's $1.5 million campaign have now taken the campaign to the 90 percent mark, Way officials said this week. The campaign has been lagging, compared to its performance in other years.

"The last 10 percent will be hard to raise," predicts chair Alan K. Hegedus. "The world will not end if the campaign falls short, but people should remember that Way agencies are responsible for contributing to the well-being of local communities and providing that helping hand that all of us need at one time or another."

So far, in spite of the lethargic campaign, the Way has raised more than it did last year; however, demands on the 26 agencies are growing, with more than 37,000 people served last year. In addition, some agencies have less Federal support than in the past, or have had Federal money frozen.

To handle the conversion of driver's licenses to the new photo-license, all state Motor Vehicle agencies now have expanded hours.

The Bakers Basin station on Route One will be open Saturday mornings from 8 to noon and Wednesday evenings until 8.

The Trenton agency at 25 South Montgomery will also be open from 8 to noon Saturdays, and until 8 on Monday evenings.

Week-day hours are 8 to 4:30 in each agency.

The new photo licenses can be issued only at these computerized agencies. Drivers receiving their first licenses, or drivers who are so informed by the Motor Vehicle Agency, are the only ones at present who will be given photo licenses. These new licenses are not available on request.

DAY CARE PLANNED

For Homebound Adults. An open house to introduce an adult day care center to the community will be held Thursday, January 19, in the community room at Redding Circle on Mount Lucas Road and Harrison Street. The present participants and the staff of the day care center will welcome visitors between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Persons 55 years or older, who are residents of Mercer County and homebound due to health problems or lack of transportation are eligible for this free program. It includes transportation, a hearty lunch and group activities two days a week. The community room at Redding Circle is wheelchair accessible.

For information, call Elaine Friedman at 683-0083 or 924-2098.

POOL TO BE OPEN

On Sundays. The YWCA will hold open swims on Sundays. Every Sunday through March 25, except January 22, the pool will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. for open swim.

The hour from 1 - 2 will be for persons who are disabled or over 60 with special needs. There will be plenty of helpers on hand, as well as two physical therapists from Princeton Medical Center in the water every week to offer encouragement and assistance. Family swim will be from 2 - 4 p.m.

The admission fee will be $2 for members, $3 for non-members, $5 for a family of a member. There will also be an $18 three-month pass available for members. During this pilot project YMCA membership will be recognized as well.

For information call the YWCA office, 924-5571.

About Those Sewers...
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I'm sure everyone is sick to death of sewer stories, but I have one more to tell because I believe that the taxpayers should be aware. It could happen to you.

I came home the Tuesday after Christmas having been away for a week, flushed a toilet which ran over and flooded my bathroom and kitchen floor. Next morning my plumber came and told me the blockage was not in the house and to get a sewer service.

Since I had had a similar problem previously when the blockage turned out to be in the town sewer and they had said next time call us first, I called the Sewer Operating Committee. In due course they came, pulled a manhole at the back of my property and above my house and told me it was not their problem.

By Thursday afternoon when a private sewer service came, my sister and I were baling sewer water out of the bathtub and it was coming in faster than we could bail. The private sewer service man, arriving in the nick of time, knocked the cap off the air vent beside my front door and a geyser of sewer water spurted out and continued to flow in a steady stream.

Readers, bear in mind that I have used no water in my house since Tuesday. It is now Thursday night and I have a steady stream of sewer water flowing out of my house.

My calls to the sewer people via the police have been answered rudely and arrogantly. "How did you get my number? It's unlisted."

The private sewer service after two hours and $122, and my plumber are both saying it's a town blockage and the SOC is saying it's not their problem.

Friday morning, with blue toilet paper (which I never use) still flowing into the pachysandra beside my front door at a steady rate, and very near hysteria, I call the mayor of the Township. Most of the officials I have tried to reach are already on holiday, though Mayor Pike and one official at Borough Hall are kind and sympathetic and promise to help at last. I am now terrified that I am going to be put off over the long New Year's week-end until sometime the following week.

Friday afternoon, the sewer men finally found their manhole in the bicycle path across the street and with three trucks and six men relieved the blockage in their sewer. The Sewer Operating Committee does not know where their manholes are!

I propose that the town fathers should think again before they let Mr. Hillier's (Mountain Avenue) development or the proposed housing on Elm Road connect to this ancient sewer. At the very least the SOC should learn where their manholes are!

Don't Jog on Rosedale.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Last Friday, while returning home from work at ETS, I came upon an accident on Rosedale Road. I did not witness the happening of the accident and I don't know what caused the accident.

I do know, however, that Rosedale Road is a narrow, hilly, curvy, two-lane road that at this time of the year is made even more treacherous to travel by icy patches. It carries heavy traffic to and from ETS, Squibb and Western Electric, particularly during the 4:30 to 5:30 hour of the day. And yet every day, no matter how hazardous the road conditions, there are joggers on the road, although a path was constructed alongside Rosedale Road a few years ago at some great expense. Some of these joggers wear no reflecting patches. On more than one occasion I've had to swerve to avoid hitting one of them and I've seen other drivers have to do the same. Luckily there were no cars coming in the opposite direction at the time; if there had been (since there's no place to safely get off the road) a head-on accident could have been the result.

I feel that in a town like Princeton there certainly should be other places where joggers could jog and University team runners could run, other than on busy roadways at an hour of the day when visibility is poorer than at other times of the day, when road conditions are bad, and when it's enough that drivers have to be on the alert for deer, for dogs that are allowed to run loose, and for other cars that might be stalled along side the road.

I read in the Trenton paper yesterday that the driver of the car on Friday died as a result of his injuries in the accident. Whatever the cause, I have wondered if such a fatal accident could have been avoided. I noticed, when driving to work this morning, that traffic was moving a bit more slowly along Rosedale near the site of the accident. But the joggers were out there in force, as usual, allowing cars all of four to six inches to pass them safely when cars were coming in the opposite direction.

I'm not writing this letter just to vent my outrage; I'm writing to ask that something be done to keep these joggers off Rosedale Road during peak traffic hours, for their own safety as well as mine, and that of many other people who have to travel this road daily.

Public roads are for cars to travel on; they are not for joggers to jog on.

"Non-Partisanship."
To the Editor of Town Topics:

As another year begins, we — citizens of Princeton — should remind ourselves that, although our local municipal affairs are conducted by two governing bodies, we are actually residents of one community. It is important that this fact be fully appreciated at a time when the municipal budgets are being developed and adopted for the coming twelve months.

Over the years many municipal functions have been merged by the Borough and the Township, while others have been closely coordinated. It is even possible that additional functions could be operated on a unitary basis.

In all of these activities a spirit of cooperation and mutual understanding has generally prevailed among both the elected and appointed officials of the two municipalities regardless of party affiliation. This attitude has been possible because of a tradition of non-partisanship following each election.

With the relatively rapid growth and development of many of the communities immediately surrounding Princeton, it is even more necessary that this tradition of non-partisanship be maintained by the community of Princeton. The interests and welfare of its residents can be adequately represented only by officials of the Borough and of the Township who speak and act in a spirit of genuine cooperation and harmony.

We encourage all citizens of Princeton to support our elected and appointed officials as they fulfill their responsibilities to our community without regard to party affiliation.

Mr. Bleiman (Democrat) was mayor of the Township; Mrs. Broadwater (Democrat) was a member of Township Committee; Mr. Floyd (Democrat) was mayor of the Township; Dr. Goheen is the former President of Princeton University and is a resident of the Borough.

Dr. McCord is President Emeritus of Princeton Theological Seminary and a Township resident; Mr. Morgan (Republican) is a former member of Borough Council; Mr. Selden is a Township resident; Mrs. Smoyer (Republican) is a former member of Township Committee; Mr. Smoyer (Republican) is also a former member of Township Committee; Mr. Wallace (Republican) was mayor of the Township.

Thank you, Firefighters.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

(The following is a letter to Terrance Davidson, Chief, Princeton Fire Companies.)

Please convey the most heartfelt thanks of our entire family to the members of the several fire companies who fought the fire at our home in the early hours of New Year's Day.

Not only did they respond promptly, they worked efficiently and tirelessly to prevent the serious fire from becoming a total disaster. Certainly we were within minutes of the fire spreading from its contained area to envelop the house.

In addition, their consideration in minimizing water damage and breakage is greatly appreciated. Our community is indeed fortunate to have a corps of such competent and conscientious volunteer fire fighters. Our thanks to them all.

School Bond Funds.
To the Editor of Town Topics.

Ann McGoldrick and Bob Powell felt compelled to respond to my letter urging parents to participate in the just begun process of allocating the School Bond's funds. In their supposed objection to my letter, they reiterated my very points.

I did not deny that the BRAC knew the consultants' figures were estimates. I was trying to inform the public of this fact, and if it took my letter to elicit official acknowledgment of this in last week's paper, all the better. I never said there was "an inadequate effort to quantify," because we got plenty of figures that obscured the merits or demerits of the plans. Rather, I emphasized the lack of plan options we were provided.

I'm sure Mrs. McGoldrick and Mr. Powell know very well why I delayed going public. It is exactly because, as Mrs. McGoldrick states: "A bond issue is a vote of confidence, not a requirement that each dollar be spent in an exact way."

Because I felt the funds were badly needed, I urged those who voted their 'confidence' to watch how the Board disposes of the funds. Would Mrs. McGoldrick or Mr. Powell have preferred that I try to undermine the bond before the vote?

My only disagreement with the McGoldrick-Powell response is Mrs. McGoldrick's assertion that I never came forward before with my objections. Not only did I put my objections to the energy management system in a detailed written analysis of its flaws available to the Board, but I also spoke up at several meetings attended by Mrs. McGoldrick, including the formal BRAC presentation to the Board in May. Those present can attest to her curt replies each time I raised these issues.

Careful reading of my letter and Mrs. McGoldrick's and Mr. Powell's newsworthy responses will show that we have no substantive disagreements. Moreover, I was delighted to read that the proposed energy management system has been reviewed and may be rejected for some alternative. So I stand exactly as before, urging the public to insist on accountability from a School Board whose president, in calling my actions "peculiar," does not show much receptivity to public involvement.

WEATHER IS FOCUS

Of History Talk. The Historical Society invites members and friends to attend the Society's annual meeting on Tuesday at 8 in Pierce Hall, Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street.

David Ludlum

The annual business meeting and election of officers and trustees will be followed by a talk by David M. Ludlum entitled, "Barometers, Battles and Blizzards: the Weather and its Influence on New Jersey's History."

While everyone talks about the weather, few realize the important role it has played in history. Mr. Ludlum will explain, for example, how George Washington's keen weather sense was as important as his military genius in the victory at Princeton battlefield. The weather also affected the outcome of the Battle of Monmouth, fought on one of the hottest days on record.

Both meteorologist and historian, Mr. Ludlum is especially qualified to talk about the weather. A graduate of Princeton University in 1933, he received a Ph.D. in history in 1938. He was trained in meteorology during World War II, worked at the Franklin Institute, and founded Science Associates, Inc., a firm handling weather and meteorological equipment.

Mr. Ludlum is the author of several books on weather including the comprehensive Early American Weather series in four volumes. His most recent publications, "The New Jersey Weather Book" and "The American Weather Book," appeared in 1982 and 1983.

OPEN HOUSE PLANNED

By Familyborn. Familyborn will hold an open house and tour of the birthing center this Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. and on Thursday at noon. Still another open house will be held Wednesday, January 25, at 7:30 p.m. The center for birth and women's health is located at 2688 Highway 27, North Brunswick.

Families and individuals interested in birth alternatives are welcome. Familyborn provides prenatal and birthing care in a home-like setting and supports natural, family-centered birth. To sign up for an open house, call (201) 821-6200.

Familyborn will also hold an information and discussion group for new mothers entitled "You and Your Baby" on Thursday mornings from 9:30 to 11:30. The sessions will be led by Tina Weisshauss, RN.

Prenatal exercises will be offered at Familyborn on Friday mornings at 9. The classes will be led by Judi Rodgers. A mothers and infants exercise class will be held Saturday mornings at 10. Classes run for six weeks.

Familyborn's certified nurse-midwives are available for speaking engagements to professional, educational, civic and community organizations. For information call Kathie Benson, director of public relations, at (201) 821-6200.

TODDLER PROGRAM SET

At YMCA. The Children's Center of the YMCA will open its new Toddler Program on February 1.

Children ages 18 months through 3 years will be accepted for ful or half day programs. The Center is open from 7:30 to 5:30, Monday through Friday. The Children's Center is directed by Jan Gill. Children are encouraged to actively explore their environment, and to interact with objects, peers, and adults.

The Preschool Program of The Children's Center which opened in September at the YMCA provides a full-day educational program for children ages 3-5. Preschool children swim twice weekly. For more information about the Children's Center, call the YMCA at 924-4497.

PROGRAMS LISTED

For Children at Library. Brochures describing spring programs at the Princeton Public Library are now available at the Library.

A series of reading aloud programs for children in kindergarten through third grade are underway on Tuesday afternoons at 3:30 p.m. They will continue through February 28, and several short stories and a chapter from a longer book will be read each week. Children are invited to bring a friend.

"Cupcakes and art for the festival of the heart" is the title of a Valentine's Day party for pre-schoolers and a parent that will take place Tuesday, February 14, at 3:30. Registration, limited to 20 children, will be at the Children's Desk, starting January 31.

House Need Fixing?

Residents of the John-Witherspoon area are invited to Mt. Pisgah AME Church this Saturday at 11 to discuss possible grants for renovating their homes.

Michael Floyd, coordinator of the Borough's Neighborhood Preservation Program, will have applications on hand and will help residents fill them out.

Beginning February 21, parents may register their pre-school children for a six week series of story hours which starts on March 6 and continues through April 10. The half hour programs, consisting of readings and a filmstrip, will take place on Tuesday afternoons at 2.

On Wednesday, February 22, the Library will present "The Canerville Ghost," a feature length film starring Margaret O'Brien and Charles Laughton. The film is suggested for children ages 6 and up. Free tickets will be available at the Children's Desk, starting February 8.

On Wednesday, February 29, Leap Year, Jim Albertson will perform at 7:30 in a family program of folk songs and stories for all ages. Free tickets are at the Children's Desk on a first come first served basis starting February 15.

Films for children ages 6 and up take place on Wednesday afternoons at 3:30, starting March 7. Films for preschoolers will be shown on Thursdays at 3:30, starting March 8. Stamp collectors will meet on Wednesday, March 14, at 3:30 to trade and share, and Meg Dahme of Creative Theatre Unlimited will lead workshops on March 28 and 29.

National Library Week will be observed by a bookmaking workshop for youngsters in grades 3-6, and Fifi Longo, clown and mime, will perform for pre-schoolers on April 19 at 3:30.

Now everything you've always wanted for less... is less.
Our Annual Sale—
when almost everything is 10% to 40% off regular prices.

A Workbench exclusive from Westerguard, this Danish work center is practically an office in a bookcase. 70h x 47¼w x 12½d. Shelf is 30½w x 19½d. In oak or teak $179 reg. $199

At Workbench, we don't have lots of storewide sales. Just one a year. But it's a dilly. Because we mark down all our best stuff. Not just a few things. Not even just a lot of things. But almost everything.

And mark down is all we do. Because, unlike a lot of other places, we don't bring in so-called specials or things no one wants or that were over-priced in the first place. At Workbench we just go through the store with our red pencil and slash prices. Which means that right now you'll find Workbench's best at 10% to 40% less than you'd expect to pay.

Our open-back music bench room divider. Made in Denmark by Faarup. In oak or teak. 25½h x 47¼w x 17½d $119 reg. $135. Longer version also available 25½h x 59w x 17½d $139 reg. $155.

That's right, 10% to 40% off on butcher block tables, upholstery, storage systems, bookcases, carts, music benches, desks and chair after chair after chair. Even the already reduced "Foreign Policy" prices on most of our imports have been further price cut for this sale.

Of course, there are a few things currently oversold that we can't put on sale. But, odds are, the great things you've been promising yourself to get are here.

Is there a catch? Only time. Because we have only one storewide sale a year. So hurry. Because if you wait too long, you'll have to wait a whole year for our sale to come around again. And that's more time than anyone should spend waiting to spend less.

Our Parsons Leg sofa in chevron-patterned cocoa nylon velvet. Special order fabrics available $579 reg. $645. Shown with our Danish cocktail table from Trioh in teak veneer. $229 reg. $250.

NEW PROGRAM PLANNED For Stroke Victim Families. The Communication Disorders unit of Princeton Medical Center will begin a series of presentations on Monday, January 30, at 7 p.m. at the Merwick Rehabilitation Unit of the Medical Center. The program will consist of five discussions designed to educate and provide support to families of stroke patients.

The initial discussion will deal with the medical aspects of stroke and will be presented by Loretta Giuffra, M.D., director of rehabilitation medicine at the Center. In subsequent sessions, Judith Van Pelt, a staff speech and language pathologist, will describe and discuss the types of communication problems that result from stroke.

Video tapes of patients, prepared by Jane Hye, another staff speech and language pathologist, and Joan Gordon, a Medical Center volunteer, will be used to supplement the discussion. Donald McDonald, Ph.D., a licensed practicing psychologist, will be present at one discussion to discuss the psychological adjustments that are necessary after stroke. Dr. McDonald serves as a consultant to the communication disorders unit.

The program will be presented continuously throughout the year, and a discussion will be held every Monday evening in the Merwick Library, 79 Bayard Lane. For further information, call 734-4616.

FOR A BETTER UNDERSTANDING OF STROKES: Loretta Giuffra, M.D., left, director of Rehabilitation Medicine at Princeton Medical Center, Jane Hye, center, and Judith Van Pelt, speech and language pathologists at the Medical Center, will be offering a series of programs for families of stroke victims on Monday evenings, starting January 30, at 7 p.m. at Merwick. The video machine will be used to illustrate and amplify the presentations.

INSTRUCTION AVAILABLE From Artisans Guild. The Artisans Guild at the YWCA will hold two special classes in the coming weeks.

A class in charting and designing a sweater will be offered for one session only on Wednesday, February 1. It is designed for intermediate knitters who would like to take their skills a step further and create a one-of-a-kind sweater.

The Guild is also offering a stencilling workshop on Saturday, February 4. Participants will learn to stencil wall and floors with antique or contemporary designs. The class will include choosing the pattern, cutting stencils and painting designs. It is limited to 10 students.

For further information and registration call the Adult Department of the YWCA, 924-5571.

WINTER PROGRAMS SET In Aerobics, Volleyball. The winter session of Lani Morrison's Aerobic Expression class, sponsored by the Recreation Department, is underway at Christ Congregation.

Classes are held from 9 to 10 a.m. and from 10:15 to 11:15 on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays until March 2. The cost is $15 for Princeton residents and $30 for non-residents. Registration forms are available at the Recreation Office. For additional information call 921-9480.

The Recreation Department will begin its informal coed volley ball program this Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the John Witherspoon School gymnasium. All interested volleyball players are welcome.

RELAXING TECHNIQUES Topic of Talk. Alan Cohen, author of "The Dragon Doesn't Live Here Anymore," will lead an informal seminar on Tuesday at 8 at the Unitarian Church. The talk is sponsored by the Holistic Health Association.

Mr. Cohen is a consultant to schools, industry and social service agencies in the field of human relations and stress management. He is former professor of individual and group dynamics at Montclair State College and the author of three books.

For information call the HHAPA office, 924-8580.

Fit To Be Tanned?

Peppi is pleased to announce an addition to our beauty services.

Come in and try the KLAFSUN TANNING SYSTEM today! You will experience a new and totally different sun bath. Just lay down and relax, with no fear of sun burning, peeling or drying of the skin.

The KLAFSUN Tanning Systems being featured at Peppi's are using the revolutionary patented UV-A "Wolff-System". The KLAFSUN cannot be compared with any of the old UV-B sunlamps, which caused skin damage and never really tanned.

Millions of people in Europe, where this new UV-A tanning trend started, have enjoyed the benefits of these fantastic devices. Even dermatologists recommend the UV-A tanning, because it is safer than the sun.

KLAFSUN's guarantee a beautiful tan after a maximum of 10 treatments. Results are seen after 2 sessions. So come in and sign up for an inexpensive vacation and get your glowing tan right now.

IT'S BUDGET TIME Borough, Township. Starting last week-end, Borough and Township began their annual wrestle with the budget — not only their own, but budgets of the agencies they support together.

This Saturday at 9:30 in the Valley Road building, (public invited, but not to comment) both governing bodies will begin consideration of these joint budgets. The Borough has already begun, by discussing them last Saturday and again this Tuesday.

Consideration of the Borough's own departmental budgets was scheduled to start this Wednesday (7-10, Borough Hall) and continue on Thursday.

IN JERUSALEM: Judith Miller, left, and her daughter, Vivian, stand on a balcony of the Hadassah Youth Center in Mount Scopus, Jerusalem, overlooking the Old City. Vivian is in Israel on a year study course organized by Hadassah for its youth movement, and her mother is participating in the Hadassah parents' tour.

When new Council members like John Huntoon and Irv Urken asked Administrator Mark Gordon why figures, in many cases, were available only through September, 1983, Mr. Gordon replied that by this time next year, the Borough hopes to be connected to Mercer County's central computerized system.

Although the Borough must spend about $10,000 for its own terminal, Mr. Gordon expects a saving of more than $200,000. He pointed to the Township's expenditure of $225,000 for hardware a few years ago, pointing out that the equipment soon becomes outdated and its capacity filled.

Council member Peter Bearse warned of hidden costs in planning and software, and asked what the computer needs of the Borough might be, suggesting this be explored.

New Questions. Because of new members on Council, there were new questions. Commenting on Mr. Gordon's recommended 19.1 percent increase for the Joint Civil Rights Commission, Mr. Huntoon asked whether the Comission was duplicating Federal and State offices doing the same thing.

He asked Mr. Gordon to find out the total number of cases handled by the Commission, the number disposed of in 1983, the number still pending, those where enforcement of Federal law is involved and why there are "meetings and seminars" in the Commission's budget.

Mayor Barbara Sigmund explained that Joan Hill, executive director of the Commission, has been elected chair of a 1984 state conference on civil rights to be run by the New Jersey League of Municipalities and attends meetings in connection with such conferences.

Mr. Huntoon also questioned the hiring process, when the Corner House (Drug Abuse) budget was laid before Council. A new director has been hired at a salary of $28,912 and Mr. Huntoon wanted to know why the Borough, which contributes one-third of Corner House's municipal income, was not involved in the selection.

Mr. Gordon explained that the Township, as banker for Corner House, does the hiring, as the Borough does when it is banker for a joint agency.

All budgets reflect a "significant" rate increase for Major Medical policies, Mr. Gordon said. For the Drug Abuse-Corner House account, for example, there is a 33.2 percent budget increase, almost entirely traceable to fringe and health benefits. Salary increases are not included in the 33.2 percent.

Need for Civil Defense? Does Princeton need Civil Defense? Mr. Huntoon asked what would happen if the office were simply eliminated. A simulated earthquake drill last year is about the sum of activity for this office, Mr. Gordon reported. (It is now known, incidentally, as "Emergency Management," rather than Civil Defense.)

Mayor Sigmund pointed out that when Princeton was isolated by severe floods several years ago, cots were provided for those stranded in Princeton. She suggested Emergency Management might be the office to handle such a standard emergency.

WHAT IS CONTACT?

Orientation Planned. A series of orientation sessions will be held in late January and early February to explain the workings of Contact, the 24-hour hotline for Mercer County residents with serious problems. Sessions are for information only, and those who attend are under no obligation to work with Contact.

Actual training, for those who volunteer as listeners for the hotline, will begin February 8 at St. Mark United Methodist Church, 465 Paxon Avenue, Hamilton Square. Classes will be held from 9 to noon and 7:30 to 10:30 each Wednesday through May. Tuition is $30.

Orientation sessions will be held Monday, January 30 from 2 to 3 in the Ewing branch of the Mercer County Library, Scotch Road; Tuesday, January 31 from 10 to 11 at the Princeton Public Library and 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Jewish Community Center, 999 Lower Ferry Road, Trenton.

On Wednesday, February 1, orientation will be at St. Mark's from 10 to 11 and 7:30-8:30 p.m. Thursday, February 2 in the Hamilton Township library, White Horse-Mercerville Road from 10:30 to 11:30 p.m. Monday, February 6, also in the library, from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

On Tuesday, February 7, sessions have been planned for the Lawrence Municipal Building from 2-3, and the West Windsor Library from 7:30 to 9.

More information is available from Contact, 883-2241 392-2111 and 896-2120.

TWO COURSES AVAILABLE

At Senior Resource Center. Two new courses will be available to senior citizens this winter at the Senior Resource Center. They are a Great Books Course and an Art Expressions Course.

The reading for the Great Books Course will include poetry, short stories, novellas, novels and plays. Several historical selections from early days and World War II will be included. Some of the writers represented are Washington, Roosevelt, Poe, Pirandello, Thurber, Golding and Christie. Taught by George W. Ingenbrandt, the course will begin Tuesday and continue until the first week of May for a total of 15 meetings. The registration fee is $20.

An Art Expressions Course for seniors will be held in the community room at Redding Circle, beginning Friday, February 3, from 2-4 and continuing until April 6 for 10 sessions. No previous art experience is required. Participants will experiment with different art media, such as clay, acrylics, water colors, charcoal and wire sculpture. There will be trips to area art shows.

The instructor will be Ann Raber, a candidate for a master's degree in the Creative Arts from Pratt Institute. The fee is $10, and the class limit is 15 members. For information call 924-7108.

OPEN HOUSE SET

By Nursery School. The Princeton Junction Cooperative Nursery School located on Princeton-Hightstown Road will hold an Open House on Saturday, February 4, from 10 until noon, for prospective three and four year olds and their parents. Refreshments will be served.

For more information, call the school president, Dave Tottenhagen, at 587-5744.

LECTURES AT SEMINARY

By Harvard Professor. Robert Coles, professor of psychiatry and medical humanities at Harvard and research psychiatrist at Harvard University Health Services, will give the L. P. Stone Lectures at Princeton Theological Seminary on January 30 and 31.

The series, entitled "Immanence and Transcendence," will include three lectures, scheduled for Monday, January 30, at 7:30 p.m., and Tuesday, January 31 at 1:30 p.m. and 5 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Campus Center. The lectures are open to the public and free of charge.

A noted child psychiatrist, educator, and author, Dr. Coles was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in 1973 for volumes II and III of "Children of Crisis."

PHYSICIAN TO SPEAK

On Coping with Phobias. In response to increasing interest and concern about the topic of phobias, Dr. David Liebling will conduct a workshop to be held at the Princeton YWCA on Thursday, January 19, at 7:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Adult Department, Dr. Liebling will present a program entitled "Free Yourself to Be Yourself: Dealing with Phobia and Anxiety."

Dr. Liebling, a Princeton psychiatrist and expert in the field of phobias and anxiety, will discuss the causes and characteristics of various phobias, how to cope with them, and how to keep them from narrowing down the affected person's life. He will also explain a variety of treatment techniques. Persons affected by phobia, says Dr. Liebling, often find it helpful to understand exactly how the mind and body respond to the stress of fear and anxiety.

Persons trying to deal with phobias or anxieties, their family members, and friends are encouraged to attend. For information and registration, call the YWCA at 924-5571.

NEW CHOIR FOUNDED

To Perform Jewish Music. The Princeton Jewish Choir, a choral group dedicated to the performance of all types of Jewish music, has begun under the sponsorship of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation and the Jewish Center.

The repertoire will include choral music by Israeli composers, Israeli and Yiddish folk music, liturgical music and early Jewish musical treasures, including an 18th century French cantata, Canticum Hebraicum by Ludovico Saladin, which will receive its American premiere this season.

The group is directed by Janice Hamer, who recently received a master's degree in conducting from Westminster Choir College. Ms. Hamer, a graduate of Harvard, taught and conducted in England and Israel before returning to this country for graduate study.

The Jewish Choir expects to perform at Princeton University, the Jewish Center and at choral festivals. Membership is open to teen-age and adult men and women. New members are needed for all voice parts. Rehearsals take place on Thursdays at 7:30 at Stevenson Hall, 83 Prospect Avenue.

For further information call 452-3635 or 466-3518.

$17,000 RAISED

By CROP Walk. The New Jersey office of CROP/Church World Service in Rocky Hill has announced the total raised during last October's CROP Walk For Hunger.

The total amount raised by the Princeton Walk was $17,000. A number of area churches and schools and other organizations participated in the annual event. Seventy-five percent of the total raised goes to drought-stricken Bolivia, and the remaining 25 percent will go to Trenton area hunger projects.

BULLETIN NOTES

A course entitled "Jewish Ethics: Analysis and Application" will be taught by Rabbi Melvin J. Glatt Tuesday evenings at 8 at the Jewish Center, 457 Nassau Street. The course will begin Tuesday, January 24, and continue for seven additional consecutive sessions.

Dr. Glatt will cover such topics as the origins of Jewish ethics; the God-human relationship; obligations to self, family and community; ethical concepts in biblical, classic rabbinic, and mystical thought; and the relationship between Jews and Christians.

The course is open to all. There is a registration fee of $15 for non-members of the Congregation. University and Seminary students may attend without charge. For registration or information call the Jewish Center office at 921-0100.

Collins

called Greenholm, separated by a wall from Chambers Street, presented an appeal with 16 signatures.

They charge that the Planning Board was "unreasonable" in failing to acknowledge the adverse effects of Collins on Greenholm, a neighborhood "in the highest Borough tax-assessment category."

The "most noxious elements" of Collins' plan are on the other side of their wall on Chambers, they state, citing the statement of Planning Board member Margen Penick that plans are "destructive to the Greenholm neighborhood."

Specifically: neither loading zone nor garbage compression-pick up should be on Chambers; the lower-level garage exit should be opposite the Nassau Inn, not on Chambers; the office building should be brick, not stucco, to harmonize with Palmer Square buildings.

Greenholm residents say they wrote Arthur Collins and former Collins vice-president James Harvie in December, 1980. Two residents called on Mr. Harvie in that year, and were shown plans that did not have "the most noxious elements of the later plan on Chambers."

They were assured by Mr. Harvie, they said, that Collins would "take our (concerns) into account." They also refer to "dubious" traffic studies, and charge that the agreement between Collins and Borough regarding intersection improvements, was never weighed by the board.

Mr. Potter, who unsuccessfully appealed the Phase II decision to Borough Council, charges now as he did then, that the Board did not consider New Jersey's Mt. Laurel II housing ruling of January, 1983.

The Board erred, he says, in refusing to allow him to give evidence as to whether Collins should be required to set aside 20 percent of its units for lower-cost homes. Mayor and Council had instructed the Board, Mr. Potter states, to inquire into housing issues.

He also questions whether Collins has enough money to finish the project, and says the Board paid little or no attention to energy-efficient construction, sewage disposal or traffic.

No Low Cost Housing. The Witherspoon-Jackson Corporation, a non-profit organization formed to acquire lower-cost housing for residents of the Witherspoon area, gives the "exclusion" of lower-income housing as the reason for its appeal.

Mr. North, who lives at 80 Random Road on Harry's Brook, says the Board did not sufficiently consider sewage problems and therefore "failed to accept responsibility to protect the public health, safety and welfare." Language requiring Collins to remove four times as much infiltration-inflow from the Harry's Brook system as the development would add in effluent is "vague, ambiguous, and virtually unintelligible," he declared.

500 Housing Units, Golf Courses, Shopping Center Planned For 600-Acre Tract on Great Road in Montgomery Township

BUSINESS

Five hundred single-family homes, two golf courses, and a rural shopping center are the major features of a proposed 600-acre residential development to be built at the Woodacres Farm in Montgomery Township beginning later this year or early next. The tract runs from Cherry Valley Road at its Princeton Township boundary to Route 518 in Blawenburg and fronts on The Great Road, Bedens Brook Road and Route 518.

Principals in the venture, which has been in the planning stage for more than 12 years, are William W. Augustine, president of Hunt & Augustine, and Franklin D. Crawford, president of Princeton Microfilm. Both have had extensive background in building and developing in this area.

AND THE SIXTH HOLE WILL BE HERE: An 18-hole championship golf course and an 18-hole par-three course will be two of the features of a proposed 600-acre residential development to be built over the next five to seven years in Montgomery Township. Principals in the development are Franklin D. Crawford (left), president of Princeton Microfilm and William W. Augustine, president of Hunt & Augustine.

In 23 years as a residential builder, Mr. Augustine has developed such areas as Winfield, Castle Howard and Audubon in Princeton, the Abey Tract and the Pennington Professional Center in Pennington, and the Rolling Hill Road area at Bedens Brook. Mr. Crawford is the owner and developer of C&W Company Properties and V.P. Realty, which have developed commercial and office complexes in the Alexander Road and Hightstown areas.

About half of the 600 acres will be used for the housing, with lot sizes varying from one-quarter to 1½ acres, for an average of one-half acre per lot. None of the homes will front on existing roads; all will be screened and buffered from existing residences. The development will be serviced by a network of private roads, central sewers, gas, city water and underground telephone and power utilities.

Approximately 300 acres of permanent open space and recreational facilities will be incorporated into the development. This includes an 18-hole championship golf course and an 18-hole par-three course, both to be designed by Rees Jones of Montclair. Mr. Jones, along with his father Robert Trent Jones and his brother, has designed many of the best known golf courses throughout the world.

The clubhouse for the 180-acre championship course will be located south of the Bedens Brook. Tennis, swimming, dining, locker and other related facilities will also be available. The course will be adjacent to and immediately north and south of the Bedens Brook, in close proximity to the golf course owned by the Bedens Brook Club. The executive golf course will be located on the tract of land fronting on Route 518 and The Great Road.

The residential units will be built on a variety of lot sizes and settings throughout the area. Houses will be located adjacent to many of the fairways and in the wooded and hilly areas between the Bedens Brook and Cherry Valley Road. All homes will be individually owned; private security and road maintenance will be provided.

Roads and common open spaces will be in the form of association ownership. Optional yard and home maintenance will be available to all homeowners. Building lots will be sold to individuals and also, in limited numbers, to corporations and selected builders. An architectural committee, including William McGill Thompson, A.I.A., Robert S. Bennett, A.I.A., Messrs. Augustine and Crawford, and other local individuals, will control all building in the area.

Included in the project will be new rental housing for people who are employed either by the development or by Montgomery Township.

A rural shopping center, to be called The Blawenburg "Village Center," is planned for the corner of The Great Road and Route 518. The center is designed to augment the shopping needs of area residents and to provide accessibility for shopping within a convenient and local driving area.

With an eye toward eventual approval by the township and state, and acceptance by neighbors, the developers make the following points:

- Existing homes will be buffered by abutting open spaces, mounding, golf fairways and mature shrubbery. Water, gas and sewerage facilities will be offered to neighboring property owners in the immediate area.
- The project will constitute one of the largest rateables for Montgomery, with a minimum impact for Township expenditures. The projected school enrollment will be well below normal; there will be no road repairs or maintenance requested or required.
- The development will represent a minimal impact on local traffic conditions. There are seven existing roads leading to the development, and it will have nine separate entries.

KEEP MORE OF WHAT YOU MAKE. MAKE MORE ON WHAT YOU KEEP.

Beginning this year, anyone who has earned income will be entitled to his or her own Individual Retirement Account (IRA). That means even if you are already covered by another retirement plan, you will be eligible for IRA... and the tax deductions that go with it. The amount you may set aside each year is $2,000.

If you are self-employed you will be able to have an IRA account in addition to your Keogh Account and the money you may set aside in your Keogh Account has increased to $15,000-for a total of $17,000 you may set aside tax-deferred each year.

With so much at stake, there's even more reason to make sure your retirement money will get every possible chance to grow as fast as it can. That's why we strongly recommend you take full advantage of the Merrill Lynch IRA, Keogh and Simplified Employment Pension Plan (SEP) accounts with their unique investment flexibility. It's the Merrill Lynch Tax Defense—your all-out offense against the high cost of retirement. Because you not only enjoy a tremendous tax break, but an opportunity to build a substantial nest egg as well. So it makes more sense than ever to take a good, hard look at our IRA, Keogh and SEP Plans immediately. Just call or mail the coupon for complete information.

FURNITURE STORE SOLD To Former Employee. The Rug and Furniture Mart and Ivy Manor Showrooms in the Princeton Shopping Center has been sold to a former employee, Gilbert Hancock.

Mr. Hancock worked for the Rug and Furniture Mart for five years from 1967 to 1971. Since then he has been a sales representative for three companies — Dixie Furniture, Bernhardt, and Stanley Furniture.

The firm was started 38 years ago in 1946 by two brothers, Roger W. Yard and Arthur B. Yard on Route 206. It sold carpeting and was known as the Rug Mart. A few years later, it also started selling furniture and its name was expanded to The Rug and Furniture Mart, Inc.

In 1959, the Barden Furniture Store in the Princeton Shopping Center, known as the Ivy Manor Showrooms, was purchased by the Yards. Since 1977, when Roger Yard retired, the firm has been owned and operated by Arthur Yard.

Gilbert Hancock

Mr. Hancock announced that Mr. Yard will remain for a period of time with the firm where he will assist in the carpet department.

OBITUARIES

Francis J. Maguire, 59, former chief of police for the West Windsor Township Police Department and a former lieutenant in the Princeton Borough Police Department, died January 13 in Yardley, Pa., where he lived.

Mr. Maguire was with the Borough Police Department from 1952 to 1967. A graduate of Princeton High School, he was until 1966 the only Borough police officer to have graduated first in his class from the New Jersey State Police Academy at Sea Girt.

He was appointed West Windsor's first full-time police chief in 1967 by West Windsor Township Mayor Malcolm B. Roszel and Princeton Borough Mayor Henry S. Patterson. At the time he was the only police officer in New Jersey to be valedictorian of his class at FBI's National Academy since it was founded in 1935. He won the John Edgar Hoover Medal for Excellence in 1964.

In his first 18 months at West Windsor, Mr. Maguire nurtured the department into a full-time force of seven men and two part-timers. Before this, State Police from the Princeton Barracks had augmented West Windsor Township service. He resigned as chief of police in 1979 and retired from active duty in 1981.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated at St. Ignatius Roman Catholic Church in Yardley. Memorial contributions may be made to the Appalachian Conference Committee, Harpers Ferry, W. Va.

Esther Harrop Godfrey, 42, died January 8 of leukemia in Carmel, Calif. She was the daughter of Mrs. George A. Harrop of Cherry Hill Road and New Milford, Conn., and the late Dr. Harrop.

She is survived also by her husband, William C. Godfrey, and four children, Amanda, Benjamin, Suzanne and Alexander, all in Carmel; two brothers, David Harrop of New York City, and Ambassador William C. Harrop of Washington, D.C.

Paul B. Sheldon, 89, a New York City physician who retired in 1969 to live at 6 Springdale Road, died January 12 in Waldeboro, Maine.

Born in Webster Grove, Mo., Dr. Sheldon received his AB from Oberlin College in 1917 and his MD from Washington University Medical School, St. Louis, Mo., in 1922. He served with the US Army Medical Corps during World War I, and in World War II was a lieutenant colonel with Base Hospital No. 2 in England and Normandy for 3½ years.

Dr. Sheldon practiced internal medicine in New York City for 47 years and was an associate professor at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons. He moved to Princeton in July, 1969, at age 75. After retirement he worked regularly with children in woodworking classes and in schools where he gave talks on the history of medicine, illustrated with his collection of antique medical instruments.

Dr. Sheldon was an enthusiastic yachtsman and a member of the Corinthian Club and the Cruising Club of America. The latter awarded him the Blue Water Medal in recognition of his voyages along the Labrador coast.

He is survived by his wife, the former Caroline Munro of Princeton; a son, Dr. Dana M. Sheldon of Spruce Head, Maine; two daughters, Mrs. Barbara Neale of Providence, R.I., and Mrs. Alan Dessen of Chapel Hill, N.C.; eight grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held in Waqoit, Mass., in the summer.

Nathan Craig, 64, of New York City, formerly of Princeton, died January 9 in St. Clare's Hospital, New York.

Born in Princeton, Mr. Craig had lived most of his life in the Princeton area before moving to New York City eight years ago. He was a retired hotel worker.

Surviving are a brother, Maron Craig of Princeton; a niece, Martique Branch of Ewing, and two nephews, Kevin Craig of Mendham and Jeremy Craig of Princeton.

A funeral service, followed by cremation, was held in the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church, the Rev. G. Howard Hunt officiating.

Leland A. Clark, 80, of Plainsboro, died January 12 at his home.

Born in Hillsboro, Mr. Clark was associated with Walker-Gordon Farms in Plainsboro for more than 50 years. He was a former member of the Plainsboro Town Council, a member and elder of the First Presbyterian Church of Plainsboro, and a member of the Apollo Lodge No. 156, F&AM.

Surviving are his wife, Jennie Belle Stanton Clark; a son, C. Stanton Clark of Plainsboro; a daughter, Evelyn C. Pittman of Bedford, Pa.; a brother, Thomas Clark of Culpeper, Va.; two sisters, Edith Stevener of Culpeper, Va., and Kathleen Anderson of Bremo Bluff, Va.; four grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

The service was held at the First Presbyterian Church of Plainsboro, the Rev. Robert L. Slusher, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the First Presbyterian Church of Plainsboro, Plainsboro, N.J. 08536.

Peter Zapko, 68, of Orchard Avenue, Hopewell, died January 14 at his home.

Mr. Zapko was employed by the Hopewell Valley Regional School System in Hopewell Township for many years.

He is survived by his wife, Johanna K. Zapko; a son, Peter M. Zapko, at home; a daughter and son-in-law, Johanna Z. and Michael Serbin of Hopewell Township; and two brothers, Stephen Zapko of Hungary, and Louis Zapko of Flemington.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. James Roman Catholic Church, Pennington, with burial in Ewing Cemetery.

Paul Mazur, 99, of North Mill Road, Princeton Junction, died January 15 at Dover General Hospital.

Born in Austria, Mr. Mazur came to the United States in 1908. He owned a farm on Cherry Hill Road at one time, and he had also worked on Staten Island for the DeBoise Ship Yards, retiring in 1957.

He is survived by two sons, Walter Mazur of Marc Island, Fla., and Edward Mazur of Clearwater, Fla.; a daughter, Mrs. Olga Hall of West Windsor Township; nine grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

The service will be held Thursday at 2 at the Mather-Hodge Funeral Home, 40 Vandeventer Avenue. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery, Hightstown. Friends may call this Wednesday from 6:30 to 9:30 at the funeral home.

W. Houston Pearson, 98, died January 15 in Helene Fuld Medical Center.

Born in Ewing, Mr. Pearson had lived in Lower Makefield Township, Pa., before moving to Pennington in 1942. He was a graduate of the Pennington School, the Lawrenceville School and the University of Virginia. He was an outstanding baseball player and captain of the Pennington and Lawrenceville School baseball teams.

Mr. Pearson was a professional engineer, formerly associated with Homasote Co. of Trenton and Eager Electric Co. of Watertown, N.Y. He was also a Trenton area consulting engineer in private practice.

He was a member of the City Club and Carteret Club, both in Trenton.

Husband of the late Helen Eager Pearson, he is survived by two sons, George H. Pearson and Robert E. Pearson, both of Pennington, and a cousin, Elizabeth B. Shivers of Moorestown, N.J.

The service was held at the Ewing Cemetery Chapel, the Rev. John W. Nelson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Trenton, officiating. Burial was in Ewing Cemetery. Contributions may be made to Helene Fuld Medical Center, 750 Brunswick Avenue, Trenton, 08638.

Your passport to a carefree retirement!

For a financially secure retirement, open a Nassau Savings IRA (Individual Retirement Account) today. Anyone who is gainfully employed is eligible, even if covered by an employer pension plan.

You can contribute up to $2,000 annually, or up to $2,250 if your spouse does not earn outside income. Contributions are tax deductible and earned interest tax deferred until you start to withdraw from your IRA (between 59½ and 70½) when most people are in a lower tax bracket.

Reduce your income tax! For example, if you're in the 25% tax bracket and contribute $1,000 to your IRA, you deduct the $1,000 on your federal tax form; your tax is reduced by $250. The net IRA cost is $750. In effect, you keep an additional $250 of your hard-earned money.

For your passport to a carefree retirement, develop the profitable IRA habit at the Nassau Savings nearest you. Open your IRA with a contribution of $10 or more. Follow up whenever you desire, there's no minimum deposit required. You can contribute up until you file your federal return (usually by April 15th) the following calendar year.

Remember, the younger you start the greater tax savings you'll enjoy, and the more you will have for a financially secure retirement.

In Princeton... In the woods... Incomparable!
39,000 Sq. Ft. - Available Immediately

457 North Harrison is a remarkable office building from any point of view. Located in the very heart of Princeton itself, it is nonetheless tucked away on a wooded, elegantly landscaped 5-acre estate tract.

Incomparable is the perfect word for its rich combination of redwood and brick exterior, solar-tinted windows and dramatic interiors.

Incomparable, too, is its location: three minutes from downtown Princeton, five minutes from Route 1 and around the corner from the Princeton Shopping Center and Route 206 (connecting you to Interstate 287).

Available in custom-designed modules of 1200 sq. ft. and larger, each with its own individually controlled heat and air-conditioning system. Each floor has six corner offices. Immediate occupancy available. For leasing information, call Sutton Management Corp., (201) 533-1401.

OFFICE SPACE IN DOWNTOWN PRINCETON

Yes, right now the following space is available in the new Henderson Building at Witherspoon and Spring Streets. Construction and decorating should be finished around January 1, 1984. Just in time for your business to get off to a new start in the new year. This is a prestigious, brick building with air conditioning, elevators, and blue-chip neighbors -- Paine Webber, John Seed, M.D., Absolute Sound, Uniglobe Travel, Software City, Henderson Realty, even an Ice Cream Store called Haagen Dazs! And there's all the marvelous ambience of Princeton itself. You can even see Nassau Hall!

Call John Henderson at 921-9300 for details.

BEDENS BROOK ROAD

Old Colonial farm house mellowed by its 200 years with the added conveniences of modern living. Traditional in design, the charm of yesteryear is also preserved in the random width floors, old beams and three fireplaces. The three plus acres, beautifully landscaped, overlook a picturesque brook. In addition to the main house with its gracious living areas, five/six bedrooms and three baths, it offers an English barn, small milk house, tool shed and Sylvan pool. $330,000

SINGLE FAMILY RANCH HOMES WITH 24 HOUR SECURITY
CUSTOMIZE YOUR OWN HOME!
STAY CLOSE TO FAMILY AND FRIENDS

Privacy. We all enjoy it. You've certainly earned it! Luxury and privacy are built right into Homestead's four spacious, single family models featuring 2 bedrooms, 2 baths, attached garage with automatic opener, central air-conditioning, a house full of Sears Kenmore appliances, a Sentry 24™ Security System with medic alert, smoke and intrusion alarms and much more! So, why retire in a clustered community when you've earned your own privacy!

That's right, most retirement communities won't budge an inch when it comes to making changes. Take it or leave it so to speak. Not Homestead at Mansfield. Within basic model design requirements, we'll customize your home to meet your individual needs. Enlarge a dining area, add more closet space, you name it, we'll provide it!

Retirement community living shouldn't mean having to leave those who are close to you. Children and grandchildren. Friends. Especially around the holidays. All are important factors to consider when selecting a retirement environment. Because Homestead at Mansfield is conveniently located and easily accessible to major arteries, you'll never be too far from life's most cherished possessions, the people you love!

DIRECTIONS
or
Rt. 295 to Exit 52A. Travel 1 mile East to Columbus to Homestead at Mansfield on right.

HOMESTEAD HAS IT ALL!

New Jersey's newest and most unique adult community for families with at least one person age 52 or older, really does have it all! Leisure and recreational activities are a way of life. Our exclusive Homestead Country Club and Clubhouse provide the ideal atmosphere for socializing by the pool, deck lounge, tennis courts and surrounding facilities. Activities and parties are carefully planned 12 months a year. Plus, our 3-acre Lake Anna, located in the heart of the community is an oasis of relaxation.

WE'RE HERE BECAUSE YOU'VE EARNED THE BEST!
Check out the others, then come see us! You'll surely agree ...There's no place like Homestead at Mansfield!

UNUSUAL FIND

in Princeton's Central Business District. Eight room stucco house with slate roof on small in-town lot, just off Nassau Street. Recently operated as a retail shop with owner's living quarters above, it offers potential retail-office use. Two baths, 2 fireplaces (currently non-working), basement and attic storage - and old time charm. Currently offered with 1 off-street parking space, with room for more. A new listing at $200,000 in a stunning residence on six plus wooded acres. Formal entry court with miniature fruit and espaliered trees, imposing 2 story stucco home in a neo-classic design. It offers lovely, light soaring open spaces that make up the living, dining and kitchen areas of the first floor. Upstairs, a private master bedroom suite with library, loft and deck; in a separate wing, 2 more bedrooms, each with deck, and shared bath.

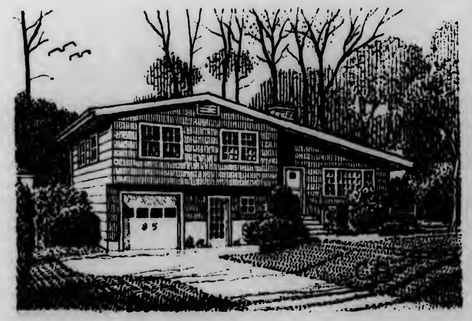
Flanking one side of the entry courtyard is a charming guest house of large living room or office, sleeping alcove and ½ bath - all with its own private terrace. Potential apartment, anyone?



This is an exciting listing for a very special buyer. Call for brochure.

THE WILLIAMSBURG at ROSSMOOR, a roomy detached townhouse condominium featuring living and dining rooms, den with fireplace, Florida room, 2 bedrooms and 2½ baths. Double garage with workshop storage area. Community pool, golf, tennis, entertainment hall. Like-new condition with wall to wall carpeting, washer, dryer, refrigerator, range, and dishwasher included in the sale price. Immediate Availability! $148,000

Also offered as a six month unfurnished rental at $775.00 per month.

SUPER CONVENIENT LOCATION

is the word for this pretty brick and frame ranch in Princeton Township. Living room with fireplace, formal dining room with bay window and built-in corner cupboard, newly remodeled kitchen, two large bedrooms and den or third bedroom - and a guaranteed to be dry, finished basement. Outside, there's a flagstone patio shaded by mature trees and landscaping. All this spells perfection for the small family. Just listed at $174,500

WONDERFUL PRINCETON AREA, beautifully landscaped and manicured grounds, attractive 3 bedroom, 2 bath contemporary split level. Cathedral ceilings in living and dining areas, family room, study. Brand new on the market. $174,500

Your wish for a unique home in a private setting will undoubtedly be satisfied with this lovely "barn" home on 3.8 acres, just outside historic Hopewell. Flagstone foyer, huge living room with raised hearth fireplace and beamed ceiling, plus large recreation room with storage, and of course, another fireplace. There are 6 bedrooms, 3 baths, and a great winding staircase to a loft. There is also a 6 stall barn, workshop and garage.

ONE OF A KIND ... ROBERT A.M. STERN ... COMES TO "COLFAX"!

COLFAX
AT BEDENS BROOK

Call your nearest Henderson office for details on this Robert A.M. Stern design or one of many other outstanding plans available for COLFAX. Or bring your own plans for review. But do it soon. There are only 14 sites still available.

At COLFAX you'll find a lovely very private cul-de-sac lined with Norway Maples and Belgium Block curbs winding its way upwards for perhaps the most spectacular views available today. Each building lot has been carefully delineated with rows of flowering dogwoods for beauty and privacy and with an eye towards nature, views and seclusion. Absolutely perfect to create your own private world.

The name is COLFAX. And COLFAX may well be the most beautiful place to live in the entire Princeton area. Yet COLFAX is only minutes from Nassau Street in downtown Princeton, the University, shopping, outstanding day schools and clubs. COLFAX is really part of the Princeton lifestyle.

Over 18 acres of rolling hillside have been permanently dedicated as a "Green Acres" site to remain untouched in perpetuity for the exclusive use of the COLFAX community. If you're considering Princeton as a place to live and prosper, you really must pay a visit to COLFAX!

This is just one of the beautiful new designs by exciting world-renowned architects available this very day for one of the exquisite COLFAX lots still available.

This particular blend of traditional design with classic detail and materials contains a massive 30' living room with oversized brick fireplace, enormous family/living areas with expansive foyers and hallways, four bedrooms, three and a half ceramic-tiled baths. A three-car garage is also a must! A dramatic enclosed terrace is an integral part of this exceptional masterpiece.

ISN'T IT TIME TO BUY A VERY SPECIAL PRINCETON HOUSE?

THIS JUST-LISTED CUSTOM WILLIAMSBURG COLONIAL NESTLED ON TWO ACRES OF WOODS AND PLANTINGS ON BROOKSTONE DRIVE IS THE ANSWER! Well back from the road, with farmland behind, totally fenced for privacy...the setting is hard to believe. Brick patios, inground pool, pool house, deck and more ... it's a veritable wonderland ... yet virtually in town for convenience! The house on two levels with full basement is warm and gracious with a French country feeling throughout the traditional touches and custom appointments. Formal living room with French doors and fireplace; inviting dining room and a country kitchen with fireplace. There's a cozy library with lots of built-ins as well. As many as five bedrooms with 3½ baths for luxurious comfort and privacy. The somewhat finished basement and oversized two-car garage almost complete the picture, not to mention oodles of storage areas. Please call for an appointment to preview this exceptional opportunity.

Kingston Acres II

Yes, after five years of planning and developing KINGSTON ACRES II has arrived. And it was worth the wait.

A limited edition of just fourteen outstanding colonial houses, KINGSTON ACRES II has begun construction and two models have been completed for your inspection.

Basically, the houses are expanded, oversized models with proven floor plans to delight the most discerning family. Large entry foyers are just the beginning with tremendous living rooms and formal dining rooms. Enormous eat-in kitchens are standard, too. The family room is available with brick fireplace and wooden panelling if desired. Large 2-car garage, of course. And don't forget the tiled powder room.

Upstairs you'll find four super bedrooms and two full baths. The master suite is especially oversized with many extras.

Please make it a point to visit KINGSTON ACRES II. We're open for inspection from 10:30 to 6:00 on weekdays and 11:00 to 4:00 on weekends. Closed Tuesday.

924-6739

DIRECTIONS: From Princeton take Nassau Street through the Village of Kingston. (Route 27.) Turn right on Fairfield Drive. Follow Fairfield to Schuh Drive and the models. See you there.

RELO: World Leader In Relocation

Rent Increase Forces the Outgrown Shop To Find New Home or Cease Operations

A HAPPY PLACE: Maylis Krueger, right, manager of the Outgrown Shop, waits on a customer while Esther D. Pollack, a volunteer, looks on. Mrs. Pollack is one of several volunteers who don't have children at Princeton Day School, operator and beneficiary of the shop, but who work there just because it is fun.

A Princeton institution that dates back to the 1940s and provides a unique service to area residents is in danger of extinction unless it can find a new home.

The Outgrown Shop is that place where bargain hunters outfit whole families at a fraction of market cost. It is where parents go to trade in last year's ice skates for this year's larger size, or to find slightly used jodphurs and riding jacket for the daughter who has talked her way into riding lessons. It is an inexpensive resource for warm outerwear jackets, barely used baby clothes, hand-me-down Girl Scout uniforms, nice school skirts and Sunday dresses.

A consignment operation in which the consignor receives 50 percent of the sale price of each item and Princeton Day School receives a hefty contribution annually to its scholarship fund, the Outgrown Shop has been located for the past 10 years upstairs at the rear of Redding's Plumbing and Heating at 234 Nassau Street.

The lease is up at the end of this year, and family circumstances have made it necessary for the Reddings to double the rent. The Outgrown Shop is looking for a new home.

According to Maylis Krueger, full time shop manager for the past five years and wife of the lacrosse coach at Princeton Day School, the Shop would like to remain on Nassau Street, or at least be near the bus line. Many customers commute from Trenton to work in Princeton, she says, and they come into the shop during lunch hour or on their way home. University students also seek out the shop as a source of winter coats and costume material for weekend parties.

The shop currently displays its goods on moveable racks in a 1500 square-foot floor area and is looking for at least that much space in a new home.

Origins. Initiated as a project of the alumnae of Miss Fine's School, the Outgrown Shop had its first beginnings in a box in a big cupboard in Sally Patterson's first grade classroom when the school was located where Borough Hall stands now. Kingsley Hubby (Mrs. George Gallup) was one of the originators. The box served as an exchange place for outgrown gym tunics and the blue blazers that were part of the school uniform.

As the idea, and the number and kinds of items grew, it became necessary to move out of the classroom. Space was found in the cellar of 210 Nassau Street, where Bellows is today, but which at that time was the home of the YWCA. Jean Smyth served as the unofficial and unpaid manager for its first six or seven years and, in order to assure a steady supply of volunteers, turned it into a joint venture of the mothers of students at Princeton Country Day School as well as at Miss Fine's.

In time the Outgrown Shop outgrew these quarters and moved down the street to the basement of the Edmund Cook building, where rent was paid for the first time. Growth prompted still another move to upstairs space in the Houghton Building on Witherspoon Street.

Here June Gulick became the first paid manager, and the shop settled in for a successful stay before moving back to Nassau Street at the rear of Reddings 10 years ago.

Rigorous Standards. The shop presently has some 400 consignors, and Mrs. Krueger expects that number to swell to 600 by the end of the school year. Items are accepted for consignment on Mondays and only if they are in good condition and perfectly clean. Donations may be brought in at any time and are encouraged because the full price is turned over to the scholarship fund after expenses for running the shop are paid.

Thirty volunteers man the shop with Mrs. Krueger in shifts between 10 and 5 Tuesdays through Fridays. Unlike many volunteer jobs which are done sheerly for altruism, this one has its tangible rewards. Volunteers are in a position to be the first to spot and buy at Outgrown Shop prices the rare find — the worn-only-once designer dress, the tuxedo in perfect condition, the real Canadian Bauer ice skates, size nine.

All the volunteers take part in the pricing, perhaps the most difficult part of the whole operation. Each consignor is given a number, and each article is tagged with the consignor's number, the size and the price as decided upon by the volunteers working in pairs. If an item is not sold within six weeks, the price is reduced and the full amount goes to PDS after expenses. At the end of each season (fall, winter, spring, corresponding to the PDS school terms), there is a big sale in which everything is half price, then marked down still further to $2 or less, and finally bag day in which everyone can fill a bag for $2.

For 1982-83, the Outgrown Shop took in $69,000 and paid out to its consignors $22,600. After expenses of about $19,000, the amount turned over to Princeton Day School for scholarships was in excess of $28,000. According to Judy Tataro, who does the complex bookkeeping, it looks as if the amount that will be raised in 1983-84 will be even higher, because each month so far has been over last year's figure.

Customers Come Back. Mrs. Krueger, Swedish-born, quiet mannered and very tactful, says she enjoys her work at the Outgrown Shop. "You get to know all the customers. They seem to come back every couple of weeks."

She is also enthusiastic about the items it carries and the service it performs. "We only have nice things," she says. "And we only have great volunteers."

Those who know of a space in which the Outgrown Shop might continue to provide its valuable service to the community are invited to call Mrs. Krueger at the Shop, 924-5720, Tuesday-Friday, or Gretel Kreisler, chairman of the Outgrown Shop Committee at PDS, 924-7292. It is possible, Mrs. Krueger suggests, that providing such a space at a nominal rent to a non-profit educational institution might involve a tax write-off for the lessor.

McCARTER AT SCHOOL

Riverside. Theatre technique, when you're only seven years old?

Why not?

McCarter's Outreach program has reached out this year to Riverside School (last year, Community Park) where nine kids in second, third and fourth grades are in a weekly PEP program, learning and squirming and improvising and stretching — and exploring the world of theatre and make-believe. Their director, drama coach and guru is Amy King, of the McCarter staff.

Next Wednesday, they'll put on a play, "Mushroom in the Rain," for the kindergarteners.

PEP means Potential for Enrichment and Performance, and it's the Princeton Regional Schools' gifted-and-talented program enlarged to encompass everybody in the student body.

"Some of the nine are kids who are readers and speak with lively intelligence," Ms. King found. "Others are learning-disabled, with reading problems.

"Yet one of the learning-disabled who has real problems puzzling out the words we write on the blackboard — my, you should see the way that kid's body can express ideas and feelings!"

Discipline First. It begins, Ms. King says, with discipline, because you must tell them to sit down, calm down.

So, first thing on Wednesdays at 1 o'clock, the nine lie on the floor to relax. ("It's hard for them not to just burst with energy," Ms. King laughs, "and at first, they didn't like the idea of lying down to relax.")

Explore different places, as you lie there on the floor. Picture things in your head — lying on a hillside, lying in the sun, floating in warm water ...

"Then we talk about how those pictures made us feel. They are very articulate children — I was surprised. And we do physical, loosening-up exercises to get rid of tensions.

"They like to make loud noises and scare the teacher across the hall."

After that, come "rounds," when they write lists on the board: sink, kangaroo, car, gorilla. Part of this is to share ideas, and to impress on children the team aspect of work in the theatre, the emphasis on co-operation and not selfishness.

"You don't say 'Hey, somebody stole my idea!' because we all share ideas," Ms. King explains to them.

Then, each of the nine goes in front of the group and expresses one of the ideas, either physically or with words. This is followed by improvs, acting out improvisationally.

Violence? One day — Ms. King thinks it was to test her — the ideas suggested for improvisation were just too violent to act out. Not wanting to squelch the kids, she simply let them talk until the time had run out and class was over.

"Next week, we talked about it. I told them their violent ideas had made me uncomfortable, and asked 'how did they make you feel?' They said, 'yeah, it's not really what we want to work on.'

"I told them people do have violent feelings, but this wasn't the appropriate place to let them out. They could talk to their teacher, I suggested, or to me after class."

It was the kids themselves who decided they should do a play. "Mushroom in the Rain" is adapted from a story about little animals who want shelter from a storm. The class worked for two weeks, developing animal characters. They learned basic stage technique — don't block the action by standing down center, face the audience.

Before "Mushrooms," they had a make-up workshop one week and toured McCarter another week, so in the seven-week program, they've had five to work on theatre.

"We can work the full hour and 15 minutes on the same material, and they'll still be with it, listening very well," Ms. King says, "but you have to feel out their attention span and how much they can absorb."

Some of the nine are in the program because they chose it; others were assigned. There are two boys and seven girls, one black child and one of Hispanic background.

At the end, Ms. King evaluates the children and they evaluate the program. She has been working with young people since graduating from Marlboro with a theatre major. After that, she directed a children's theatre in Bath, Maine. At McCarter she wrote the study guides for student matinees, and has visited schools, talking to students about the play they would see.

In her evaluation, she has been asked by the schools to watch these seven, eight and nine-year-olds for intellectual, academic, athletic and performing ability, creative thinking and leadership.

She loves it.

"To be able to play with kids for an hour and a half — it makes my week."

—Katharine H. Bretnall

FROM NEW ZEALAND

"Smash Palace." It's only the second feature film made in New Zealand in the past 15 years and its subject is a familiar one, McCarter points out, but critics have said that "Smash Palace" is a movie "stamped with integrity in every frame."

It will be screened, as the Movies-from-McCarter series resumes, next Tuesday and Wednesday at 7:30 and 9:15 in Kresge Auditorium.

It's about a race-car driver whose wife moves out and takes along their seven-year-old daughter. His emotions move from startled hurt to an outrage almost lethally destructive. Finally, he kidnaps his daughter and hides out in the bush while police search for him.

ACTING SHAKESPEARE

McKellen. He's Jacques in "As You Like It," both Richards (II and III) and both Romeo and Juliet, as well as Polonius and Bottom and Prospero. Ian McKellen, of course.

The actor, who won the 1981 Tony Award for his portrayal of Salieri in "Amadeus," will bring his one-man Shakespeare show to McCarter Monday, January 30, portraying all the roles listed above and maybe even more besides.

The theme is "theatre as a metaphor for life," and "his first words are "all the world's a stage..." But he also tells amusing backstage stories, offers analyses of the texts and even sings. That's from "Love's Labour," a musical he performed at Cambridge.

FOR INN CABARET

Hurrry! Hurry! Hurry! One night only, two performances only for "The Best of Inn Cabaret" on Saturday, January 28 and your tax-deductible ticket helps send the Princeton High School Choir and Orchestra to Vienna next summer.

Performances will be in the Prince William Room of the Nassau Inn at 8:30 and 10:30. The $25 ticket price includes free champagne, courtesy of the angels backing the show.

Performers will be Dan Berkowitz, Suzie Bertin, Roo Brown, Leila Cannon, Harry Clark, Julie Clark, Diane Crane, Liz Fillo, George Gallup, Jim Hopkins, Joan Lucas, Milton Lyon, Susie McCabe, Bill Stackpole and Reid White.

Musicians will be Peter Wright and Steve Fillo. Marie Miller is providing costumes and Richard Backes, the lights.

Seating is by reservation only. Call Florence Burke at the high school, 924-5600, ext. 305, to reserve a place.

The Cabaret performances are part of year-long fund raising efforts, including a student work month, concerts by choir and orchestra, donations from various businesses and parent subscriptions.

'LES TROCKS!'

En Pointe, etc, Les Ballet Trockedero de Monte Carlo is a troupe of male professional dancers with a full classic and modern dance repertoire, who adhere faithfully to the style and manners — as well as the conceits — of these dance styles, but ...

They will bring their ballet-in-parody back to McCarter for two performances: Tuesday, February 7 and Wednesday, February 8, both at 8 p.m.

The dancers achieve their comic effects by exaggerating the accidents and incongruities of serious dance, producing a blend of comedy, seriousness — and the spectacle of men dancing en pointe without falling on their faces (unless they want to.)

The program will include the Trocks' own version of "Les Sylphides," "The Dying Swan," "The Lamentations of Jane Eyre," "Spring Waters," "Marche Slav" and a Balanchine parody called "Go for Barocco."

YOUNG PLAYWRIGHTS

Teens Invited. New Jersey teen agers who like to write plays are invited to submit their works to a New Jersey Young Playwrights Festival, where selected plays will be performed at Rutgers on May 30.

All plays submitted will automatically be entered in a national Young Playwrights Festival, and those selected nationally will be given professional productions in New York in 1985.

Completed plays of no more than 20 minutes performing time, written by playwrights who are under the age of 19 as of this July, are eligible. The playwright's school — or "other appropriate organization" — must have the selected plays ready for performance, with a teen-age cast, by May 30.

Details are available from the New Jersey State Teen Arts Program, 841 Georges Road, North Brunswick, N.J. 08902; 201-745-3898. The program is sponsored by the state Department of Education, the N.J. Council on the Arts, the Middlesex County Cultural and Heritage Commission, the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation and other private sources.

MUSIC

FOUR INSTRUMENTALISTS In Concert at YWCA. The YWCA's second Musical Interludes concert of the season will take place Sunday, at 2 at the YM-YWCA building, Paul Robeson Place.

Three members of the faculty of Westminster Conservatory, assisted by a friend, will present a program featuring chamber music for flute, guitar, viola and cello. The program will also include infrequently heard duets for flute and guitar. The four artists are Janice Holms, flute, Maria Bisaccia, guitar, Mary Anne Walker, viola, and Carl Redfield Browning, cello.

Miss Holms teaches flute at Westminster Conservatory and plays with the Garden State Symphony and Garden State Symphonic Band, in addition to giving recitals in New Jersey and New York. Miss Bisaccia, teacher of classical guitar, has performed numerous recitals under the auspices of the New Jersey State Council on the Arts and is a former member of the board of directors of the Philadelphia Classical Guitar Society.

Miss Walker, another Westminster Conservatory faculty member, plays with the Collegium Musicum, the Little Orchestra of Princeton, and Pro Musica. Miss Browning, cellist, has performed frequently as a recitalist and chamber musician throughough New Jersey and in New York at Allice Tully Hall and Carnegie Recital Hall.

The program will include music by Telemann, Pergolesi, Gossec, Villa-Lobos, Ibert, Castelnuovo-Tedesco and Schubert.

After the concert, which is free and open to the public, refreshments will be served and there will be an opportunity to meet the musicians. For further information call Liz Adams at the YWCA, 924-5571.

BACH ORCHESTRA DUE For Concert at McCarter. The Princeton Univesity Concerts Virtuosi in Recital Series will present the Leipzig Gewandhaus Bach Orchestra on Monday, January 23, at 8 in McCarter Theatre.

The Bach Orchestra of the Leipzig Gewandhaus was established in 1962 under the direction of Prof. Gerhard Bosse, concertmaster and solo violinist of the Gewandhaus Orchestra. The orchestra is the direct descendant of the group that Bach himself led at St. Thomas Church in Leipzig, and consists of those members of the Gewandhaus contingent who participate in the weekly cantata concerts at St. Thomas Church with the famed church choirs.

An organization also noted for its direct links with the works of Mozart, Handel and Telemann, it was revived by Felix Mendelssohn during his tenure as music director of the Gewandhaus. Comprised of 17 strings, 14 winds, and harpsichord, the Bach Orchestra performs works by these composers as well as works by other great masters of all eras.

For their Princeton concert, the Bach Orchestra will perform Bach, Suite No. 1 in C Major; Shostakovich, Chamber Symphony for String Orchestra, Opus 110; Mozart, Sinfonia Concertante in E Flat for Violin and Viola; and Haydn, Symphony No. 55 in E Flat ("Der Schulmeister").

Tickets are available at the McCarter Theatre Box Office, open noon until 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday, or by calling 452-5200. Student "rush" tickets may be obtained on the day of the concert.

EARLY MUSIC FOCUS Of Sunday Cocnert. The Trio Francesca Caccini, an ensemble specializing in Baroque music, will present a concert entitled "Music in London: Natives and Foreigners, 1680-1730" on Sunday at 3 in Alexander Hall, on the University campus. Sponsored by the Friends of Music, the concert is open to the public without charge.

Each member of the trio will appear as soloist in one work, as well as joining to perform trio sonatas by Daniel Purcell and Jean-Baptiste Loiellet. Cecilia Echenique will perform G.F. Handel's "Sonata in C, Opus 1, No. 7," for baroque recorder. Mary Anne Ballard will be featured in German-born Godfrey Finger's "Sonata No. 3 for Viola da gamba."

Jane McKinley will inaugurate her new baroque oboe — a copy of an instrument built by Thomas Stanesby, Sr., around 1700 — with three excerpts from Handel's Chandos Anthems, for which Katharine Rohrer will leave her usual post at the harpsichord to sing the vocal part. The trio will be assisted in this concert by Langdon Corson, viola da gamba, and Curtis Lasell, keyboard.

Mary Anne Ballard is director of Musica Alta, Princeton University's early music ensemble. Jane McKinley is a teaching affiliate for the recorder at the University. Cecilia Echenique, who holds an advanced degree in music from the University of Santiago, is a well known folk singer in Chile.

Katherine Rohrer, a resident of Princeton, teaches music history at Columbia University.

FOLK MUSIC CONCERT At YM-YWCA. The Princeton Folk Music Society will feature Cliff Haslam in concert on Friday at 8 at the YMCA on Paul Robeson Place.

Cliff Haslam was born near Liverpool, England, and spent his childhood there. At age 15 he left school and became a machinist. His interest in traditional music became stronger when he attended the Folk Clubs in the local pubs.

He came to the United States when he was 21 and worked as a machinist and later as a draftsman. He is presently living in Madison, Conn.

Cliff's favorite songs are those of the British Isles which include songs of the sea, drinking songs and ballads. He has performed at many of the festivals and coffeehouses on the east coast. He plays guitar and concertina.

Admission is $5 for adults, $3.50 for students, $3 for Society members, $2 for children and senior citizens. There are no advance sales. For further information, call 924-9143.

QUARTET TO PERFORM At Choir College. The Nassau String Quartet will give a concert on Saturday at 8:30 in Bristol Chapel, Westminster Choir College. The program will feature works by Mozart, Beethoven, and Mendelssohn.

The quartet is comprised of Katherine Hannauer, violin; Mark Zaki, violin; Richard Heinberg, viola; Claudia Stoy, 'cello. Mr. Zaki and Ms. Stoy are members of the Westminster Conservatory faculty.

Ms. Hannauer has studied with Joseph Kovacs, Sally Thomas, and most recently, with Pamela Gearhart at Ithaca College, where she received a B.M. degree in applied music in 1982. She is presently living in Princeton and studying with Geoffrey Michaels.

Mr. Zaki received his Master's degree from the Mason Gross School of the Arts and his Bachelor's degree from Rutgers University. While there, he was active as Concertmaster of both the Rutgers Symphony Orchestra and the Mozart Orchestra. He has also played with the Naumberg Orchestra in New York City, and the Collegium Musicum of Princeton.

Mr. Heinberg has studied with members of the Stradivarius String Quartet at the University of Iowa, and also with Geoffrey Michaels. He is a member of the Collegium Musicum of Princeton, and has played with numerous orchestras and chamber groups in the midwest, and in the New Jersey - Philadelphia area.

Ms. Stoy attended the New School of Music in Philadelphia and finished her undergraduate work at the Mannes College of Music in New York City under the tutelage of Jean Goberman. She is presently in her final year in the Master's program at the Mason Gross School of the Arts, where she studies with Paul Tobias.

Although the Nassau String Quartet has performed extensively in the Central Jersey area, this concert marks their first performance at Westminster Choir College. Admission is free.

For further information, call the Westminster Conservatory at 921-7104, or 924-6359.

PHOTOGRAPHS

By Emmet Gowin. Photographs by Emmet Gowin, instructor of photography at Princeton University, will be on view at the University's Art Museum from February 5 through March 25 (Tuesdays through Saturdays, 10-4; Sundays, 1-5).

The exhibition will consist of approximately 75 images, seven in color and the rest silver prints. Included is a group of Italian landscapes made last fall, and not exhibited when the show was at the Corcoran Gallery of Art in Washington.

Also included are family photographs from the 1960s-70s and landscapes of various locations in the United States and the Siena, Matera and Scarperia areas of Italy, as well as Gowin's recent studies of Mount St. Helens, begun in 1980.

REMEMBER SUMMER?

Squibb Does. "Summer Remembered," contemporary paintings and photographs of various warm-weather pursuits, will be at the Squibb Gallery through February 26 (9-5, Mondays through Fridays; until 9 Thursdays; 1-5 week-ends.)

Drawn from several New York galleries, the paintings and photographs represent 28 artists. There are landscapes, baseball games, bike rides, music in the park and beach life.

OFF TO SOHO

With PAA. The galleries, studios, craft shops and ethnic restaurants of the New York City area south of Houston street will be explored during the Princeton Art Association's tour of SoHo Tuesday, January 31. The tour guide will be Ruth Roufberg.

At the Elaine Starkman Gallery, Hopewell artist and PAA teacher Joan Needham will discuss her work in homemade paper currently featured at the gallery.

The bus for New York will leave the Princeton Shopping Center at 9 a.m., returning about 5:30. On the bus, Ms. Roufberg will distribute a map of SoHo, a schedule of gallery stops with the talks arranged for tour participants, a list of SoHo shows and information about lunch and shopping.

Reservations may be made by calling 921-9173. Checks, $16 for members of the PAA and $19 for non-members, must be at the PAA, Rosedale Road, Princeton, N.J. 08540, by January 24.

WATERCOLORS

In Juried Show. Nicholas Reale will be the juror of selection and awards for the 17th annual Watercolor Exhibition of the Princeton Art Association, which will open at McCarter Theatre Sunday, February 5.

Entries will be received Friday and Saturday, January 27 and 28 at the PAA's Rosedale Road studios from 10 to 2.

A member of the American Watercolor Society, the Allied Artists of America and the New Jersey Watercolor Society, Mr. Reale is represented in the permanent collections of the Newark Museum, the University of Arizona and the National Academy of Design. He has recently received silver medals from the Allied Artists of America and the New Jersey Watercolor Society.

NEW TRUSTEES elected to the board of the Planned Parenthood Association of the Mercer Area are, from left, Kathleen Kelly, Sally Easter, Gwen Washington, Barbara Smith-Andrews, Marjorie Quick and Richard Gregg. Karen Gordon, a Princeton resident, as are Mrs. Easter and Mr. Gregg, was also elected to the board.

News of Clubs and Organizations

The Princeton Chapter of the Embroiderer's Guild of America will meet on Thursday, January 26, at All Saints' Church, Terhune-Van Dyke Road. A short business meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m., followed by a lecture on "New Fabrics in the World of Counted Thread," to be given by Peg Gowen. Ms. Gowen owns The Village Stitchery in Southampton, Pa., and has written numerous books on needlework. There will be examples of finished counted cross work for participants to see.

Guests are invited to attend the program for a donation of $1 to support the work of the chapter. Everyone is requested to bring a sandwich; dessert and coffee will be provided.

For reservations or information, call Helen Hamilton, 921-3516.

The Friday Club will meet this Friday in the all purpose room of the Princeton YWCA. After a light lunch and brief business meeting, Till Miller, "The Plant Lady," will show a short film and discuss garden rooms, indoor gardening and plants as an important part of living.

Those who need transportation should telephone the YWCA, 924-5571. Guests are welcome.

Elizabeth Thomas has been Assistant Press Secretary to Governor Kean since he took office in January, 1982. Her specific professional responsibilities are in public relations, media coordination and public events.

The film "Acid Rain," produced by the Canadian Film Board, will be shown at a meeting of the Washington Crossing Audubon Society Monday at 8 in Stainton Hall, the Pennington School, Delaware Avenue, Pennington.

The movie covers the causes and effects of acid rain in the United States and Canada. It is the prize-winning film which caused a stir in Washington, D.C. when it was released.

Coffee and cake will be available at 7:30.

There will be a meeting of the executive committee of Princeton SEAT (Special Education Advisory Team) on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Princeton High School Conference Room.

Parents of handicapped children in Princeton, professional staff in Princeton Regional Schools, and anyone interested in the welfare of special education students are welcome.

The social services committee of the Woman's Club of Lawrenceville will hold a benefit event on Saturday, February 4, at 8 in the Library of the Lawrenceville School. An evening of comedy and songs from Noel Coward and Cole Porter will be performed by Bernie Hicks accompanied by Rita Asch. Wine and cheese refreshments will follow.

Tickets are $5 per person and are available from Mrs. Virginia Chambers, PO Box 6183, Lawrenceville, or by calling 896-0012 or 896-0845.

DON'T START ANOTHER DIET TILL YOU CHECK WITH DIET CENTER!

Their Program WORKS And It's TOTALLY NATURAL!

At 5'4" and 195 pounds, I was about ready to throw in the towel. I had tried to lose weight but nothing seemed to work. Then I checked with Diet Center. In that first introductory consultation, I knew I had found the answer! The diet was great and I was never hungry or moody as I had been before. But the real difference was the daily support from a counselor who really cares and understands.

I LOST 75 POUNDS IN JUST 24 WEEKS!

Now I can't pass a mirror or a store window without stopping to look at myself...and I like what I see, a whole new me! My family and friends are so proud of my success and my entire outlook on life is great! I agreed to tell my story in advertising because I know what it is like to try to lose weight, to fail and to blame myself for it. Now I know that on the right program anybody can lose weight, and Diet Center has the right program!

School, will have an exhibit of her paintings and drawings in the Anne Reid Art Gallery on the PDS campus starting this Friday and continuing through February 3. An opening reception will be held Friday from 5:30 to 7:30 in the gallery, and the public is invited to attend.

During PDS' third term independent study time for seniors, Ms. Westheimer will return to Florence, Italy, where she was last summer. She has been invited by painter Mario Fallani to work in his studio as an apprentice.

She is art editor of PDS' yearbook and was art editor last year for the school's literary magazine, "Cymbals." She is also president of the senior class and the drama club.

EXHIBITS

An exhibition of multi-media work done by the Art Expressions group of the Princeton Senior Resource Center will be on view at the Art People Place, Witherspoon Street, from this Friday through February 3. An opening reception will be held at 3:30 this Friday.

Art Masters Gallery, Spring Street, will hold an opening reception Friday, February 10 (5-9) for Jarvis Wilcox whose recent oil paintings will be on view through March 10. He has exhibited with the American Artists Professional League and has had several solo shows. His "Genre American Scenes" are in the permanent collection of several museums, including the Museum of the City of New York.

"Lambertville and the Surrounding Area" is the subject of an exhibit at the Coryell Gallery at the Porkyard, Lambertville, starting with a reception Sunday, January 29 (3-7) and continuing through March 4. Sponsoring Lambertville Historical Society will sell tickets to benefit the Society and the holder of the winning ticket will receive a painting. The Gallery is open Wednesdays through Sundays, 11-5.

Exam Break Gives Basketball, Hockey Teams Opportunity to Examine Their Shortcomings

Students are rarely thrilled at the prospect of facing a two-week exam period, but Princeton's annual mid-winter break could not have come at a better time for its basketball and hockey teams. Each desperately needed some time off.

Coach Pete Carril's players are in the midst of a 15-day layoff, before resuming action, Wednesday, January 25 against nationally ranked DePaul in Chicago. If the Tigers aren't blown off the court, that contest will serve as a warm-up for the more important meeting with Penn in the Palestra the following Saturday.

Unexpectedly, the Orange and Black finds itself at the bottom of the Ivy League, after back-to-back losses to Harvard and Dartmouth on the road. The margin of defeat for both contests was only three points, but each game pointed up the problems the Tigers hope to solve before meeting the Quakers.

The outside shooting is just not good enough to carry the team in every game. One way or another the Tigers have got to get inside for closer shots. This doesn't mean looking to Howie Levy all the time, but driving to the basket as well. A 11.1 points per game, Levy is probably at his peak, and that's much better than anyone might have expected. He has hit 51 of 73 shots for a fantastic .698 shooting percentage, 66 points higher than the best ever recorded here for a whole season.

Ed Lee
Piling up points and penalties

SPORTS

Kevin Mullin, leads the team with a 14.2 average, but his sub-par performance on the New England trip where he scored a total of 13 points, hurt Princeton's offense. Mullin and John Smyth, who has started to come on after a slow start, must score in the neighborhood of 30 points between them, if the Tigers are to win. Billy Ryan, Aaron Belz, Joe Scott and Jay Bubniak can not be counted on to score consistently in crucial contests.

Rebounding is another problem area, and becomes an even bigger one when the Orange and Black falls behind. Despite his height, Levy has led the team only three times in 11 games in this department. Mullin is tops on the team.

When they get behind, the Tigers are forced to foul; they have committed 40 more than their opponents. Carril will have plenty to work on during two weeks of practice.

In Princeton's favor is the fact that no other Ivy team appears capable of running away with the title. Off its two victories on the same trip north, Penn has an edge at this point, but that may disappear. The majority of the eight league teams have losing records or are no better than .500, the others are just above the break even mark.

Cornell, one of the few with a winning record, could not beat 2-7 Columbia away from home Saturday, losing 43-40. Dartmouth kept Harvard from raising its Ivy record to 3-1, avenging an earlier season loss to the Crimson.

There's plenty of time, therefore, for Princeton to turn things around. A victory in the Palestra would be a major step in the right direction, and it's not out of the question.

Tough Year for Ivy Hockey. It may be small consolation to Princeton hockey fans, but every other league team is having problems as well. All except Cornell have losing records in ECAC play, and the Ithacans are hovering right around .500, after a shocking 7-2 loss to Brown in Lynah Rink Saturday night.

At 2-10-1, the Tigers are no worse off than the Bruins, Dartmouth and Yale. Harvard is not much better.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW
John Bernard

Jay Bernard
STURHAHN, DICKENSON & BERNARD
One of the most unusual touchdowns ever scored in football happened in a semi-pro game many years ago when a small halfback started to run with the ball ... It looked like he was going to be tackled, so one of his teammates — a big lineman — picked up the small halfback and carried him in his arms across the goal line for a touchdown! ... There was no rule against it, and the touchdown was ruled legal.
Oddly enough, in football, punts are measured — not from where they are kicked — but from the line of scrimmage, while the exact opposite is true of field goals, which are measured from where they are kicked — and not from the line of scrimmage!
I'll bet you didn't know that apartment or condominium insurance would protect you in case of a break-in or fire.
Here's one that may surprise you ... When football started in the last century, the football itself wasn't shaped like it is today ... Footballs then were round like soccer or basketballs ... Footballs were gradually changed to make them easier to pass, and the final change came in 1932 when the ball was streamlined to its present shape.

Coach Jim Higgins warned at the beginning of the season that his young players would take some time to develop. This is a freshman-sophomore dominated team, playing against top-flight competition almost every time out.

When the team lost its top defenseman, junior Rob Scheuer, a steadying influence on the ice, there was no one who could take his place completely. Teams like Clarkson, Cornell and Boston University were readily able to exploit this weakness.

A week ago, after the BU game, Ed Lee was tied for first in scoring in ECAC Division I games with 18 points along with Gates Orlando of Providence. But that is not likely to last.

Thrown out of that contest for fighting, Lee received an automatic two-game suspension, because it was his second time this season. One more such altercation, and his hockey career at Princeton is over.

Thus, the Orange and Black will be forced to play both Brown and Yale, the only two teams they have beaten this season, without Lee. They head for Providence and then New Haven the weekend of January 27-28. The next home game is Tuesday, January 31 against Williams.

Half the season remains for Higgins' skaters, and there is still plenty that can be accomplished. A berth in the playoffs is pretty much out of the question, but that was not expected in the first place.

In recent contests, Princeton has played well for the first period and a half, and then tended to fall apart. Figures show it's getting badly outshot in the third period.

If the two-week layoff has been beneficial, the Tigers may be able to record some victories in their remaining 12 games, and build a more positive base for next season.

HUN ROLLS ON

With Two More Court Wins. The Hun School basketball team continued to roll over the opposition with wins over Steinert and Lawrenceville last week increasing its record to 10-3.

"We've been very fortunate in catching teams when we did," observed Hun coach Bob Hendrickson this week. Hendrickson noted Hun played Steinert the day after its only big player, 6-5 center Brian Moench, had suffered an ankle injury in a loss to West Windsor and was sidelined. As a result, the taller Raiders dominated the boards in posting a 73-59 victory over the visiting Spartans Saturday night.

Three days ealier, Hun caught rival Lawrenceville playing its first game in 26 days after a long holiday break and defeated the Larries, 66-54. It was one of the bigger margins of victory for Hun in a rivalry that in the past years has been decided by a few points. "We knew they had some time off; we were hoping they were'nt in shape," said Hendrickson. "We beat them because we were able to outrun them."

Hun had done it with a team effort. "We have some very good shooters," said Hendrickson, "and I think the height of our starters is starting to take its toll against other teams not as big as we are."

There's more bad news for future opponents. One of Hun's weakest areas at the start of the season was its running game. But, acknowledged Hendrickson, "We are stressing running a little bit more; we are working on it. We want to take advantage of that height we have in getting rebounds."

All of which should serve the Raiders in good stead when they open a string of four contests against prep schools, starting with Delbarton this Wednesday at 3:45 at the Hun gym.

Peddie Friday. Friday night at 8, Hun will be in Hightstown to take on a steadily improving Peddie quintet. Peddie, commented Hendrickson, has a nice starting group and is finally getting it together after being hampered by injury problems at the start of the season.

Tuesday at 3:30, Hun will entertain a newcomer to its schedule, Abington Friends, a prep school in the Philadelphia area, which contacted Hun with the goal of playing against stronger competition. Next Thursday, Hun will be at Admiral Farragut.

Hun Takes Early Lead. Against Steinert, Hun jumped out to a 21-13 first-period lead and was never in danger of losing it. John Goeke, with 17 points and 15 rebounds, drew praise from Hendrickson for his all-rond play on offense and under the boards. John McDonough and Ted Bransfield were the other top scorers for Hun with 19 and 16 points.

Lawrenceville battled Hun point for point through the first half and tied the game at 32 with 5:33 remaining in the third period. Hun took command, however, when it scored nine of the next 11 points, and built its lead to a 59-48 margin with three minutes to play. Most of the points came off fast breaks against the tiring Larry squad.

Hun was paced again by Goeke and McDonough, 15 points each, and by Bransfield, 12. Terry Dearden added nine. Hun connected on 50 percent of its shots from the floor, while Lawrenceville could convert only 35 percent.

"We shot poorly; we were not synchronized," said Larry coach Jim Waugh.

YEOMAN IS VICTOR

In Squash Tournament. In the feed-in final of the 41st New Jersey State Women's Squash Racquets Championship held last week at Jadwin Gymnasium on the Princeton University campus, Emily Yeoman of Princeton defeated Wendy Lawrence of Washington, D.C., 14-15,15-11,15-9,15-6.

Yeoman captained the Princeton University varsity team in 1976 and was the first Tiger coed to win 12 varsity letters.

Gail Ramsay of Brooklyn Heights won the state title this year by defeating Sara Lutles of Denver in a five-set battle.

Ramsay, who is ranked third in the United States and who had been seeded first in this tournament, rallied to take the match after dropping the first two sets, 13-15 and 2-15. She won the next three, 15-7, 15-9, 15-13.

to be what the Princeton High School basketball team experienced Friday against Notre Dame. The Irish overwhelmed the Little Tigers, 57-12 for its ninth win in ten outings.

The area's top ranked girls team scored the first ten points of the game and held PHS to five points in the half. Monica Greenland and Paige Waldren, the Little Tigers' two leading scorers, combined for two points, both by Waldren. A sprained ankle forced Greenland to leave the game in the second period and Waldren sat out the first half for disciplinary reasons.

"It's tough when your two best shooters aren't in the game," agreed PHS coach Joyce Jones.

Tracey Hemminway led PHS with four points as the 1-6 Little Tigers scored 3-2-6-1 points by quarters. Tami Morton had three points and led the losers in rebounds with nine. Colleen Flynn, with 15 points and nine rebounds, and Kathy Allen, 11 points, 11 rebounds, led the Irish. The victors enjoyed a wide 56-24 margin off the boards.

PHS earlier in the week bowed, 60-43, to West Windsor which won its fourth straight.

West Windsor was ahead 31-25 at the half and used some good defense on Greenland in the second half to seal the win. PHS hurt its chances for an upset by shooting a poor 1-14 from the foul line.

After Greenland scored 13 points in the first half, WW coach Don Hussong switched Mary Ann Tagliaferri to guard the high-scoring Little Tiger. Tagliaferri limited Greenland to four points over the next two periods.

Tagliaferri finished with 10 points, while teammate Cindy Lombardo led all scorers with 21. Lynn Murphy of the Pirates added 13.

For PHS, Greenland was high with 17 points, followed by Waldren with 14. Morton had six.

BIG WEEKEND FOR McCONAUGHY: PDS's Jon McConaughy scored 35 points in victories over Montclair-Kimberly and Hill last Friday and Saturday. Here, McConaughy goes for two points against MK's Ed Conlin. (W.L. Bill Allen, Jr. photo)

In a pair of 3:45 games, PHS will be at McCorristin on Friday and play host to Steinert on Tuesday.

PANTHERS WIN TWICE

Face Wardlaw Next. In his years at Princeton Day, Alan Taback did much to help the school attain respectability in basketball, and even after his departure one of his moves is paying big dividends.

One of Taback's original recruits from the Trenton area was Frank Konstantynowicz, known to all, especially sportswriters as Frankie "K". He had a nice career at PDS, playing on several strong teams, went on to graduate from Harvard, and played semi-pro basketball in Europe for a few years.

This year Frankie "K" returned to PDS as a teacher, and took over a basketball program that had slipped back into losing seasons after Taback left. Two years ago, the team won only two games; last season it finished 6-14.

This season, a more talented squad under his direction, has won eight of its first 12 games, and come darn close in several others. The Blue and White has lost twice by a total of eight points to a strong Hun team that boasts three post graduate players.

Last week, the Panthers won a pair of home contests, after a game against Hightstown was cancelled because of Wednesday's snow. Montclair-Kimberly was no match on Friday, falling 59-41; and the following day PDS knocked off Hill, 63-57.

Frank Little was the big point man against MK, canning 17 points as the Panthers rolled to a 29-15 advantage by halftime. When they outscored the visitors by a 2-1 margin in the third quarter (14-7), the outcome was assured. Charlie Jacques hit for 12 points, Jon McConaughy had 11.

McConaughy was the big gun against Hill, collecting a season's high 24 points. Jamie Zahner was the only other guy in double figures for PDS with 12. A 16-8 cushion in the first quarter helped Princeton Day hold off the visitors in the second half. Hill outscored PDS in both the third and fourth periods, but could not catch up.

After a game against Lawrenceville scheduled for Tuesday afternoon, PDS will meet Wardlaw away on Wednesday, and Ferris School at home Friday afternoon. Pennington will come to PDS for a contest next Tuesday.

TROUBLE AHEAD?

For Slumping PHS Five. The silence from Princeton High basketball coach Marvin Trotman was deafening.

For most of the second half, and a portion of the first, against visiting Notre Dame Friday, Trotman sat back in his chair following the action unfolding in front of him without moving, without saying a word. For the usually kinetic Trotman that was a sign that things were not right in Tigerland.

Trotman had seen and reacted to all he wanted to in the first eight minutes of play when his Little Tigers were blown away by a pressing, hot-shooting Irish squad, 24-8. PHS never came close to getting back in the game, and went down, 75-54, to its fifth loss in seven games.

Trotman and the Little Tigers needed a win badly. Not only was the game the opening Colonial Valley Conference League game for both teams, but with the January 31 cutoff date for qualification in the state tournament only six games away, PHS had to start grabbing some W's. In its path were some tough upcoming games — McCorristin here Friday night at 8 and Steinert away Tuesday afternoon — and additional strong opponents in Ewing, Peddie and Hamilton. Needing to win 50 percent of its games by the cutoff instead of last year's 40 percent, added another turn of the screw.

"If someone were to tell me we would lose games to Nottingham and West Windsor this year, I would say he was crazy," said Trotman before the start of the Notre Dame game. He might have added that if someone told him the Irish were going to blow the Little Tigers away in the first period, he'd be even crazier.

Notre Dame entered the game with a 5-5 record, but they looked like world beaters against PHS. An omen that it was not going to be Princeton's night came when PHS was assessed two technical fouls for dunking the ball in pre-game warm-up exercises.

COURTSIDE CAVORTING: Princeton High's Darryl Hemmingway draws a crowd as he gets off a shot between teammates Albino Nini (44) and a leaping (white headband) Freddie Young. Doing an Irish jig in front are Anthony Hill (21) and Tom Gavin (55) who combined for 44 points to power ND past PHS, 75-54, Friday night in the PHS gym. (W.L. Bill Allen Jr. Photo) and Tom Gavin sank both to give ND a 2-0 lead even before the opening tap.

The game was irretrievably lost in a brief span in the first period. Ahead 6-4 after baskets by Princeton's John Lysaker and Keith Green, Notre Dame connected on the next ten points. After Gavin had hit for a basket and two free throws, Anthony Hill stole the ball first from Tony Granger and again from Darryl Hemmingway for four points and scored again on a turnover to give the Irish a quick 16-4 lead.

PHS, in turn, was bothered by the Irish defense which consisted of a zone press, falling to a man-to-man after PHS crossed the midcourt.

By the end of the first eight minutes, Princeton's inexperienced back court was guilty of a series of turnovers, Gavin had scored 13 points (seven from the charity line), Trotman had been hit with a technical by referee Larry McHugh, PHS trailed 24-8 and was out of the game.

By the middle of the second period, Trotman was silent, slumped in his chair. At the half it was 38-20.

PHS made a brief run in the third period when Lysaker connected on four baskets and Young added eight points to account for all but two of Princeton's points in the period, but it was not enough to overcome the shooting of Gavin and Brian O'Reilly. ND widened its lead to 63-38.

Trotman began the final period with all reserves, starting Frantz Massenat, Granger, Hemmingway, Jon Davidson and Joe O'Grady. O'Grady responded with six points, Albino Nini had four, Granger four and Jason Petrone two.

Trotman was in no mood for post-mortems. He stalked out of the gym without saying a word.

Green, Lysaker and Young each scored 10 points to pace the Little Tigers who shot 42 percent from the floor compared to 48 for ND. The big difference was at the foul line where the Irish converted 23 of 32 free throws; PHS went to the line only nine times, sinking six.

Lack of Leadership. At this point, PHS is clearly 12 players in search of a leader. Trotman blamed "a lack of leadership" in the loss three days earlier, when PHS fell, 67-64, to West Windsor in double overtime, after leading 28-17 at intermission.

No one has taken charge. Missing from the lineup again was his son, Marvin Jr., who sat watching from the sideline, his ankle in a cast. Young Trotman sprained some ligaments in the game with Hopwell Valley.

As to the charge that his team is not playing up to its potential, Trotman smiled, and said, "Potential. You know what potential is worth? That and 50 cents will get you a cup of coffee."

PHS was tripped up by West Windsor, which beat the Little Tigers for the first time in three years, when it missed three times from the foul line in the closing seconds of the second overtime.

Mike Atkinson of the Pirates clinched it for his team when he did not miss on some clutch free throws. Bill Royal, 22 points, and Colin Ford, 20, combined to pace the 6-3 victors. Princeton's balanced attack featured 14 points by Lysacker, who is getting better with each passing game, 13 each by Green and Massenat and and 11 by Young.

FIRST WIN IN SIGHT?

For Hun Wrestlers. "If we work hard in practice, by the end of the week we could have three wins," predicted Hun wrestling coach Dave Faus this week, after watching his Raiders struggle — and fail again — to win that first match.

Certainly, he doesn't want a repeat of last weekend. How bad was it? Even Faus had difficulty repeating the numbers: Blair 58, Hun 6, and North Warren 62, Hun 0, in a triangular meet held at Blair. Earlier in the week, although Hun wrestled its best match of the season, said Faus, the Raiders fell, 39-25, to George

Baseball Clinic Offered

Babe Ruth Baseball International Headquarters, in conjunction with The Hot Stove League, a non-profit organization of Major League scouts, is sponsoring a free Baseball Clinic Saturday, January 28, 1984, at McCorristin High School in Hamilton Township. The Clinic will begin promptly at 10 and is open to all amateur players, managers, coaches and league officials.

Babe Ruth Baseball Commissioner, Bill Rick, will serve as clinic coordinator for the four-hour clinic, while Hot Stove Baseball Clinic Committee Chairman, Pete Smith, will serve as clinic moderator to introduce the major league scouts who will serve as instructors.

The Clinic will begin with a film highlighting the 1983 Major League World Series. The scouts will offer instruction on pitching, infield and outfield play, hitting, catching and baserunning.

School. The record is currently 8-0.

Upcoming matches will be much closer, feels Faus, starting with Wardlaw-Hartridge, which Hun will oppose at Wardlaw Thursday afternoon. "It should be a real close match; we'll be competitive," said Faus.

This Saturday at 2, Hun will host a multiple meet with Peddie, Trenton and Notre Dame. "Peddie is a strong team but I feel we will be very competitive against Trenton and Notre Dame," Faus predicted.

The only dent Hun scored against the Blair steamroller was a pin by its standout 157-pounder Todd Lipani, who raised his record to 8-0.

That came to an end, however, against North Warren, a large public high school in north Jersey, when Lipani was edged, 4-3. "He had to watch five pins before he wrestled so it was pretty hard for him to keep himself psyched up," commented Faus.

Lipani led, 2-1, until the final period. After his opponent reversed him, Faus reported, Todd escaped and had 20 second to take him down and regain the lead, but he failed to do so. "He came off the mat knowing he had not been mentally prepared," said Faus. "Now some of the pressure is off him."

Against George School, Hun got off to a fast start when Pong Unakul got a pin at 100 pounds — his first win of the season. Sophomore Nick Wofsy carved out a superior, 22-8 decision at 121 pounds and Lipani blanked his opponent, 10-0. Both Rob Cobun, wrestling up a weight at 147 pounds, and John Selasko, 169 pounds, tied their opponents. Dennis Bustos won by forfeit at 114 pounds for Hun.

HUNTERDON TOO STRONG

For PHS Mat Team. The Princeton High School wrestling team, which had lost its seventh match Saturday to visiting South Hunterdon, did not lose its eighth against Trenton High on Monday.

Neither did it win. A scheduling snafu sent the Tornadoes to the PHS gym at 3:45 in the afternoon when the Little Tigers were expecting them at 8. PHS coach Lee Merrill said that an attempt will be made to reschedule the match.

This Wednesday evening at 8, the Little Tigers will be at Steinert High, and the following Wednesday at 8 they will entertain Hamilton.

South Hunterdon — not on the same level as perennial powers North Hunterdon and Hunterdon Central — was a team that Merrill felt his Little Tigers had a chance against. "They were just a little too tough," he confessed later, after the visitors had fashioned a 41-24 victory.

PHS got off to an emotional start when freshman Paul Crystal won his first bout of the year, pinning Mike Moore in 63 seconds. "He did very well, he's capable," said Merrill. "It was the bright spot of the night; otherwise it was pretty drab."

PHS increased its lead when Marco Cucchi won by forfeit at 107 pounds, but that was it for PHS. Hunterdon captured the next eight bouts, five by pins. Princeton's final 12 points came when 188-pounder Brett Van de Bovenkamp and heavyweight Tamer El-Shakhs both won by forfeit. The win was Hunterdon's second in six matches; PHS fell to 1-7.

In a mid-week match against Hightstown, PHS dropped a 48-18 decision to the ninth-ranked Rams. Princeton's points came on three pins.

Sophomore Joshua Bagley pinned Brian DiGiorgio in 3:39 in their 121-pound match and Van de Bovenkamp needed only 53 seconds to flatten Jim Koch at 188 pounds. El-Shakhs followed with a 62- second pin over Ram heavyweight Jim Greene.

Thus Van de Bovenkamp and El-Shakhs continue to give PHS a solid 1-2 hammer at the end of each meet, but again the middle of the PHS lineup failed. Hightstown won all nine remaining bouts, seven by pins.

Pin victims for PHS included Crystal at 100 pounds, Mike Lane (114), Jason Lapp (134), Jay Sinclair (140), Guillermo Orlanski (147), Dominic Tracey (157), and Paul Johnson (169). Cucchi lost a 12-5 decision while Gabby Ondetti was blanked, 6-0, by Hightstown's Bill Lounsbury at 128 pounds.

Ban on New Hookups For Sewers Requested For 2 Zones in Town

Two new "no-connection" zones where all new sewer connections would be prohibited, were requested of Borough and Township this week by the Joint Environmental Commission. Builders who already have final approval would be exempt.

One zone would be the entire Harry's Brook basin which extends east from Bayard Lane and east from Bunn Drive.

The second would be an extension of the Mountain Brook "no-connection" zone including State Road-Cherry Hill north to Cherry Valley; the part of Ewing near State; south to Witherspoon, Guyot, the Harris-Witherspoon corner where the Medical Center plans an office building, Maclean-Lytle, Jefferson, Dempsey, Valley, Terhune.

The extension would cover a manhole on Elm and Westerly designed to handle overflow, but so over-active it violates Federal and State water pollution laws.

Even after Princeton completes the sewer work now being done in line with the Brokaw report, the state will allocate no more sewage capacity until a new plan of action, moving ahead from the Brokaw report, has been approved. Peggy McNeil,who heads the Environmental Commission, says she was told this by Arnold Schiffman of the state Department of Environmental Protection. Mr. Schiffman could not be reached for comment.

Questions of jurisdiction and authority continue to swirl around the whole problem of sewers.

Mrs. McNeill and the Commission maintain there is still a no-connection zone in that part of the Mountain Brook basin that goes through the trunk manhole

Thermometers—Three Different Kinds— Showed 14 Below Zero Sunday Morning

It was a pre-dawn jog you'll never forget, last Sunday morning.

You thought it was nippy, and when you got back home, you found that your recording thermometer had registered 14 below zero at 6:05 a.m.

At Science Associates, where they jog into the dawn as a matter of routine, they checked out that 14 below on three different kinds of thermometers. Each one was just as cold as the last.

With minus 13 — a degree warmer than Princeton — it was the coldest in 49 years up at Rutgers' Cooperative Weather Station, according to Tony Broccoli of the National Geophysical Fluid Dynamics Laboratory at Forrestal — where they keep warm by repeating the name of the lab at five-second intervals — and the fifth coldest day ever, going back 90 years.

"Somebody told me," Mr. Broccoli said with a shiver, "that it was 20 below in the Pine Barrens."

If your thermometer measured only eight or ten below, Mr. Broccoli explains, it's probably because you looked later in the morning, or because your thermometer was closer to a heat source, like your house.

"When you have the clear skies, light winds and snow cover that we had over the week-end, the earth rapidly gives up its heat through radiation. This

If's Budget Time in Borough and Township, And No End to Requests for More Money

Princeton's $92,000 aerial fire truck, one year overdue on required maintenance, was damaged in last Friday's fire and is now out of service ... fire companies gave up inspecting downtown and Shopping Center stores years ago for lack of manpower and according to one comment "businesses are getting away with murder" ... the floor in the Chambers Street firehouse is so weak that last year's chief ordered a fire truck removed and sent to the Chestnut Street house (the floor is now being tested by engineers) ... the Township, rapidly developing, still has no firehouse ... fire-fighters do not have enough protective gloves to go around ...

At last Saturday's first session on budgets shared by Borough and Township, officials heard a plea from Mark Freda, a member of Hook and Ladder, for money to solve these problems.

Borough and Township officials will meet again this Saturday — 9:30 a.m., Borough Hall, to continue joint budget discussions.

Meanwhile, the Borough's new mayor, Barbara Sigmund, expressed dismay at what she has seen of Borough budgeting procedures, referring to "a budget by evolution." There is still no bottom line budget figure, she said, adding that nobody knows whether the Borough is over, under or at its state-imposed cap.

The Township, she pointed out, already knows that it is $8,467 over its cap.

So far, no dates have been set to continue last week's Borough budget discussions. Mayor Sigmund said she will ask for another set of dates at this Thursday's meeting.

Highlights of Saturday's three and one-half hour Borough-Township meeting:

- All agree Princeton needs a full-time planner, and $17,500 has been tentatively agreed on as the first six months' salary.
- Except for paramedics' salaries, all First Aid Squad expenses are met by contributions. Princeton University makes "a very limited, almost embarrassingly small contribution, considering the services we provide; the Medical Center gives no money but allows the day crew to work in the emergency room, benefiting Squad and hospital." (Mark Freda).
- Many library staff who have been there several years, are now earning about what the entry-level salary is elsewhere.

You Had No Business Being at This Conference If You Didn't Have a Business Card to Exchange

It's 5:30 p.m. on a cold winter's evening. Inside the Prince William Room of the Nassau Inn, the sharks are feeding.

There's Charles A. Blatz, flexing his corporate blue power suit, circling Chris Bethune, an obvious target in her red-speckled dress. Mr. Blatz deftly extracts a small piece of white paper from Mrs. Bethune, identifying her as a representative of Optima Typesetting, 77 Main Street, Kingston. He smiles. She smiles and quickly reaches for a small white card offered by Mr. Blatz, an account executive at Prudential-Bache in the Carnegie Center.

They chat briefly (they were classmates at East Brunswick High School) and then move on into the swirling crowd, circling and being circled, giving up cards here and taking cards there, and smiling, always smiling.

I am at a "business contacts reception" of the Princeton Area Chamber of Commerce, exchanging cards and sniffing for business opportunities along with nearly 500 other people who have turned out the evening after a major snowstorm.

The event is the brainchild of Marty Lombardo, the former Borough Councilman who now runs a training center affiliated with one of the self-improvement gurus, Tom Hopkins. After working as a fundraiser for the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation and selling real estate in Princeton, Mr. Lombardo hooked up with Hopkins and impressed the master by organizing a seminar that attracted more than 1,500 people. "Putting 1,500 to 2,000 people into a room is fun for me," says Mr. Lombardo. "I know how to do it."

The business contact concept stems from the Hopkins program. "A major part of our training is teaching people how to prospect," says Mr. Lombardo. At Chamber of Commerce functions, he "got tired of seeing people wanting to make a business connection but not doing it."

Why not? "Because they're shy, number one, and they're afraid of rejection. People are taught to do things that are safe so that no one will turn them down."

At this point Mr. Lombardo begins the first of his two brief speeches at the card exchange. "If you're here for business contacts," he bellows out in a voice that barely exceeds the din of the crowd, "welcome. If not, please leave." Later he speaks briefly to newcomers: "The purpose is to make money, for you and your company. Don't be shy." His final words are drowned out by the background noise. The sharks are feeding, and now they have reached a frenzy.

To Use Workhouse Crew

A crew from the Mercer County Workhouse is scheduled to start work some time next month on interior painting and minor repairs in Princeton's three firehouses, according to Fire Commissioner Richard Woodbridge.

The Borough will only have to provide lunches, materials and someone to tell the crew what to do. If the plan works, crew members will do outside work after warm weather comes, Commissioner Woodbridge said.

Cold

happens especially where there are no heat sources. If you're in a place like Central Park in New York, it's quite different. They had nine above there."

It was six inches of snow that laid the cover. Four inches fell up to 6 p.m. Wednesday, then two inches more overnight. Science Associates points out that it was a dry snow, producing only .58 inches — a drop over half an inch — in actual water.

Meanwhile, out in the cold ...

At Nassau Oil, they've been on the job seven days a week, all hours of the day ever since the Christmas holidays, according to distribution manager Robin Ciesielski. Some of this is delivery, some is service work on malfunctioning oil burners.

And Mr. Ciesielski has made a domestic observation:

"When husbands are home all day, like on the holidays, they want the heat turned up. When they're at work, they want the heat turned down to save on fuel — no matter that the wife may be home. And of course, over holidays, there are visiting relatives and people want a warm house."

At Nassau, oil has gone up "six or seven cents" a gallon.

"The majors are lifting the price of oil," Mr. Ciesielski explains, "so we have to, also."

But oil supplies are "extremely tight," says Nassau's general manager Larry Smith. "In the south, where it isn't usually so cold, they've used more than before; pipeline delivery to us is ten days, instead of five or six. All traceable to the extreme cold."

Through the degree-day system and its formulas, keyed to individual houses, Nassau knows when to deliver to whom. Watching the system in operation, Mr. Ciesielski can see that deliveries are being made more frequently these days.

"The slow-burners — people who don't usually use much oil — they really have been using more in this weather."

Maybe more husbands are home.

priorities are likely to be elsewhere."

Mr. Freda explained that thorough preventive maintenance for trucks costs $300 to $400. The aerial, which takes several days to service, should be cared for semi-annually, but has been neglected "for several years" for lack of funds.

"The Township pays 64 percent of the fire budget," deputy mayor Gail Firestone reminded the group, "but we still don't have a firehouse, and the Township is developing rapidly. We want a very serious addressing of Township needs."

Plea for Library. John Huntoon, of Borough Council, gave a lengthy plea for the library, urging more than the budget shows for books and telephones and enough to keep the library open Thursday evenings, winter Sunday afternoons and summer Saturday afternoons. The library is asking $708,476.

It was Mr. Huntoon who gave the salary figures, after Township Mayor Winthrop Pike had pointed out that the library budget shows 7.5 percent salary increases, while Borough and Township municipal budgets show only 6.5. Municipal governing bodies have no control over library line items.

"We're over our cap already," Mayor Pike warned. "We have sewer problems, roads that are vastly undermaintained. We have only one pie and we must carve it up among everyone."

Friends of the Public Library announced gifts of over $100,000 (see "Topics of the Town") but Mr. Huntoon said "It's a PUBLIC library, and cannot be run on donations from the Friends."

Library director Robert Staples said increasing fines was not productive because people simply stopped using the library if fines went too high.

For several years the Borough has vetoed a full-time planner but it agreed this year. Although Township Committee member Richard Schoch protested that the 14-member Planning Board is too large, he drew no support for reducing it. Two Council members — Richard Woodbridge and Peter Bearse — said the board isn't representative enough of the community as it is.

It was suggested that the planner might also be assigned to be the Environmental Inspector desired by the Joint Environmental Commission.

—Katharine H. Bretnall

- Although Corner House handles "a tremendous number" of out-of-town cases (Mayor Winthrop Pike), these municipalities still do not contribute a proportionate amount.
- The Sewer Operating Committee may be asked to get an outside contractor instead of hiring a crew of three to do continuing sewer repairs.

"Violations of the fire code are known," declared Borough Council member Irv Urken, "but there is no bite to our bullet. And businesses are getting away with murder. Every three years in January after a major snow, we have a major fire — the Benson Building, Hulit's, Value Fair — and we're now one year overdue. After one major fire, we told the owner he was in violation and he just laughed."

Fire companies would like an inspector. Officials discussed whether the salary could be met by imposing fees on those inspected. Township Administrator James Pascale suggested getting Mercer County to do inspections in the second half of the year, after a new state law goes into effect, but Council member Peter Bearse remarked, "county

SUIT IS DISMISSED

By Appellate Division. The Township's suit against the Calton Homes developer in Montgomery Township and the state Department of Transportation in connection with proposed S92 routing has been dismissed.

According to Edwin W. Schmierer, Township Attorney, the judge accepted the DOT argument that a final route for the controversial bypass has not been selected, and therefore it was premature to bring suit.

The Township filed the suit last June in the wake of a decision of the Montgomery Planning Board to permit a 365-unit development in the path of what had been the "preserved" alignment for Route 92 since since 1972. That decision, which included the deeding by the developer to DOT of 20 acres for the proposed roadway for the sum of $1, might push the roadway closer to Princeton along the boundary of the two municipalities. Herrontown Circle residents were concerned about the blasting that would be required to cut the road through the ridge behind their homes.

Township Committee had until this Wednesday to file an appeal to the state Supreme Court, but has decided not to do so. Committee members were advised by Mr. Schmierer that the DOT was being more receptive to Princeton's concerns about the location of the roadway and that the suit had in effect served its purpose.

ABOUT VALLEY ROAD ...

Keep? Sell? Remodel? "We want an amicable agreement with the Township about the Valley Road building and we're meeting to get their feelings about it," said school board president Ann McGoldrick this week in advance of next Tuesday's discussion among municipal and school officials about the future of the building.

The school board owns Valley Road, once a Township school. The Township is the prime tenant. It pays $1 a year, but according to Mayor Winthrop S. Pike, has put about $500,000 into the building. Mrs. McGoldrick counters by pointing out that the Township has been freed of the expense of constructing a new municipal office building.

The problem is long-range: the Township's lease expires in 1988 and the school board must give three years' notice.

Many options are open to the board, Mrs. McGoldrick says: sell the building for offices or remodel it for offices, tear it down and build houses or commercial properties, remodel it for high-density housing, or any combination of these. The board might also decide to leave the situation as it now is.

Income estimates range from $1.8 million to $400,000 for the various options. Presumably most of them would require zoning variances. Valley Road is in a residential zone.

"We cannot look at it purely from a money point of view," Mrs. McGoldrick emphasizes. "There are relationships to maintain and many other things to consider."

MAY MODIFY PLANS

For Russell Estate. Questions of traffic, proper clustering and possible "affordable" housing were raised Monday as Springland Associates showed its concepts for the 84-acre Russell estate to the Planning Board. The next move is up to the developers.

Proposals show 56 houses on lots of one-half acre to almost an acre, raising questions as to clustering. Driveways off the Lawrenceville Road (Route 206) and Edgerstoune Road would provide access to the houses. The mansion on the property would be restored.

Board member William H. Walker II said it would be essential to break Edgerstoune through to Rosedale if the development were built; as it is now, the exit from Edgerstoune to the Lawrenceville Road is the only way out.

William McCleery, who lives at the end of Edgerstoune, protested. "Far from easing traffic," he said, "putting Edgerstoune through would increase it, because drivers would use Edgerstoune as a short-cut.

R. William Potter, who has raised a legal challenge to Planning Board approval of Collins' Palmer Square plans on the question of lower-income housing, asked the board to require such housing for the Russell estate. He suggested in a letter to the board that 20 percent of the units be set-asides, integrated into the development.

Senior citizen rental units like those planned for Elm Road, he said, are no substitute for affordable housing that can be purchased. He added that in his view, the fact that there is not yet a zoning ordinance requiring set-asides, is no defense.

So far, the Township has no conditional high-density ordinance allowing developers greater density if they provide for lower-cost housing. No such housing is planned for this development although the Russell estate was once considered by the Planning Board as a possible site for conditional high-density housing.

PARKING, 'MIX' ...

And Rents. The "afternoon types," merchants who could leave someone else minding the store, came to Borough Hall Monday — about 30 of them — to tell Council members Richard Woodbridge and Irv Urken what their worries are about the downtown.

Parking, fear for the disappearance of mom-'n'-pop and other small stores with essential services, and worries about high rents were the chief concerns. It was agreed also that it would be a good idea to promote the Borough as a good place to shop, perhaps by using signs on Route One to lure the casual traveler.

Managing what parking there is also seemed like a good idea. Merchants frowned at beer bottles in the Park and Shop lot, and inadequate signs to tell drivers where to park.

Charles Nathanson, planner and grants consultant who was instrumental in obtaining the Borough's $85,000 Neighborhood Preservation grant, was also present. As a planner, Mr. Woodbridge suggested, Mr. Nathanson might have ideas; as a grants consultant he might know where funding is available.

The next meeting, for "night types" — the designations are Mr. Woodbridge's — will be held Monday, February 27 at 7:30 in Borough Hall.

COME TO BOROUGH HALL

Regular and Work Session. In a new system, inaugurated this week, Borough Council will hold combined regular-and-work sessions, instead of designating the regular fourth Thursday meeting solely a work session. The meeting will be held this Thursday at 8 in Borough Hall.

The idea is Mayor Barbara Sigmund's, who said on New Year's Day that she wanted citizens to have a time set aside during work sessions when they could listen and comment. Normally, citizen comment is not encouraged at work sessions.

At the regular part of this Thursday's meeting, Charles St. John will make a presentation regarding historic sites; Ann Hofgesang will outline several welfare issues and Council will consider a St. Paul PTA raffles license.

On the work session agenda is an ordinance requiring food take-out shops to provide and maintain trash collectors and a letter from the Rent Registration Board concerning an October memorandum on Mt. Laurel housing from Edwin Schmierer, then Borough attorney.

Are You A Builder?

Individuals and companies in the various building trades are invited to place their names on a list which will be given to home-owners participating in the Borough's Neighborhood Preservation program.

Michael Floyd, co-ordinator of the program, will compile the list for home-owners who receive a program grant, and will be looking for someone to do their rehabilitation work.

Companies and individuals should send name, address, type of work and local references to Mr. Floyd, NPP Co-ordinator, Borough Hall, Princeton, N.J. 08542.

MAN INDICTED

For Passing Bad Checks. Christopher J. Aldrich, 27, of John Street, was indicted Monday by a Mercer County Grand Jury for allegedly writing a series of worthless checks totalling nearly $90,000. Unable to raise his bail of $50,000, he is being held in the Mercer County Detention Center.

The 13-count indictment against Aldrich lists ten of passing bad checks and three of theft by deception. Between May and July of 1983, Aldrich allegedly wrote the checks at locations across the county, including one for $37,000 for a new Mercedes-Benz car and checks for more than $3,000 for airline tickets to Hawaii, the Bahamas and Miami. Princeton Borough Chief of Police Michael Carnevale reported Tuesday that none of the checks had been cashed in the Borough.

Aldrich was arrested five months ago in Florida. According to Mercer County Assistant Prosecutor Harvey B. Lester, Aldrich opened a number of bank accounts in Alabama and the Bahamas.

He then wrote ten bogus checks in Mercer County, after he had made deposits in Mercer County banks with checks drawn on his checking account in the Alabama bank. All ten bounced.

Since his arrest — the result of a combined investigation by the Prosecutor's Office economic crime unit and members of the Lawrence and Hightstown police departments — Aldrich has paid $2,400 in restitution.

HAS 13-INCH KNIFE

Trenton Man Charged. A 22-year old Trenton resident, Kenneth Jackson, has been charged by Borough police with possession of a 13-inch kitchen knife. He is scheduled to appear in Borough Court February 15.

After being charged, Jackson was released to the Trenton Police Department which has three warrants for his arrest.

Ptl. Michael Taylor had responded to an 11:30 call Monday morning reporting a suspicious person in the rear of a Nassau Street building. Ptl. Taylor a short time later observed a person fitting the description at the Nassau and Mercer Streets bus stop.

As Ptl. Taylor was "patting down" the suspect, he felt an object in his waistband and removed the knife. Jackson told police that he carried the knife for protection. It was confiscated by the police.

Patient Becomes Unruly. Dexter Thompson, 28, of Zoar Street, Lawrenceville, was charged with disorderly conduct by Borough police, after he created a disturbance last week in an emergency room at the Princeton Medical Center.

Police report that Thompson had been taken to the hospital for treatment by Plainsboro police. After being treated, he allegedly became unruly and offensive and threatened the emergency room nursing staff. Ptl. Taylor and Ptl. Chris Boutote responded to an 8:01 call from the Medical Center and later charged Thompson. He faces a court hearing here February 15.

OFFICES ENTERED

In Arts Council Building. A window was broken to enter the Arts Council Building, 102 Witherspoon Street, during the weekend.

Taken from the Civil Rights office overnight was an IBM typewriter valued at $828, a $269 telephone answering machine and a $200 lamp. Police said the office door had been forced open.

Taken during a forced entry into another office were an IBM typewriter, wristwatch, $160 in stamps and a bracelet valued at $20. Police placed the entry between 5 Friday evening and 4:30 the following afternoon.

A window was pried open during the weekend to enter a ground-floor apartment in the 200 block of Witherspoon Street. Taken was a $125 television set.

An undetermined quantity of silver was stolen from an unoccupied home on Quaker Road which was entered Monday morning between 12:30 and 5:30. Township police report the intruder first entered a garage door and then broke a window to enter the house. Ptl. James Vandermark investigated.

A $400 tape deck, a $250 cassette player and a $150 televison set were stolen Monday from a home on Leigh Avenue. Entry was gained, police said, by prying open a rear storm window between 7 in the morning and 6:15 p.m.

Borough police report an attempted entry early Saturday morning into a Hodge Road home.

A neighbor was leaving his home around 3 a.m. when he saw a man alongside a house across the street. Police said that when the suspect noticed the neighbor looking at him, he ran off.

Police arrived and were able to follow footprints in the snow leading from the home to the Stanworth area. A subsequent investigation revealed that several ground-floor windows of the Hodge Road home had been broken in an attempt to enter.

The suspect is described a a male, wearing a dark hooded sweat shirt and sneakers.

VACANT HOME LEVELED

By Fire. An abandoned home, identified by Township police as the old Larsen home, was completely destroyed by fire last week.

A general alarm was sounded at 11:34 Friday night after police were called by a area resident. The home sat back in woods off Autumn Hill Lane which runs off Autumn Hill Road. It is owned by the Larsen estate.

Police Chief Anthony Pinelli reported that the fire is still under investigation. "We don't know how it started," he said.

Chief Pinelli added that a family member from Indiana had been at the home trying to get some personal belongings. "She had taken a heater with her but we don't know if the heater caused the fire or not."

Chief Pinelli said that Township officals had given notice to the owners that the house had to be razed.

Fireplace Fire. A defective chimney may have been the cause of a fire last Wednesday evening at the home of Edgar Buttenheim, 437 Ridgeview Road.

When Township police arrived, only smoke was coming from the fireplace. They called for fire trucks, however, and 15 firemen responded when they discovered that fire had started to burn the mantel and timbers around the fireplace. Damage from the 11:20 fire was confined to wooden trim around the fireplace, police said.

THEFT REPORT

Computer Unit Stolen. A computer component linking a terminal to any designated computer, and valued at $495, was stolen last week from a room in the Engineering Quadrangle on the university campus. There was no forced entry.

When a Princeton resident pulled into a lot in front of the Somerset Farms store, 161 Nassau Street, last week to make a purchase in store, he left the door to his Jaguar unlocked. Returning five minutes later, he discovered that someone had removed a radar detector unit valued at $245 from his car.

Another Princeton car owner became a theft victim when he parked his unlocked car for an hour in the the 100 block of Nassau Street. He returned to find a number of paperback Shakespearean books worth $50 were stolen.

In one of two thefts on Monday, a Hopewell resident reported that his blue parka, valued at $150, had been stolen from his locked locker at the YMCA, and a Princeton resident had her purse stolen from a Nassau Street restaurant while she was eating lunch. The victim told police that she had placed it on the floor and discovered it missing when she got ready to leave. She lost $7, her driver's license and identification cards.

A Princeton University student had her wallet stolen last week at the Security Savings and Loan Association, 130-132 Nassau Street. The victim told police as she approached a teller she realized that she had left her wallet on an island counter. It was gone by the time she returned, and she lost one dollar, credit cards and her PU identification card.

WINDSHIELD BROKEN

By Large Rock. The windshield of a 1977 station wagon, parked in the driveway of its Riverside Drive owner, was broken last week by a large rock.

Damage was estimated at $250. Police recovered a large rock in the driveway.

The left rear door window of a 1977 sedan was punctured by an air gun petllet while it was parked last week in a Bertrand Drive driveway, and a rear window, with an electric defogger, of a 1978 sedan parked on Birch Avenue, was broken early Sunday morning by an unknown objeet and completely shattered. The victim is a Birch Avenue resident.

In the Borough, two tires of a 1983 Saab were punctured while it was parked overnight in the Park Place lot. The victim, a Princeton resident, listed the replacement cost at $286.

DRIVER LOSES LICENSE

For Drunken Driving. Dagoberto Otero, 244 Nassau Street, had his driver's license revoked for six months and was fined $250 for driving while intoxicated, in Borough traffic court Monday. Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. also fined Mr. Otero $35 for noncompliance with conditions of a learner's permit.

Fined for speeding were George Gyssler, 59 Talbot Lane; Donald W. Schoenleber, 351 State Road; Davis Dougherty, 405A Butler Avenue, all $70; Arlene Dpatut, 98 Heather Lane, $80; Domenica Falco, 123 Graf Avenue, Lawrenceville, and Susan P. Kasoff, 140 Random Road, both $60. Ms. Kasoff also paid $20 for no license or registration in possession.

Fined $60 each were Tom D. Hughes, 3 Jefferson Road, leaving the scene of an accident; Mary Yiu, 53 Maple Street, failure to signal before starting or stopping; James M. McPherson, 15 Randall Road, stop sign; Mahmet Ergin, 1T Hibben Apartments, Faculty Road, improper passing; and Geoffrey Hilaire, 5 Heather Lane, Belle Mead; Rodrigo Soto, 406 Ewing Street; and Ward H. Wilson, 1079 Stuart Road, all red light.

Matthew Adriance, 729 Prospect Avenue, and Lorraine Wong, 11 Wexford Drive, Lawrenceville, each paid $20 for failure to have inspection.

Township Court. In Township traffic court last week, Judge Sydney Souter fined James J. Varney, 56 Leabrook Lane, $265 and suspended his license for six

TO DISCUSS HOUSING

And Mt. Laurel. Ways the Borough might assure a supply of lower-cost housing were scheduled to be explored this Wednesday at an 8 p.m. meeting in Borough Hall.

The Borough's attorney, Walter Bliss, will offer several options, and the public is invited to comment. Discussion will be in the framework of the 1983 Mt. Laurel II decision, requiring municipalities to provide housing for lower-income families.

Mr. Bliss will suggest two possibilities: mandatory set-asides, requiring developers to provide a percentage — probably 20 percent — of housing units for low or moderate-income families, and some kind of fund which could be a source of either capital or public credit.

Such a fund might also be a guarantor of private credit allowing moderate-income home-owners to finance the part of their taxes traceable to rapid acceleration of the value of the house.

It could also be used for a system similar to buying development rights to protect farmland, Mr. Bliss suggested. Fund money would buy from owners of moderately-priced houses the amount of appreciation; in return, the house would be kept for lower-income buyers.

Developers would be the chief source of fund money. "If," Mr. Bliss suggests, "there is a connection between a new development and the withering away of lower-cost housing, perhaps the municipality could exact money from the developer, just as developers are already required to pay for off-site improvements connected to their development.

"This might even be fine-tuned to apply to a house-ful of apartments that are converted to condominiums."

TO DEDICATE NEW QUARTERS: Eden Institute, a school for autistic children and young adults, will dedicate its new home at Logan Drive and Route One on Sunday afternoon. Addressing invitations to the open house and dedication ceremonies are, from left, Harriet Riedel, Anne Plumb and Suzann Murphy. Eden is supported in part by the Princeton Area United Way.

The Witherspoon-Jackson Corporation, a private nonprofit corporation, might work with the Borough to administer a Mt. Laurel ordinance, thereby keeping bureaucracy at a minimum, Mr. Bliss said.

DEVELOPERS INVITED

To Consider Dinky. A two-alternative proposal for possible development of the Dinky station area has been submitted to Ronald L. Reisner, new director of property development for NJ Transit. The draft, prepared by Borough Council member Richard Macgill, was sent last week by Mayor Barbara Sigmund.

A Tract A plan would use 3 acres now owned by NJ Transit and consisting of the station building and a railroad express building plus the parking lot used by Carmen ("Irish") Fasanella. Tract B would involve 4.5 acres and a property trade between NJ Transit and Princeton University.

Both Borough and Township have said they will consider modifying zoning regulations for a developer. Developers must also contribute $50,000 yearly to make sure the Dinky shuttle continues to operate.

Female Northern Oriole Wins 'Best Bird' Honors In Annual Princeton Area Christmas Bird Count

89 SPECIES OBSERVED

On Christmas Count. The "best bird of the count" was a female northern or Bullock's oriole which hung around a feeder belonging to Arthur and Janet Harvey of Princeton Junction for two weeks.

Another highlight was a blue-winged teal, observed for the first time on count day since the Princeton count began in 1923. The annual Christmas Bird Count is held in communities all across the country, and the results, reported and published by the National Audubon Society, shed light on the early winter distribution of the different species of native birds, where they are and in what number.

For ardent bird watchers, the event becomes something of a social, sporting and competitive event, in which the purpose is to see or hear, in a single calendar day, the biggest possible list of birds in a designated area. In Princeton, the count area is a circle 15 miles in diameter centered on the Graduate College. This year, the count was held on a clear and relatively mild December 18, when 57 observers, 44 on foot and by car, 13 watching bird feeders, took part.

The total number of species observed was 89--two more than in 1982. The total number of birds tallied came to 26,785.

In addition to the northern oriole and the blue-winged teal, the following birds were counted: pied-billed grebe 5; great blue heron 6; mute swan 1; snow goose 3; Canada goose 8251; wood duck 1; green-winged teal 7; American black duck 221; mallard 880; northern pintail 20; gadwall 1; American wigeon 1; redhead 3; ring-necked duck 3; common merganser 4; ruddy duck 9;

Also, turkey vulture 69; northern harrier 7; sharp-shinned hawk 9 (previous high 5); red-shouldered hawk 4; red-tailed hawk 38; rough-legged hawk 1; American kestrel 42; ring-necked pheasant 5; ruffed grouse 4; American coot 88; killdeer 61; ring-billed gull 182; herring gull 143; great black-backed gull 4; rock dove 424; mourning dove 2028;

Also, barn owl 1; eastern screech owl 50; great horned owl 28 (previous high 22 in 1979); barred owl 1; saw-whet owl 1; kingfisher 15; red-bellied woodpecker 22; yellow-bellied sapsucker 5; downy woodpecker 165; hairy woodpecker 15; flicker 120; pileated woodpecker 1;

Also, blue jay 702; American crow 753; black-capped chickadee 295; Carolina chickadee 320; chickadee species 163; titmouse 303; red-breasted nuthatch 9; white-breasted nuthatch 128; brown creeper 14; Carolina wren 14; golden-crowned kinglet 23; ruby-crowned kinglet 5;

Also Eastern bluebird 15; hermit thrush 7; American Robin 145; gray catbird 7; mockingbird 157; cedar waxwing 160 (second highest count); loggerhead shrike 1 (the Rosedale Park specialty); starling 3228; orange-crowned warbler 1; myrtle warbler 232; cardinal 269; towhee 4;

Also, tree sparrow 222; field sparrow 207 (previous high 182 in 1967); Savannah sparrow 7; fox sparrow 5; song sparrow 430; swamp sparrow 32; white-throated sparrow 1104; white-crowned sparrow 4;

Also, dark-eye (slate-colored) junco 1007; redwing 786; meadowlark 36; rusty blackbird 4; grackle 1061; cowbird 29; purple finch 54; house finch 1340 (previous high 1298) in '82; pine siskin 8; goldfinch 133; evening grosbeak 14 (10 of which were seen on Edgerstoune Road); and house sparrow 396.

Additional species observed in count week but not on count day: bufflehead, and fish crow. Raymond J. Blicharz of Trenton is the official compiler for the Princeton and the Trenton Christmas Bird Counts.

SERIES ON STRESS SET

By Parents' Council. The Parents' Council of the Greater Princeton Area will present Dr. Ghislaine Godenne of Johns Hopkins University in a talk on "Managing Stress in the Family." The talk will be held Thursday, February 2, at 8 in McCosh 50 on the University Chapel and is open to the public, free of charge.

Dr. Godenne is professor of psychology, psychiatry, pediatrics and mental hygiene at Johns Hopkins and a widely published author. She approaches the phenomenon of stress in the family with humor and insight and offers practical methods of dealing with everyday situations.

Ghislaine Godenne

Her talk will be followed by a series of six seminars by area authorities the week of February 7 to 16 at host schools. These talks are also open to the public, free of charge.

The program will begin with a presentation by Nancy Fromm and Jay Lappin entitled "One Voice" Tuesday, February 7, at 8 p.m. at Stuart Country Day School. The talk is directed to parents of teenagers at grade 10-12 level and will concern itself with the importance of a consistent, one-voice policy in dealing with teenagers' stress. Ms. Fromm, Ed.S., is in private practice as a psychotherapist in Princeton, and Mr. Lappin, A.C.S.W., is a senior faculty member of the Family Therapy Training Center at the Philadelphia Child Guidance Clinic.

Myron Gessner, M.D., associate professor of clinical psychiatry and pediatrics at Rutgers Medical School, will speak on "Parenthood: Gains and Losses" Wednesday, February 8, at 8 p.m. at Chapin School. His talk will be directed to parents of children from kindergarten to 6th grade and will discuss some of the ways children are both lovable and bothersome and how to cope.

"What Is Normal Adolescent Behavior?" is the topic of Maxine Farmer on Thursday, February 9, at 8 at John Witherspoon School. Ms. Farmer, A.C.S.W., is in private practice in psychotherapy and is the mother of three adolescents. Assisting her will be Saul Salkin, A.C.S.W., and Sharon Kershaw, M.S.W. Assisting Dr. Gessner will be Linda Meisel, A.C.S.W. and Beverly Almgren, M.S.W.

Other talks in the series will be held on February 14 and 16 and will be listed in TOWN TOPICS. For information call Areta Oebel-Parle, 896-0890, or Betty Klingebiel, 924-4928.

REGISTRAR NAMED

At University. Dr. C. Anthony Broh, an assistant professor of political science at Rutgers University and a Belle Mead resident has been appointed registrar of Princeton University.

Dr. Broh, whose appointment is effective February 1, succeeds Bruce Finnie, who last fall was named director of Princeton's Office of Administrative Services and Information Systems.

The Registrar's Office is responsible for maintaining academic records of all students enrolled at Princeton, assigning classroom space, scheduling examinations and providing transcripts. The registrar also serves as secretary of the faculty Committee on Schedule.

Dr. Broh taught at several universities, including Duke and Columbia, before joining the Rutgers faculty in 1981. He has taught courses in American government, mass media and public policy, techniques of political research, elections and voting behavior, and survey behavior, among others. His wife, Jennifer L. Hochschild, is an assistant professor of politics and public affairs and Mellon Preceptor at Princeton.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

HOW TO KILL A TREE-PART III

with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

Topping, well, "topping" is the killing of large mature trees. Disease, graphic insects, nutritional deficiencies, pruning needs, all have the possibility of killing trees, connected.

Defoliation by insects two or three years in a row will kill many species. Nevertheless, attempts to alleviate insect problems may cause larger problems. Use of the wrong pesticide or overdoses by untrained people have hurt many a tree. Bad pruning can be worse than none. If stubs are left they will die and decay, we either. Even a blanket of mulch can turn evergreen. Studies indicate that a two inch mulch ring 4 to 6 feet from the trunk is beneficial. Turfgrass competition, mechanical damage to trees can be reduced to a large extent, probably kill a tree. Mowers, snow blows, trucks and string trimmers are effective tools for battering trunks or tearing off roots.

Auto exhaust, burning trash, barbeques set up under trees have an adverse affect on our green friends. Weed killers are tree killers too. Changing of the soil and water conditions are not good for trees. Most soil is porous. The pores allow air containing oxygen without which roots die, and water without which roots die into the soil complex. If soil is compressed pores are eliminated. No pores, no air, no roots, no tree.

There are many factors which produce negative influences on your tree's health and that is one reason why WOODWINDS suggests its Annual Maintenance Program to our clients. We suggest that you call WOODWINDS (924-3500) for a personal evaluation of your property and its needs.

OPEN HOUSE PLANNED

By Waldorf School. The Waldorf Nursery-Kindergarten will hold an Open House on Friday from 1:30 to 4:30, and again on Sunday at the same time, at their location in the Johnson Park School.

A 20-minute film entitled "Waldorf," which gives the education philosophy of Rudolf Steiner, founder of the Waldorf movement, will be shown at regular intervals. Parents will have an opportunity to observe the different types of activities that characterize the program. Teachers, board members and parents of children presently enrolled will be on hand to answer questions.

Registration for September, 1984, has begun. The program for children age 3½ to 6 is essentially a morning one, with the possibility of an extended day. For information call 924-7428 or 924-6258.

COMPUTER MEETING

At Chapin School. Chapin School computer specialist Stephen Gingo was the host at a recent meeting of elementary and secondary school computer coordinators.

Representatives from Princeton Day School, Chapin, the Lawrence and Hopewell Valley school districts, among others, have been meeting periodically this past fall to discuss teaching methods and curriculum in the rapidly developing field of computer instruction.

The next meeting is scheduled for Monday, February 13, at Lawrence Intermediate School. Interested educators may contact any of the member schools for more information.

SEMINAR PLANNED

On Macrobiotics. The Macrobiotic Institute of Princeton will hold a seminar to explain the macrobiotic approach to cancer and other degenerative diseases on Thursday, February 2, at 8 at the Unitarian Church.

Murray Snyder of the East-West Foundation of Maryland will be the featured speaker. Macrobiotics employs a diet of whole grains, fresh vegetables and fruits and avoids the use of food rich in fats, refined foods, and refined sugar.

Admission cost is $7 with reservations and $8 otherwise. Reservations may be made by calling the Macrobiotic Institute at 683-1329.

LAUGHTER IS TOPIC

Of Talk on Healing. Yvonne Kay, a psychotherapist in Philadelphia, will speak on "The Role of Laughter in Healing" Tuesday, February 7, at 8 at the Unitarian Church. The talk is sponsored by the Holistic Health Association.

Ms. Kaye has been involved in the field of human services, particularly in the area of addiction, for more than 30 years. She has a weekly radio program on a Philadelphia radio station on Saturday nights.

A workshop entitled "Yoga Movements and Songs for Children" designed for 3-5 year olds will begin Friday, February 3, from 4-5 p.m., also at the Unitarian Church. It will be led by Preet Kaur Khalsa and run for four sessions.

For further information on both programs, call the Holistic Health Association office, 924-8580.

REGISTRATION SET

By Creative Center. Registration is now being accepted for spring workshops offered by Princeton Creative Center. Elizabeth Starr Hill is the center director, and all programs will be held at Morven, 55 Stockton Street.

Mrs. Hill's Advanced Fiction Workshop, an eight-week course, is scheduled for Tuesday evenings, February 14-April 3, from 8 to 10. Another evening workshop, Creative Non-Fiction: Writing from Life, will meet Wednesday evenings from February 15 to April 4, also from 8 to 10. It will be conducted by Veronica Muller, and class members will be encouraged to write articles or stories based on hobbies, special interests or life experiences.

The fee for either course is $55, and members of either class may visit two evenings in the other without extra charge.

The center will also offer lectures designed to stimulate appreciation and understanding of nature. Donald Dilatush, photographer, will show slides taken on his farm in Hamilton Township on three Wednesday evenings, February 15, 22 and 29, at 8. His presentation is entitled "Seeing More of Your World."

Another three-week series, "The Sounds of Your World," will take place on Wednesday evenings, March 14, 21 and 28, at 8 with author and lecturer Peter Putnam and Dolly Minis, who records for the Library of Natural Sounds at Cornell University. The fee for either series is $12, and tickets for a single evening are not available.

To register, send check or money order to Princeton Creative Center, 24 Woodside Lane, and include name, address, telephone number and the name of the course desired. For further information call the center at 924-3669.

MEMBERS SOUGHT

For Ski Patrol. The Belle Mountain Chapter of the National Ski Patrol is currently recruiting new members for the 1984 ski season.

In order to be eligible as a ski patrol candidate, a skier must have completed an approved advanced first aid course (American Red Cross or EMT), possess a current C.P.R. card and pass a skiing proficiency check at Belle Mountain.

Candidates are also trained in on-the-mountain skiing and toboggan-handling skills.

Those who meet the basic qualifications and are interested in joining Belle Mountain's paid ski patrol should call Ken Kenning, patrol leader, at 587-0832 or Belle Mountain Ski Area at 397-0040.

Hospice Care for Terminally Ill Involves Joint Effort At Making Patient's Final Months as Easy as Possible

Hospice is not for everyone. Hospice coordinators, doctors, nurses--even patient families who are the primary caretakers of the terminally ill for whom hospice care is designed--agree that in not every instance is this program of home care with hospital back up feasible or even desirable.

But when it is, it has a profound effect on everyone, from the home health aides and the volunteers, to the doctors, nurses and social worker or visiting clergy, to the patients and the family. All are involved in this multi-discipline effort at making the patient's final weeks or months as easy a transition to death as humanly possible.

For Noelle Glouchevitch, who nursed her husband Jean at home during the last two months of his illness from lung cancer, the teamwork and the support from her husband's doctors and from Kay Heidere, the Community Health nurse who was with her the whole afternoon her husband died, was "absolutely wonderful." European in background and outlook, Mrs. Glouchevitch was determined to have her husband at home, even when it involved unpleasant medical procedures.

She describes those two months as "the most beautiful, and the most difficult" of her life, and adds: "I never would have forgiven myself if I had not cared for him in this way." She says her husband was an unusual patient, "a lesson in courage, with never a complaint," but that does not diminish her admiration for the "devotion" of the people who helped her care for him.

It Takes Love. For Mrs. Glouchevitch, such care is "an act of love" and the greatest gift she could give. She also believes that there is no ugliness in death, and after her husband died, she prepared his body herself for burial. With the help of a funeral director she placed him directly into the casket which was brought to her home.

Mrs. Nelson Van Wickler of Rossmoor, whose husband also died of lung cancer in June, is equally praising of the team of doctors, nurses and home health aides who helped her during her husband's last three months. Given a choice of having him in Merwick or bringing him home on the Supportive Care Program, she elected the latter, knowing that she was "a pretty strong person."

As his illness progressed, Mr. Van Wickler lost his ability to speak, and she had to make all the decisions. He was also not accepting of his disease and determined he would be well to play golf by the Fourth of July and to attend his 55th college reunion.

"So many times people will say, 'Isn't it gloomy, working with the terminally ill?' But in reality there is a great deal of joy."

Talking things over with the nurses, first Donna and then Kay, was as important to her as the care he received.

However, Mrs. Van Wickler says she thinks she erred in not getting night nursing until the last four days. She had not realized how exhausted she had become from sleeping in a state of watchful alertness to his condition and needs. Under the new Medicare regulations and reimbursement schedule, respite care and continuous home care are an integral part of the hospice program.

Kay Heidere, who will head the Supportive Care/Hospice program in the Medical Center's Department of Community Health, feels that respite care, for which the patient is admitted to a nursing home or similar institution for a few days, and continuous home care, which provides nursing at home for up to 24 hours, will make all the difference to patient families. "They will be able to get a good night's sleep, and be all the more loving in the daytime," she thinks.

Having raised three children and worked intermittently as a school nurse, Mrs. Heidere has been a full time Community Health nurse for the past 2½ years. Each of the 13 nurses in the Department has a specialty, such as diabetes instruction or heart health, but the 50 or so Supportive Care cases are spread among all 13 nurses, in order to avoid "burn-out."

Families Are Wonderful Too. "I love our Supportive Care families," Kay says. "What they do for the patients is just amazing." She adds: "So many times people will say, 'isn't it gloomy, working with the terminally ill.' But in reality there is a great deal of joy.

"Just because they are dying they have not lost their sense of humor. And it is wonderful to see families interact. Nor do they want to talk about death all the time. For the most part these patients are trying to live as much as they can until they die."

Not all the patients on Supportive Care are elderly or even adult. Six year-old Chris Sacconti of Kendall Park was diagnosed at 13 months as having leukemia and given a high risk, poor prognosis protocol (treatment plan) of heavy chemotherapy every three weeks at Sloan-Kettering in New York City. In between there were weekly blood counts, blood and platelet transfusions as needed, and hospitalizations for infections and dehydration.

Six months short of the three years by which, if he was free of symptoms, Chris could be taken off this regimen, he relapsed, and another protocol was instituted. This time a permanent catheter was inserted in his neck and out his chest through which medication, blood and fluids could be administered without having to stick a needle in a vein each time. The catheter required daily care and dressing changes to guard against infection, which occurred anyway, and it was during this trying period that Kay Heidere and Supportive Care came to the aid of the family.

A Big Help. Joan Sacconti, Chris's mother, is a nurse, but she found the emotional support she needed to cope with the whole thing--Chris's bodily changes and the loss of his "gorgeous" red hair, the fear that the next infection might carry him off--and not feel so isolated. "The Supportive Care team help you to mobilize your own resources so you can do it on your own," she says.

"Kay conveys such a calmness--you know she is not going to be blown away by your questions, your fears and doubts. She is also feeling. It brings a humanness in medicine.

The catheter was removed after a year, and Chris is in kindergarten in Kendall Park, keeping up with his classmates and interested in cars and garages like any six-year old boy. His gorgeous red hair has grown back, the puffy look from chemotherapy has disappeared and one would not know that he has a chronic illness. His condition has been stable for the past year, and he has another year to go in order to achieve that crucial three year mark. His family--mother, father and two older brothers--have learned to take one day at a time.

Who is Eligible? Chris's case is, happily, unusual, for hospice patients, by definition, are those who are thought to have six months or less to live. Medicare provides benefits in three different time periods, of 90 days, 90 days and 30 days, which adds up to 210 days, or seven months--another instance of the confusion to be found in the new regulations. If a patient outlives the 210 days, the hospice program, by law, is obligated to continue the care to death.

An estimated 70 percent of hospice patients in New Jersey are 65 and older, thus eligible for Medicare. Because of the low hospice Medicare reimbursement rate for the four different levels of care that must be provided, the timing of when to put a patient on Supportive Care/Hospice will be important. Patients will probably move from in-patient hospital care, to routine home care, to supportive care, to supportive care/hospice.

Thus far Medicare is the first third party payer to come up with a full-scale reimbursement plan for hospice care. Blue Cross is said to be adopting a "wait and see" policy of seeing how it works for Medicare before adopting its own plan. Major medical programs offer home care reimbursement but not, generally, for hospice.

Another new development in hospice care is that in New Jersey nurses are now allowed to pronounce death. Frequently it is the nurse who is there at the time of death, and the new rule will avoid an unnecessary visit by the doctor and may also increase the number of patients who elect the program on the advice of their doctor.

> "Things become more real, sharper. There is a realism in talking with them that is incredibly basic, and I too drop the sham. It is like an awakening, seeing a scene in a very sharp light."

Use of Volunteers. Volunteers are an important part of the Supportive Care team and will become more so under the new federal regulations which stipulate that volunteer hours must equal five percent of the total number of hours of patient care rendered by employees of the program.

Mary Strzelecki, director of Community Health, says that for 1982 and 1983, volunteers in the Supportive Care program represented a cost saving of $7,870. Additional cost saving will be necessary if the hospice program is to come close to breaking even under the low Medicare reimbursement rates, she says

Working with terminally ill patients has been as meaningful to the volunteers, who take it as an honor to be with a family at such an important time, as it is to the family whom they assist in countless ways. A volunteer may sit with a patient so the family can go to a movie, or drive the kids to scout meeting or the patient to have her hair done--it all depends on the family situation.

Volunteers must be flexible and must have some of the same emotional strength that patients and families exhibit. Individuals are not accepted for volunteer training if they have experienced the death of a relative or close friend within the past year. Dodie Carothers signed up because she has always been interested in the older generation and is not afraid of death.

Contrary to the popular misconception that it is draining, depressing work, Mrs. Carothers finds it "incredibly rewarding, and an experience in which I am learning all the time." She speaks with awe of the way people in their last illness are different.

"Things become more real, sharper, she says. "There is a realism in talking with them that is incredibly basic, and I too drop the sham. It is like an awakening, seeing a scene in a very sharp light." But she adds that people should not feel guilty if they don't feel they are suited to this kind of volunteer work.

A training class of five men and four women is now underway, but there will be other classes coming up. Mrs. Heidere suggests that a prospective volunteer contact Valerie Dallo, director of volunteers at Princeton Medical Center, 734-4589.

Mrs. Heidere hopes to enlist volunteers from the wide geographical area covered by the Medical Center to cut down the amount of driving, and she plans to institute a monthly meeting of all volunteers so they will feel more a part of the team. Volunteers are always welcome at the Community Health Department's Monday morning sessions at which Supportive Care patients are discussed, she says.

TOTO'S MARKET, a tradition in Princeton on Witherspoon Street since 1912 continues to offer top quality service to its customers. Albert Toto, Jr., his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Toto, Sr., and Mark Nini have added some new services to the meat and food market – delicious sandwiches and salads for lunch, their prime meats shipped anywhere in the U.S., and gift baskets filled with specialty food items.

IT'S NEW TO US

A PRINCETON TRADITION

Toto's Market. It is comforting to know that many of the older shops in town grow and change with the times, yet somehow remain traditional. Toto's Market is one such place, a thriving business which has offered the finest quality prime meat and foodstuffs to Princeton since 1912. Three generations of the Toto family have been serving Princeton families in three different locations on Witherspoon Street since that date. The market has flourished at 74 Witherspoon Street for 27 years, evolving from a specialty grocery store to a forward-moving business which is now actively pursuing the individual and corporate lunch market and a prime meat shipping service.

It seems that the Toto family have always been in step with the times – if not a bit ahead of them. "While my grandfather, Flori Toto, the original owner, kept the books it was my grandmother, Lucy, who was the driving force behind the business. They switched roles, as couples often do today. He stayed home, cooked, cared for their four children and she loved working here," explains Albert Toto Jr. who runs the market with his parents. At one point three of Lucy Toto's sons were participating in the business.

Generations of Princeton families continue to enjoy the market's fine services. However, home grocery delivery will soon be phased out as the volume of Toto's business increases.

Although the cozy, old-fashioned atmosphere of the market with its original storefront, wooden floor boards, a well-worn butcher's block where prime meat is custom cut, cases filled with carefully chosen produce, shining wood shelves and a cooler stocked with a tempting assortment of cheeses are familiar sights, changes in the direction of the Toto business are evident.

"Little by little, over the past seven years, we have been phasing out the staple, grocery-store type of items and focusing on specialty items which appeal to our customers," says the younger Mr. Toto.

Toto's famous meats, steaks, roasts of lamb or beef, veal scalloppine, and boneless smoked hams are now shipped anywhere in the U.S. Custom cutting and flash freezing right in the shop assures the finest taste and freshness possible. What could be a more thoughtful gift for friends or family than a box of fresh prime steaks? Mr. Toto is looking into the possibility of incentive gifts for companies as well.

Salmon All Year. Delicious smoked salmon from the Pacific northwest, a gift attractively packaged and ready to serve and send for $39.99, were such a success during the past few holiday seasons that Toto's has decided to carry them all year.

Who would not enjoy one of the gift baskets prepared for customers by Toto's which could include fresh game, condiments, cheeses, fancy teas and coffees, imported cookies and jellies, and Swiss chocolates? Nothing would be more welcome as a gift, or a change after a long week of mundane meals!

Party platters have become another specialty service at Toto's. Customers bring in their own trays and the market will fill them with scrumptious hors d'oeuvre, cheeses and biscuits or crackers, a time-saving delight for the busy host or hostess.

The lunch hour at Toto's has become the most active time of day. Scrumptious sandwiches, more than 30 varieties, are made to order for hungry students, business people, and passers by. The market devotes three hours a day to preparing its home made fare. Despite the fact that more than 80 sandwiches are served daily, the Totos can make a sandwich per minute!

"We have been accused of being a fast food restaurant," jokes Mr Toto, who also prepares crab, shrimp, and tuna salads, to mention a few. Homemade cookies and other snacks accompany the sandwiches, which are so popular that many people and offices prefer to call ahead with their orders.

"In the old days students from the university would come in to charge food and sandwiches to their parents' account. They still come back to see us, especially during the football season and reunions," says Mr Toto, who is proud of his family's long-standing tradition as fine merchants.

Unusual specialty foods can be found in the shop, including 20 different flavors of Bencheley's teas, jalapeno jelly, imported coffee beans, gourmet soups by Baxter of Scotland, Delacra cookies, imported pasta, special vinegars and home-baked pies.

NEW COMPUTER STORE

Entre Computer Center. An exciting new computer store opened in Princeton at 47 State Road in November. Entre Computer Center, owned by David Stein and Sam Roitman, has thus far focused sales on small businesses and some larger corporations. Both of the youthful owners have more than 10 years of experience in the technical side of the computer business as well as sales. Their technical background has already been noted by several contented customers, who crew the firm's ability to analyze needs, install a system, train personnel, and give additional support as "first class."

"We feel that because of our experience we are able to offer the kind of specialized service people are looking for, especially to first-time users who have to overcome a certain amount of hesitancy about running their computers," explains Mr Stein.

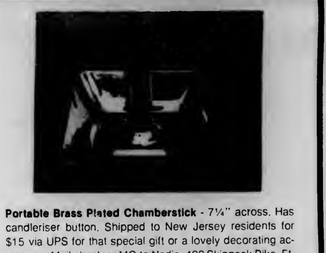
Computers by IBM, DEC, Compaq, and Grid can be found at Entre Computer, which is a franchise of a large, now international, computer company. The IBM PC and PC Jr. (which will arrive shortly) and the XT, the Compaw and the Compaq Plus portable computers, the Televideo, a new IBM-compatible computer complete with monitor, keyboards and two disc drives, and the DEC Rainbow 100 and 100 Plus are sensibly displayed in the shop's handsome surroundings.

Each system is run at a separate work station attractively decorated in bold stripes of magenta, dark green and brass, and in more private glassed-in showrooms where the able sales staff can answer questions and display the uses of each system.

The Grid portable eight-pound computer, with its titanium case, is available here. The same model has been placed on the space shuttle to keep track of its position at all times.



Free Seminars. Entre Computer will begin free seminars in February on word processing, financial applications, management systems, accounting with computers, and an introductory computer literacy course. The shop's large software section and library covers most subjects of interest for businesses, but personal assistance and analysis is what is most important to the new owners.

They, or one of their staff members, analyze the needs of a company, research its accounting system thoroughly and then try to match the right computer with the company's software needs.

"Software programs can't do everything. It takes time and study to know what specialized needs of a small business might be," explains Mr Stein. Once the right decision is made, Entre Computer sets the system up, makes sure it is working perfectly, and then installs it and trains the company in its use.

Hours are from 10 to 6 Monday through Friday except on Thursdays when the shop is open until 8; from 10 to 6 on Saturday, and by appointment.

Roads "A Disgrace."
To the Editor of Town Topics:

(The following is a copy of a letter to Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund.)

The roads of Princeton this winter are a disgrace. Safety has been totally hampered. Not an excuse could be offered to make up for the lives lost and endangered. Let's get down to business: safety, education, and health.

MARCIA HNATH-MAGUIRE
25 Palmer Square

He Cared Enough.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Early Wednesday morning, as I approached the Battlefield on my way to Princeton, a small pick-up truck pulled out from one of the houses on the right hand side of the road. From the number of plastic bags in the back of his truck I thought that he was probably a private garbage collector doing his rounds. Imagine my surprise and pleasure when he pulled over to the side of the road as he reached the top of the hill. He got out and picked up a bag of garbage that some thoughtless litterbug had dumped there.

This is just a thank you to this unknown gentleman who cared enough to improve things for us all. Your good deed, sir was not unnoticed and it is certainly appreciated.

NANCY B. MILLER

Fund Drive Successful.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Youth Employment Service of Princeton would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the people who contributed so generously to our annual fund drive. This makes it possible to, once again, finance the diverse activities of our organization.

For the last 23 years Y.E.S. has assisted the young people of Princeton (age 14-22) to find after-school and summer jobs. Last year we successfully started the Intergenerational Program to help the elderly and participated in the Job-Bound program in conjunction with other community organizations.

Thank you again for your support.

Hanneke Calmon, President
Eva Schwab,
Fund Drive Chairperson

More Praise for Bliss.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

While I was one of the people instrumental in convincing Walter Bliss to serve as Democratic County Chair for Mercer County in 1981, and can certainly attest to his outstanding credentials and record of public service, I also attest to his excellence as a lawyer.

Mr. Bliss is a cum laude graduate of Princeton University and holds a Master's Degree in Political Science from Columbia University. He is a graduate of the Columbia School of Law. He served the public in a variety of positions.

More importantly, Mr. Bliss is a man of impeccable integrity and remarkable diligence. In fact, when he was elected Democratic County Chair in 1981, he was perceived as a reform leader.

His appointment as Attorney to Princeton Borough is the County's loss and Princeton Borough's gain.

at Valley Road and Route 206 (State Road).

The Sewer Operating Committee, however, says it eliminated that area as a no-connection zone last year because the SOC thought that is what the state wanted. Mrs. McNeill and Random Road residents, Olivia Applegate and Dwight O. North, charge that the SOC did not have the authority to eliminate the zone.

Edwin Schmierer, the Township's attorney, has said the SOC did have that right.

"I am kind of distressed at the SOC's action," says Township Mayor Winthrop S. Pike, "because problems in that basin aren't going away — Valley Road manholes are still overflowing. Although I think Ed is probably on firm legal ground."

Mrs. Applegate also charges that the SOC's secretary, George Olexa, violated part of the 1981 Administrative Consent agreement on sewers between Princeton and the state in approving sewer allocation for the former Salzman property in the north-central Township.

Section 8 of the Consent agreement says the SOC will not allocate sewer capacity so as to create any new surcharge problems, "or exacerbate existing problems."

Mr. Olexa denies this.

"If you remove four gallons of sewage for every gallon you will be contributing, you're within the Consent agreement," he says. "By definition, then, the Salzman tract doesn't exacerbate the problem. Within that framework of four-to-one, it does not violate Section 8."

But Mrs. Applegate maintains that Mr. Olexa's letter to the Planning Board saying that enough rehabilitation work has been done to allow Salzman connection is "deceiving" because it doesn't tell the board that the sub-division is in the no-connection zone, and doesn't mention that the SOC eliminated the zone.

"Theoretically, enough infiltration and inflow has been removed," Mayor Pike says, "whether 'actually' removed — that is the question.

"What bothers me," the mayor continues, "is what kind of policy-making can the SOC indulge in? After we're through with the budget, I want more discussion about the SOC, and I think Mayor Sigmund would agree. We may even want to exert some pressure on the state regarding the no-connection zone."

But Mr. Olexa sees it differently.

The SOC includes, among its six members, two representatives each from Borough and Township (and two from Princeton University).

"There is more input from the governing bodies than you get in most agencies," he maintains. "Acting about matters like no-connection zones is what the SOC is for. It's an administrative body acting as an agency for the government; otherwise, you'd need a meeting of Township Committee and Borough Council to deal with everything. They don't advise their own public works departments."

Mr. Schmierer's opinion as a lawyer, is that unless the state DEP tells Princeton something specifically, the decisions rest with the SOC.

"You could say that every new connection before our sewers are absolutely watertight will indeed exacerbate," he comments. "But Section 8 wasn't intended to be read that literally, and the DEP understood that we might be letting the situation get worse before it got better. The important thing is — we're working on a plan."

Mrs. Applegate has another complaint. The public believes a developer must have final approval before receiving sewer allocation, she says, but Collins received its allocation in May and did not receive Planning Board approval until June. She says that, during its June meeting, the SOC changed the policy so that preliminary approval would be sufficient for sewerage allocation.

Mr. Olexa said the policy requiring final approval had been set to cover periods when there might not be enough sewer capacity to be allocated. That problem never developed, he explained, so the policy was revised.

"The Planning Board gets criticized about sewer matters," Mayor Pike observed, "but the problem is that interrelations among the SOC, the Borough, the Township and the Planning Board are — well, fuzzy."

The medal is awarded to those individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Army.

Verone also received the Combat Infantry Badge for service in the Grenada operations. The badge is awarded to soldiers assigned or attached to an infantry unit that has engaged in active ground combat with an opposing force. He is an indirect-fire infantryman with the 82nd Airborne Division.

The specialist is a 1981 graduate of Lawrence High School.

Barbara Weinstein of Philadelphia has been promoted to the position of principal of The Hillier Group.

Ms. Weinstein joined The Hillier Group in 1977 as an interior designer and was elected an associate of the firm in 1981. As director of interior design, she has been responsible for the expansion of The Hillier Group's interior design studio which has grown to a staff of 39.

Ms. Weinstein is also a member of the firm's operating committee which sets firm policy. She is also on the board of directors of The Hillier Group Interiors, Inc., a New York-based design subsidiary.

Jeanne Stiefel of Plainsboro has been appointed executive assistant to Commissioner John P. Sheridan Jr. at the N.J. Department of Transportation.

Ms. Stiefel had been serving as the Commissioner's executive assistant at N.J. Transit since October 1983 prior to assuming her new post in the Department of Transportation earlier this month.

Prior to entering government service, Ms. Stiefel practiced law in Burlington County. She is a 1977 graduate of Rutgers University and holds a law degree from the University of Miami (Florida) Law School.

Charles W. Ufford, Jr., of 150 Mercer Street, has been elected chairperson of the Section of Trusts and Estates Law of the New York State Bar Association for 1984.

Born in Princeton, Mr. Ufford is an honors graduate of Harvard College and a graduate of the Harvard Law School. He was the Lionel de Jersey Harvard Scholar at Cambridge University, England, in 1953-54 and thereafter served two years in the U.S. Army. He is a partner of the New York Law firm of Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher and Flom and head of its trusts and estates department.

Mr. Ufford is a Fellow of the American College of Probate Counsel and the author of several articles on tax law relating to trusts and estates.

Marine Cpl. George S. Mount IV, son of Ward V. Eldridge of 40 Dublin Road, Pennington, N.J., has been promoted to his present rank while serving with the 2nd Force Service Support Group, Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Ilia Howard, 16, of Hopewell, has been chosen a semifinalist in "Teen Magazine's 1984 Great Model Search. She now becomes eligible for selection later this year as a contest semifinalist, the next step in winning the competition.

Assistant Professor of Classics S. Georgia Nugent of Springdale Road used her grant to do research in Greece, Italy and Germany last summer for a book she is writing on "Exiles in Classical Poetry." She worked at the American School of Classical Studies in Athens, the American Academy in Rome, and the University of Heidelberg, Germany.

A member of the Princeton Class of 1973, Ms. Nugent earned her advanced degrees at Cornell University and taught at Swarthmore college before joining the Princeton faculty in 1979. She teaches undergraduate courses on "Homer and Tragic Vision" and "Greek Drama in Translation."

Associate Professor of History Daniel T. Rodgers of Dempsey Avenue is spending the year in Frankfurt, Germany, writing a book on "The American Science of Politics," a study of political language in the United States during the 19th century. He hopes to complete the manuscript during the year. Mr. Rodgers came to Princeton in 1980 after serving on the University of Wisconsin faculty for seven years.

He graduated from Brown University in 1965 and received a doctorate from Yale University in 1973. At Princeton he teaches a graduate course in "Problems in American Intellectual History from 1860 to 1930" and undergraduate courses in American cultural history.

Japan will be home to Assistant Professor of Sociology Roger Michener from April 1984 through January 1985. Mr. Michener has been invited to serve on the law faculties at the Universities of Tokyo and Osaka. He will also research the relationship between customary law and civil law (the old Japanese law and code and modern law).

He earned his bachelor's and doctorate degrees at the University of Chicago in 1976 and 1980, respectively. He also holds a J.U.D. from the Ludwig Maximilians University, Munich, Germany. He joined

Lawrenceville Headmaster to Be Honored at Dinner Friday

Bruce McClellan will be honored at a dinner this Friday marking his 25th year as headmaster of the Lawrenceville School. After teaching English at the school for nine years, Dr. McClellan assumed the responsibilities of headmaster in the fall of 1959.

During his tenure, financial support and leadership were broadened through the creation of a trustee development committee, advisory committees to the trustees, and a parents' council. In 25 years, Lawrenceville's endowment has grown from $5 million to $50 million, and the annual giving fund now tops $1 million, in contrast to the $23,000 raised in 1959.

Lawrenceville has been able to raise faculty salaries so that it now ranks third among its peer schools. At the same time tuition has changed from the highest among those schools, to the lowest, and financial aid to students has increased to more than $750,000 annually.

Facilities that have been added during the McClellan tenure include the Kirby Arts Center, the new dining center, a new infirmary, tennis center and athletic field, and a new mathematics and computer center.

Dr. McClellan notes that as a residential school supporting traditional values and a rigorous liberal arts program, Lawrenceville is "in many ways in conflict with the customs of contemporary American Society, particularly of young people today." However he says that students "over and over again tell us that the most important part of their experience at Lawrenceville has been the challenge to develop self-discipline, to conquer self-indulgence, and to make a commitment to the community."

He feels that the heart of the school's strength lies in its house system which provides "a vital part of the learning experience." Dr. McClellan is concerned with what he calls "a prevailing vocationalism and careerism–an obsession with grades and scores" when a liberal arts education "is much more than that."

Bruce McClellan

Among the challenges ahead for Lawrenceville and all schools, he thinks, is the problem of maintaining "the dignity of teaching." Another challenge he sees is "what to do about religious life in an essentially pagan world."

Co-education? The question of admitting girls to Lawrenceville's all-male campus has been raised often during Dr. McClellan's tenure. It was the subject of numerous studies and debates, but it was only raised formally for vote by the trustees once, and that was in 1979. By the margin of a single vote, the trustees decided the school would not become co-ed and that they would not take up the matter again for five years.

The five years is now up, and co-education will again be addressed when the trustees meet this coming weekend. James E. Blake, director of public relations, said he did not know whether it would be addressed in a formal vote or just by discussion. It is his view that although there still exists a strong feeling for co-education on the campus and with the trustees, the feeling is less strong than it was five years ago.

Henry S. Patterson II, four-term mayor of Princeton Borough and a resident of Westcott Road, has been elected to the board of directors of United Jersey Banks.

He has also been named to the blue-ribbon Leadership Commission that held a statewide conference as part of a major project to improve New Jersey's school systems. That project, entitled "Public Responsibility for Educational Success," was proposed by Rutgers University President Edward J. Boustein as a means to involve "non-school" institutions more constructively in the educational process.

Mr. Patterson, who is president of Elizabethtown Water Company in Elizabeth, is also a member of the board of directors and chairman of the executive committee of the bank's holding company, United Jersey Banks. In addition he serves on the boards of United Jersey Bank, N.A.,

Princeton's Most Dangerous Streets for Winter Driving:

Cherry Hill
Cherry Valley west of The Great Road, with the S-curve
Bruere's Hill, Lawrenceville Road
Route 206 north of Ewing, downgrade curve
Rosedale
Mercer Road
Alexander south of the traffic light, sharp curves
Harrison, downhill to the bridge
The Great Road south of PDS, and the 4-way "stop" at Great Road and Cherry Valley
Bayard and Hodge — the worst Route 206 intersection in the Borough.
Bayard and Nassau — the second worst
Nassau and Harrison
Witherspoon and Wiggins

Watch for streets and roads with a center crown, or curves on a hill.

Keep plenty of space between you and the car ahead — and hope the car behind you has done the same.

Street lists are from Sgt. Mario Musso, Traffic Safety Officer in the township, and Lt. Thomas Michaud of the Borough Police.

Winter driving — how to survive it. The following advice comes from Princeton resident George Fremon, author of the car book, "Why Trade It In?" now in a new edition, and the Safe Winter Driving League of Chicago.

1. Watch your intake of alcohol, and we don't mean anti-freeze. You take risks when you've been drinking that you wouldn't take when cold-sober.

2. Don't use heavy engine oil. If you do high-speed driving, 10W-40 is good; for around town, 10W-30 is best. Don't use oil additives: they thicken the oil.

3. Put a can of antifreeze additive for gasoline in your gas tank. A puddle of water in the bottom of your tank could be the cause of engine balkiness.

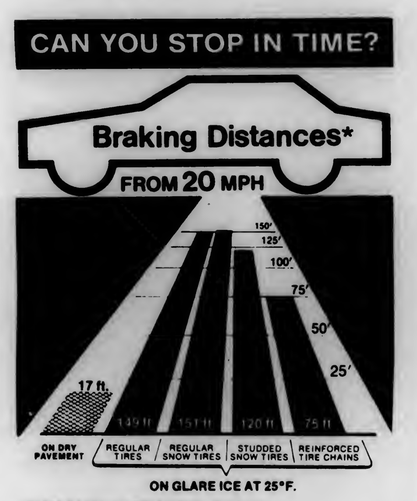
4. Cold increases demands on a battery. If you're near the end of your warranty, buy a new battery. If you do a lot of short-trip driving, get your service station to check your battery's state of charge every time you stop for gas.

5. Use scouring powder and scrub greasy road dirt off your windshield wipers. Make sure blades aren't cracked. Put antifreeze in windshield washing fluid.

6. Look in your trunk: scraper, snow-brush, shovel, sand, rocksalt or traction mats; flashlight; flares or emergency lights; heavy work gloves; extra pair of boots. (Booster cables, extra windshield washer fluid, blankets, tire-chains, if you're a long-distance driver.)

7. Early morning, or if car has stood a long time, turn off all electrical accessories like radio, headlights, rear-window defoggers, before you start the car.

8. Don't pump gas pedal when you start or you'll flood. If it doesn't catch right away, wait a full minute so battery can recharge. Don't hold key in "start" position longer than 10 seconds.



9. Pavement slippery? Pump brakes, on-off. This helps you maintain steering. Locked wheels will throw you into a skid.

10. Skidding? Turn wheel in same direction that rear of car is skidding. DON'T hit the brakes.

11. Get the feel of a road by jabbing brake pedal gently and reduce speed accordingly.

12. Re-inforced tire chains are the best things you can have on ice, bringing you to a stop 50 percent better than regular tires.

13. Best of all, when winter hits: STAY HOME.

*TESTS BASED ON REAR DRIVE VEHICLES.

Pointing up the extreme hazard of driving on glare ice, tests by the National Safety Council at Stevens Point, Wisconsin, show that stopping on glare ice may take as much as nine times the normal, dry pavement distance. The tests also disclose that conventional snow tires are of no help in stopping on ice, while studded tires reduce braking distance by 19%, and reinforced tire chains by 50%.

"Dostoevsky: The Years of Ordeal, 1850-1859," by Joseph Frank, professor of comparative literature at Princeton University, has been published by Princeton University Press.

The book is the second in Prof. Frank's projected five volumes on the life and work of Dostoevsky. The first volume, "Dostoevsky: The Seeds of Revolt, 1821-1849," was awarded the 1977 James Russell Lowell Prize and the 1977 Christian Gauss Award. The present volume continues the story of of the consequences of Dostoevsky's involvement with the radical intelligentsia of St. Petersburg and describes the 10 years between his arrest as a conspirator in late 1849 and his return to St. Petersburg to resume his literary career in 1859.

Prof. Frank depicts Dostoevsky's imprisonment in the Peter-and-Paul Fortress, his interrogation, his mock execution staged by Nicholas I, and his journey to exile. Dostoevsky spent four years in a Siberian prison camp where he had the conversion experience that he called "the regeneration of my convictions." The book also deals with Dostoevsky's life as a soldier in the Russian Army and his infatuation with the young woman who became his first wife.

As he did in his first book, Prof. Frank reconstructs the social and cultural climate of Russia in the 1840s and 1850s.

Gwyneth Jones, daughter of Thomas and Vera Jones of 90 Bertrand Drive, has been appointed to the physical education and athletics committee and the Halcyon, the yearbook, at Swarthmore College. Gwyneth is currently a senior at the college.

Bernard L. Gavin, former innkeeper at the Nassau Inn and General Manager of the Henry Chauncey Executive Conference Center at Educational Testing Service, has been named vice president of Mohonk Mountain House in New Paltz, N.Y.

Mr. Gavin spent 22 years at Princeton University, holding administrative positions in Food Services, Building Services, and Faculty, Staff and Married Graduate Student Housing. Most recently he was project director for the southeast Florida interests of Kindred/Watts, Inc. He is a member of the Chef's Association of America.

Landon Y. Jones, assistant managing editor of People magazine, has begun a one-year tenure as executive editor of Money magazine. Both are publications of Time, Inc.

Mr. Jones, a visiting editor at Money for six months of 1983, will be the magazine's acting managing editor while the managing editor fills a year-long assignment as managing editor of Time Inc.'s Magazine Development Group. He lives on Mercer Road.

Mr. Jones, who joined Time Inc. after graduating magna cum laude from Princeton University in 1966, was a reporter for Life, then a reporter and writer for Time. He returned to Princeton in 1969 to edit the Princeton Alumni Weekly. He also wrote articles for such publications as The Atlantic Monthly and The Chronicle of Higher Education.

He rejoined Time Inc. in 1974 as an editor of the new People magazine. He was named a senior editor in 1978 and assistant managing editor in 1982. Mr. Jones is the author of "Great Expectations: America and the Baby Boom Generation." Published in 1980, it was an American Book Award nominee and a Book-of-the-Month Club alternate selection.

Alvin Bonin, Owner of The Princeton Army-Navy Store, Retires After 34 Years, Turning Business Over to His Son

Thirty-four years after he started, owner Alvin Bonin this month made it official: he has retired from the Princeton Army-Navy Store on Witherspoon Steet and has turned the operation over to his son, Michael.

Or has he? "How does it feel? What's today, the 12th? I haven't been out of here yet," he replied, when asked how he was enjoying his retirement.

As for any future plans "Very indefinite," insisted Bonin. "I'll be around to lend a helping hand when needed; I'll probably be in more than out."

Al has been known to like to travel, however, and a few days later, he and his wife, Ruth, were vacationing in Puerto Rico.

Quiet, affable, low key, Bonin attributed any retailing success he may have enjoyed over the years to "always sticking to basic needs – but good quality. Give the customers their money's worth," he said.

He has, he said, no regrets. "The business has been very, very good to me."

CAREER TRANSITION: Alvin Bonin (left) has announced his retirement and has turned over the operation of the Princeton Army-Navy Store on Witherspoon Street to his son, Michael. Story this page.

BUSINESS

If he has no regrets, he does have some qualms – after years of observation – about what is happening to Princeton and to the small businessman.

"The town is growing too much," he commented. "It's not the nice, quiet, small town it used to be.

"In all my years here, they've been talking about a parking garage, maybe in the next generation it will become a reality. Something has got to happen to help protect the town and businesses before it goes the same way as Trenton and New Brunswick.

"I'd like to see some cooperation," continued Al. "Get rid of the ticket blitz. Help customers rather than drive them out of town.

"Parking meters were originally put in to keep traffic moving, not as a money maker for the Borough. Everything has gotten out of hand."

Mr. Bonin started working at Army-Navy Store in 1950 – six months before he married Ruth Caplan, daughter of Joseph Caplan who founded the business. Previously, he had been working for his father in Trenton where he was born 60 years ago.

In 1942, just before Woodrow Wilson left New Jersey to become the nation's new president, Mr. Caplan and his wife opened a clothing store for ladies and gentlemen at 34 Witherspoon Street where the Lodge store is now located. When the Depression came, the Caplans were forced out of business.

During World War II they were back in business, opening an Army-Navy Store at 8 10 Witherspoon, space now occupied by the yellow brick expansion of the First National Bank of Princeton. "He opened an Army-Navy store because at the time people in the service needed parts for their uniforms," recalled Bonin.

In the early 1960s, the business moved to its present location, a long, narrow building which had served as a firehouse to the Hook and Ladder Company. It was from the number 14½ Witherspoon, Al reported, because the Firehouse did not have a number.

The business has grown steadily and, in fact, observes Al, has come full cycle. In the beginning, he said, it was all khaki. "Then it was all jeans; now it's back to khakis. They seem more comfortable and fully cut."

Will Stick to Basics. Representing the third generation, Michael Bonin, born and raised in Princeton, a 1979 graduate of Trenton State College with a degree in business, has been working full time at the store ever since. "I'm going to try to keep up with the times and trends and buying habits of customers," says Mike, "but I'm keeping the idea of basics in the back of my head.

"Valuable as my education is, I feel that I've learned much more from my father than any education could have given me. I hope I can live up to his expectations."

For Mike, who is 26 and is engaged to be married in June, he has a sister, Jill, attending Rider College and an older married sister, Shelly, living in Absecon) 'sticking to basics' will mean providing a wide range of men's and women's jeans and khakis – probably the store's largest selling items – as well as dress slacks and corduroys, sweaters, and jackets plus camping needs – knapsacks, boots, blankets, sleeping bags.

"We send a lot of kids to camp," said Mike.

One thing Mike doesn't intend to do is to have his new wife become involved in the business. "That's another lesson," he said, "that I've learned from my dad."

His mother, an assistant librarian at Community Park School for the past five years, has followed his sister around the whole school system, observed Mike.

"She liked the idea of having some place to go, something to do," agreed Al. "She told me I should have a purpose in life. And I told her I did. I told her my purpose now was to relax."

I look down at my own card and realize that it is absolutely toothless: Name, telephone number, address. I am here because it is a free party (for newcomers and Chamber members; $10 for all others) with sumptuous hors d'oeuvres (including roast beef sandwiches) and a cash bar. Still, the sharks are feeding and I'm in the water.

My first strike is Elaine Brower of 31 West Shore Drive in Pennington, whose card identifies her as a "color consultant." She explains that she helps people identify the colors that serve them best. No business there for me or her, and we both move on, smiling.

How About 37K? I take a card from Allen Hartwig, of Belleville-Hartwig Office Supply at 1101 State Road. "Can you sell me a two-drawer, lateral file less than 27 inches high?" I ask immediately. "Call me tomorrow," he says, as we both turn to circle other prey, or prospects.

Gene Blicharz has come to Princeton from Pennsauken to let people know that he sells "integrated communication systems" for General Electric. I try to be funny: "Gee! No, G.E.!" Mr. Blicharz smiles wearily and turns toward more likely prospects.

Joe Stoye's card says "Stoye Associates Inc., Executive Placement Search, 228 Alexander Street," but he says forthrightly, "I'm a headhunter." I tell him I'm a freelance writer. "I'm looking for a technical writer," he responds, "37 K. Interested?" I'm not and we move on.

The program is scheduled to end at 7 p.m. and I pick up the pace, and more business cards: Helen Spiro, president of About Town Inc. Information Services, 518 Ewing Street; Kay M. Monkhouse, speech-language pathologist, evaluations and therapy, 16 Crooked Tree Lane (she listens patiently as I tell her what words I can't pronounce); Michael J. Walsh of Software Centers at the Quaker Bridge Mall; and Henry Gross II, president, and Nancy P. Buxton, manager of the new Palmer Square shop, H. Gross & Co., outfitters.

I tack up a few of my cards on a bulletin board and grab some that strike my fancy: Chaim S. Gold, president, Bumblebee Energy Systems of Trenton; Eugene L. Cummings, Western Termite & Pest Control, 907 State Road; Jim Cramer, Safeguard Business Systems, Kingston, whose card asks, "have you FED your computer today?"; and Tina Tremmel, Box 1356, whose card promises "microcomputer systems design, system & software consulting, video/computer productions, and teletex/videotex graphics."

Just as I'm about to pluck a card belonging to Mary Josh of Hopewell, belly dancer, I get tapped by Alice Miller of Astro Publications on Route 1. We promptly break the rules by exchanging news of her cousin and my friend, Denise Shay. I figure it's sort of business, my business.

Back to the Fray. Returning to the swirling waters, I exchange cards with Jennifer Guy of New Jersey Goodlife magazine, whom I try to interest in an article on real estate agents; Mea Johnston of Griggstown, a garden designer and garden writer; Eileen Kearns of Advertising Marketing Insight, 601 Ewing Street; Robyn Stein and Toby Borheady of Entre Computer Center, 47 State Road; and Betty Fenton, agent for Omni Travel in the Princeton Shopping Center as well as the producer of the Princeton Rep theater company.

Ray Wadsworth, the former Princeton fire chief who has opened up the Flower Market in the alley opposite the Alchemist and Barrister, reports that his shop has distributed 500 carnations to the participants at this exchange. "We're trying to help all the volunteer organizations," he says.

I move on to shake hands and exchange cards with architect Laurel Lovrek, Box 1448; Sandra Persichetti of Rocky Hill, the developer of office condominiums; Mark S. Donnelly of the Nassau Inn, one of the co-sponsors of the event; Janet Hautau, 210 Cold Soil Road, a designer of corporate logos and letterheads and so on; Jonnylee R. Gore of Pennington, also a graphic designer; Eunice Pat Davis of Interior Design Studio in Lawrenceville; and Joseph N. Gray, in charge of Explorer programs for the Boy Scouts' George Washington Council in Pennington.

On a final pass I again encounter Mrs. Bethune of Optima. By now the business instinct is finely tuned. "Do you ever write brochures? Sometimes people ask us if we know any writers."

I have never written a brochure in my life, but I recall Mr. Lombardo's admonition: Don't be shy. "Sure, I'll write brochures—$1,000 minimum." Mrs. Bethune laughs: "No one will pay that much."

"Okay," I say. "$500, but no lower." Any why not—the sharks are hungry and I'm here to make money.

MEMORIAL SERVICE HERE

For Malcolm Kerr. A memorial service will be held Sunday at 2:30 at Nassau Presbyterian Church for Malcolm H. Kerr, president of the American University of Beirut who was assassinated January 18 outside his office at the university. A reception will follow.

Dr. Kerr, 52, was an American citizen who was born and grew up in Beirut and returned there in the fall of 1982 as president of the school where his father was a professor of chemistry and his mother dean of women, and where he himself had earned a master's degree. The family had close ties to Princeton; his parents retired here in 1964 and during the war years the children came to live in an Alexander Street apartment owned by the Seminary.

The late Bayard Dodge of Princeton, whose wife's grandfather founded AUB during the Civil War and was its first president, succeeded his wife's father to become third president. Mr. Dodge was a close personal friend of the Kerrs, as was David Dodge, Bayard's son and acting president in 1981 who was kidnapped and held hostage in Beirut for a year.

Mr. Kerr graduated from Princeton in 1954, earned his master's degree at the American University in Beirut in 1955 and received his doctorate at Johns Hopkins in 1958. He then taught in Beirut until 1961 when he joined the faculty at U.C.L.A. He became professor of political science in 1967, and later chairman of the Political Science Department, dean of the Division of Social Sciences and director of the university's Von Grunebaum Center for Near Eastern Studies.

He was also a professor of political science at the American University in Cairo from 1979 to 1981 and the author of several books on the Middle East, including "The Arab Cold War," about President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt and his rivals. According to Prof. Edward Said, an Arab-American professor of English and comparative literature at Columbia University, Dr. Kerr was "among the very few authentically informed students of Arab nationalism in its combative and tumultuous postwar years."

Carl Brown, chairman of the Princeton University's Department and Program in Near Eastern Studies, issued a statement on behalf of the department praising Dr. Kerr as a "scholarly leader in the study of the modern Arab world, (who will) be remembered for his writings, his acts and his ideals."

Survivors include his wife, the former Ann C. Zwicker; a daughter, Susan, who lives with her husband in Taiwan; three sons, John, of Cairo; Stephen, a freshman at the University of Arizona, and Andrew, of Beirut; his mother, Mrs. Stanley Kerr, of Meadow Lakes Village; two sisters, Marion Miller of Massachusetts and Dorothy Jessup of New Paltz, N.Y., and a brother, Dr. Douglas Kerr of Cleveland, Ohio.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American University of Beirut, 850 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y., 10022, attention Dr. V. Simonian.

Henry C. Kimble, 72, of 31 Vandeventer Avenue, died January 23 at Princeton Medical Center.

Mr. Kimble was born in MacAfee Valley and had been a Princeton area resident for 40 years. He was a retired employee of the Pike Brook Country Club in Belle Mead.

He is survived by his wife, Constance B. Kimble, who was a teacher at the Nassau Street School for many years; a daughter, Mrs. William Fleming of Hamilton Square; six grandchildren; 15 great grandchildren and a great-great-granddaughter.

The service will be private. Arrangements are under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, North Harrison Street, or to the American Cancer Society, 88 Lakedale Drive, Trenton 08648.

Cuomo

The family of Frank Cuomo Sr. would like to extend their deep appreciation to all relatives and friends who have been so kind during our bereavement. Your kindnesses will never be forgotten.

Sincerely,
Carmela Cuomo and family

Mildred F. O'Kane of 27 Linden Lane, died January 19 at the home of her daughter, Joan E. Anderson of St. Croix, Virgin Islands.

Mrs. O'Kane had been ill with a heart condition for some time. She was active in church and community affairs in Red Bank where she was a former resident, and was a member of St. Paul's Church here.

In addition to her daughter, Mrs. O'Kane is survived by three grandsons and three great-grandchildren.

The service will be held Saturday in Katonah, N.Y., with burial in the family plot in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Sommers, N.Y.

Kathleen N. Terry, a former Princeton resident, died January 20 at her home in Palm Beach, Fla. She was the widow of Jesse L. Terry who died in 1978.

Mrs. Terry was born in Newton, N.J., and lived most of her life in Princeton. She was a member of the Everglades Club, the Bath and Tennis Club and the Society of Four Arts, all in Palm Beach, as well as The River Club in New York City.

Survivors include her son, Robert L. Terry; two grandsons, Robert L. Terry Jr. and Prescott L. Terry, and a granddaughter, Ellen Terry Benoit; and two great-grandsons, Turner A. Benoit and Whitmore M. Benoit, all of Palm Beach.

The service and burial were private. The family requests that flowers be omitted.

Emily W. Browne, 94, of Hale House, Boston, formerly of Princeton, died January 10.

Born in Boston, Miss Browne was a graduate of The Girls' Latin School, attended the Boston School of Fine Arts and had an early career in graphic arts. During this period she became an experienced mountain climber, and in the early 20s climbed the Matterhorn and various peaks in the French alps.

She was an accomplished horsewoman, a member of the Professional Horsemans' Association and the Green Mountain Horse Association. She taught riding at several New England summer camps, at Stoneleigh Prospect Hill School, Cherry Lawn School, and the Kent School for Girls. She later lived for many years with her sister, Mrs. James Barnes of Province Line Road, before retiring to Hale house in 1975.

She is survived by two nephews, Peter Daland of Westlake Village, Calif., and Benjamin Daland of McCaskill, Arkansas; a niece, Judith B. Potter of Canton Center, Conn., and many grandnephews and grandnieces.

Dina Sharon-Schwadron, 88, of Bayard Lane, died January 18 at Merwick.

Mrs. Sharon-Schwadron was born in the Ukraine and was a retired, self-employed language teacher and translator.

She is survived by a son, Yitzhak Y. Sharon-Schwadron, of Princeton.

A graveside service was held in Rodeth-Shalom Cemetery in Pleasantville.

Josephine Ross, 91, of Ewing Township, formerly of Princeton, died January 15 at Mercer Medical Center.

Miss Ross was born in Frankford, Pa., and had lived in Princeton for 60 years before moving to Ewing 30 years ago. She was associated with Scopa's Tailoring and Cleaning on Nassau Street for

JOINT WORSHIP SUNDAY

For Two Congregations. Members of Trinity Episcopal Church and Nassau Presbyterian Church will hold a joint service of worship and a Celebration of the Lord's Supper on Sunday. The service, a first for each congregation, will be held at 11:15 at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street.

The service will feature a dialogue sermon in celebration of the common ministries of the two churches. The Rev. Dr. Wallace M. Alston Jr., senior minister of Nassau Church, and the Rev. John Crocker Jr., rector of Trinity, will take part in the sermon, along with lay representatives from each church.

The common ministries include the Crisis Ministry, the chaplaincy at Princeton Medical Center (which is supported by many other area churches) and Trinity Counseling Center. The service to be used Sunday is one developed by the Consultation on Church Union (COCU), a Princeton-based ecumenical organization of 19 member denominations, including the Episcopal Church of America and the Presbyterian Church (USA).

Ushers, lay readers, and tray and chalice bearers will be drawn from both churches. A joint adult choir will sing under the direction of John Bertalot of Trinity with Dr. Kenneth Kelley of Nassau Church playing the organ. There will be a wine and cheese reception following the service.

OPEN HOUSE PLANNED

At St. Paul's School. St. Paul's School will join with other schools across the nation in celebrating Catholic Schools Week during the week of January 29. "Beacon of Hope" is the theme for this year's celebration.

The community is invited to share in the special activities that are planned. Open House will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, January 31 and February 1 and 2, from 9 to 11 a.m. Visits to classrooms, the library and other school facilities are the order of the day, and refreshments will be served. Student work will be on display.

Mass will be celebrated on Friday, February 3, at 10:30 a.m.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Rev. Donald Macleod, Francis L. Patton Professor of Preaching and Worship Emeritus at Princeton Theological Seminary, will preach Sunday at 11 at Princeton University Chapel. His sermon topic will be "There Is a Point in Living."

IN ECUMENICAL SERVICE: The Rev. Wallace M. Alston Jr., left, is senior minister of Nassau Presbyterian Church which will hold a joint service of worship and Holy Communion this Sunday at 11:15 at Trinity Episcopal Church. The Rev. John Crocker Jr. is rector of Trinity.

20 years. She retired in 1966 from Verbeyst Dry Cleaners after eight years of service. She was a member of Victory Chapter No. 96 OES of Trenton.

Survivors include three brothers, John E. and Frank P. Ross, both of Trenton, and Albert E. of Lavallette; and a sister, Elizabeth Perpetua of Princeton.

The service was held at the Mather-Hodge Funeral Home, the Rev. David Prince of Ewing Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery.

James T. Collins Sr., 66, of Washington Street, Rocky Hill, died January 21 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Philadelphia, Mr. Collins lived in Rocky Hill for 42 years. He owned and operated Collins Garage in Rocky Hill for 35 years. He was a charter member of the Rocky Hill First Aid Squad.

Surviving are his wife, Marguerite Hanulyak Collins; two sons, James T. Jr. and John M. Collins, both of Skillman; a daughter, Marguerite A. Merritt of Rocky Hill; a sister, Helen Gerstenbacher of Philadelphia; and five grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Paul's Church with burial in Rocky Hill Cemetery.

Jennifer L. Swaim, 22, of Park Place, died January 17 of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Miss Swaim was born in Haddonfield and was a 1979 graduate of Moorestown High School. She had attended the University of Colorado and Mercer County Community College. She was a member of the Haddonfield Baptist Church.

Surviving are her parents Kay Krites and Joe Perry Swaim; a brother, Kevin Swaim, all of New Jersey; her maternal grandmother and stepgrandfather, Mr. and Mrs. Turner B. Clodfelter; her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Arris Swaim; and her maternal great-grandfather, Burt E. Krites, all of Winston-Salem, N.C.

A graveside service was held in a Winston-Salem, N.C., funeral home. Local arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Alice V. Andrew, 99, of Hendrickson Road, Lawrenceville, died January 16 at the Foothill Acres Nursing Home in Neshanic.

Mrs. Andrews was born in St. Paul, Minn., and had lived in Brooklyn and Kew Gardens, N.Y., before moving to Lawrenceville in 1977. She was the wife of the late Horace S. Andrews.

Survivors include a son, Jack F. Andrews of Lawrenceville; a daughter, Mrs. Juliette A. Matthews of Bernardsville; six grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

The service and burial were in Brooklyn.

Charly E. Appert, 61, of Windsor Drive, Princeton Junction, died January 14 at home.

Mr. Appert was an employee of Princeton University for 24 years as a master instrument maker at the Forrestal Campus.

He is survived by his wife, Alice Bretigniere Appert; a brother and three sisters in Switzerland and a niece and nephew. A memorial service will be held at a later date.

Edmund Z. Potkay, 59, former Lawrence Township Magistrate and a well-known area tennis player and promoter, died January 17 of an apparent heart attack at his home on the Lawrenceville Road, Lawrence Township.

A lifelong Trenton area resident, Mr. Potkay was a U.S. Army veteran of World War II, serving with the 324th Infantry, 44th Division, and a 1950 graduate of Rutgers University Law School. He became active in Democratic politics in 1954 when he moved to Lawrenceville from Trenton.

He practiced law until his appointment as magistrate in Lawrence in 1958. He served as magistrate until 1969, when he was appointed substitute magistrate. He was a member of county, state and national bar associations and several other civic and professional organizations, including the Tennis Advisory Committee of Mercer County.

For many years Mr. Potkay and his family participated in Trenton, Lawrence and county tennis tournaments and had sponsored several tennis teams in the area.

Surviving are his wife, Frances B. Bielawski Potkay; a son, Douglas E. Potkay of Hightstown; a daughter, Catherine J. Potkay of New York City; a brother, Dr. Stanley E. Potkay of Trenton; and a sister, Helen Urbaniak of Yardley.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Hedwig Church, with burial in St. Hedwig Cemetery, Ewing. Memorial contributions may be made to the Deborah Heart and Lung Center, Browns Mills, 08005, or to the St. Lawrence Rehabilitation Center, Lawrenceville Road, Lawrenceville 08648.

Kingston Acres II

Yes, after five years of planning and developing KINGSTON ACRES II has arrived. And it was worth the wait.

A limited edition of just fourteen outstanding colonial houses, KINGSTON ACRES II has begun construction and two models have been completed for your inspection.

Basically, the houses are expanded, oversized models with proven floor plans to delight the most discerning family. Large entry foyers are just the beginning with tremendous living rooms and formal dining rooms. Enormous eat-in kitchens are standard, too. The family room is available with brick fireplace and wooden panelling if desired. Large 2-car garage, of course. And don't forget the tiled powder room.

Upstairs you'll find four super bedrooms and two full baths. The master suite is especially oversized with many extras.

Please make it a point to visit KINGSTON ACRES II. We're open for inspection from 10:30 to 6:00 on weekdays and 11:00 to 4:00 on weekends. Closed Tuesday.

924-6739

DIRECTIONS: From Princeton take Nassau Street through the Village of Kingston. (Route 27.) Turn right on Fairfield Drive. Follow Fairfield to Schuh Drive and the models. See you there.

A WONDERFUL WAY TO START THE NEW YEAR...

On Bedens Brook Road in Montgomery Township, there's a super house in "move-in" condition! Built seven years ago, it is tastefully decorated, beautifully landscaped and meticulously maintained. Colonial in design, the first floor consists of a lovely foyer, living room with fireplace, dining room, kitchen with eating area, laundry room, powder room and family room with cathedral ceiling and fireplace -- all generous in size. The master bedroom on the second floor has a raised fireplace, full bath and good closets. Three other bedrooms and bath complete the second floor. An additional two bedrooms and full bath are on the third floor! A wonderful house in this estate area, priced to sell quickly... $248,000

IN PRINCETON... Wouldn't it be fun to have real space for entertaining both formal and informal? A deceptively simple entrance facade conceals an exciting way of life. Spacious living room and den, 2 bedrooms, 1½ baths plus an enormous informal living area - dining and kitchen. There is lots of glass -- lots of light. This is one you shouldn't miss $137,500

IN MONTGOMERY... Wouldn't it be wonderful to feel as though you were always on vacation? Picture yourself sitting in a high-up living room with panoramic view and enjoying life in this wonderful contemporary with great big country kitchen, spacious den, 2 bedrooms and bath on the main floor. Downstairs a playroom, 2 more bedrooms and another full bath. All this on almost 4 acres in a most desirable location $225,000

TIRED OF THE ORDINARY?... Why not consider this unusually large Yankee Barn style country house. It features a two story living room with fireplace, huge country kitchen, formal dining room, first floor master suite with dressing room, playroom, exercise room, sauna, four bedrooms on the second floor, swimming pool and more. A unique offering in Hopewell $230,000

ELM RIDGE PARK... A handsome house to be built to order in a premium section of Hopewell Township. Not only does this 4 bedroom house have large family room but also a private study or library. There is even a "Jacuzzi" room off the master bedroom, 2 fireplaces and an acre and a half of property. A beautiful design by an outstanding builder $274,500

IN HOPEWELL TOWNSHIP... an elegant small estate on approximately 7 acres, centrally located between Princeton, Hopewell and Pennington. A wonderful old Colonial house with glamorous greenhouse-extended country kitchen, small stable, swimming pool and much more. Asking $340,000

IN PENNINGTON... this stunning "one story" house has a very contemporary feeling. A large living room with fireplace and spacious dining room with built-in bar combine with large entry foyer to make entertaining especially comfortable. Three bedrooms, two and a half baths, study and more space on the lower level. Two-car garage, central air and more $215,000

AN OUTSTANDING VALUE

We want to call your attention to what we feel is one of the outstanding values in the Princeton market today.

This is an especially attractive four bedroom, three and one half bath traditional residence. Among its features are a large and beautiful living room with fireplace, an attractive panelled family room with fireplace, a master bedroom suite with fireplace, dressing area and private bath – large enough for two double beds and a lot more.

The living areas and circulation make this a wonderful house for privacy and for entertaining. A spacious first floor bedroom with private bath can be used many different ways – as a bedroom, office, in-law suite, etc., etc. The grounds, with beautiful terrace, swimming pool and planting areas, offer a charming and tranquil way of life.

We doubt you can find any other house at this price level that offers so much charm, privacy, individuality and luxury. We think this house is a fantastic value. A western section property priced at $295,000

ONE OF A KIND ... ROBERT A.M. STERN ... COMES TO "COLFAX"!

COLFAX
AT BEDENS BROOK

Call your nearest Henderson office for details on this Robert A.M. Stern design or one of many other outstanding plans available for COLFAX. Or bring your own plans for review. But do it soon. There are only 14 sites still available.

At COLFAX you'll find a lovely very private cul-de-sac lined with Norway Maples and Belgium Block curbs winding its way upwards for perhaps the most spectacular views available today. Each building lot has been carefully delineated with rows of flowering dogwoods for beauty and privacy and with an eye towards nature, views and seclusion. Absolutely perfect to create your own private world.

The name is COLFAX. And COLFAX may well be the most beautiful place to live in the entire Princeton area. Yet COLFAX is only minutes from Nassau Street in downtown Princeton, the University, shopping, outstanding day schools and clubs. COLFAX is really part of the Princeton lifestyle.

Over 18 acres of rolling hillside have been permanently dedicated as a "Green Acres" site to remain untouched in perpetuity for the exclusive use of the COLFAX community. If you're considering Princeton as a place to live and prosper, you really must pay a visit to COLFAX!

This is just one of the beautiful new designs by exciting world-renowned architects available this very day for one of the exquisite COLFAX lots still available.

This particular blend of traditional design with classic detail and materials contains a massive 30' living room with oversized brick fireplace, enormous family/living areas with expansive foyers and hallways, four bedrooms, three and a half ceramic-tiled baths. A three-car garage is also a must! A dramatic enclosed terrace is an integral part of this exceptional masterpiece.

A Tour of the Art People Place Reveals Space and Activities to Fit Many Interests

It's an artist's kind of place, rather like a two-story loft. Plenty of space, plenty of light; short on elegance, short on furniture, but charged with a kind of creative tingle, even in the big, empty off-hours rooms.

Here on the floor are the blocking tapes for actors in nightly rehearsal for "Where's Charley?" the P.J. & B. musical due next month at McCarter.

At the end of the big room are the silent mirrors, waiting for Esther Seligman's Tuesday night modern dance class and the Sunday night classes of the Guilford Street Dance Group.

NEW CURTAINS, COURTESY COLLINS: Grey fine-wale corduroy curtains, bought with a $2,000 donation from Collins Development, have made a "huge" difference in the acoustics (and temperature) of the upstairs auditorium at the Art People Place. Collins' vice-president Gary Green, right, inspects the newly-installed curtains with Arts Council treasurer Hank Abernathy, left, and Mark Hopkins, assistant stage manager for this year's P.J. & B. musical, which has been rehearsing in the room.

Stored up there on stage is the new portable apron that can extend the stage out into the auditorium. It was used New Year's Eve for Princeton Repertory Group's Cabaret, will probably be used again on February 25 when McCarter's Crackerjacks program for children comes back with the "Kids on the Block" puppet show.

Penelope Reed gives her adult acting classes here, when she isn't on stage herself in McCarter's "Ah, Wilderness!"

Here the Chinese Christian Fellowship meets on Sundays.

The joy today is over new curtains bought with $2,000 given by Collins Development. Arthur Collins had felt the building was a very worthy cause and approached Anne Reeves, then Arts Council president, to offer a contribution. Peter Westergaard had been working on the acoustics problem, and the Arts Council decided to use Collins money for curtains.

Where Are We? And that's only the second-floor auditorium of the Art People Place on Witherspoon. Downstairs — but where are we, anyway? What is the name of this red brick building, once the home of Borough engineers, once a "Y", once a Youth Center, now Princeton's Community Center for the Arts?

The Arts Council of Princeton is the Borough's tenant and landlord for all the sub-groups that practice, teach and perform here, and some people think "Arts Council Building" is more dignified and specific than "Art People Place."

But "Art People" recalls the relaxed and genial Art People street parties that first made Princeton art-people conscious, and brought the Arts Council to the attention of the non-art public. And the name evokes also the imagination of Mrs. Reeves and her colleagues who first thought up the Art People parties and were instrumental in convincing the Borough that the building would be a fine arts center. Mrs. Reeves is now executive director.

Anyhow — downstairs from the second floor is the first floor. The Coop store on the left of the front door is reassuring: no, you don't have to be a talented performer to enjoy this building.

In this sunny, white-brick room you can buy a driftwood lamp for the beach house ... a garden calendar advising you — to the accompaniment of an illustration by Princeton photographer Naomi Savage — "Tramp snow around young fruit trees so mice won't tunnel under, girdle the trunk and kill the tree" ... a hand-made cable sweater at half New York prices.

Princeton cartoonist Hank Martin has a straight drawing of Nassau Hall on a postcard. And the postcards — ! Yes, there are still some left from Christmas, mostly hanging by clothespins from a swooping cord. Some are art cards, others are old-fashioned treasures, several have been made with a giggle by imaginative children.

"What we'd like," Mrs. Reeves muses, as she moves toward the sunny south windows, "is to offer this as a place to eat your brown-bag lunch. 'Windows on Robeson Place' — how about that! We could have tiny tables, there's this broad windowseat ... "

Music, Too. From next door, the door closed tight, come the pianissimo sounds of Marjorie's Music, where Marjorie Herrington's pre-schoolers learn pitch, clapping and dancing accompanied by music and laughter.

In that room is a graffiti wall stenciled in sassy pastels by a group known as Post Art.

On the other side of the vestibule across from the office, whose stern efficiency is teased by the wings of a white kite on the ceiling, there is the Library.

It has a real and working fireplace, bookshelves and back issues of magazines devoted to art, architecture, antiques, archaeology. Somebody donated a stainless sink to go next to the fireplace. Here water is drawn for the coffee served after poetry-readings. Jim Richardson, who teaches creative writing at Princeton University, is one poet who has spoken here.

Probably Robert Flagles, University classicist, will be assigned to the Small Dance room when he comes to the Art People Place Monday, February 6, to talk about "Translations."

Down the hall, you'll find the exhibit of Ann Raber's senior citizen art class where the work of 15 artists is on display.

"Group Junk Sculpture", from its cocky position in the center of the exhibit, shows what a group of artists can do when they work together. It's a collage of paper plates, tin cans, paper-towel cylinders and other geometric forms of mysterious origin, painted in wild and defiant colors. Ignore it if you dare ...

On the wall is "Serenity," in which an artist simply places a carnation on a table and stands a jug beside it.

Try Stanislavski. But what else is going on here?

This Saturday, for example, Jennifer Rowe will give a free demonstration of the Stanislavski method. A former student of Lea Strasberg and Stella Adler, she gives acting classes at the Art People Place.

This Saturday and Sunday at 10, Suzanne Huntoon will show children how they can learn more about themselves through music and drama.

The most recent tenant for the Council is the new Opera Festival of New Jersey which is renting an office in the building. They have scheduled June performances of Mozart's "Marriage of

McCarter Offers Attractive Production Of Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness"

THAT SID! WHAT A CARD! Uncle Sid, played by Anthony DeFonte, has more beer in him than wisdom when he weaves his way to the Fourth of July dinner prepared by his sister Essie, portrayed by Ruth Schudson. This dinner scene is one of the most hilarious in Eugene O'Neill's comedy "Ah, Wilderness!," now at McCarter.

"Ah, Wilderness," the attractive current offering of the McCarter Theatre Company, is a light, old-fashioned "family comedy" that bears the heavy responsibility of being Eugene O'Neill's only happy play, his "only holiday from somber thoughts about mankind," as critic Brooks Atkinson once put it.

Not that it totally lacks somber shadings, but they only emphasize the play's overall optimism and its celebration of love: love often sentimental or laughably romantic, but sometimes real enough to touch the heart.

"Ah, Wilderness" has been poked and prodded by scholars seeking insights into O'Neill's unhappy nature, but it remains an enjoyable work whose underlying values entitle it to be judged on its own merits.

It was first performed on Broadway in 1933, and shows its age not only in the innocence of its attitude toward love (as something to be enjoyed, and suffered, and not merely analyzed to death as in more contemporary works) but also in its leisurely pace and paucity of incident.

Overproduced. The director, Margaret Booker -- with spectacular support from Scene Designer David Potts, Costumer Susan Rheaume, and McCarter's marvelous moving stages -- has sought to solve the pace problem with visual effects. If as a result the play seems a bit overproduced, if costumes and sets tend at times to drown out the play's sweet small voice, it is entertaining to see rooms flow into and out of each other -often with actors aboard -- and this does supply some of the movement and momentum lacking in the text.

News of The THEATRES

"Ah, Wilderness" is the story of Fourth of July, 1906, in the life of an intellectually and esthetically overgrown high school senior, Richard Miller, who is inflamed by Swinburne, Shaw, Ibsen, and romantic-sexual desire; of his newspaper-owner father, his mother Essie, sister Mildred, Yale brother Arthur, kid brother Thomas; of his nice Aunt Lily and her bottle-scarred ex-fiance Sid; of Richard's great love, Muriel, her prudish father, a frizzy blonde young prostitute who gets him drunk and nearly seduces him during a temporary rebound from Muriel.

These and lesser roles are well cast, directed, and acted. Outstanding is Paul Donahoe as Richard, arrow-straight of mind, heart, and body: a good, formidable man trying to break out of awkward adolescence with the help, sometimes wrong-headed, but always warm-hearted, of his parents. Donahoe is believable, likeable, attractive, and finally touching.

As Richard's father, Karl Light is an equally happy choice. He enlivens some slow moments with a bravura comedic interpretation of the conventional hot-tempered, error-prone Man of the House. He is perfect in the play's climactic scene when father and son are permitted for one fleeting instant to show their love for each other.

Ruth Schudson in the over-written role of the mother is fussily obnoxious at first, but eventually her love for Richard brings her to life.

Aunt Lily stands for the pain people quietly endure even in happy households. O'Neill was a master at this kind of role and the always reliable Penelope Reed makes the quiet most of it. Anthony DeFonte's Uncle Sid, source of her pain, is sad in his repentance but funny in his cups, bringing a W.C. Fields touch to the family dinner, high point of Act Two, complete with inevitable inept Irish housemaid Norah, nicely evoked by Gretchen Ziegler.

Susanne Marley is fine as the young but already tough prostitute; Jane Jones as snippy sister Mildred; Stephen Oates and Eddie Hughes as Richard's brothers. And of course Jay Doyle is excellent, as always, as Muriel's hatchet-faced father.

Faulted by Critics. O'Neill has been faulted by critics for tailing, as a writer of dialogie poetry, to do justice to the great themes he chose, and the scenes he set up.

One is reminded of this when Muriel, played by Stacy Ray, finally appears. The setting is a deserted bit of moonlit beach, greenery here and there, starlit sky: beautiful. Both Richard and Muriel have risked parental punishment -- which in those days meant something -- to meet here and untangle their romance.

It is the scene we have been waiting for and it cries out for poetry, and we do get a few quotes from Richard's pet poets. But O'Neill has not written the love scene he has so skillfully led us to expect. The result is anticlimax.

But the following, final scene, Richard and father, is moving in its inarticulateness, and the evening as a whole is richly entertaining, with values and feelings that deserve all the exposure they can get nowadays. A fine Fourth of July for the Miller family, and yours.

—William McCleery

WE'RE IN "JUDEVINE": Looks like a chain saw there on the ground, with plenty of logs waiting to be cut, and here is Nat Warren White playing around with Mary Martello. Both are in "Judevine: A Vermont Anthology," by poet David Budbill, at Murray Theatre (Princeton University campus) through Sunday. It's a project in McCarter's play-development program called Stage Two. For reservations, call McCarter's box office, 452-5200.

ET ENCORE ...

Les Trocks, Classies of the white ballet like "Les Sylphides," "The Dying Swan" and "Raymonda's Wedding" will be – shall we say – "danced" by the all-male company known as Les Ballet Trockadero de Monte Carlo when the dancers play McCarter for the first time since 1977. They will perform their dance parodies Tuesday and Wednesday, February 7-8.

Among the stars who will dance at McCarter are Ludmila Beaulemova, Jacques d'Aniels, Sonia Leftova and, in the "Dying Swan" solo ("a tribute to the terminal fowl"), Zamarina Zamarkova.

Fifi Chang and Lavrenti (Biff) Stroganoff will be featured in the "Spring Waters" pas de deux, described as "a work whose success lies in convincing the audience that they are at home watching the Olympics on television." Yurika Sakitumi will perform a solo, "Marche Slav," to Tschaikowsky's music, and the program will end with a tribute to George Balanchine, "Go for Barocco."

OFF TO THE MOVIES

"Three Brothers." A film contrasting the virtues of peasant life with the meaningless of modern ideological bustle, "Three Brothers" is really about Italy itself. It will be shown next Tuesday and Wednesday at 7:30 and 9:30 each night in Kresge Auditorium as one of the Movies-from-McCarter.

In "Three Brothers," an old man (played by Charles Vanel, who is actually 89) who has lost his wife, summons his three sons home for the funeral. The oldest is a judge in Rome, the youngest a labor activist in Turin, the middle one a teacher of delinquent boys in Naples. Since each has been touched in his own private life by the terrorism and labor unrest of Italy, the brothers are really asking "What is the future of our country?"

THE RIDGE STRING QUARTET will perform works by Beethoven, Bartok and Mendelssohn when they appear in Princeton on Monday at 8 p.m. at McCarter Theatre. The concert is in the Chamber Masterworks series of the Princeton University Concerts.

MUSIC

PREMIERE PLANNED

By Little Orchestra. A lost manuscript, the premiere of a prize-winning piece, and a Mozart symphony will be heard in the Little Orchestra of Princeton's concert Sunday, February 5, at 3 in the Princeton High School auditorium.

The unpublished 1928 manuscript of Africa by William Grant Still, one of this country's leading Black composers, will be performed for the first time in many years. Still, who died in 1978, is best known for his ballet Sahdji, his Afro-American symphony, and his opera Troubled Island.

The original score and parts of Still's Africa were discovered in a flea market last year by Dr. Donald Brodie, a cellist with The Little Orchestra. The work is in three movements, entitled Land of Peace, Land of Romance, and Land of Superstition.

Joelle Wallach, winner of this year's competition for a new work for chamber orchestra sponsored in cooperation with the Composers Guild of New Jersey, will be present for the first performance of her Turbulence, Stillness and Saltation, with the help of a grant from Meet-the-Composer. The three moods suggested by the title are readily distinguishable in the work, which includes an extended timpani solo in the second section.

Ms. Wallach has won first prize in four other competitions and her works have been performed and broadcast both in the U.S. and abroad.

The final work will be the Linz Symphony of Mozart. Portia Sonnenfeld will conduct.

Tickets at $6 (seniors $4, students $2) may be purchased at the Princeton University Store, the Music Cellar, or the Princeton Arts Council (noon to 5 p.m. week days). For tickets by mail, make checks payable to The Little Orchestra of Princeton, 1 Westcott Road.

In observance of Black History Month, the life and works of William Grant Still will be discussed by Dr. Leonard Goines, specialist in Afro-American music, on Thursday, February 2, at 8 at Rockefeller College of Princeton University (Nassau Street at University Place). The free pre-concert lecture is sponsored by the New Jersey Committee for the Humanities, and will also be heard on radio station WWFM's "Harambee" program at 8:30 p.m. on January 29 and February 5, with help from the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission and the New Jersey State Council on the Arts.

For further information, call 921-2879 or 452-1365.

RECEPTION PLANNED

For Clarinetist. Clarinetist Richard Stoltzman will perform at McCarter Theatre on Tuesday evening at 8. Mr. Stoltzman's program includes selections from Francis Poulenc and Thelonius Monk.

Young Audiences of New Jersey will be host to a "meet-the-artist" reception immediately following the concert. Mr. Stoltzman is an active member of the Young Audiences Advisory Council. Concert goers and friends of Young Audiences are invited to attend.

Young Audiences is a non-profit organization which sponsors live performing arts education programs for school children. This year, Young Audiences of New Jersey is celebrating its 10th anniversary. The New Jersey chapter of Young Audiences was founded in the Princeton area and has now expanded to a state-wide organization.

FOLK CONCERT SET

With Bush Band. The Princeton Folk Music Society will feature the "Squatters" Australian Bush Band in concert on Friday at 8 at the home of Alison Flemer, corner of Mapleton and College Roads, Kingston.

According to the "Squatters" Australian Bush Band, there's more to Australian folk music than just "Waltzing Matilda." The group was formed in Melbourne, Australia, in 1981 and played regularly in restaurants, pubs, folk clubs and dances until just over a year ago when two of its members, Jill and Bruce Watson moved to Princeton. The other "Squatters," Marg Somerville and Benjamin Lindner, are visiting, which gives the group a chance to re-form.

Their repertoire ranges from the traditional themes of convict labor, outlaws and sheep shearing to humorous and topical modern songs as up-to-date as the America's cup, varying in mood from haunting ballads, to the lively, aggressive style that is typical of many Australian folk bands.

Their musical arrangements feature a wide variety of instruments, from the more or less familiar mandolin, guitar, penny-whistle, bodhran, concertina and glockenspiel, to the uniquely Australian "lagerphone," a percussion instrument made of a broomstick and beer bottle tops.

Admission is $5 for adults, $3.50 for students, $3 for Society members, $2 for children and senior citizens. There are no advance sales. For further information, call 924-9143. Participants are asked to bring chairs.

QUARTET TO PLAY

At McCarter, Princeton University Concerts Chamber Masterworks Series will present the Ridge String Quartet at McCarter Theatre on Monday at 8.

First prize winners of both the Coleman and Fischoff Chamber Music Competitions in 1982, the Ridge Quartet made its New York debut on Alexander Schneider's New School Concert series in April last year. Its members, ranging in age from 22 to 25, are violinists Krista Bennion and Robert Rinehart, violist Matthias Buchholz and cellist Ramon Bolipata.

All are alumni of the Curtis Institute. The quartet has worked with Felix Galimir and Alexander Schneider and currently resides in Philadelphia.

In addition to winning two major competitions in just one year, the Quartet has played more than 40 concerts in major series around the country, including performances in Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles and the Library of Congress in Washington.

For their program in Princeton, the quartet will play Beethoven, String Quartet in A Major, Opus 18, No. 5; Bartok, String Quartet No. 2, and Mendelssohn, String Quartet in E Flat, Opus 44, No. 3.

Tickets are available at the McCarter Theatre box office, 452-5200, and student "rush" tickets may be purchased on the day of the performance.

CONCERT PLANNED

By Young String Players. The String Training Ensemble of the Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra will present its annual winter concert Sunday, January 29, at 2 in the chapel on the campus of the Lawrenceville School. Portia Sonnenfeld is the conductor. Admission is free.

The group will present an original composition, Concerto Confuso, written by 12 year-old Brady Lanier, a member of the cello section. The program will also include the Concertino for String Orchestra by Samuel Adler; Concert Madrigalesco by Antonio Vivaldi; Musical Sleigh-Ride by Leopold Mozart; Overture to The Abduction from the Seraglio by W.A. Mozart; and Rakoczy March, an Hungarian melody arranged by Clifford Page.

The String Training Ensemble offers professional guidance to young musicians in grades 3 and up. They rehearse weekly and perform two concerts a year.

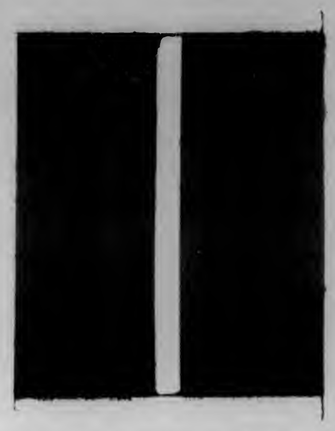
ART



SUMMER REMEMBERED

At Squibb Gallery, "Summer is reunion n' — or so it seems at the Gallery at Squibb. Even though the chilly world outside the glass walls is covered with snow, the interior landscape is balmy and winter seems far away.

All the proper seasonal imagery is there: languid sunbathers lie on deck chairs and relax on sandy beaches; boats with wind filled sails cut across a tranquil mountain lake; a baseball player frozen in time stretches for a high fly; intense, hot light shimmers from sunsets and wooded landscapes; and you can almost smell the fresh peaches, strawberries and summer flowers that are suspended on the gallery walls.

The contemporary paintings and photographs that recreate an entire holiday of warm weather pleasures in "Summer Remembered" combine nicely to drive away chilblains and winter doldrums. All representational but not necessarily traditional, the 28 assembled works seem to fill the gallery with bright summer light.

Drawn from several New York City galleries, the collection is a virtuoso demonstration of the many contemporary styles that still employ the literal image. Approaches that range from the broken color of the impressionists to the energetic brushwork that was once the sole province of the abstract expressionist include examples of the slick effects of photoreal, conventional watercolor painting, and several versions of the traditional still life.

NEWMAN PRINTS: Graphics by the late Barnett Newman – on display at the Princeton University Art Museum – employ the same simplified rectangular form and vertical "zips" as the artist's well known paintings.

Although the show is artistically fine and can be admired as such, it is the common theme that makes this collection so attractive — especially at the end of January.

The nicely painted works are fun to look at. They are warm, vibrant and intelligently done. Their subjects are both familiar and evocative reminders of warmer, lazier days; an almost guaranteed, albeit temporary cure for the cabin fever that sets in at this time.

Stunning Prints. The stunning exhibition of Barnett Newman's prints at the Princeton University Art Museum relies heavily on the viewer's intellect for its total affect. The entire collection — and almost all of Newman's work, for that matter — is developed using only a few, similar forms. As such, it depends heavily on subtle variations in balance and hue that must be carefully studied — that frequently demand as much thinking as looking. Often, the only difference between one work and another is a modest change in color or the addition of a single thin line.

The late painter is best known for his large (18 feet is not an unusual dimension) monochromatic paintings that are divided by a "zip": a vertical band of tone or color used to create a classically balanced rectangular format. Newman's relatively small print oeuvre is a variation on the same theme. And, because the elements that he used were so limited in both quantity and form, they frequently generate thoughts rather than images. But, if these seemingly uncomplicated works are considered carefully, the color becomes meaningful. Empty space assumes the role of a powerful force. A single line is

The Princeton Chapter of Deborah will meet Tuesday, February 14, at 8 at the First National Bank of Central New Jersey, Washington Street, Rocky Hill.

Dr. Stephen Felton and his associate, Dr. Michael Wong, who are eye surgeons on the staff of Princeton Medical Center, will be the guest speakers. Both are affiliated with the Wills Eye Clinic in Philadelphia and serve on its board of directors.

Refreshments will be served.

The Central Jersey Computer Club will meet Friday at 8 at Trenton State College, Armstrong Hall, room 74. Robert Todd will demonstrate how those who have a home computer and a means of connecting it to their telephone can make their own free copies of any of thousands of public domain computer programs. Mr. Todd is a computer scientist and an officer in several amateur computer clubs.

The public is welcome. For more information call Richard Williams, 466-0909.

Fem Chem, the Princeton Chapter of the American Chemical Society, will meet Tuesday at 8 at Rider College, Science Hall, Room 201. Dr. Marwan Sadat, director of the Division of Waste Management, New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection, will speak on "The Hazardous Waste Program in New Jersey."

Preceding the talk, all who are interested are invited to join the group for dinner at 5:30 at the Marroe Inn, Route 1, Lawrenceville. For dinner reservations call Valeria Schiemann at 639-2546.

Contact of Mercer County will hold a benefit Valentine Dinner Dance Saturday, February 11, at the Nottingham Ballroom in Hamilton Township. The evening will include a buffet dinner, a live disc jockey and a comedy act by Jerry Lyden. The cost is $18 per person and $35 a couple. For tickets and information call 587-3887.

The Ladies Auxiliary of Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad will meet on Monday, January 30, at 8 at the Squad House instead of last Monday, as previously planned.

New officers elected for 1984 are, president, Cindy Clausen; vice president, Bridie McCloskey; recording secretary, Mary O'Hara; corresponding secretary, Rhoda Seeley; treasurer, Marge Davison; and trustee, Sheila Servis.

Kappa Kappa Gamma will hold a wine tasting party Friday, February 3, at 8 at the home of Mrs. Alex Robinson. Bob Prewitt, who worked for the National Wine Institute of San Francisco for 10 years, will talk about outstanding wines. There is no snow date.

The cost is $1. For information and reservations, call Lisa Vogel, 882-3672, after 6.

Jan J. Binney and Mary Jo Santo Pietro have been elected to serve as legislative councilors of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association. Ms. Binney, a resident of Plainsboro, has speech-language pathology offices in East Brunswick and is also affiliated with the East Windsor Regional Schools.

The Delaware Valley Poets have elected officers. Judah Jacobowitz of Princeton was re-elected president, and Sidney Rowland of Lawrenceville, treasurer. Other officers elected are Rick Ryan, vice president; Pat Whitaker, recording secretary, and Jean Anderson, corresponding secretary.

The poetry workshop meets on the third Thursday of each month. The group is looking forward to the opening of the new library on Route 1 at Darrah Lane which will be its new meeting place. Anyone who writes or takes an active interest in poetry is welcome. For information call Mr. Ryan at 989-7628 or Ms. Whitaker at 259-2773.

Le Cercle Francais de Princeton will meet on Sunday at 3:30 in Bowl 1, Woodrow Wilson School. Jean Claud Martin, professor of French literature and culture at Brooklyn College, will speak on "Claude Monet and the Gardens at Giverny."

Prof. Martin was formerly on the faculty at Harvard University and has written many books and art criticisms. The French-speaking public is invited. Wine and cheese will be served following the presentation.

The Central Jersey Speech-Language-Hearing Association will meet Tuesday at 7:30 at the St. Lawrence Rehabilitation Center in Lawrenceville.

Patricia M. Treiber, M.A. will discuss the basis and rationale of the Schwartz airflow technique for the treatment of stuttering in children and adults. Ms. Treiber is chief of speech-language pathology services and coordinator of the stuttering therapy program at Overlook Hospital in Summit. She is also editor of the newsletter of the New Jersey Speech-Language-Hearing Association and a past president of the Morris County Speech and Hearing Association.

Speech-language pathologists and audiologists and others interested in the treatment of communication disorders are invited. For information about speech and revealed as an eloquent statement: a critical factor in a sparse landscape of rectangular form.

Nuance is very important. Much time and thought was given to small variations in silhouette and surface. The artist considered such factors as size and even the existence and proportions of margins to be critical elements in the development of the "zipped" squares and rectangles. And, for Newman, both the limitations and potential of the graphic medium became important expressive tools.

In his preface to "18 Cantos," one of the print series in the display, he stated that "I have been captivated by the things that happen ... the choices that develop when changing a color or the paper size." And, referring to lithography as his "instrument," he adds that, "I have 'played' hoping to evoke every possible instrumental lick."

Contemporary Photos. Photography's range as an art medium is nicely demonstrated in a collection of contemporary Photographs, also at the Art Museum. The display includes images that are literary, others that are romantic and many in which the camera is used as a tool to make the viewer aware of the hidden geometry and often unnoticed compositions that form a setting for our daily life. The front of a garage is revealed as exciting in its spatial construction. Bookshelves, books, and even a corrugated wall are explored as art forms and fare very well.

There is a pleasant range of subject and style in the small display. Manipulated images, typographic constructions, and journalistic prints and luxuriant landscapes offer contrasts in concept and execution.

—Helen Schwartz

HOW-TO

With Watercolor. A day-long workshop, "The Joy of the Watercolor Sketch" will be given Saturday, February 4 from 10 to 4 by Lucille Geiser at Hightstown High School.

The workshop, sponsored by the Tri-County Art Association, will be $25 for non-members of the Association and $20 for members. Ms. Geiser will show how to sketch, using watercolor, and will demonstrate her techniques and provide individual guidance for participants.

Advance registration is required and checks, made out to TCAA, should be sent to TCAA, 173 Canterbury Court, East Windsor, N.J. 08520.

EXHIBITS

Paintings on silk by Shekina Rudoy of Hamilton Square will be on display for six weeks starting February 1 at the Greenline Diner, 175 Nassau.

Oils, acrylics and a variety of under-glass media will be exhibited by New Jersey members of the National League of American Pen Women at the Triangle Art Center, Route One, Lawrenceville. Marge Chavooshian of Trenton will judge the show and select winners to represent New Jersey in the League's national show.

Works by Rex Goreleigh, formerly of Princeton, and Gregorio Prestopino will be shown through February 26 at the Trenton City Museum, Ellarslie in Cadwalader Park.

TIGERS RESUME PLAY

After Exam Break. After a two-week lay-off for exams, the Princeton basketball and hockey teams will both return to action this week.

Coach Pete Carril's quintet will travel to Chicago to meet nationally ranked DePaul this Wednesday at 8 p.m. (CST). The two teams met for the first time a year ago with DePaul winning 51-41.

The Blue Demons are coached by Ray Meyer, who has announced he will retire at the end of this season after 41 years as coach at the school. During that time he has compiled a 697-351 mark.

Both Carril and Princeton fans alike will be hoping the Orange and Black has left behind the problems that plagued it during the trip to New England two weeks ago. It may not be easy to tell against a topflight team like DePaul, but a better indication will come the following Saturday night.

Princeton will meet Penn in the Palestra at that time, looking to upset the Red and Blue, and get back in the race. The Quakers are 2-0 to date, winning twice on the same road trip that put the Tigers at 0-2.

Tigers on Television

Jersey Vision, Channel 52 in this area, will televise three Princeton basketball games this season, including the Penn game at the Palestra this Saturday.

The two others are the Columbia game on Friday, Feb. 10 and the Dartmouth contest, Friday, Feb. 17, both in Jadwin gym.

All three games are scheduled to begin at 8 p.m.

Kevin Mullin
His Scoring Is Needed

Heavy losses through graduation made the Red and Blue a question mark at the beginning of the season, but after a slow start it has won four of its last five games. The major reason for the surge has been the play of junior guard Anthony Arnolie, who is the best player in the league at this moment.

Averaging just under 13.7 points per game, Arnolie had 30 against Harvard, the most in a game by a Penn guard since Steve Bilsky scored 35 in 1968. His overall performance in Cambridge and Hanover included 18 of 23 shots made from the floor and 16 of 17 from the foul line. In his last four games, Arnolie has 17 assists and 15 steals.

Penn has also received a big lift from the play of 6-7 freshman forward Bruce Lefkowitz, who is leading the team in both scoring (14.2) and rebounding. With a 64 percent average from the floor, Lefkowitz is currrently shooting the ball better than any Penn starter in history.

Coach Craig Littlepage has inserted two other first-year players into the line-up, forward Chris Elzey and 6-10 center Keith Widmer. Karl Racine, the lone starter returning from last year's team, is the fifth man. He is averaging 14.1 points per game.

Princeton has not won at the Palestra since the 1975-76 season (last year's victory at Penn was achieved in the Spectrum), and only a superior performance by the Tigers is going to bring home a triumph this time. A loss would put the Tigers at 0-3, and leave them a long road back, especially as they must take off for New Haven and Providence the following weekend.

Hockey Also on Road. The hockey team has no title to defend and virtually no chance for making the playoffs, but it would very much like to improve on its 2-10-1 record.

This Friday and Saturday nights, the Tigers will play Brown and Yale away, the only two teams they have beaten so far. Of the two, the Bruins are much improved since their loss here Nov. 19.

Recently, they beat Northeastern at home, and then stunned Cornell at Ithaca with a 7-2 victory. The Elis have also been playing better, earning shutout wins over Colgate, 3-0, and Dartmouth, 5-0, in New Haven.

Coach Jim Higgins' skaters will return home for a game with Williams next Tuesday at 7:30. The Division II team beat Princeton last year at home 5-4 in overtime.

HUN WINS, LOSES, TIES

In Wrestling Meet. There were more surprise endings than in an anthology of O. Henry stories in the four-team wrestling meet hosted Saturday by the Hun School.

Foremost had to be Hun's 29-29 tie with Peddie, which last week had upset area power Hightstown. "Unbelievable," fumed Peddie coach Keith Holcombe. "I consider it a loss."

He wasn't pleased" ceed Hun coach Dave Fans. The way we've been going, it's the loss."

Just as unaccountably, Hun dropped a 39-24 decision to Notre Dame and then defeated Trenton 42-35 for its first dual win of the season. The win ... and left Hun with a 1-6 record.

Peddie in turn, crushed Trenton 47-18, and stopped Notre Dame, 31-24. Trenton ended up losing all three of its matches when it fell to Notre Dame 33-29.

"Our kids were really up for it," commented Fans. "We wrestled very, very well. It made it a pretty nice weekend."

Following a scheduled match with Marie Katzenbach School for the Deaf earlier this week, Hun will entertain Newark Academy Thursday afternoon at 3:15. "A powerhouse," is the way Fans described Newark. "Their lower weights are out of this world."

Three Pins for Lipani. Hun's outstanding 157-pound wrestler, Todd Lipani, excelled again for Hun, recording three pins. He flattened Trenton's Reuben Melendez in 57 seconds, Notre Dame's Dave Bredler in 38 seconds, and Peddie's Jeff Szur in 5:33. Lipani has lost only one bout for Hun this season.

Seth Wheaton also had three pins for Hun at 187 pounds. The biggest was a fall over Peddie's Jeff Enslin in 4:31, after trailing Enslin, 10-4, in points. Hun then lost a chance for an upset when it had to forfeit the heavyweight match.

Something it also had to do against Notre Dame and Trenton. Wheaton also pinned Trenton's Bernard Jenks with 10 seconds left in the first

PDS Senior Peter Ross Nominated For National Scholar-Athlete Award

Princeton Day School senior Peter S. Ross has been selected as one of 24 nominees from the area in competition for the scholar-athlete award sponsored by the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame.

This year's 22nd annual Scholar-Athlete Dinner given by the Delaware Valley chapter of the National Football Foundation will be held February 13 at the Cedar Garden Restaurant in Hamilton Township. Seniors who are honored by their selection represent the "unsung heroes" on their respective school's team whose dedication to excellence has made them standouts on the athletic field and in the classroom.

Captain of the PDS football team, Ross was an All-Prep School linebacker for two years. This year he set a school record of 119 tackles, including 42 solo tackles in eight games. As a fullback on offense, he averaged 4.5 yards per carry for the Panthers. He was the team's Most Valuable Player.

PDS football coach Jim Walker, commented, "I have had the opportunity to coach Peter on the varsity for three years where he has developed into an outstanding linebacker and fullback. Peter was an aggressive and hard-hitting tackler and his blocking was outstanding.

"For the past four years, as his teacher, coach and advisor, I have seen him mature both academically and athletically.

At PDS, Ross has been involved with the PDS Fair, school dance and yearbook committees and the Winter Musical. He scored over 1150 on his college board examinations.

WRESTLERS RESUME

Against Hamilton. Derailed twice last week, first by a scheduling mixup against Trenton and two days later by a snowstorm against Steinert, the Princeton High School wrestling team will try to get back on track this Wednesday evening against Hamilton.

The Hornets will come to Princeton for an 8 p.m. match with a 5-4 record, having lost 46-12 to once-beaten Bishop Egan in its last start. PHS has won one match in eight meets.

Saturday afternoon at 1, PHS will host South Brunswick High School. A jayvee match will follow.

The match with Steinert has been rescheduled for February 13 at Steinert. The match with Allentown, scheduled for the same day, has been dropped, according to athletic director Carol Parsons, to make room for Steinert, a Colonial Valley Conference league match. The Little Tigers were scheduled to face Trenton this Tuesday in a makeup of that match.

PHS STILL STRUGGLING

In Girls Basketball. Victories are continuing to prove elusive for the Princeton High School girls basketball team. The Little Tigers lost to McCorristin and Hightstown last week — their fifth and sixth setbacks in a row.

PHS has two more tough games coming up, opposing Ewing Friday night at 8 at the Blue Devils' gym, and entertaining Hamilton Tuesday afternoon at 3:45.

On Friday, McCorristin built up a commanding 46 to 9 halftime lead and coasted to an 82-34 victory — its ninth in 12 games. The victors were paced by Renee Keister's game-high 21 points and 13 each from Holly Koba and Carolyn Letts. Most of Princeton's points came from Paige Waldren, 15, and Tracey Hemmingway, 10.

Earlier, the Little Tigers found it tough to get started against Hightstown, connecting for just 10 points in the first half, while the 7-4 Rams were hitting for 30. The final tally was Hightstown 61, PHS 39.

Kerrie Romanow did it all for the victors, as she tossed in 15 points, dished off seven assists and stole the ball six times. Teammates Trisha Kane and Beth Cheney combined for 30 more points. For PHS, Tami Morton led all scorers with 15, followed by Waldren who had nine.

HUN WINS AGAIN

Blair, Hamilton Next. A 66-60 winner over Peddie last week, the streaking Hun School basketball team will be tested next by Blair Academy and Hamilton High.

Hun, which opposed Admiral Farragut and newcomer Abington Friends earlier this week, will be at Blair on Friday and play host to Hamilton Monday afternoon at 3:30. Off to an 0-4 start, the Hornets have come on to win six in a row.

Hun began the week with an 11-3 record and is in first place in its league. Coach Bob Hendrickson, who also serves as the school's athletic director, reported that an attempt will be made to reschedule the Delbarton game — a victim of the snow storm — some time in mid-February.

"I was pleased with our performance. We got the ball inside where it belongs," said Hendrickson of Hun's win over Peddie.

The pesky Falcons stayed with Hun throughout the first half on the shooting of Monty Gallant, who connected on 14 of his game-high 26 points in the first half. Hun was able to shut Gallant down in the third period, limiting him to two points. Hun's John Goeke, who guarded Gallant in the period, drew praise from Hendrickson for his defensive play. "He did a nice job," said Hendrickson.

In the final period, Gallant came back with 10 points. "We were a little bit ragged and we had some subs in," observed Hendrickson, who added, "They have a very nice club."

Hun, for its part, was getting some balanced scoring from John McDonough, 19 points, Ted Bransfield, 18, and Terry Dearden, 10. Joe Mackin added eight and Goeke contributed six points along with his defensive play.

Bruce Breder added 13 points to Gallant's 26 but it wasn't enough to keep Peddie from avoiding its sixth defeat against eight wins.

HUN BREEZES 85-45

Past Admiral Farragut. In what amounted to little more than a workout for the Raiders, the Hun School basketball team breezed past Admiral Farragut, 85-45, in a game played Monday in Toms River. Originally scheduled for Thursday, the game was moved ahead at the request of the Admirals.

THIS ONE CAME EASY: Greg Gigliotti (5) and David Haynes gain control of the puck for Princeton Day in action last Friday against Toms River South High School. The Panthers who have had their difficulties so far this season enjoyed an 11-1 rout of the visitors. Mike Blaxill led the attack with four goals, Chris McCabe contributed three and John Cook, two. There was no joy Monday, however, as the team traveled to Pottstown, Pa. and lost 10-0 to Hill. PDS's record is now 3-7.

Hun grabbed a commanding 30-7 first period lead, was ahead 43-17 at the half, and 63-27 after three periods, before coasting in the final eight minutes. Ted Bransfield paced Hun with 22 points followed by teammate John McDonough with 18.

It was Hun's twelfth win in 15 games, Farragut's eighth straight loss without a win.

PHS CLIMBS BACK

Into Basketball Race. On the brink of becoming an also ran, the Princeton High School basketball team last week climbed back into competition in the Colonial Valley Conference league race with a pair of league victories over McCorristin and Hightstown. The two victories left the Little Tigers with a 4-5 record and a solid chance to win a berth in the NJSIAA state competion if they can win three of their next four before the cutoff date.

What sparked the Blue and White? "We played better defense, we rebounded better," offered PHS coach Marvin Trotman. "Heretofore, we've been content to let the other team dictate the tempo of the game; fortunately, we decided not to do that against McCorristin."

Trotman went on to describe the two wins as a total team effort. "It takes time," he said. "It took a while last year for the team to jell, but I think we're ahead of last year's schedule."

Schedule Squeeze. Whether PHS qualifies for the state tournament may be decided this weekend in less than 24 hours. After its scheduled meeting with Steinert early in the week, PHS will entertain powerful Ewing at 8 Friday night. Less than 24 hours later it will host Peddie School at 2 on Saturday. On Tuesday, PHS will be at Hamilton High.

"We couldn't play them another time," said Trotman of the Peddie game. "It would have been better if we could have played them at night, but, hopefully, our guys will be able to do it."

Ewing has a 9-3 record, is 2-0 in the CVC league where it trails 3-0 Hamilton. PHS is 2-1 in league play and, should the Little Tigers be able to stop the Blue Devils at home, it would be an upset of seismic proportions.

Our Best Win. Trotman tagged his team's 75-65 victory over visiting McCorristin Friday night as "probably our best game."

Because some of his regulars had missed practice, Trotman inserted some new faces in his starting lineup. "Darrel Hemingway did a superb job in his first start," he said. "I can't say he did a job on defense because the guy he was guarding McCorristin's Gary Williams got 37 points, but their kid made some great shots.

"Darrel ran the offense well and he didn't throw the ball away something we've been guilty of in the past. We were also able to get the ball into Green and Keith knows what to do with it once he gets it."

Green scored 25 points — tops for the Little Tigers this season — to pace the PHS offense. Trotman also cited the play of Frantz Massenat and Jon Lysaker, who combined for 17 points, and Steve Davis "who gave us a good few minutes."

"The kids learned that the play of one man can't beat five playing as a team," said Trotman. While PHS was getting 17 points from Freddie Young and eight more from 6-7 center Jon Davidson and four points or more from seven players, Williams was burning the Little Tigers with those 37 points. Teammate Guy Gundy added 19 but the rest of the Iron Mikes contributed only nine points.

Another reason why PHS prevailed against McCorristin was its ability to outlast the Iron Mikes' feared press. "Everyone is pressing us because they know we've got inexperience in the backcourt," explained Trotman, "and I think McCorristin probably had the best press we've seen all season. Yet I think we handled it pretty well. It hurt us in spots but we were able to get 10 to 12 points off the transition game."

McCorristin coach John Castaldo agreed. "Our press wasn't effective the entire game; we were giving up a lot of layups, especially to Green.

Late in the game, a drive by Williams and a jumper off a turnover, again by Williams, brought the Mikes to within one point, 62-61, but the Little Tigers refused to fold. Young countered with a pair of baskets and Lysaker and Hemmingway each scored to allow PHS to pull away.

"I was pleased with the way our kids hung tough," summed up Trotman. "We played with a great deal of intensity."

21 Points for Green. Ability to keep its composure in the face of a fourth-quarter Hightstown rally, an 18-4 third period advantage, and 21 points by Green — the first time a PHS player had scored 20 or more points this season — combined to lift PHS past Hightstown, 59-54 earlier in the week.

The struggling Rams, who had won only two games coming into the contest, led by nine at the half, but Green and Young again combined to lead Princeton's comeback. Young added 16 points and Davidson eight for the victors. The home team outscored PHS, 20-14, in the final period. Brian Leader and Charles Arnold each connected for 14 points to lead the losers in scoring.

Trotman Out for Season. If PHS is going to go on and post a winning season, it will have to do so without its promising sophomore standout, Marvin Trotman Jr.

His father and coach, Marv Trotman Sr., confirmed that his son will not play any more this season. Trotman tore some ligaments in his leg on January 6 in a game against Hopewell Valley and his leg has been in a cast ever since. With the cast not scheduled to be removed until February 13, when PHS will have only two regular season games remaining, his father said he would not take a chance on his son injuring the leg again.

"He has two more years to play," said Trotman, "but it is too bad. He was just starting to come around."

In the five games he played, young Trotman scored 50 points, his best 16 in a tournament game against Simon Gratz High School of Philadelphia.

PATHERS LOSE A PAIR

To Lawrenceville, Ferris. The Princeton Day basketball team lost two games to opponents and one to the weather last week, and saw its record drop to 8-6.

The Panthers were beaten 73-57 by Lawrenceville last Tuesday, had Wednesday's game against Wardlaw postponed by the snow, and lost again on Friday, 67-55 to visiting Ferris School.

IF YOU LIVE outside of Princeton and are regularly buying TOWN TOPICS at a newsstand, a mail subscription can save you time and money. Call 924-2200 today.

Sparked by its two big men, Rich LeBuhn and Guy Vise, both 6'5, the Larries led 17-10 at the end of the first quarter. They then outscored the Blue and White, 16-4, in the second period to lead 33-14 at the half. By the end of the third period it was 51-21.

Lawrenceville controlled both boards with relative ease. PDS made a strong comeback in the final period to make the score respectable, but hurt itself with several turnovers and poor passing.

Frank Little was the only Panther player to hit double figures, scoring 10 points. Andy Bing added nine.

Jon McConaughy had 23 in the loss to Ferris, and Jamie Zahner contributed 12, but Princeton Day could not extend a 17-12 lead built up in the first period. Again the second period proved to be a problem as the visitors outscored PDS by a 2-1 margin (20-10).

This week PDS is scheduled to play Pennington on Tuesday, and Peddie on Friday.

The Place is where you can buy tickets for all kinds of local events. Right now, it's the ticket office for the Little Orchestra's February 5 concert.

And it's the Place where people know they can find talent. Mrs. Reeves tells about the two mimes who performed for an IBM luncheon at the St. Regis Hotel in New York. IBM had called the Art People Place, asked for "something" for this luncheon, and ended up signing on the mimes.

Tight Budget. "We always have projects," explains Hank Abernathy, Arts Council treasurer, "but we always want more because we must keep the place full and active. And we need contributions."

Mr. Abernathy keeps a tight check-book. "Don't spend more than $20," he warned Mrs. Reeves on a recent occasion.

Last month, the Arts Council realized $2,000 from a membership-fund drive. From 60, the membership list jumped to 100.

A practicing architect, Mr. Abernathy looks around him at the building and sighs. He wants a capital fund drive and would love to have about $20,000.

"We've been here a year and a half," he says, looking with pleasure at the new curtains and the growing membership list. "The ball is starting to roll."

BOOKS, COMPUTERS

From Library Friends. The largest gift ever made by the Friends of the Princeton Public Library to the library — more than $100,000 — was announced this week by Friends president John F. Bales. Mr. Bales also reported the gift to the joint Borough-Township budget meeting Saturday.

Mr. Bales announced an anonymous gift of $20,000 solely for books and in addition, the Friends are donating another $20,000 for books.

An allocation of $40,000 will include money to open the library on Sundays through March of this year; buy a book-security system at an estimated $15,000 to $20,000; buy two computers for public use and a third computer system for the library's office; and remodel of the information desk at an estimated $9,000.

The Friends' gift also includes $38,000 for the library's various programs; audio-visual equipment and material; staff education; Basic Reading for adults; the telephone answering service and money to print brochures.

The Friends has a membership list of more than 2,000 and is said to be the largest such organizaton in New Jersey.

COTTON-CANDY SNOW: Puffs of white cotton seemed to be sprouting from the branches of Princeton trees after Monday night's wet snowfall — a shy snow, not nearly so bold as it sounded on weather forecasts.

Increases in Joint Agency Budgets Will Up Each Municipality's Tax Bill

Midway through last Saturday's joint budget session with members of Township Committee and Borough Council, Township Mayor Winthrop S. Pike interjected a comment. "Perhaps it is time to remind everyone we've done nothing this morning but add to this budget."

Under review for the second straight Saturday morning work session were the budgets of the joint agencies of the Borough and Township. Many items that had been "flagged" the previous week for possible omission or alteration were reinstated — and in some instances even added to.

The Fire Department will be permitted to keep $10,000 from disconnecting no-longer-needed call boxes and to use the money for badly needed repair and maintenance of equipment. The Public Library will be open on Sundays, thanks in part to a municipal appropriation of $5,000 above the total amount recommended by the two municipal administrators. And the Sewer Operating Committee may hire a crew of three to perform I & I inspections and repairs to the sewer system.

These and other line items in the joint agencies budgets will make themselves felt in the overall operating budget of each municipality, although in differing ratios. According to Township Administrator James Pascale, the Township budget, estimated last week to be some $8,000 over the five percent CAP, will either be $17,000 over that CAP figure, or $40,000 below a 6.5 percent CAP.

Under a 1983 revision of the CAP law, municipalities are given a choice of whether to use the minimum five percent figure or the percentage rate set forth in something called the Implicit Price Deflator for the preceding year. In 1984, that figure is 6.5 percent. Township Committee will meet this Saturday at 9:30 in the Valley Road Building meeting room to decide which CAP figure it will use and how it expects to pay for its share of the $1.2 million underbilling by the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority.

Mayor Winthrop S. Pike estimates that there will be a 3-5 cent rise in the municipal tax rate in the Township, to say nothing of the increases expected in school and county taxes. He cites greatly increased solid waste trucking costs as one of the factors contributing to a bigger municipal operating budget. With the closing of the Bordentown landfill

Borough Will Draft New Ordinance To Aid Low-Income Housing Here

A "Mt. Laurel" ordinance requiring a developer to set aside a percentage of houses for lower-income families to buy; setting up a trust fund and providing incentives for lower-income housing has been assigned to Borough attorney Walter Bliss for development and drafting.

Mr. Bliss' assignment from Mayor Barbara Sigmund and Council came after a meeting last Wednesday when Mr. Bliss outlined the possiblities for such an ordinance. and Borough citizens expressed their views. Another meeting will be held Wednesday, February 29 at 8 in Borough Hall.

A key question is whether such an ordinance can legally be retroactive. Mayor Sigmund has been pressing Collins to provide lower-income units in its Hulfish North plans and two of the four appeals to Council from Planning Board approval of those plans are related to this issue.

Mr. Bliss reminded Council and audience Wednesday night that the Land Use law guarantees certain rights to a developer at certain stages in the approval process. Conflict arises, he explained, when this law comes up against a constitutional requirement.

"If Council decides that constitutionality substantially outweighs the Land Use ordinance, then a retroactive ordinance is feasible," Mr. Bliss said.

Gary Green, Collins vice-president, was in the audience but did not comment.

Mayor Sigmund pointed out that Princeton, having shown its desire to provide such housing over the years, is in a better position than many towns and in fact is one of the three communities in Mercer County with a public housing authority.

State Decreases Aid to Schools

Princeton's schools will receive next year about two percent more in state aid — $26,377 — than this year, but $93,399 less than the state had indicated.

Two months ago, in November, Princeton was told the amount would be $1,239,523. In early January, the state increased that figure to $1,245,589. But then cuts were made and the most recent amount — but not necessarily the final amount because this is only the governor's budget and the legislature has not acted on it yet — is $1,152,190 — down $93,399.

Between the first and second figures, Princeton gained $6,000 and the budget was calculated on that amount. This means Princeton must find only $87,333.

"Will we take it out of taxes, reserves or programs?" asks board president Ann McGoldrick. "We don't know yet."

"There is very little cuttable in the budget," in the view of Superintendent Paul Houston. "We've been operating lean for some time. The great unknown is that we're negotiating with four of our five staff units, and of course salaries are the biggest piece of our budget."

State aid for special education, compensatory education, bilingual education and transportation has been cut, bilingual especially.

"You never know where they'll cut," remarked business administrator Judith Horner. "Last year, it was minimum aid."

Bilingual aid has been sliced from $43,633 to $28,986, she reported, a reduction of $14,647.

Special education has been cut by $13,000 and compensatory education by $1,200.

At last Saturday's session, Township Committee agreed to fund a fire inspector at $3,000 on a trial basis. This amount is outside the caps and will be offset by fees charged for the inspections. Both governing bodies agreed to a fire consultant (in the capital budget) to assess the fire needs of both Borough and Township.

Money for fire police, a separate unit that handles traffic control during fires, was deferred, and it was agreed that fixing the sunken concrete apron in front of the Hook & Ladder Fire Co. should be capitalized. Firemen pointed out that the bucket of the big fire engine risks damage each time the truck is backed out because of the close clearance in the fire house and the differential between the sidewalk and the apron.

Library. Citing a history of municipal underfunding of the Public Library, Borough Committeeman John Huntoon made a lengthy pitch for an additional $35,000 for the Library. He pointed out that "although the total request may seem a lot, it costs a lot to run an excellent library." In the budget prepared by the two administrators, the Library was granted an 18 percent increase over what it received in 1983, but Mr. Huntoon felt that was not enough to cover the additional books, cassettes and other items the library needed.

Mayor Pike countered by asking, "Where do we get the additional $35,000? What account do we take it from?" Mr. Huntoon proposed deleting the professional planner at a savings of $17,500 for half a year, but other members of Committee and Council were firmly committed to having a planner. They voted additional monies for the Planning Board for supplies in anticipation of his services, at the same time subtracting from the funds for outside planning consultant services.

In addition to Sunday hours, the Library gained $10,000 for repairs and maintenance to the roof and windows but not $5,000 for replacement of a section of carpet not replaced last year.

Sewer Repair. Sanitary Engineer George Olexa made a pitch for in-house survey and repair of sewer lines by three men to be hired by the SOC. He said there had never been a progressive study made to define the problem on a continuing basis. The SOC staff was allowed to deplete by attrition after the Brokaw Report was completed, he said, and the new crew would be assembling valuable information about the system while also making some repairs as needed.

He estimated that in 18 months the crew would know the magnitude of the problem and whether it will cost $15 million or $30 million. Dwight O. North said that hiring three people "at the very least" was a sound proposition, but he added, "To think the problem can only be done in-house is perfectly ridiculous. We need a huge outside firm working hard to get this thing done." Mr. North also reiterated his call for a bond issue as "the only sensible way to address the job."

"I think these (governing) bodies are prepared to bite the bullet," Committeeman Richard Schoch told him. The consensus seemed to be that an outside contractor and in-house survey and repair work were not mutually exclusive, but that it was perhaps premature to bring on the outside consultant before some of the survey work was undertaken.

The discussion caused Councilman Richard Woodbridge to search his memory and come up with an old saying: "If you can't do everything at once, you ought to do one thing at once." It seemed particularly appropriate to all the Township and Borough budget deliberations.

RENT BOARD PROTESTS

Schmierer Recommendations. Relaxing certain zoning ordinances making it easier to create lower-income apartments is not the way to go, the Rent Registration Board told Borough Council last week.

The Board, in a majority report, was commenting on a series of proposals from former Borough attorney Edwin Schmierer in a memo to Council last fall. The 1983 Council had requested his comments on Borough compliance with the Mt. Laurel II housing requirements.

Sheila Cook, landlord representative on the rent board, said this week that she does not endorse the board's letter, and feels that Mr. Schmierer's recommendations are "well worth exploring" and have "built-in checks by various government bodies.

"The cost factor to the Borough is a primary consideration I feel we must address in increasing housing stocks," she said.

Relaxing some zoning laws would "dramatically increase" the population of the Borough, resulting in substandard housing and overcrowding unless the staff of the health department were enlarged, the letter stated.

The board also asked, "what happens to the displaced current tenant when one existing rental unit is converted to two?"

Mr. Schmierer had suggested that prospective tenants of lower-cost rental units might be required not to own a car, and the Rent Registration Board asks whether such a person might not have to choose between affordable housing and a commuter's job.

Both the income of tenants and their car-ownership status would have to be watched, and the resulting administrative burden would be heavy, the letter says, adding that almost all the lower-cost rental units would eventually bound back into the regular market.

"We already have unresolved problems with illegal apartments; need we create more?"

Whether the decision is for or against, the letter concludes, more information is needed. At the moment, however, the board thinks the proposal "an administrative mistake and not a viable contingency plan for meeting our Mt. Laurel obligations."

BEARSE WILL RUN

If ... The "if" in the candidacy of Borough Council member Peter Bearse for the Democratic Congressional nomination is whether Princeton ends up in the Fourth Congressional District.

This Friday is the deadline for New Jersey to come up with redistricting lines that satisfy the courts. If the state fails, the courts will redraw the lines.

If Princeton is indeed drawn into the fourth district, Mr. Bearse will go after the Democratic nomination; if it isn't, he'll run for a second term on Borough Council.

Republican Christopher Smith now represents the fourth district. Mr. Bearse's primary opponents will be Jeffrey Laurenti and James Hedden.

Fund-raiser Planned. Right now, he's running "as if" and will be given a fund-raising brunch ($25 per ticket) Sunday, February 12 at the home of Woody and Shirley Kauffman, 148 Library Place. Guest speaker will be Mel King, the black Massachusetts legislator who was the unsuccessful candidate for mayor of Boston last year. Mr. Bearse and Mr. King met several years ago when Mr. Bearse was in Boston on a community development project.

"He symbolizes my campaign," Mr. Bearse said, "uniting city and suburb, black and white."

The major Bearse theme:

Peter Bearse

Democrats need somebody new who projects a new image to the electorate if the party is going to beat an attractive Republican like Mr. Smith — or Bill Mathesius, whom the Democrats could not beat last fall for Mercer County executive.

"I am that candidate," he states.

An economic and management consultant who started his own firm two years ago, Mr. Bearse says, "I have a rich professional blend — I've worked with cities, states and businesses. I can deal with serious problems in the district, working with neighborhood groups to create jobs, new local businesses, deal with problems of training and employment. After all, I served on Governor Kean's task force on capital for new technology."

Needs Party Backing. But first he must be nominated by the party. Step one is to get the backing of 30 percent of the delegates to the party convention so he can get in the party column on the primary ballot. Lacking that position, he might decide not to run at all.

He sees his support in the suburban fringe at the north of the district with stragglers from Hamilton and Trenton. The Rev. Howard Woodson, former Mercer County Freeholder, "seems sympathetic" and believes there may be black support.

"The Democratic party is basically weak as a vehicle for getting out the vote and getting the support of the kinds of people it used to have," he believes. "Major groups based in Hamilton or Trenton can

Grace Brown Is Honored by Nassau Club

FORTY YEARS BEHIND THE BAR: Nassau Club members honored Grace Brown, bar tender extraordinary for 40 years of service at their annual meeting last Friday. N.T. Callaway, president of the Club, and Jim Carson, head bartender whose years of service exceed those of Grace by one year, spoke in tribute to Princeton's first full-time barlady. (Michaela McMillan photo)

One of the first--perhaps the first--and one of the very few female bartenders in Princeton was honored last Friday night for 40 years of continuous service at the Nassau Club.

Grace Brown was presented a handsome plaque and a monetary gift at the annual meeting of members of the town and gown men's club. Paying tribute to her long years of cheerful service, loyalty and hard work was N.T. Callaway, president of the club, and Jim Carson, head bartender for 41 years, who was honored in a similar fashion at last year's meeting.

Jim recalls that it was during the manpower shortage in World War II that the club hired a young lady to help at the bar and in the front. He describes Mrs. Brown as "one of the best co-workers a man could find."

Born in Clarksville, Va., and a leading member of the Clarksville Reunion Committee that undertakes bi-annual pilgrimages "back home," Grace came to Princeton with her family as a little girl. She attended Princeton schools and graduated from Princeton High School. She is an active member of First Baptist Church and was instrumental in raising $200,000 to pay off the church mortgage several years ago.

Jim paid tribute to his co-worker not only for her pleasant and gracious way with the club members but also for her contribution to the Princeton community and her numerous acts of love and kindness. Grace has been a treasurer of the Ladies Guild of First Baptist Church since its inception and a member and secretary for 15 years of the Elizabeth Byrd Fund.

Unable to attend college herself, she has a daughter who earned a college degree in marketing and is presently a flight attendant with Pan Am. She also has two grandchildren, a boy and a girl.

Putting aside his own remarkable contribution to the service and ambiance at the Nassau Club, Jim called Grace "one of the greatest assets the Club has had."

make deals with each other but they're unable to find from their own ranks a candidate to beat an attractive Republican."

He emphasizes that this is no criticism of Walter Bliss, former Mercer County Democratic chairman and now Borough attorney. "Without Bliss, the party might have lost even more ground than it has."

Learned from Mary Perone. A Borough Democratic Committeeman for eight years, Mr. Bearse says he learned grass-roots politics from Mary Perone (master-mind of the Sigmund mayoral campaign). "But I am not a straight, old-style organization Democrat."

Congressman Smith, a conservative Republican, has obtained support from unexpected quarters because of his vote against the MX missile, but Mr. Bearse shrugs this off: "Smith mixes up his votes so he can give the impression of meeting the needs of various groups. His weak spot is leadership. He's a one-issue candidate — 'right to life.' I supported the nuclear freeze resolution locally. His vote against MX doesn't mean a thing."

"Why am I running? My ego, I guess. And I want to be in a position to help as many as I can in areas where I feel I can do it better than the next guy.

"And if the Democrats don't prevail against Smith, he may be in office a long time, and that would be very serious for the district."

—Katharine H. Bretnall

SHOPLIFTERS CHARGED

With Heroin Possession. Two Trenton residents first apprehended by police Monday and charged with shoplifting, were also charged later with possession of heroin. A third companion was also charged with heroin possession.

The same day, in a separate arrest, police charged another Trenton resident with possession of heroin.

Borough police were called at 11:15 Monday by Urken Supply Company, 27 Witherspoon Street, reporting that three shoplifters had been in the store. Ptl. William Nathan responded, was given a description of the suspects, and located them in the Tulane W. parking lot.

Police found in the possession of Robert Bynum, two travel irons taken from Urken's and valued at $19.98. From James Robinson, 30, they recovered three sets of Papermate pens valued at $25 each. Robinson allegedly told police he stole the pens because he needed the money.

While Ptl. Nathan was apprehending Bynam, Robinson was spotted by Det. Randy Sutton in a parked car with Lester Buchanan, 34, of Trenton, owner of the car. The Detective observed several packages of a white powder on the car's console. The powder turned out to be heroin.

All three were arrested, and all were later charged with possession of heroin, and Bynum and Robinson with shoplifting. All were released after being issued summonses calling for their appearance February 15 in Borough Court.

Suspicion Confirmed. The same day, Det. Sutton decided to run a warrant check on a suspicious car parked in the Palmer Square lot. The officer had become suspicious of two occupants inside the car.

The check revealed that the driver, Harold Magby, 35, of Trenton, was wanted by the city of Trenton for several motor vehicle violations. After a search of the car uncovered a small quantity of heroin concealed under some blankets of a baby carrier, Magby was arrested by Det. Sutton and Ptl. Ralph Terracciano and taken to headquarters. He was first held in $1,000 bail set by Borough Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. and later taken to the Mercer County Jail.

CAR HITS TWO HOUSES

When Driver Loses Control. A car which skidded out of control on Mt. Lucas Road early Sunday morning struck two houses before coming to rest.

The driver, Jean Harris, 50, 30 Greenbrier Row, told police that she lost control of her car on ice near the intersection of Laurel Road. It crossed over the center line, over the opposite lane, continued over the shoulder of the road and onto the front yard of a home at 2 Laurel Road.

$12,000 from Cabaret

Princeton High School's choir and orchestra will have another $12,000 toward their summer trip to Vienna as a result of Saturday night's two Inn Cabaret benefit performances.

"We expect to clear $12,000," is the way assistant principal Florence Burke puts it. The school must still pay for the rental of tables, chairs and Prince William Room of the Nassau Inn, printing bill and the bill for free champagne.

However, 13 business firms in the area contributed to the benefit — making the $25 ticket completely tax free — and bills will be paid from their contributions.

The benefit was arranged by Reid White who has two children in the choir and who performed as a member of the Cabaret cast.

Contributing organizations were Collins Development; Advanced Vehicle Technology Inc.; N.T. Callaway Real Estate; Clancy-Paul, the Princeton Computer Store; Commodities Corporation.

Dana Productions; Freedman and Drucker; The Gallup Organization Inc.; The Hillier Group; Minute Press; Quidnet Capital Corporation; Tucker, Anthony and R.L. Day, Inc. and Station WHWH.

posite lane, continued over the shoulder of the road and onto the front yard of a home at 2 Laurel Road.

The 1977 sedan knocked down some shrubs and 30 feet of fence on the property before sliding into the front yard of 6 Laurel where it flattened some more shrubbery and 20 more feet of fence, coming to rest after striking the house.

Ptl. John Seeley Jr. who found no ice on the roadway following the 5 a.m. mishap, charged Ms. Harris with careless driving and driving while on the revoked list. She was treated at Princeton Medical Center for lacerations of the head.

The following morning at 3:16, a car operated by Edward J. Dobkowski Jr. of Cherry Brook Drive left 234 feet of skid marks on Valley Road. It crossed the center line near Harris Road and continued onto the property of B.J. Greenspan, 76 Valley, causing tree and lawn damage. Mr. Dobkowski told Ptl. David Funk that a car traveling in the opposite direction had come into his lane and caused him to lose control. He was issued a summons for careless driving.

Mr. Dobkowski was treated at the Medical Center for contusions and abrasions of the face. A passenger, Sergio Gonsalez, 13 Tupelo Row, complained of back pains and was examined at the hospital.

An early victim of the Monday night snowfall was Kenneth J. Baum, 24, of Califon. As he was driving south on Route 206 between Arreton and Ewing Street at 7:47 Tuesday morning, his car skidded over the center line and struck a car operated by Gary E. Allison, 37, of Trenton.

Mr. Baum was charged by Sgt. Mario Musso with failing to keep right; Mr. Allison was treated at the Medical Center for a minor head injury. Both cars had to be towed from the scene.

TWO ARE CHARGED

With Drunken Driving. Township police charged two drivers last week with driving while intoxicated.

William T. Thomas, 48, of Route 1, Monmouth Junction, was stopped on Snowden Lane at 5:25 Saturday afternoon after he had been observed by Ptl. David Cromwell driving in an erratic manner on N. Harrison Street.

Mr. Thomas was tested at the scene, then taken to headquarters where he was given a Breathalyzer test, charged and released. He is scheduled to appear in Township court February 28.

Richard B. Schults, 41, 37 Woodlane Road, Lawrenceville, was charged as a result of a motor vehicle accident on Route 206 near Edgerstoune Drive.

According to police, Mr. Schults was traveling on Stockton (Route 206 south) at 9:15 Sunday night when he lost control on the snow-covered surface and spun around 360 degrees. His car crossed over into the opposite lane where it struck a car operated by a Greenville, Pa. resident. Both cars were virtually stopped at impact and the two drivers came to Township police headquarters to report the mishap.

Capt. Jack Petrone reported that, as a result of Mr. Schults's personal appearance and behavior, he was given a Breathalyser test and charged with driving while intoxicated by Ptl. Cromwell. He was later released pending his court appearance February 28.

TWO STORES ENTERED

In Princeton Shopping Center. Two stores in the Princeton Shopping Center were entered last week between 10:55 and 2:30 in the morning. In both, a glass pane in a main door had been broken to get inside, Township police reported.

Taken from one store was $50 from a cash register -- a second register with money in it was left untouched -- and $20 from a cash box under the main counter from another. The entries were discovered by Ptl. David Cromwell while making a check of the mall.

While the occupants were asleep, a house on Hun Road was entered early last week by an intruder who took a pocketbook containing a wallet with $20. The pocketbook and wallet were found the next morning minus the money in the driveway. Police said that entry was gained between 11:30 p.m. and 6:30 the next morning through an unlocked sliding glass door off a patio. Ptl. Howard Sweeney investigated.

TIGER SKULL STOLEN

From Cottage Club. A tiger skull mounted on sterling silver was stolen during the weekend from a display case in the library of the Cottage Club on Prospect Avenue.

Police said that the skull, measuring 12 to 14 inches in diameter has an appraised value of $1,200 to $1,800. It has ornately carved, raised designs on the outside, including the figure of an Oriental man on one side and an Oriental woman on the other.

A half-carat diamond ring mounted on gold posts and valued at $1,000 was reported stolen last week from a dresser drawer in an unlocked student's room in 1940 Hall on the Princeton University campus. Police said that the victim was planning to take the earring to New York to try to get a match for the other earring that had been lost.

A resident of Independence Drive told police last week that his collection of 252 baseball cards were missing from a looseleaf book on a shelf where they had been stored. The collection is valued at $900.

The theft of $327 Friday afternoon from the office of a Route 206 business firm is still under investigation by Township police who report they have a suspect in the theft.

According to police, the money had just been counted by an employee who left the money on a counter when he had to leave the office for a few minutes. When he returned it was missing. Ptl. James Vandermark conducted the initial investigation.

Borough police report that an employee in the University Press building on William Street left her purse unattended for five minutes when she left the office on Friday. When she returned her $20 brown leather wallet containing $80 was missing from the purse.

After leaving a Nassau Street restaurant last week, a Princeton resident realized he had left his briefcase in a booth. He returned 25 minutes later but his plastic briefcase valued at $9 was gone. Inside were his check book and personal papers.

Two meter heads valued at $125 each were twisted off their posts on Prospect Avenue between 1 Friday morning and 9:40 Monday morning when the theft was discovered. The recently-installed meters on Prospect have been the target of repeated acts of vandalism.

WINDOWS DAMAGED

Replacement Cost: $1,000. Four Thermopane window units at the Richard Court condominium project under construction at 321 Franklin Avenue were damaged last week by pellets from a BB gun or air rifle. The replacement cost was estimated at $1,000 by the victim, the Giancarli Construction Corporation of Trenton.

In the Township, a marble was shot through a double-pane picture window in the front of a house on Sycamore Lane. The victim told police of hearing a loud crashing sound at 9:25 Friday evening. Investigating, police found the marble lodged between the two panes.

ESCAPEE RETURNED

To Psychiatric Hospital. An escapee from the Trenton Psychiatric Hospital was arrested in Princeton Friday and returned to the hospital.

Borough police received a teletype two days earlier that James D. Britt, 30, whose last known address was Maple Street, had escaped from the institution. He was observed by Ptl. Charles Davall in the Wawa Market on lower University Place.

The officer waited until Britt emerged from the store and arrested him. Police said that Britt had been committed

Grossman Decides "No"

Allan ("Skip") Grossman will not run for a second term on the school Board. Mr. Grossman is the only Borough representative on the board whose term expires this year and so far, no candidate has come forward to replace him.

Two Township seats are available this year. One is now occupied by Hugh Brandt, who was appointed to replace Dale Madden. The other is that of Harry Levine, now serving his first term on the board.

Mr. Levine said this week that he is still undecided about running again, but will make up his mind by next week. Mr. Brandt has not said what he will do.

All terms are three years. Deadline for filing petitions for the April election is Thursday, February 23 at 4 p.m. Nominating petitions may be obtained from the office of the school board secretary in the Valley Road building between 8:30 to 4:30 daily.

Burger King Here?

Maybe and maybe not. In any case, Buxton's has gone, and it is possible that a Burger King may move into the 84 Nassau space where Buxton's was until early this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Umberto Roberto, who own Hinkson's and the building containing it, have also been the Buxton landlords. They are now in negotiations about filling the space but Mrs. Roberto said this week that no final decisions have been made.

Burger King isn't the only hamburger on the griddle, apparently, and other firms are also interested in the location.

But Mrs. Roberto said it was possible she and her husband might decide to break through the wall and expand Hinkson's, rather than take on a new tenant.

Lt. Commmdr. John Baker Returns from Duty Off Lebanon aboard Battleship New Jersey

Standing watch during an actual "fire mission" and being summoned to the bridge and told to take charge of a delicate refueling operation — these were the high points of Lt. Commdr. John Baker's three-week tour of volunteer duty aboard the U.S.S. New Jersey off the Lebanese coast.

Baker, who lives in Princeton Junction, was one of 138 U.S. Navy Reserve volunteers chosen from 1,200 applicants to serve aboard the U.S.S. New Jersey so that men who had been on the ship since last April, could return to the states for leave.

And he was there when the New Jersey, as he phrases it, "fired shots in anger."

BACK FROM LEBANON: John Baker, a lieutenant commander in the U.S. Navy Reserves, spent 22 days on the battleship New Jersey with a group of volunteers relieving men who had not been home on leave for eight months. Against the navy blue background of the tie he is wearing here, is a flotilla of tiny gold replicas of the New Jersey.

"It was Sunday, January 15. I went on watch at 3:45 p.m. By 4:45, it was dark and we could clearly see a fire-fight in the hills around the Beirut airport. There were two explosions in rather short order: a Marine fuel bunker and a 707 airliner on the tarmac.

"The Marines were responding with full mortar and artillery, but the fact that the firing continued caused the Marines to ask for support. The U.S.S. Tattnall — a destroyer — was with us and slightly ahead of us, and because she was closer to shore, she was called on first and fired 80 five-inch rounds into the hillside.

"Then she was asked by the high command to withdraw, and the New Jersey was asked to continue at targets farther inland, which the Tattnall couldn't reach. The systems on the New Jersey have been updated, and have slightly more powerful ability.

"We fired 36 five-inch rounds and were evidently successful because at 6:30 p.m. we were told to cease.

Learning the Job. I was on the bridge, as officer of the deck under instruction. As a Reservist, I'm not a qualified officer of the deck, but I was learning and doing the required jobs under supervision. The man I was replacing was in the weapons department.

"To the great credit of the Marines, they had no casualties at all. There was no further firing for the next ten hours, and this is to the credit of the Navy. That's all they're in this for: to protect the multinational forces, whether French, Italian or Brits.

He spent 22 days on board, but was away 30 days, spending time in Norfolk, Virginia for briefing and training. The men returned to Philadelphia last Friday.

On his return to Philadelphia, he was greeted by his wife, Linda, whom he had married December 3 — only three weeks before his Lebanon adventure.

Wife Supportive. "Linda was very supportive. She had no prior military experience and this was a quick indoctrination! But she said she'd have me for the rest of her life and these men we were replacing hadn't seen their families for eight months."

His boss was supportive, as well. Baker is an assistant vice-president of United Jersey Bank N.A., and manager of the Lawrence branch. John O'Gorman, president of the bank, was eager for the young Reservist to serve, and it was a combination of left-over vacation time and time donated by the bank that made the tour of duty possible.

Baker, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baker of Armour Road, went into the Navy Reserve in 1969 and spent three years on active duty, always as a Reservist. He is executive officer of the New Jersey Reserve Unit, where Reservists train for the jobs they'd do on the U.S.S. New Jersey if there were a recall.

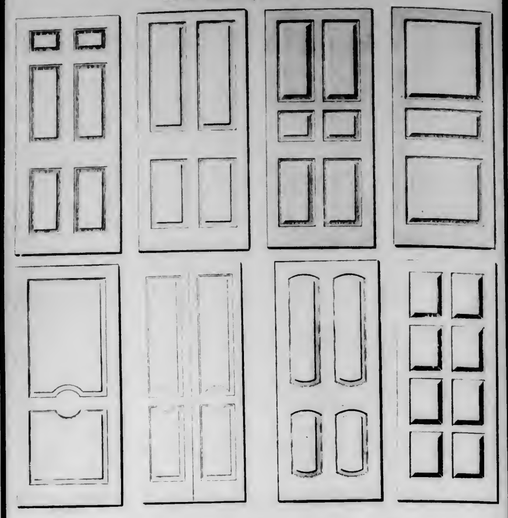
Normally, Reservists put in two weeks of active duty a year but this has been impossible since the New Jersey and Lebanon are so far away. When the New Jersey herself requested volunteers for a four-week tour of duty so that troops could get home, "the chance to serve in a very worthwhile cause was a wonderful one to have."

Not a War Zone. "It was my first time in a 'threat environment,' — which is the proper name for it, since this is not a war zone. But I had no concern being on the U.S.S. New Jersey because I've always maintained it's the strongest, best defended, best built ship and now I'm convinced: it took three kamikaze attacks in World War II, some rounds in Korea but it was untouched in Vietnam and has been untouched in Lebanon. She has 1,600 enlisted men and about 100 officers."

It was during the second refueling exercise that Baker experienced his greatest moment of pride. Refueling and re-stocking a ship the size of the New Jersey from another ship alongside only 140 feet away, is the most delicate of maneuvers, requiring orders to move the ship perhaps half a degree, from 300 to 300.5.

"I was asked up to the bridge and told 'do it.' I am very grateful for this opportunity because only several hundred people in the world have ever done this maneuver."

The trip to Lebanon was a hop-skip jaunt, taking the volunteers from Norfolk's Naval Air Station to St. Johns, Newfoundland, then Lajes in the Azores, Rota in Spain, Signonella in Sicily, Ben Gurion Airport in Tel Aviv, then a bus to Haifa and a small water-taxi to the ship.



"The New Jersey was waiting for us. As soon as we were on board, she left Haifa and started north for Beirut, about two hours away."

Baker was in the second of four volunteer shifts that will relieve the New Jersey's crew.

"I am so proud to have served with those guys! They know why they're there and their morale is of the highest — no griping. And I have pride, too, that I was the only officer asked to go. What we did, was to allow 287 men to go home for a three-week leave and I'm proud to have done that."

VALENTINE LUNCH SET

As PCDI Benefit. The Princeton Child Development Institute, an educational and research center for autistic children, is offering a special Valentine lunch to business and office workers in the Princeton area, and to bosses who want to treat their staffs to a Valentine's Day party.

The Institute and a local gourmet caterer have teamed up to produce 500 box lunches, each with a fresh flower, which will be delivered to each office by volunteers on Tuesday, February 14, between 9 a.m. and 12 noon. A free bottle of wine is included with every order of eight lunches from the same location.

Two different menus are available — one with a croissant sandwich of smoked ham and cheese, and the other with a croissant sandwich of curried chicken with raisins and nuts. Chocolate or vanilla cheesecake, an apple and a surprise Valentine sweet are also included.

Part of the cost of every lunch will go for educational purposes to benefit autistic children, and a receipt for the tax deductible donation is delivered with every lunch. A minimum order of four lunches from each address is requested, to ease delivery. Lunches are $10 and $12.50.

Invitations have already been sent to many businesses in the Princeton area, and more are available. For more information, an invitation, or to place an order, call Mea Johnston at 921-1520 or 924-6280.

LUNCH AT THE DESK—With a difference. Marsha Beidler, right, a member of the firm of Smith Lambert Hicks and Miller, looks over the Valentine lunch invitation from Princeton Child Development Institute (PCDI) with Darlene Evanchik, a special education teacher at the Institute. To celebrate Valentine's Day and to raise funds for the benefit of autistic children, the Institute is offering 500 gourmet lunches to be delivered to business firms on the morning of January 14. Ms. Beidler's firm was the first to order the partially tax deductible gourmet lunches for the entire staff.

VOLUNTEERS

Two Winners and Nominations. Susie Brown Waxwood and Christopher S. Tarr will receive the 31st annual Gerald B. Lambert Community Service awards at the annual meeting of the United Way February 15.

Also, the Council of Community Services is now seeking nominations for the fourth annual Robert E. Clancy Award, presented to a resident of the Princeton area for "outstanding services as a volunteer." Deadline for nominations is March 16.

The Council presents a special youth award also. A five-member panel of judges makes the final decisions in both adult and youth categories.

The Clancy award is given to individuals who volunteer their time in one-to-one, person-to-person service, not to those who serve in leadership positions. Application forms for nominations are available from the Council office in the Valley Road building.

At the United Way dinner, Mrs. Waxwood and Mr. Tarr will be honored, like other Lambert winners, for having served over a long period of time, "in an unselfish effort to make life better for those liv-

IT'S NEW To Us

A PROMISE OF SPRING is found on Witherspoon Walk where Princeton Caterers has opened The Flower Market, specializing in beautiful flowering plants, fresh unusual flowers, small gifts (especially for Valentines), and delicious chocolates. Thomas Root, one of the shop's owners, is seen at left with his two managers, Geoffrey Walker and Walter Kaplonski (right) who will plan scheduled flower deliveries for companies.

BRIGHTEN GREY DAYS With Flowers. A welcome relief from February's dreary greys is the new Flower Market, a jewel of a store tucked away on Witherspoon Walk just opposite the Alchemist & Barrister restaurant. Yet another creative business venture owned by Thomas Root, his sons, James and Thomas, and Peter Vielbig, all of Princeton Caterers, and Ray Woodsworth, the Flower Market offers the shopper much more than beautiful flowers and plants which are in abundance there.

The shop intends to introduce a full blown flower service to larger corporations, small businesses, real estate companies, and doctor's and lawyer's offices on a scheduled basis as a thoughtful way of saying "thank you."

"It takes so little to make someone feel good; a few pretty flowers or a basket full of goodies, even tiny ones, are so much appreciated," says Mr. Root, who is known to bring flowers to his friends whenever he has the opportunity to do so. In his words, "It's a way of saying to someone, 'Hey, everything isn't all that bad!' "

The flower business at Cox's, another successful business of the same group, has been booming ever since the first flowers appeared on estate companies has begun to the sidewalk. It seems that several contracts with companies which have been well received. One of the real favorite companies has begun to send a welcome basket full of flowers simply give everyone food, small gifts and flowers to in town a lift whether in an new homeowners.

The Flower Market, together with Princeton Caterers, has already set up elaborate arrangement, one simple stem of freesia, or perhaps a bunch of daisies.

If you are looking for a way to charm your sweetheart this Valentine's Day, stop in at the Flower Market to see the wonderful array of thoughtful and unusual gifts. Tiny heart-shaped baskets filled with potpourri, miniature grapevine wreaths attached together with pretty ribbon, sticks of cinnamon with pincushion hearts, handmade Victorian powder puffs, and kitchen mitts made of lace and floral fabric are small thoughts to please your favorite Valentine. Of course, the more traditional ways of expressing one's affection is with flowers or candy, both of which will be beautifully presented in the shop.

Delicious homemade chocolate fudge and elegant French chocolates by Pierre Koenig in handsome black boxes are available for this holidays as well as one single long-stemmed rose wrapped in cellophone and tied with a bright red ribbon.

Gorgeous flowering plants will please your Valentine — a promise of spring which will last for many weeks to come. Cyclamen, exotic tulip bulbs which have been forced, gardenias, primrose, flowering quince, African violets, orchids and phalaenopsis are among the many choices.

No gift basket is too small to warrant the attention of the shop's creative design manager, Walter Kaplonski, whose talents will also be utilized for large parties and weddings, another service of the market. Baskets galore fill each corner of the Flower Market, all sizes and shapes waiting to be filled with potpourri, herbs, plants or fresh flowers. Why not fill your own for your Valentine? Nothing is prettier than a healthy plant in a basket or perhaps one of the terracotta planters seen here.

Personalized baskets for joggers, golfers, mothers, and teachers, to mention a few, will be ready for the holiday. However, the shop will make up any kind of basket a customer would like.

Joyful Variety. It is a joy to see the variety of fresh flowers available at the Flower Market, many of which are displayed in buckets outside the shop — a cheerful sight when weather permits. Long-lasting alstromeria, calla lilies, euphorbia, roses, freesia, daisies, orchids, birds of paradise, carnations, and wonderful tulips are among the selections which will keep flower lovers happy until their own flowers bloom in spring.

There is a cozy atmosphere about this new shop, perhaps because of the handsome reproductions on display there. The furniture — a bench, a corner cupboard, a wood box, and side tables — is made by a group of young artisans from Whitehouse, N.J.

A grandmother's corner will yield many cherished gifts for the holidays to come, especially during Easter when chickens, bunnies, and rabbits are treasures to give and receive. Children's sweaters my Manos del Uruguay are beautifully made and irresistible gifts for a young child.

Full-scale wedding services will be planned by the Flower Market come spring. Walter Kaplonski will handle everything from the mother-of-the-bride's corsage, to a cloth runner for the aisle in the church, to the flowers' transfer from the church to the reception, a more economical way to make use of the lovely arrangements planned by the designer.

Store hours are from 9 to 5:30 Monday through Wednesdays and Saturdays, and from 9 to 6:30 on Thursday and Fridays until spring when hours will be longer.

GOURMET FOODS

At Squire's Choice. A business which began with its owner, Roger Owen, roasting nuts in his own garage in Yardley, Pa. has blossomed into a full-fledged gourmet food and bake shop, Squire's Choice, located since November in Palmer Square. It is a charming shop, a great addition to the Square, offering a variety of delicious gourmet foods.

Tempting aromas of freshly baked croissants each morning now reach the sidewalk outside the shop where hungry Princetonians queue up for fresh imported coffee (a different flavor each day) and croissants filled with jams or slivered almonds during the breakfast hours and reasonably priced box lunches in the afternoons.

Though space is limited, an amazing variety of nuts, cheeses, coffee beans, jellies and preserves, candies, biscuits and other delicacies can be found in the handsomely decorated shop. A round skirted table covered with jars of colorful jelly bellies, bleached pine walls and floor, a simple country table in the window creatively displaying the shop's fare in baskets, and open shelves full of jars of jams, all contribute to an old-fashioned cozy atmosphere.

"This is a comfortable, cozy place to work. I just have a good feeling whenever I'm here," says the shop's manager, Kathy Flynn, also of Yardley. Mrs. Flynn, formerly a dental hygenist, worked in Roger Owen's first successful shop in that town. He has since opened other Squire's Choice shops in the market in Ardmore, Pa. and in Springfield. In three short years the successful chain has branced out into fine cheeses and other gourmet specialty foods.

A COZY PLACE: Kathy Flynn, manager of Squire's Choice enjoys the shop's cozy atmosphere. Country in feeling, the welcome food shop offers freshly roasted nuts, croissants filled with jams, and a wonderful array of specialty foods.

Warm Welcome. "Everyone here has been so welcoming, the merchants in Palmer Square, the reaction of customers who have been so complimentary, it has really been fun," continues Mrs. Flynn, who is particularly pleased about the town's reaction to their box lunches.

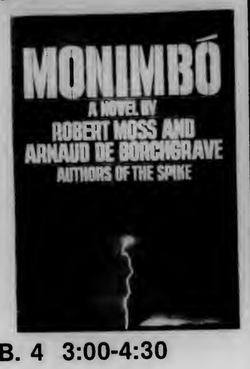
There is good reason for everyone's enthusiasm, because the lunches are prepared daily by two Swiss women whose crab and shrimp, tuna, chicken and egg salads on homemade white or rye bread, or on buttered crossants, are a gourmet's delight. For $3.50 each box lunch — which varies daily — includes a fresh salad and a surprise dessert, a red and white checked napkin all packaged neatly in bakery boxes. All is prepared in the shop's tiny yet efficient kitchen where every inch of space is utilized.

A student from Princeton, Doug Binzak, comes in each morning to bake the croissants which are ready in time for the shop's opening at 9:30. Coffees are a specialty of Squire's Choice, including unusual flavors such as Amaretto Columbian, Copenhagen, Swiss almond chocolate, and Kenya AA.

Homemade jams by Clearbrook Farm in Cincinnati, Ohio, topped in calico, make nice hostess gifts as do the vast variety of preserves, chutneys, and sweet dessert sauces from the Silver Palate. Gentlemen Farmer's preserves from upper Buck's County include such exotic combinations as pumpkin marmalade or grapefruit lime with rum!

Salted and unsalted cashews, pecans, macadamia, and mixed nut combinations are roasted right in the kitchen of Squire's Choice every few days to insure freshness. The sesame party mix, the dried fruit and nuts combo, and onion flavored bagel crisps make thoughtful gifts packaged in attractive paper cartons with a graph design or pindot in yellow, blue, red, or green.

A useful service of the new shop is their gift basket which will be prepared for a minimum of $15. Surely one of these, packed with the tempting delights, will win the heart of that special Valentine!



After a long day of work, why not stop in and take home some fresh pasta by Pasta and Cheese available here or perhaps one of the delectable plates prepared for dinner such as chicken Kiev? The homey feeling at Squire's Choice will warm the heart and tempt the palate.

Streets Will be Fixed

Borough and Township streets which have been uprooted for sewer repair by Seminole Contractors, are being patched back together with the temporary paving material known as "cold patch."

When spring comes, says assistant sanitary engineer Martin Dorward, streets will be repaved so they are as close as possible to their original condition.

Streets affected by the contract with Seminole are Olden Lane, Olden Street, Ober Road, Newlin Road, Humbert Street, Edgerstoune Road, Boudinot Street, Cleveland Lane, Western Way, Hazlet Avenue, Cedar Lane and Leigh Avenue.

Mrs. Waxwood, a graduate of Howard University, is treasurer of the Witherspoon Federal Credit Union. Volunteer work at the YWCA led to a professional 'Y' career, first as adult program director, then as executive director, a post she held from 1957 to 1968.

She has also been associated with the Red Cross, Joint Commission on Aging, Princeton Nursery School, the Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation (as trustee); president of Church Women United of the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church and a member of the Legal Defense Fund of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

She was a 1981 delegate to the White House Conference on Aging and has served as head of the Mercer County Advisory Council on Aging. She was honored in 1974 by the Council of Community Services for "a lifetime of community service."

Mr. Tarr, a member of the United Way executive committee, is a vice-president of the Red Cross, chairman of the board of the Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Mercer Area Exploring Committee of the Boy Scouts and on the board of the Eden Institute, Career Development Awards, Princeton Adult School, American Heart Association and Friends of Princeton Community Recreation.

In the past, he has been president of the Jaycees, chairman of the board of the American Heart Association and president of both Career Development Awards and Friends of Princeton Recreation.

A lawyer, he is a partner with Smith, Stratton, Wise, Heher and Brennan.

NURSERY, AT PHS

Agreement Continues. The Princeton Cooperative Nursery School will hold an open house next Tuesday from 12:30 to 2 in the Princeton High School space rented from the Princeton Regional School system. PCNS has been at the high school for the past three years and the agreement has been renewed for another year.

The nursery school, which is over 40 years old, has rented space in a variety of Princeton buildings over the years. It now accommodates its children in space next to the former home economics classroom at the high school. The large room, which can be divided in two, was designed by architect J. Robert Hillier, who contributed his services.

Windows look out on the playing fields and tennis courts, and the enclosed playground is near the front entrance of the high school.

Working closely with the high school, the nursery school has been involved in PHS' community services programs, Learning in the Community and, this month, in the PHS Alternative Education Program. The Eden Institute for autistic children sends two children to PCNS under the guidance of a trained, professional teacher.

During the year, the nursery school visits the high school nurse's office, shares in various musical presentations and makes ceremonial parades to the front office on Hallowe'en, Christmas and Easter, to be greeted officially

"Thank you, friends, for helping us grow a remarkable 73% last year!"

Joseph W. Bandura
President

"As the numbers above clearly show, Nassau Savings continues to enjoy a period of exceptional growth. Surely one of the reasons is that we provide a full range of financial services at very competitive rates. Take our Money-Maker Account, for example. It has consistently paid more than money-market funds and is currently offering 9.5%.

"But I feel there is a second and key reason for our success: although we have grown enormously, we continue to give our customers personalized, thoughtful service. See for yourself. I invite you to make Nassau Savings your Family Financial Center, too."

Cordially,

J.W. Bandura

by Principal John Sakala.

The school is open from 9 to noon Mondays through Fridays, following the PHS calendar. Children range from two and one-half to five years of age. Detailed information is available from Jane Schmidt, 466-1105.

ORIENTATION PLANNED

By Big Brothers/Sisters. Those who are interested in learning about becoming a Big Brother or Big Sister to a child in need of adult companionship are invited to an Orientation Session Wednesday, February 8, at 6:30 at Nassau Presbyterian Church.

For more information on how several hours of time each week can make a big difference in the life of a child from a single parent home, call Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Mercer County, 695-BIGS.

PRE-CONFERENCE EVENT

At Art People's Place. A gathering or briefing will be held Sunday from 1-4 in preparation for the 11th International Human Unity Conference which is scheduled for July 19-22 in Boston. The Princeton pre-conference gathering will be at the Art People's Place.

The Human Unity Conference is an annual event initiated in 1974 in India by Sant Kirpal Singh. It is held each year in a different part of the world and affords those present the opportunity to gather together in a spirit of oneness. The Whole Health Institute will be the host for this year's conference, which has the theme, "The Healing of the Nations: a Personal Purpose."

The program Sunday will feature Mark Anderson, clinical nutritionist and trustee of the Whole Health Institute; Dr. Elaine Gagne, co-president of HUC '84 and executive director of the Whole Health Institute, and Andrea Anderson, counseling psychologist.

For more information call Dr. Susan Rosoff at 683-0392. A $3 donation is suggested.

'THE LION'S SHARE'

YWCA Fund Raiser. Service auctions have become a popular method of fund raising for local organizations, offering winning bidders everything but the kitchen sink.

Now, the Princeton YWCA will fill that gap: two YWCA volunteers will spend eight woman hours cleaning your kitchen, if you are the winning bidder at the YWCA's "Lion's Share" auction, Saturday, March 3.

Other services under the gavel of auctioneer and comedian, Woody Woodford, include a day trip for two children to an area historic landmark such as Gettysburg or Valley Forge, summer houses in Vermont and New Hampshire, a full size hand made quilt, homemade pies, dinners of many descriptions to serve a party of eight, and portrait sittings with an area photographer.

The YWCA is kicking off the evening with a smorgasbord of breads, cheeses, and hors d'oevre donated by Princeton area caterers, along with ham, turkey and homemade desserts and wine on which to sup and sip while bidding in the silent auction. Topping off the evening will be the lively live auction. Bidders must have advance tickets, and reservations are limited. Call 924-5571 to assure your share in "The Lion's Share."

SEAT To Meet

The rescheduled meeting of the executive committee of the Princeton Special Education Advisory Team "SEAT" will be held Tuesday, February 7, at 7:30 in the Princeton High School library. Parents of handicapped children in Princeton professional staff in Princeton Regional Schools and anyone interested in the welfare of special students are welcome.

STUDY FASTER, BETTER

In New Program. A program designed to help high school students read faster and more accurately will be given under the auspices of the Arts Council of Princeton starting this Monday in the Art People Place, Witherspoon Street.

Kenneth McCarthy, who conceived and will teach the program, developed it for the Educational Opportunities Program of Princeton University. It was designed to help freshmen adjust to the increased volume of work in college, and Mr. McCarthy has adapted the program to meet the needs of high school students.

The course, "Read Faster and Study Better," will cover rapid reading, improving concentration, strengthening comprehension, developing memory, preparing for and taking tests and managing time, motivation and stress.

Students will examine the way they are now approaching their assignments, and will restructure these approaches to make the best use of their time.

"This course is a compilation of all the things I wish someone had taken the time to teach me when I was a student," Mr. McCarthy says. "Now, as a result of my work, I read significantly faster and more accurately than I did as an undergraduate."

A graduate of Princeton, Mr. McCarthy was formerly associated with Learning Skills, Inc., a consulting firm whose clients include Amherst, Williams, Wesleyan, Bucknell, Brown and others.

Classes for grades 9 and 10 will begin this Monday; those for grades 11 and 12 will start Tuesday. Both classes will meet once a week, two hours a session, for seven weeks. Class size will be limited to 15. The $145 fee includes registration, materials and tuition. A limited number of scholarships are available on a first come-first served basis.

Additional information is available from the Arts Council at 924-8777 or by calling 921-7329.

TO TRAIN LEADERS

In Peer Program. Faculty and students from public and private high schools throughout the area are invited to attend the second annual conference of the Princeton Day School Peer Leadership Training Program Saturday, February 11, on the school campus. Sharon Powell is director of the PDS program.

All-day workshops will describe the goals, structure and techniques used to train student leaders. Staff and Peer Group leaders from Princeton High School will assist in running the workshops.

So far, students and faculty from schools as far away as Michigan, New Hampshire and Connecticut have registered for the program. Additional information is available from Dr. Powell at 924-6700, ext. 236.

REGISTRATION SET

For Saturday Classes. The Mercer County Association for Gifted and Talented Children, a non-profit organization, is holding registration for Saturday morning workshops for children who fall under their purview. Classes begin March 3 at Lawrence Junior High School.

Courses offered are Creativity, Kaleidoscope, I Love to Paint, Dinosaurs, Art Backpackers, Creative Music Making, Build a Castle, Dungeons and Dragons, Computer Programming, Chess and Astrometry.

The Association was founded by parents and educators to offer special programs and services to gifted children. The workshops are open to all children identified as gifted or recommended by a professional in the area of the child's special ability.

Home-made Italian food and a full bar will be available. For information call (201) 741-9353.

DATE ANNOUNCED

For 'Jazzy' Fete. The 31st annual Fete, a benefit for Princeton Medical Center, will take place on Saturday, June 9. This year's theme, "The Jazzy Fete," was announced at the kickoff meeting by the 1984 co-chairmen, Peggy Gallagher and Barbara Simonds.

The chairmen invite the community to join friends on Friday, June 8, for a "Jazzy" affair, the traditional dinner and dance held the evening before the Fete on the Fete grounds.

The original Fete was held in 1953 and featured 16 booths. Through the years the Fete has been held at various sites around Princeton, among them Palmer Stadium, Community Park and Westminster Choir College, before it settled down on the Princeton University fields on Washington Road in 1967.

Over the past 31 years, the Auxiliary has contributed more than $2.5 million to the Medical Center. The Auxiliary provides the Medical Center Foundation with funds for equipment not usually found in a community hospital of the size of Princeton Medical Center. The Fete is one of the fund raising activities of the Auxiliary, and is held each year.

This year the Fete Car Raffle will feature a "jazzy" red 1984 Chrysler Le Baron convertible with white interior. Tickets for the car raffle will be available in March.

Marte Pierson will serve as secretary for this year's Fete, and co-treasurers will be Milly Weigel and David Hoyer. Roberta Griffith will be Fete photographer.

Co-chairmen for the children's area are Casey Lanagan and Mary Loff. Food chairmen are Marcy Leiff and Karen Woodbridge. Staging will be done by Pam Abernathy and Lynn DuBois.

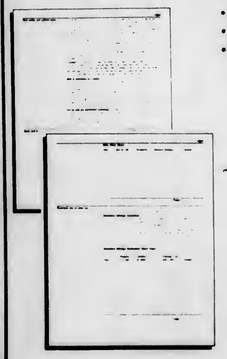
The Auction will be co-chaired by Cookie Leaper and Phyllis Supple. The storage facility will be open and ready to accept contributions from 10 to noon the first Saturday of every month. Anyone with items to contribute may contact the auction solicitation chairmen, Margaret Cruikshank at 799-3123 or Tanya Cope, 924-6169. Ruth Block will again serve as auction consultant.

Chairmen for the other committees are Midge Fleming and Nancy Jusick, car raffle; Hillary Potter and Carol Wojciechowicz, communications; Susan Goodley and Dotty A. St. Francis, decorating and signs; Nancy Kirby and Jan Moule, entertainment; Diane Friedman, Rosalie Puzio and Francoise Snoy, Friday night dance; Jan Noonan and Sheila Stuart, garden; Marian Fedorko and Lynn Waddell, Lane of Shops; Sandy Bell and Jackie Hoopingarner, linens, tables and chairs; Doreen Griffin and Phyllis Marchand, 10K Race;

Also, Bernice Frank and Gail Zenel, Treasure Aisle; Linda Leyhane and Jeanne Radimer, parking and security; Bebe Karstad and Hillary Vanderstucken, program; Cynthia Abrams, Ellen Souter and Gale Colby, program solicitation; Linda Brophy and Patti McCrohan, publicity, and Kathy Bagley and Lynn Mosle, Sports Alley.

S92 Preview for Mayors

Mayor Winthrop S. Pike and Mayor Barbara Sigmund have been invited to join mayors of other area municipalities at a meeting Monday morning in Department of Transportation offices in Ewing Township to preview alternatives selected for state Route 92.



The DOT is expected to announce at a public information session which of eight possible routes it plans to study in greater depth. This meeting date had not been set by the time TOWN TOPICS went to press, but John Mykoff, DOT coordinator of community involvement specifically assigned to S92 planning, has said that it would take place in February.

Mayors of other municipalities expected to attend Monday's briefing include the mayors of Hightstown, West Windsor, Plainsboro and Montgomery, all of whom have a stake in the alignment of the long-awaited but controversial roadway.

INFORMATION IS THEIR BUSINESS: Helen Spiro, center, president of About Town, Inc., Information Services, shows a copy of "About Princeton," a 16-page map guide to the community, to Township Mayor Winthrop Pike and Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund. The company presented copies of this their first publication to the Borough and Township and the Public Library for use by residents, visitors and employees.

In and Around Princeton

NEW MAP GUIDE ISSUED

About Princeton. Sensing a lack of centeredness and a need for information about the booming Princeton community, three Princeton women have formed a company and published a new map guide.

About Town Inc. Information Services has made its debut with the publication of the first edition of "About Princeton, A Map Guide," a full-color booklet of annotated subject-matter maps of the Princeton region. The three principals are Helen Spiro, Joy Reynolds and Linda Oppenheim.

The three first worked together ten years ago on the "Princeton People's Yellow Pages," a directory of community resources. That effort grew out of the Peace Center on Nassau Street and was the result of the input and involvement of some 200 people. It was a truly cooperative effort that enjoyed wide community support and had a profound and positive effect on many of those who worked on it--particularly on Ms. Spiro, Ms. Reynolds and Ms. Oppenheim.

It was Ms. Oppenheim, librarian at the Woodrow Wilson School, who, seeing the development boom on all sides of Princeton, remarked to the others, "There is an information explosion out there, and a need for information about the communities." Incorporated in August, About Town, Inc. Information Services is the result.

The company will specialize in providing information about communities as a whole or selected aspects of them, such as business services, social services or cultural resources. In addition to publishing, it will offer consulting, research, writing, editing and seminars tailored to the needs of clients.

The map guide is its first publication, a visible, tangible "tip of the iceberg" of what the company hopes to provide. Focussing on Princeton Borough and Township and the Route One corridor, the 5½ by 8½-inch, 14-page guide contains eight individual maps. Restaurants and food shops, basic shopping, transportation and accommodations, cultural and recreational activities--each has a map of its own, as do the campuses of Princeton University, Westminster Choir College, and Princeton Theological Seminary. There is also an indexed street map of the Borough and Township.

Opposite the maps are useful information such as restaurant addresses and hours, bus and train terminal phone numbers and capsule descriptions of cultural and recreational activities. Hotels, corporate centers, municipal services and public parking lots are indicated by symbols on the maps themselves.

According to Ms. Reynolds, the company conceived the idea for the map guide to answer the growing need for local information by residents and visitors alike. The response on the part of corporations, hotels and realtors has been "very, very enthusiastic," she says.

"About Princeton" is available at book stores, Cox's, the Kiosk and by writing About Town Inc., Box 324. It retails for $4.50, but is also available in bulk rate.

MAKE NO MISTAKE

Tax Kit Makes It Easier. It may not increase your refund but Princeton's Nassau Press believes it has a kit that will make it easier for taxpayers to reach the bottom line.

Entitled "The Morris 1984 Tax Kit," it tells taxpayers more than just how, it tells them when and for how long. Essentially, says Nassau Press president, Ernest A. Zelenak, "it aids the taxpayer's ability to quickly organize records for expedient tax preparation."

After interviewing thousands and thousands of taxpayers throughout the country, the authors, Kenneth M. Morris and Michael E. Kecca, Mr. Zelenak reports, came to the conclusion that the biggest obstacle and anxiety in terms of the taxpayer was organizing the mammoth number of records and receipts required. "The IRS requires we keep accurate records and it scares the hell out of people," said Zelenak.

Extensively field-tested, the Tax Kit was described by Zelenak as a "dynamite concept. It definitely fulfills a need; it has never been done before."

Other popular tax guides, such as J.K. Lasser's and Sylvia Porter's, remarked Zelenak, concentrate on how to fill out an IRS statement. "We not only tell you how to fill out a statement, but how to organize and keep tax records on an ongoing basis. Come next April, if you've used our Tax Kit, your taxes are practically prepared to go."

The tax kit, a project Nassau Press has been working on for two years, claims Zelenak, contains a big accordian style folder divided into nine sections. Included is an 80-page booklet which gives tax tips, tells what records to keep and for how long, what ones would go into each of the nine folders, and how to use your organized records to prepare your own tax return.

He and his wife, recalled Zelenak, have always struggled in preparing their tax return. This year, he said, using the Tax Kit, his wife was able to sort everything out in an hour and a half. Her reaction, he said, was "Ernest! For the first time we are frighteningly organized."

The Tax Kit is compact and will fit easily, said Zenenak, in a filing cabinet or desk drawer. Nassau Press, he said, has an advance written order for 20,000 kits from its national distributor, E.P. Dutton of New York, and they

WITH A MERRILL LYNCH IRA, THE INVESTMENT POSSIBILITIES ARE VIRTUALLY UNLIMITED.

An Individual Retirement Account (IRA) is not only an excellent way to obtain a $2,000 deduction on your income tax every year but also to build retirement funds at the same time.

Almost everyone with earned income now has that opportunity. You should know, however, that some IRAs do more for your money than others.

Some lock you into one type of investment. Or limit you to a fixed rate of return. A Merrill Lynch IRA on the other hand opens up virtually the entire range of investment opportunities to your money.

For example:
• Money Market Funds • Annuities • Mutual Funds • Government Securities • Government Agencies • Certificates of Deposit • Treasury Bills • Growth Stocks • High-Yield Stocks • Blue-Chip Stocks • Corporate Bonds • Convertible Bonds • Discount Bonds • Higher-Yield Bonds • Covered Call Options • Corporate Income Trusts • Real Estate Limited Partnerships

You select the investment that best suits your needs. You can also switch from one to another investment any time your goals change or new opportunities arise. You also enjoy the confidence of investing with a world financial leader with years of experience handling IRA accounts. More than 750,000 Merrill Lynch IRA customers have invested over five billion dollars.

So before you make a decision as important as a retirement investment, be sure to check all your options—to make your money grow faster. Your Merrill Lynch Account Executive will be happy to explain the wide range of possibilities available to you. Just call or mail the coupon today.

EARNINGS UP

At United Jersey Banks, United Jersey Banks has announced earnings for the fourth quarter of $6.9 million, an increase of 30.9 percent over the fourth quarter of last year. The Princeton-based holding company also reported earnings for the full year of $23.8 million, for an increase of 31.3 percent over 1982.

Net income for the fourth quarter reached $6.9 million, or $1.03 per share, compared with $5.3 million, or 92 cents per share for the fourth quarter of 1982. For the 12 months of 1983, net income was $23.8 million, or $3.65 per share, compared with $18.1 million, or $3.17 per share for 1982.

RECORDS ARE SET

By Horizon Bancorp, Horizon Bancorp has reported the results for the year and fourth quarter ended December 31, 1983.

Net income for the year was $18,805,000 compared to $13,697,000 in 1982, an increase of 37 percent. On a historical, per-share basis, the increase was 25 percent from the $3.26 reported in 1982 to $4.08 for 1983. These are record results for Horizon.

Adjusted for a three-for-two stock split payable on February 1, to shareholders of record January 13, net income per share for 1983 was $2.72 compared to $2.17, also up 25 percent.

During the fourth quarter of 1983 Horizon earned $7,570,000, up 100 percent from $3,792,000 earned in 1982. On a historical, per-share basis, net income was $1.30, up 44 percent from the $0.90 earned last year. Adjusted for the pending stock split, net income per share was $0.87, up 44 percent from $0.60 in the fourth quarter in 1982.

Of the $0.87 per share, approximately $0.21 after-tax was contributed by the profitable sale of Horizon Creditcorp. The quarter was also the first to include results from The Bank of New Jersey which was acquired on September 30, 1983.

FIRM IS HONORED

For Building Design, Kelbaugh and Lee Architects have received a Citation Award in the American Wood Council's second biennial non-residential design program.

The award-winning building, Milford Reservation Solar Conservation Center in Milford, Pa., is a 16,000-square-foot educational center for the study of nature. Designed to further environmental awareness, the building is intended as a model of conservation, natural heating and cooling.

With dormitory space for 110 people, a dining hall, classrooms, a library and offices, the structure incorporates six passive solar heating and cooling systems. Space heating bills for the center have proved about equal to those of a typical house in the area.

Robin L. Wallack of Jefferson Road, a sales associate with Peyton Associates Real Estate, has been honored for listing and selling real estate totaling nearly $4 million during the past year.

Mrs. Wallack has also qualified as a member of the state Board of Realtors Million Dollar Sales Club which recognizes top sales associates through the state for outstanding performance.

Mrs. Wallack, a resident of Princeton for 15 years, has served as president of the Princeton Regional Board of Education and vice president of the Mercer County Board of Education. A sales associate with Peyton for the past four years, she previously served as assistant to the director of Career Services at Princeton University.

Kenneth A. Klun of Slayback Drive, Princeton Junction has been promoted to vice president at EG&G Princeton Applied Research Corporation.

Mr. Klun currently serves as director of marketing and director of the Electro-Optical Instruments Divsion. Originally employed in 1969 as export sales manager, he became president of PARC International in 1972 and transferred to Munich, Germany. In 1975, he returned to Princeton as vice president, sales, and vice president, international operations for EG&G Instruments, and served in that capacity until 1980 when he left the firm to become president of Bactomatic.

He returned as director of marketing in July, 1983.

William T. Clifford of Woodfield Lane, Lawrenceville, has been named a vice president of Applied Data Research, Inc.

Mr. Clifford joined ADR in 1982 as the special assistant to the director of the Software Products Division and currently is director of Systems and Support Services. He came to ADR from Arthur Young & Co., where he was national consulting coordinator, applied technology services. He began his data processing career in 1968 as a marketing representative with IBM and later joined Turnkey Systems, Inc., where he held various management positions.

Dr. David Meadow of Princeton has opened an office limited to the practice of dentistry for children and adolescents at 265 Princeton-Hightstown Road in West Windsor.

Dr. Meadow received both his baccalaureate and doctorate degrees with honors from the University of Pennsylvania. He obtained his certificate in pedodontics from the Harvard School of Dental Medicine and completed his pediatric residency at Boston Children's Hospital. At the same time, he received a master's degree in public health from the Harvrd School of Public Health, specializing in maternal and child health.

He divides his time between private practice and directing the preventive dentistry program at Johnson & Johnson Dental Products Company. He has been instrumental in bringing the concept of preventive dentistry to corporate institutions and has served as a federal consultant in the evaluation of the National Head Start Program.

Two people have joined the advertising and marketing research firm of Mapes and Ross here in newly created positions.

Robert Parcher will be vice-president of client services, responsible for the coordination of all syndicated and custom advertising and research projects. He formerly served as manager of the Western Region Office of National Family Opinion.

Dr. William Diggins has been named an account executive. He formerly served as an assistant project director for the Gallup Organization, and as an assistant professor of sociology at Tulane.

Kenneth A. Klun

Bernard J. McMullan of Trenton has been appointed a research associate at Response Analysis Corporation. He holds a Ph.D. in sociology and was formerly Washington site director of a nationwide survey of lobbyists on agriculture, energy, health, and labor policy issues for the American Bar Foundation. He has also served as field director and research assistant for the National Policy Domains Study at Indiana University where he was an associate instructor in sociology.

Five individuals have been promoted by the Hillier Group. Brinton N. West was named senior associate, and Robert J. Blakeman, Roe Callahan, Richard E. Taylor and Eric P. Rosenblum were named associates.

Mr. West, a resident of Bucks County, is project manager of Harbour Island, the 178-acre mixed use development in Tampa, Fla., currently under construction, and a motel-condominium project in Huntington, L.I. He and the associates were promoted in recognition of their outstanding services to their clients.

Wendy Wetzel of Pennington has been appointed a representative of the new member relations department of the Health Maintenance Organization of New Jersey (HMO-NJ). Her duties include educating and servicing members of the HMO-NJ plan.

HMO-NJ serves counties within the north central, central and southern region. It offers pre-paid health care programs for corporations, unions and other employer groups in nine New Jersey counties.

In Princeton... In the woods... Incomparable!

39,000 Sq. Ft. - Available Immediately

457 North Harrison is a remarkable office building from any point of view. Located in the very heart of Princeton itself, it is nonetheless tucked away on a wooded, elegantly landscaped 5-acre estate tract.

Incomparable is the perfect word for its rich combination of redwood and brick exterior, solar-tinted windows and dramatic interiors.

Incomparable, too, is its location: three minutes from downtown Princeton, five minutes from Route 1 and around the corner from the Princeton Shopping Center and Route 206 (connecting you to Interstate 287).

Available in custom-designed modules of 1200 sq. ft. and larger each with its own individually controlled heat and air-conditioning system. Each floor has six corner offices. Immediate occupancy available. For leasing information, call Sutton Management Corp. (201) 533-1401.

PEOPLE
In the News

High Spirits, subtitled "the heartwarming story of a modern American family in search of an old-fashioned dream," has been published by Doubleday. Written by Peter Funk of Province Line Road, it is the lively story of the 15 years the author and his wife spent on a farm in Lambertville with their seven children and an assortment of barnyard animals.

The Funks had strong philosophical reasons for moving from suburbia to a 110-acre working farm. As Mr. Funk writes, "We wanted a sense of family unity. We longed for a happy and wholesome family based on love, awareness and individual responsibility. We wanted to be rooted in nature's timeless cycles."

Peter Funk

They get what they came for--and more besides. There is a strong sense of family in this book and of coping with the unexpected: a brush fire that almost gets out of hand, the goat with the knack of escaping any pasture fencing and taking the horses with her, death in the menagerie, tragedy among the neighbors, the author's frightening bout with cancer.

Mr. Funk has a consuming interest in words as a "lexical semanticist" who has continued for 20 years the Reader's Digest feature, "It Pays to Increase Your Word Power," started by his father. The narrative of High Spirits is interspersed with his musings on the origin or derivation of this word or that.

Also clearly evident in the book is the strong religious and spiritual focus upon which the Funks center their lives. After 15 years, the children grown and the farm then too large for two to manage, they decide to sell "Good Ground Farm." But not without a profound sense of thanksgiving for what it meant to them as a family, and not without the final irony of seeing the wilful goat docilely participating in a Christmas creche at a nearby Baptist church.

Charles M. Bolster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Bolster Jr. of 124 Park Place, has been selected for membership in the Phi Society a freshman honorary society at Denison University, Granville, Ohio. He is a 1982 gradute of Princeton High School and a sophomore at Denison.

Phi Society is a suborganization of Phi Beta Kappa, founded in 1926 at Denison to promote high scholarly achievement among freshmen and encourage them to strive for membership in the national honor society.

Douglas Eveleigh of 1 Toth Lane, Rocky Hill, a member of the department of biochemistry and microbiology at Cook College, has received the distinguished service award for 1983 from the Biomass Research Center of the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville.

The honor is presented annually to a person who has made significant contributions toward the production of liquid fuels and chemicals from renewable sources. Dr. Eveleigh's work at Rutgers has concentrated on the conversion of cellulose waste from plant materials into industrial chemicals. He has written many papers on the subject and lectured on it extensively.

Four area residents have been named to the Dean's List for the fall semester at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute (RPI).

They are Peter B. Yocum of 307 Shady Brook Lane, a junior majoring in computer science; Mark R. DeLuca of 108 Howard Way, Pennington, a sophmore majoring in chemistry; Carol J. Stockdale of 7 Tower Place, Lawrenceville, a junior majoring in mechanical engineering; and Leonard Tena of 18 Brandon Road, Lawrenceville, a freshman majoring in general engineering.

Herbert S. Bailey Jr. of Griggstown, director of Princeton University Press, will be a visiting fellow at the National Humanities Center near Chapel Hill, N.C., during February, March and April.

Mr. Bailey will be on leave from the press in order to begin work on a project relating to humanistic study in American, particularly with respect to publication.

A new children's book by Alvin Schwartz has been cited by the American Library Association as a notable children's book of 1983.

The book, which explores the varieties of the riddle, is "Unriddling: All Sorts of Riddles to Puzzle Your Guessery." It is published by J.B. Lippincott Junior Books, a division of Harper & Row.

Mr. Schwartz lives at 505 Prospect Avenue.

A third novel by Princeton resident Stuart Mitchner, "Rosamund's Vision," has been published by Little Brown. His earlier novel was "Indian Action."

Described by Publishers Weekly as "light, larky, (a) stylish celebration of eccentricity," this novel has at its center a free-lance female journalist from Bristol, England, and a late-night-phone-in show radio personality in a small New Jersey city called New Bristol.

Navy Hospitalman Apprentice Jerome I. Rex, son of Leslie F. Rex of 6A Holly House, has reported for duty at Naval Hospital Great Lakes, Ill.

Call 'Tele-Tax' for Tax Information

"Tele-tax" is once again at the other end of your telephone to answer questions about income tax. This year, it is available to those with rotary dial telephones, as well as to push-button customers.

For push-button phone taxpayers in the Trenton area, the Internal Revenue Service number is 599-2150. Those with rotary dial telephones must call Newark at 201-623-5400.

Tele-tax, which provides about 140 recorded messages on key tax matters, is available week-days between 8:15 and 4:15. Outside your local dialing area, a long-distance charge will apply; however, help is available without charge from 800-424-1040.

In addition, the IRS district offices — Trenton and New Brunswick are the closest to Princeton — have staff members who will provide forms and self-help material, as well as answer questions.

If you have not kept copies of tax returns from previous years, you may request a copy by calling the IRS and asking for Form 4506, "Request for Copy of Tax Form or Individual Income Tax Account Information. The charge is $5, which must be sent in with your request and the form.

Tax return information, including tax shown on return, taxable income, adjusted gross income and the like, is also available for $2.50 per tax years. The IRS says that if you plan income-averaging you should ask for copies of returns, rather than account information.

Allow 45 days for delivery if you want prior year returns, 30 days for return information.

An IRS reminder: unless you give your bank an accurate form W-9, you run the risk of having 20 percent of your interest and dividends withheld this year. The form asks you to verify the Social Security and tax information numbers on record.

W-9s were mailed out several weeks ago.

In addition, the state has adjusted transportation aid so that Princeton will receive 75 percent of the 90 percent in aid that had been expected.

Since the state is supposed to provide 100 percent of transportation costs for a district, the net effect for Princeton is to receive only 52.5 percent of transportation costs, Ms. Horner calculates.

"But they've never funded 100 percent of transportation."

The state did say that Princeton can fund compensatory, special and bilingual education through taxes outside the caps, but only up to the amount Princeton would have received. This is the first time that has been allowed, Ms. Horner said.

Princeton's cap is a low 4.8 percent. This means the operating budget can be 4.8 percent higher than a year ago. Dr. Houston said he hoped to keep the tax level at or below the cap.

Mrs. McGoldrick said she was "extremely distressed" at the reported comment of an official in Governor Thomas Kean's office that school boards should know the state never budgets the full amount for schools and should plan accordingly.

"But how can you plan," Mrs. McGoldrick exclaimed, "when one year you receive $500,000 less and the next year $87,000 less? The school and state will abide by certain laws, but other laws they say they will ignore."

"It's an irony," the superintendent remarked, "when improving education has been on the front pages for eight to ten months. They say it's not a Federal responsibility but a state responsibility, and here it's apparently not a state responsibility, either. I guess it's a local responsibility."

"However," she punned, "we cannot rest on our laurels."

She quoted census figures showing that the number of black-owned homes in the Borough declined from 97 to 85 between 1970 and 1980 and the number of black-occupied rental units from 286 to 200.

Michael Floyd, co-ordinator for the Borough's Neighborhood Preservation Program, stated that 1980 census figures show 40 percent of Borough residents in the low or moderate income category.

Census figures for 1980 give $29,599 as the median income in Princeton. Low income is defined by the State Supreme Court as a maximum of $14,799 and moderate income as a maximum of $23,679.

In the Borough, Mr. Floyd said, 19 percent of the families are in the low-income category and 21 percent are moderate-income, for a total of 40 in both categories.

Princeton Regional School HIGHLIGHTS

Highlights is sponsored and prepared by the Parent Teacher Organization of the Princeton Regional Schools.

A variety of experiences have been enjoyed by PHS students in recent weeks.

Humanities Department

Principal John Sakala was guest of honor at a Mexican fiesta prepared by the Spanish III students of Senor Manuel Morales. The luncheon, which consisted of tacos, refried beans, salad and "pastel de nueces", was the culmination of the study of Mexico through the novel "El Zarco" by Ignacio Manuel Altamirano. In developing this novel, Senor Morales used the technique of cooperative learning in which the students worked in cooperatively structured groups and assumed the responsibility of helping each other to increase achievement, improve self-esteem, and to promote mutual understanding.

In early 1984, PHS students have the opportunity for organized European travel. In February, Bernard Poncin and fourteen students will visit Arcachon, France. In April, students from France will visit PHS. Manuel Morales and John Hilton are organizing a trip to Spain during the Spring break. The voyage, sponsored by the Cultural Heritage Society of Philadelphia, will include stops at Madrid, Toledo, Seville, Grenada, Cordoba, Barcelona and Costa del Sol.

Each year the members of the PHS Band renew their philosophy of community service. In 1982, their performance schedule included a benefit for senior citizens. This year the Band is giving its time and talent to entertain terminally ill children. On December 15, the group performed for the children of Children's Heart Hospital and St. Christopher's Hospital, both in Philadelphia.

The Drama classes of Carol Wimberg have been involved in several productions. On December 2-3, Alan Caulk, Sandra Corsover, Jad Daley, Christopher Cross, Ted Irenas, Ben Davis, Alex Meluskey, John Russo and Leonie Wortman starred in "A Visit to a Small Planet" by Gore Vidal.

"Blithe Spirit" by Noel Coward was presented on December 9, and 10 by Amy Bergman, Peter Bergman, Carolyn Djorup, Nanci Moi, Eva Pomerantz, Jesse Springer and Emilie White.

Students of the Introductory Drama class – Emily Branson, Justine Davis, Adam Ende, Jasmine Griffin, Sharon Johnson, Stephanie Jones, Karen Keller, Jeff Maley, Liz Russell, Melena Rosenblum, Andrew Reichert, Gretchen Rhuile, Davis Smith, Lisa Tancredi, Michele Vernon, Priscilla Walmsley, Wendy Wasserman and Katia Wolff – presented dramatic scenes for their parents at an evening performance on December 15.

Several speakers addressed the art classes of Lou Cicchini and David Mackey. These included Diane Kae of the Art Institute of Philadelphia, who reviewed commercial aspects of art and the requirements for entrance to the school; Andrew Rothman of the Parsons School of Design, who gave a slide presentation of the offerings of Parsons and a representative of the Philadelphia College of Art, who described the school through a slide presentation.

Social Studies Department

On December 2, 3, and 4, Kurt Greenhut and Douglas Snyder accompanied thirty students to the Model Congress sponsored by Princeton University at the Hyatt Regency in Washington, D.C. Participants included Jacob Farmer, Ronald Phillips, Graham Trelstad, Michael Stefanchik, David Hazony, Devin Hosea, Nathaniel Thurston, Sam Bagenstos, Kathi Woodfield, Lisa Schkolnick, Sydni Craig, David Kingston, Tom Perkins, Safi Batticali, John Cummings, Benedicte Callan, Meredith Magder, Veronica Fedorov, Elyn Wohl, Abby Tate, Liz Gray, Gail Ellis, Wendy Silverstein, Kathy Wolfe, Emily Branson, Ruth Bender, Eleanor Gorman, Scott Greenhut, Mark Schwartz, Tamer El Shakhs and Jon Abrahams.

In another government related project, Cara Lynch, Michael Feldstein and Brad Schwartz accompanied by Mr. Greenhut, attended the New Jersey Close Up session at the Capital Plaza in Trenton.

The Latin American Studies class of Jeffrey Lucker were enriched by the experiences of several residents. Nicholas and Marcia Van Dycke hosted a Latin American dinner after which Janice Carey showed slides of Equador and Peru. On another occasion, Ann Gallagher, PHS 1975, related her impressions of being a resident of Argentina.

Members of the debate team attended a tournament at the University of Massachusetts. David Proshan and Nick Hirsch obtained a trophy. Other participants included Jon Rees, Ahmed Taha, Dair Young, Micol Siegel, Deborah Marchand, Sam Ferguson, David Hazony, Devin Hosea, Gretchen Bonach and David Gochfeld.

In the Hanover Park tournament, PHS debaters gained recognition. David Proshan and Nick Hirsch won second place; Deborah Marchand and Sam Ferguson, fourth place; Alan Schwartz and Simon Miller, first place; David Hazony, Devin Hosea, Gretchen Bonach, and David Gochfeld, third place in the novice category. Other participants included Jon Rees, Ahmed Taha, Dair Young, Micol Siegel.

Ahmed Taha won first place in extemporaneous speaking at a recent tournament at Malawan High School.

Science Department

Sarah Bolton was named winner of the annual Bausch and Lomb Science Award. The bronze medal is awarded to a senior student who has attained the highest scholastic standing in science subjects.

Twenty-three students of Astronomy of Wayne Nelson visited the N.J. State Planetarium for a specially prepared program, "Starbound". The program dealt with recent findings relating to quasars, pulsars, black holes, and interpretations of data received from interplanetary space probes.

The Environment Studies class of Cherry Sprague joined the second grade class of Gerry Penrose in observing and gathering data about Lake Carnegie in order to make judgments about the water quality. Mrs. Sprague's class conducted similar experiments on the water of the Millstone River at Rocky Hill.

The Biology class of Mrs. Sprague was addressed by Adrienne Grovino, a technician in the laboratory of Dr. Bart Hoebel, Princeton University. Miss Grovino discussed the neurotransmitter action in pleasure centers of the brain.

Communications Department

Michael Strauss, Stephen Bent and Nick Habicht accompanied Librarian Anne Dimock to the annual conference of the N.J. Educational Media Association in New Brunswick. They were part of a panel which answered the questions of teachers and librarians about the reading interests of high school students.

Housing

"Were 40 percent of the Collins or Fasanella or townhouse conversions for low-moderate families?" he demanded. The Fasanella family is planning townhouses on Humbert Street.

Native Princetonians are living in Ewing, Hamilton, Mercerville because they cannot afford Princeton, he continued, adding that "there are kids living with their parents in Constitution Hill or Westcott Road, as well as John and Pine Streets because they can't afford to live here. It's frightening."

Long Waiting Lists. According to Planning Board member Alma Field, in the audience, there are 290 names on the public housing waiting list and 212 on the Princeton Community Housing waiting list.

"You own the Art People building," she told Council. "Tear it down and build housing."

Princeton attorney Janice Stonaker told Council she had had 50 letters replying to an ad for an "affordable" apartment. She proposed a stronger flat ordinance allowing older families to convert large homes.

And former Council member Joseph Blanc pointed out "the middle and upper middle class can't afford to live here, either." He used an annual salary of $35,000 as an example.

It's unrealistic for small towns to deal alone with the problem, observed Zoning Board member Barry Royce. He suggested confering with other towns to see whether the problem lends itself to regional solution.

Faculty Mortgages. He also reminded Council that Princeton University has long had a policy of granting low-down-payment, long-term mortgages to faculty.

"All towns have these problems" Mr. Green remarked. "Private investors making investments is what gets housing built, and if it isn't feasible, it doesn't happen."

R. William Potter, one of those opposed to Collins' housing plans, agreed. "You can't force someone to set aside housing if it's not feasible, but the burden to show that should be on the developer."

"Negative incentives often work best," commented Council member Peter Bearse. "If you're going to lose your shirt, you'll act."

WORKSHOP SET

On Food Addiction. "Feelings, Fixations and Food" is the topic of a workshop to be offered on four Friday mornings beginning February 17 at the YWCA. Presented by the Adult Department and led by Darlene Prestbo, a psychiatric social worker, the workshop will teach strategies for dealing with eating and smoking addictions. The role of stress, anxiety, anger, depression and low self-esteem will be explored. In-person registration is available at the YWCA during regular office hours, Monday - Thursday, 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m., Friday, 8:30 - 5:30 and Saturday mornings from 9 to 12:30.

For further information, call the YWCA Adult Department, 924-5571.

DINNER PLANNED

By Elks. The Princeton Elks Lodge No. 2129, will hold a Family Style Roast Beef Dinner on Sunday at the Lodge, Route 518, Blawenburg.

Tickets, advance sales only, are $6 for adults and $3 for children under 12. Seatings are 2-4, 4-6 and 6-8. For more information call 466-9813 after 7 p.m., ask for the house chairman or Jack Baldino.

OBITUARIES

Viola R. Goeke, 77, of Cherry Valley Road, died January 27 at Princeton Medical Center.

Mrs. Goeke was born in Princeton and had lived in the area all her life. As a semi-professional artist and craftswoman, she decorated the hollow eggs of all different types of birds and filled them with miniature scenes. She was featured in an article on her egg decorating in TOWN TOPICS in April, 1979.

Wife of the late Leo N. Goeke, she is survived by a daughter, Anne M. McFadden of Princeton; two brothers; a sister; a granddaughter, Bonnie Scharf of Hopewell, and a greatgranddaughter.

The service ws held at the Mather-Hodge Funeral Home, the Rev. Wilbur E. Ivins, pastor of the Harlingen Reformed Church, officiating. Burial was in Rocky Hill Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, PO Box 529.

Virginia M. King, 78, of Chapel Hill, N.C., formerly of Princeton, died January 29 in Chapel Hill.

Mrs. King lived in Princeton, notably on Vandeventer Avenue, for 35 years, from 1935-1970. She was owner and operator of the Mayme Mead Dress Shop on Nassau Street for 25 years. She was a member of the Present Day Club and of Trinity Episcopal Church.

Surviving are her son, Kimball King of Chapel Hill, with whom she lived; and three grandchildren.

Burial was in Princeton Cemetery. A graveside memorial service will be held in the spring.

Roberta M.F. Eckelberry, 87, of Piedmont Drive, West Windsor, died January 24 at her home.

Born in Pittsburgh, Mrs. Eckelberry had been a Princeton area resident since 1958. She was a graduate of Goucher College in Baltimore and had served on the boards of the Women's College Club and the Women's Republican Club. She was also active in the Princeton Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

Wife of the late John W. Eckelberry, a former judge in Bucks County, she is survived by a daughter, Roberta E. Borden, with whom she lived; two sons, Tener R. Eckelberry of Millbrook, N.Y., and John E. Eckelberry of Syosset, N.Y.; a sister, Elizabeth Spaulding of Clearwater, Fla.; and 11 grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held Wednesday, February 15, at 3 p.m. at Miller Chapel of Princeton Theological Seminary. The Rev. Dr. James I. McCord, president emeritus of the seminary, officiating. Arrangements are under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton Unit, Recording for the Blind, 36A Hibben Road.

Genevieve C. Miller, of Washington Road, Princeton Junction, died January 24 at her home. Born in Girardville, Pa., Mrs. Miller lived in Philadelphia before moving to Princeton Junction in 1940.

Wife of the late R.W. Miller, she is survived by two sons, R. William Miller of Hopewell and Richard A. Miller of Princeton; a daughter, Kathleen Dowgin of Toms River; and seven grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Paul's Church with burial in Holy Cross Cemetery, Yeadon, Pa.

Mary Lou Henschel, 61, of Westcott Boulevard, Pennington, died January 21 in Chandler Hall, Newtown, Pa.

Born in Pittsburgh, Mrs. Henschel lived in Villanova, Pa., before moving to Pennington 10 years ago. She was a magna cum laude graduate of Grove City, Pa., College and did post graduate work at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Fairleigh Dickinson and Rutgers universities. She was listed in Who's Who in American Colleges.

Mrs. Henschel was lieutenant, j.g. WAVE in the Navy during World War II, serving as meteorologist stationed at Lakehurst, Patuxent River, Md., and finally at Navy Weather Central in Washington, D.C. Later she was a teacher and actuarial computer programmer.

A woman of many interests, she was a member of the Hopewell Garden Club and the Ars Nova Chamber Orchestra. She was a biking club leader and participated in the hiking and canoe club of the Princeton YWCA. She was also an active volunteer for FISH of Hopewell Valley and a member of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association. Using her extensive knowledge of wildflowers, she created a wildflower trail which will be dedicated to her memory this spring.

She was a member of the First United Methodist Church of Pennington and the Dorcas Circle of the church. She was also a member of the Hopewell Valley Historical Society, the Pennington Questers Club, which she served as treasurer, and the Pennington Antique Club.

Surviving are her husband, Frank O. Henschel; two sons, David F. Henschel of Camp Hill, Pa., and Dr. Douglas J. Henschel of Shellington, Pa.; two daughters, Linda Paulin of Norristown, Pa., and Holly Turner of Mount Pleasant, S.C., and six grandchildren.

A memorial service was held at the first United Methodist Church in Pennington, the Rev. James Biggs, pastor, officiating. Memorial contributions may be made to the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association, R.D. 1, Box 263A, Pennington 08534.

Hazel Chatten McCoy, of Seminary Avenue, Hopewell, died January 25 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Hopewell, Mrs. McCoy was a lifelong area resident. She was a member of the Hopewell Chapter No. 112 O.E.S. and the 39ers Senior Citizens Group in Hopewell. She was also a member of the First United Presbyterian Church of Hopewell and the Loyalty Circle of the church.

Wife of the late James Mc Coy, she is survived by a son, Roger F. Chatten of Hopewell; a daughter, Janet Carr of Golden, Colo.; and a step-son, Dr. Donald McCoy of Greenwich, Conn.

The service was held at a Hopewell memorial home, the Rev. Robert Beringer, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial was in Highland Cemetery.

COMMEMORATION SET

By University, Princeton University will hold its annual Service of Commemoration Sunday at 4:30 at Princeton University Chapel.

The service is a time for remembering faculty, staff, students and trustees who have died during the previous calendar year. President William G. Bowen will read the names of the 34 men and women associated with the university who died in 1983. The homily will be delivered by Rabbi Edward Feld, chaplain of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation.

The University Chapel Choir will sing, and a Princeton freshman will play the Sarabande of the Suite in G for cello by Johann Sebastian Bach.

Family and friends of those who have died and all members of the University community are invited to the interfaith service and to a reception which will follow in Prospect.

BULLETIN NOTES

B'nai B'rith Women will be host at the annual get-together of Princeton's Jewish organizations, B'nai B'rith and Hadassah and the Jewish Center's Men's and Women's clubs, on Sunday at 7:30 at the Jewish Center auditorium.

The program will feature Klezmer music performed by Peter Sokolow and Rudy Tepel. Klezmer music, like the music of jazz combos, grew out of improvisation and ingenious harmonization. It is played by itinerant groups of musicians on festive occasions and generally consists of folk songs and dances, hymns sung before prayers and some traditional music. It is played on trumpets or bugles, flutes, fifes, clarinets, violins and cellos.

The two performers have been professional musicians for many years. Refreshments will be served.

SINGLE FAMILY RANCH HOMES WITH 24 HOUR SECURITY
CUSTOMIZE YOUR OWN HOME!
STAY CLOSE TO FAMILY AND FRIENDS

Privacy. We all enjoy it. You've certainly earned it! Luxury and privacy are built right into Homestead's four spacious, single family models featuring 2 bedrooms, 2 baths, attached garage with automatic opener, central air-conditioning, a house full of Sears Kenmore appliances, a Sentry 24™ Security System with medic alert, smoke and intrusion alarms and much more! So, why retire in a clustered community when you've earned your own privacy!

That's right, most retirement communities won't budge an inch when it comes to making changes. Take it or leave it so to speak. Not Homestead at Mansfield. Within basic model design requirements, and at nominal cost, we'll customize your home to meet your individual needs. Enlarge a dining area, add more closet space, you name it, we'll provide it!

Retirement community living shouldn't mean having to leave those who are close to you. Children and grandchildren. Friends. Especially around the holidays. All are important factors to consider when selecting a retirement environment. Because Homestead at Mansfield is conveniently located and easily accessible to major arteries, you'll never be too far from life's most cherished possessions, the people you love!

DIRECTIONS
N.J. Turnpike to Exit 7. Bear left after toll to Rt. 206 South. Proceed 3.5 miles to Columbus/Burlington Exit. Take Rt. 543 West 1 mile to Homestead at Mansfield on left.
or
Rt. 295 to Exit 52A. Travel 1 mile East toward Columbus to Homestead at Mansfield on right.

HOMESTEAD HAS IT ALL!
New Jersey's newest and most unique adult community for families with at least one person age 52 or older, really does have it all! Leisure and recreational activities are a way of life. Our exclusive Homestead Country Club and Clubhouse provide the ideal atmosphere for socializing by the pool, deck lounge, tennis courts and surrounding facilities, all scheduled for completion this Spring. Activities and parties are carefully planned 12 months a year. Plus, our 3-acre Lake Anna, located in the heart of the community is an oasis of relaxation.

WE'RE HERE BECAUSE YOU'VE EARNED THE BEST!
Check out the others, then come see us! You'll surely agree. There's no place like Homestead at Mansfield!

Intergenerational Program Brings Together The Elderly and High School Student Helpers

CARING KIDS, ELDERLY WHO NEED CARE: "Caring, responsible, selected students will work for you", says the poster held by Ron Horowitz (left) of Princeton High School's Learning in the Community Program. Standing are Youth Employment Service advisor Eva Schwab and PHS junior Anne Jacobs; seated: YES advisor Hanneke Calmon and Erica Ruben, PHS senior. YES and Learning in the Community are providing student companion-helpers to Princeton's elderly.

"Oh, she was so sweet! I never had a grand-daughter, you know ..."

Bonnie was the first. She has graduated now from Princeton High, but when she was a senior, she spent afternoons with a 90-year-old whose wife had just died and who couldn't bear sorting out her clothes by himself. So he called the Youth Employment Service, asked for help, but warned YES he could pay only $2 an hour.

A YES staff member promptly said "I'll pay the difference" — between the $2 and the going rate of $3.50.

Four weeks later, Bonnie had spent almost 40 hours with her new friend, chatting and helping him in other ways, after the clothes had been neatly sorted.

Her visits were the highlights of his week.

So the YES staff member said to the YES board — let's get started.

Today, there is an Intergenerational Program, run by YES and the Learning in the Community program at Princeton High School. It brings together, in the words of Ron Horowitz, PHS faculty member for Learning in the Community, "a group with the least experience and a group that's had the most experience."

11 Students. There are 11 students — nine girls and two boys — and about a dozen elderly people for whom they are friends, helpers, companions.

The program would be bigger, except that YES and PHS have trouble signing up the elderly. Ron and Hanneke Calmon of YES, are both sure the elderly are out there, but are less sure about why they haven't come forward.

There are posters in doctors' offices, the library, at bus stops, in the hospital and in church offices.

Ron thinks older people may be afraid of losing their independence.

"They don't realize it's for companionship as much as anything" he remarked in a recent discussion of the program. "One woman said 'I have enough friends — I just want to get the work done!'

"But it's more than just doing the laundry," he emphasizes, "It's building relationships between generations."

A girl in the program describes what she does for a 95-year-old woman. (No names will be used, to protect privacy.)

"It was hard for her to lift things, so I did that. She loved to garden, so we'd go shopping together for plants and flowers and I would carry the plants. She hadn't been uptown for ages and it was such fun for her!

"She loved to hook rugs, too, and while she worked, we'd talk about art and gardens and what I did in school."

A woman recovering from an operation had another YES student.

"I would go to her once a week, do light cleaning, change the bed, do the vacuuming. I filled out her Social Security forms, too, and shopped for groceries. She had trouble with her hands, and I would peel potatoes for her.

"When I left for the summer, she said 'I'm going to give you a great big hug!' and she did. It was special ... we became quite close, and I'm going to go back again to help her."

Shopping, Banking Help. One of the boys not only does the grocery shopping for his elderly friend but goes to the bank for her as well. He devotes two hours to her, once a week.

Another boy visits a woman who has just been released from the hospital and cannot do heavy lifting. This particular YES student does fairly heavy housework; most students do light things like dusting, vacuuming or laundry.

Incidentally, YES has found that although elderly women may need a young man to do heavy lifting, many of them do not feel it is proper to have him in the bedroom.

Students and YES

Students enrolled in the Intergenerational Program are Mikeicie Beauvil, David Hunt, Anne Jacobs, Florence Jean-Louis, Ben Rosenthal, Erica Ruben, Kathy Wolfe, Bevin Ashenfelter, Debra Goodman, Stephanie Lusen, Elyn Wohl and Julie Bakoulis.

Youth Employment Service advisors are Hanneke Calmon, Betty Gilbert, Ruth Coe and Eva Schwab.

MERRILL LYNCH INVITES YOU TO A FREE SEMINAR ON PRIME PLAN.

IT COULD SOLVE VIRTUALLY ALL YOUR FINANCIAL GOALS.

Finding a solution to all your financial goals has never been easy — until now.

At this seminar, you'll learn about Merrill Lynch's new Prime Plan, a single premium variable life insurance policy,* that can actually accomplish a number of your basic financial objectives.

You'll hear how it's possible to make a single, one-time payment. How you have a choice of five professionally managed funds for your investment, and can even switch funds should your goals change.

Prime Plan also features liquidity — you can borrow up to 90% of your cash fund (75% during the first three years); interest, dividends and capital gains accumulate tax free; and your beneficiaries enjoy important guarantees.

This timely seminar is free, but reservations are important. To make yours, please call or mail the coupon today.

* Issued by Monarch Life Insurance Company (form #56008), Springfield, MA.

DATE: Saturday, February 4th TIME: 10:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.

AH, THE PAIN OF IT ALL! Paul Donahoe as 16-year-old Richard, in "Ah, Wilderness!" pines for his love and agonizes over the fate of the world. The Eugene O'Neill comedy of adolescent pangs will end its McCarter engagement this Sunday. (Cliff Moore Photo)

News of the THEATRES

'WHERE'S CHARLEY?'

Right Here. On stage at McCarter, that's where. The musical, based on the ancient farce, "Charley's Aunt," is the 1984 P.J. & B. musical and it will play McCarter February 16-19 with a cast of thousands including Princeton University students and townspeople.

Milton Lyon, who has been directing in the Princeton area for more than 25 years, is once again in charge. Music and lyrics (including "Once in Love With Amy") are by Frank Loesser, book by George Abbott — still directing at the age of 96, but younger when he wrote "Where's Charley?"

For P. J. & B., there will be four familiar faces in leading roles. John Watson Stewart will be Charley and C. Peter Kauzman will be Jack, the two Oxford undergraduates who must have a chaperone during the 1892 graduation week for their dates with Amy (Derry Light) and Kitty (Priscilla Orr Treadwell).

When the aunt who was to have been chaperone telegraphs that she will be late, Charley dresses up as the aunt and begins that wonderful dual role of aunt and suitor. Then, when the real aunt arrives — but wait for opening night.

Performances will be Thursday through Sunday at 8, with matinees Saturday and Sunday at 2:30.

'BARBAROSA'

Movie Coming. A larger-than-life outlaw who has been wandering the Texas country-side for 30 years ... a young outlaw in need of advice if he is to survive ... when they meet, it's "Barbarosa," ready for screening next Monday through Wednesday at 7:30 and 9:15 nightly in Kresge Auditorium, courtesy Movies-from-McCarter.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

HOW TO KILL A TREE-PART III
with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

Now we'll get into the killing of larger, mature trees. Disease and/or insects, nutritional deficiencies, pruning needs, all have the possibility of killing unless corrected.

Defoliation by insects two or three years in a row will kill many species. Nevertheless, attempts to alleviate insect problems may cause larger problems. Use of the wrong pesticide, or overdoses by untrained people have hurt many a tree. Bad pruning can be worse than none. If stubs are left, they will die, and decay will enter. Even a blanket of mulch can turn malevolent. Studies indicate that a too thick mulch (more than 4 inches) can foster fungal cankers. Mechanical damage to trees can contribute to ill health and possibly kill a tree. Mowers, snow plows, tillers and string trimmers are effective tools for battering trunks or tearing up roots.

Auto exhaust, burning trash, barbeques set up under trees have an adverse affect on our green friends. Weed killers are tree killers, too. Changing of the soil and water conditions are not good for trees. Most soil is porous. The pores allow air, containing oxygen without which roots die, and water without which roots die, into the soil complex. If soil is compressed, pores are eliminated. No pores, no air, no roots, no tree.

There are many factors which produce negative influences on your tree's health and that is one reason why WOODWINDS suggests its Annual Maintenance Program to our clients. We suggest that you call WOODWINDS (924-3500) for a personal evaluation of your property and its needs.

Willie Nelson, the singer-actor, plays Barbarosa — although he does no singing — and Gary Busey is the young outlaw. McCarter's critic says the movie "is full of absurd plot details and dialogue ... moving back and forth between absurdist comedy and tragic grandeur." The director is the Australian Fred Schepisi.

'CAINE MUTINY'

At Lawrenceville. Herman Wouk's drama, "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" will be presented by The Periwig Club of the Lawrenceville School Friday and Saturday, February 10 and 11, at 8 p.m. in the school's Kirby Arts Center.

Seats are reserved and reservations may be made by calling 896-0620.

Matt Prager will portray Captain Queeg, deposed commander of the U.S.S. Caine and Chip Butterman will play the reluctant defense attorney Lt. Barney Greenwald. Peter Chandler, now in his 24th year with Periwig, will direct.

MOVIES AT MILL HILL

"Cage Aux Folles." A winter series of movies sponsored by the Trenton Arts Commission will be screened in Mill Hill Playhouse, Front and Montgomery Streets, Trenton, starting off with the comedy "La Cage Aux Folles" next Monday.

Show times are 5:30 and 7:45 p.m. Free parking is available in a lot across the street. Admission is $2.50.

"Cage" is about a transvestite night-club owned by a pair of aging homosexuals, one of whom has a son engaged to marry the daughter of the chief of the department of morals.

Subsequent films will be "Harold and Maude" (February 13); "Black Orpheus" (February 20); "Les Diaboliques" (February 27); "The Man Who Loved Women" (March 5) and "The Tall Blond Man With One Black Shoe" (March 12).

VAUDEVILLE!

Auditions for "Chicago." A casting call for "Chicago," a musical vaudeville, has been announced for Sunday, February 19, by the Franklin Villagers Barn Theatre. Auditions will begin at 7 p.m. in the Barn, DeMott Lane (off Easton Avenue) behind the Franklin Township municipal complex in Somerset.

Actors should be prepared with a song, preferably from "Chicago," and should bring their own music. An accompanist will be provided and scripts will be available for readings.

The play will be given Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, May 18-June 23 and rehearsals start April 1.

Roles include a nightclub singer; her husband; an ex-vaudeville star in jail for killing her husband; a male lawyer; the matron of the jail; a sob-sister reporter (a female role played by a male); six women inmates of the jail and four males who play and sing various parts in the show. The director will be John R. Cramer. Details are available by calling 381-1106 or 469-1529.

MINI-SUBSCRIPTIONS

At Crossroads. A mid-season mini-subscription series including the present production and the two remaining in the season, is now being offered by Crossroads, the black theatre in New Brunswick.

"Langston," now at Crossroads, will run through February 12. From March 2-25, the theatre will present the New Jersey permiere of Derek Walcott's comedy "Pantomime" and from April 6 to May 6 the Broadway musical "Your Arm's Too Short to Box with God."

Information is available from Crossroads at 201-249-5560 between noon and 6, daily except Mondays.

'CAMILLE' DUE

At Library. The Princeton Public Library will present a showing of the film "Camille" on Tuesday at 8.

Alexander Dumas' story of an ill-fated courtesan and her love for the handsome Armand is portrayed by Greta Garbo, Robert Taylor and Lionel Barrymore in this 108 minute free screening. Everyone is invited.

STUDENTS DANCE

And Faculty. A concert of dances by faculty and students of Princeton University's program in theatre and dance will be given February 16-18 at 8 in Alexander Hall, with guest artists from the Daniel Lewis Dance Company.

James May, soloist with Daniel Lewis and a member of the University's dance faculty, will present "Repetitions," which he has choreographed to music by Peter Wetzler. Ze'eva Cohen, supervisor of Princeton's dance program, will present a new group work for students developed in a repertory class, danced to piano music by Ginastera which will be played live at the concert by David Friedman.

Geulah Abrahams, dance faculty member, will present a new solo, choreographed by her to the music of Steve Reich and performed by Cathy Lane, an advanced student. Mary Pat Robertson, who teaches ballet in the University's physical education department and at the Princeton Ballet Society, will perform with student dancers a piece she has choreographed to music by Milhaud.

Dances choreographed by students have been set to many kinds of music ranging from classical to pop to tribal music.

HOW TO TRANSLATE

Flagles to Speak. Robert Flagles, translator from the classics and head of Princeton University's department of comparative literature, will talk about translating Greek plays next Monday at 8 in the Art People Place, Witherspoon Street. The Arts Council of Princeton is the sponsor. Admission is $3 and the talk is open to the public.

Dr. Flagles, who translated Sophocles' three Theban plays for Viking, will discuss his approach to translation and read selections from his book.

His translations include Aeschylus' "Oresteia," "Agamemnon," the complete poems of Bacchylides and Pindar's "Olympia," and he is currently working on a translation of the Iliad. The production of Sophocles' "Oedipus the King," presented in December by the University's Program in Theatre and Dance, used Dr. Flagles' translation.

STUART DRAMA CLUB members will present "Godspell," a musical celebration of the Gospel according to St. Matthew, in three performances this week at the Little Theater, Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart. Among those in the cast are, from left, Diana Nictakis, Jennifer Rebman, Chris Gross of Princeton High School, Nancy Bernard (front), Julie McIntyre, and Ben Seesel of Hopewell Valley High. Sue Tapper, Stuart drama coach, is directing. Performances will take place on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8, and on Sunday afternoon at 2.

MUSIC

CHORAL CONCERTS

At Westminster Choir College, Westminster will present three free concerts of choral music on Sunday.

Beginning with the Westminster Oratorio Choir at 4:30, the music will continue with the Westminster Mastersingers in performances at 7 and 8:30. All of the concerts will be held in Bristol Chapel on the Westminter campus.

The Oratorio Choir, conducted by Timothy Jenks, a graduate conducting major at Westminster, will perform works by Norman Dell Joio and Brahms, as well as madrigals, Romantic pieces, and three choruses from "Alice in Wonderland" by Irving Fine. The program was selected and the choir was prepared by Mr. Jenks as a part of his graduate studies in choral conducting.

The Westminster Mastersingers include several small choral groups which are organized to give student conductors the opportunity to conduct, and to help train choir members to prepare choral works and expand repertoire.

The first of the Mastersingers concerts, this Sunday, will be conducted by graduate church music majors Anthony Birnbaum and Karl Zinsmeister. The second concert will be led by Douglas Leightenheimer and David Norfrey, who are also church music students. Each concert will include both secular and religious choral works and will be presented in the form of separate programs by each conductor.

Admission is free and the public is invited.

MUSICAL OFFERINGS

From Seminary. Princeton Theological Seminary will present three evenings of music in February as part of its 1983-84 musical offerings.

This Wednesday the Seminary Chapel Choir will give a concert at 7:30 p.m. in Miller Chapel. The choir will be returning from a week-long tour which took them to Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida. It will perform music from the tour, including a selection of psalms and music for the liturgical year by Bach, Honnegar, and Vaughan Williams.

On Monday, February 13, David A. Weadon, the director of music at the Seminary, will perform a solo organ recital at 7:30 p.m. in Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street. Mr. Weadon will perform works by Clerambault, Franck, Bach, and Liszt on the Casavant organ. Weadon holds both the Bachelor's and Master's degrees from Westminster Choir College and has given numerous recitals along the Eastern seaboard. He has performed as guest organ soloist for Piccolo Spoleto at the Spoleto Festival of Two Worlds in Charleston, S.C.

As a part of the Seminary's observance of Black History Month, David Hurd, organist and associate professor of church music at General Theological Seminary in New York, will present a concert-demonstration of his original compositions for organ, choir, and congregation in Miller Chapel on Wednesday, February 29, at 7:30.

All concerts are free of charge and open to the public.

HANDEL WORK PLANNED

At University. The combined Princeton University Glee Club and Princeton University Chapel Choir, conducted by Prof. Walter Noliner, will give performances of Handel's "Israel in Egypt" in Alexander Hall on the Princeton University campus at 8:30 on the evenings of February 24 and 25.

These are evidently the first public performances of one of the world's most famous oratorios in Princeton for several decades. "Israel in Egypt" was written by Handel in the 1730's at the beginning of his eventually successful turn from opera to oratorio as a way of surviving as a composer in London. Because of its reliance on the Biblical text from "Exodus," the work attained popularity but slowly.

The work is scored for double chorus, orchestra and soprano, alto, tenor and bass soloists. The solo parts will be sung by Choir and Glee Club members. The orchestra is composed of instrumentalists in this region, including players from the University community and others from the surrounding region.

The Handel concert is open to the public, and tickets may be ordered by calling 452-3048 on weekday mornings. Tickets will also be available at the Alexander Hall box office on the evenings of the performances.

Music in Princeton

performances at the Metropolitan Opera in New York City.

This month's "Opera Outings" production is "Rinaldo" by George Frederic Handel, and is set for Saturday, February 11. It is the first Handel opera ever to have been produced at the Metropolitan, and features Marilyn Horne as Rinaldo and, in his debut at the Met, Samuel Ramey as the Saracen. Miss Horne and Mr. Ramey appeared together in the Houston Opera production of "Rinaldo" in 1975.

As part of its "Opera Outings" program, the Westminster Conservatory offers preparatory classes the Monday evening preceding each performance. The class on "Rinaldo" is scheduled for this Monday and will include some inside information on the production, as John Ferguson, the course instructor was privileged to attend the dress rehearsal. Other information will include historical background, musical and stylistic features, outline of the plot and listening to excerpts of the opera.

Orchestra and rear orchestra tickets are still available at $60 and $50 respectively. The ticket price includes round trip coach transportation from the Westminster Choir College campus. Buses leave at 10 a.m., arriving in New York City in time for lunch and shopping, and return to Princeton directly following the performance. Free parking is available to all subscribers.

Other remaining operas in the Conservatory series are Strauss' "Arabella" on Mach 17 and Britten's "Billy Budd" on April 14. For further information call 921-7104 or 924-6359.

TWO-HANDED JAZZ

From Jordan. This Saturday is the night. Jazz guitarist Stanley Jordan will display his two-handed technique in a concert at Alexander Hall at 8 under the auspices of USG Major Attractions, the concerts arm of student government at Princeton University.

Jordan, a Princeton graduate in 1981, uses a two-handed pianist approach to playing the guitar instead of the traditional method. He can play whole compositions and improvisations — all his own — featuring completely independent voices.

The following week, on Friday, February 10, at 8 in Alexander, David Bromberg will give another of his Princeton concerts. He'll be joined by Gene Johnson (vocals and mandolin); Jeff Wisor (vocals and guitars) and Robert Amiot (bass).

Bromberg himself plays everything from six-to twelve-string guitars to country fiddle, mandolin and the steel guitar called a dobro. Styles range from jazz through folk to blues and country.

GUITARIST, SINGER

In Folk Music Concert. The Princeton Folk Music Society will feature Bill Staines in concert on Friday, February 17 at 8 at the YM-YWCA building on Paul Robeson Place.

Bill Staines has spent the last 15 years travelling the country, singing at college campuses, festivals, clubs and coffeehouses. Most of the material he performs is his own, and his performances include songs ranging from traditional folk tunes to more contemporary country ballads. He is well known for his yodeling talents and won the National Yodeling Championship in 1975 at the Kerrville Folk Festival in Kerrville, Tex. The guitar pieces he performs include both classical and contemporary styles.

Bill Staines' performances on radio and television have included shows for PBS as well as for local programming in cities along his concert tours. He was involved in the production of his own show for the New Hampshire Public Broadcasting network and has been heard frequently on the popular "Prairie Home Companion" produced by Minnesota Public Radio.

Admission is $5 for adults, $3.50 for students, $3 for Society members, $2 for children and senior citizens. There are no advance sales. For further information, call 924-9143.

Ridge Quartet Gives Enjoyable Performance In Third of Princeton University Concerts Series

Princeton University Concerts continued its season of string quartets in the third event of its Chamber Masterworks series at McCarter Theatre by presenting the Ridge String Quartet. The snow and slush of Monday evening did not deter a fair-sized audience from enjoying this young ensemble in their presentation of works by Beethoven, Bartok and Mendelssohn.

This nice mixture of pieces was played with youthful vitality coupled with well developed facility and fine musicianship. The group's tone was warm, but not as full-bodied as that of more mature quartets such as the Juilliard (reviewed in this column some months ago). The first violinist's tone was somewhat thin and lacking in strength, especially in Beethoven's Quartet in A Major (Op. 18, No. 5). Balance suffered occasionally, and ends of phrases were lost in the textural complexity. While the Beethoven was largely well played, the overall sound was not as compelling as it might have been.

Bartok Deliciously Expressive. Though the Beethoven was mildly disappointing, the ensemble's performance of Bartok's Quartet No. 2 (Op. 17) more than made up for it. The foursome seemed more intent in their output of energy as they tackled this demanding work.

Their playing was deliciously expressive. The folk-like themes of the first movement were plaintive and serene, and the violin solo near the end of the movement gleamed softly against the thin background supplied by the supporting instruments. The final movement had a haunting character which sustained the tension of its slow-moving lines.

Of particular note was the vivacious second movement. In its more impassioned moments, the musicians' bows gave a satisfying crunch as they bit into the strings. The small, sudden ritards gave way in a most pleasing fashion to the inevitable accelerandi which followed. The pianissimo "chase scene" prior to the movement's unison conclusion was played with riveting intensity and determination. This was perhaps the best played movement of the entire concert.

Mellow Mendelssohn. The ensemble's tone was distinctly fuller and more mellow for Mendelssohn's Quartet in E flat Major (Op. 44, No. 3), and balance was vastly improved over that of the Beethoven. Throughout the rich textures of the opening movement, the ensemble maintained clarity in its individual lines. The long, luxurious melodies of the slow movement were spun out with a particularly colorful sound, while the fast-paced finale gave us one last sampling of the quartet's technical fluency and inexhaustible energy.

The slight unevenness in this otherwise stunning performance is indicative of the youthfulness of this fine quartet. Given their superb musicianship and the rigors of a few years' worth of concerts, they will undoubtedly mature into a solid ensemble of the highest calibre.

WHO SAYS ART IS BORING? This group of youngsters at the Saturday morning Museum Talks for Children at Princeton Art Museum would seem to belie that notion. Using art work on exhibit or belonging to the museum, docents and art museum personnel tailor their talks to incite the interest and enthusiasm of children ranging in age from 5 to 12. The half hour talks are held every Saturday morning at 11 and draw an audience from a wide area. Parents often stay just to listen to this junior version of the popular Friday noon and Sunday afternoon regular adult Museum Talks. (Marie Lake photo)

ART

COMPUTERS, GRAPHICS

Program, for Artists. Michael P. Barnett, author of books on computer graphics, will speak on "Personal Computers and the Graphic Artist" Thursday, February 9 at 7:30 p.m. at Princeton Day School. The program is sponsored by the Printmaking Council of New Jersey and the public is invited.

Mr. Barnett will demonstrate the basic principles involved in using the personal computer in the creation of design. A related talk, on March 15 at Somerset County College, will include a hands-on workshop conducted by Allen Cosgrove, head of Somerset's fine arts department.

ART, FOR CREDIT

At MCCC. Thinking in the round, with sculpture materials like clay, wood, plexiglass, leather or plastic is the theme of a credit course in three-dimensional design to be taught at Mercer County Community College by Barbara Tiso and James Colavita.

The 10-week course will be given in MCCC's ceramics studio on the West Windsor campus. Classes will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7:10 to 9:30 p.m. starting February 21. Tuition and fees for Mercer County residents are $84.

SEND IN YOUR SLIDES

For Arts Festival. Slides of art work for pre-show selection are now being accepted for Arts Festival '84, sponsored by the Carrier Foundation Auxiliary. It will be held April 27-28 on the Carrier grounds, Belle Mead. Deadline for submitting the slides is Friday, March 2.

Artists may enter any original works in oil, watercolor, sculpture, wood engraving as well as etchings, lithographs, serigraphs, linocuts and collagraphs. Each artist may submit five slides for the $10 entry fee; no photographs will be accepted.

A first prize of $100 will be awarded in oil, watercolor, prints and sculpture. Ribbons will be awarded for second and third place.

Developing the Russell Tract.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

(The following is a letter to the Princeton Regional Planning Board.)

After hearing at your January 24 meeting the presentation of plans for the development of the Russell tract, may I address two points.

1. Traffic. The suggestion to create waiting lanes at the entrance to Edgerstoune Road is excellent and even now overdue. However, the idea of extending light time in favor of traffic from Edgerstoune is only robbing Peter to pay Paul: at morning peak traffic, which is heavily eastbound, there are already occasions when it is impossible to make a left turn into 206 with a green light, because cars are backed up all the way from Elm Road.

The notion of extending Edgerstoune Road to Rosedale does not solve this dilemma and, disregarding environmental degradation, would compound the existing situation at 206 with through traffic of all sorts.

That leaves us with the right of way to Rosedale, which is by no means ideal, but I am sure the Township Engineering Department is fully capable of proposing solutions that would out-weigh objections

2. Density. Since the Russell Tract is the first development to be considered under the new cluster ordinance, I think the board would be well advised to make judgments that will stand up as precedents. Citizens of Princeton will certainly ask whether approved plans measure up not only to the letter of the ordinance but also to its spirit, its intent.

As the developer demonstrated, only by a highly disingenuous use of green coloring was he able to claim 40 percent open space, and not all of that usable. For instance, as you observed, the entire 75 foot strip along the eastern border was voluntary – up to individual land holders, not set aside by the developer. Considering that with other instances, we must conclude that the development is by no means in strict compliance with the ordinance.

As for the intent of the ordinance, all plans showed only a travesty on the whole idea of clustering. The dead-end circles of free-standing houses would fit into thousands of projects that ravage the countryside. Instead of reducing roads to a minimum, these plans offer acres of blacktop for the Township to maintain, as well as a convoluted sewer system.

Is the board willing to offer a 25 percent clustering bonus to a developer for increasing suburban sprawl? I cannot believe so, because that too would be a travesty.

H. PHILIP MINIS

Support Library!
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I cannot believe that Princeton will allow its public library to deteriorate into a second class facility.

A library needs books and staff, and money for both. Can we afford to understock our library or lose qualified personnel?

I know that our sewers and roads require immediate attention. I know that our Police and Fire Departments, and First Aid Squad, need and merit support. I know that all of this costs tax money and that tax money is limited.

But if a community like ours cannot find sufficient funds for a properly stocked and staffed public library, we are, indeed, poor.

For Flu Shots—Thank You.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The text of the following letter was sent by the Joint Commission on Aging to M. Jasti, M.D., 260 Hawthorne Avenue, Princeton and Roseann Pease, R.N., 2 Fieldstone Road, Princeton.

The Joint Commission on Aging of Princeton Borough and Township would like to thank you for volunteering your time and professional skills for the administration of flu shots to senior citizens this past fall. Your generosity and your concern for older persons are to be commended.

As you know, there are many older residents in the Princeton community for whom the cost of a flu shot is a financial burden. Through the yearly flu shot program, sponsored by the Joint Commission on aging and administered by the Senior Resource Center, many elderly citizens are afforded extra protection against the dangers and discomforts of flu.

The members of the Joint Commission and Jocelyn Helm, director of the Senior Resource Center, join in these thanks.

The bus will leave the Post home, 100 Berwyn Place in Lawrenceville, at 5 p.m. and depart from the Casino at 11:30. The cost is $10 per person and will be refunded upon arrival. The public is invited. For reservations call the Post Commander Mike Lettiere at 771-9518, the Post home at 882-9701, or Post Vice Commander Arthur Nelson at 883-2837.

The West Windsor Lions will meet this Wednesday for dinner at 7 at the Dutch Neck firehouse. Carol Silvester, secretary of the Historical Society of West Windsor, will be the speaker. For information call 799-0444 or 452-8598.

The Princeton Toastmasters will meet this Thursday at 8 at the Princeton United Methodist Church, Nassau Street and Vandeventer Avenue.

The Toastmasters is a nonprofit international educational organization dedicated to developing the communication and leadership skills of its members. It provides a supportive atmosphere for members to speak on a variety of subjects. The Princeton Club meets the first and third Thursdays of each month.

The Auxiliary of the Medical Center at Princeton will hold its annual luncheon Tuesday at 1 at Princeton House. T. George Harris, editor-in-chief of American Health magazine, will discuss "The Fitness Mystique: How Harmful Is It?"

T. George Harris

Mr. Harris, a Princeton resident in 1976, was the founding editor of Psychology Today from 1968-72. He is a former Time writer and bureau chief and a former senior editor at Look magazine. He describes American Health as a news magazine whose focus is on the mind and the body.

A business meeting for year-end financial reports and the election of officers will be conducted by Auxiliary President Fleur Chandler following Mr. Harris's address.

The Mercer Alliance for the Mentally Ill will meet Monday at 7:30 at 145 Witherspoon Street.

Terry Coble, deputy public advocate and managing attorney for the Mercer County field office of the Division of Mental Health Advocacy in the Department of the Public Advocate, will speak. Ms. Coble will explain the role of the public advocate in the civil commitment process, including how the public advocate monitors the enforcement of patients' rights in public and private psychiatric facilities.

Back in Ivy Basketball Race, Princeton Hopes To Retain Winning Ways against Brown, Yale

HEADED FOR THE HOOP: Princeton's Howie Levy was a dream come true Saturday night against Penn, as the Tigers whipped the Quakers, 63-51, in the Palestra. Levy scored 13 points, grabbed 8 rebounds and shut off Penn's inside game. He was named the Ivy League's co-player of the week for his efforts. (W.C. Bill Allen Jr. photo)

Three games into its Ivy schedule the Princeton basketball team has taught its followers an early lesson — don't count on anything.

The league's defending champions lost back-to-back games to Harvard and Dartmouth for the first time in more than a quarter century lat month to fall into the Ivy cellar with an 0-2 mark.

SPORTS

Last Saturday, they traveled to the Palestra, where they had not won in eight years, and handed Penn its first league defeat, 63-51. A third loss would probably have eliminated the Tigers from the title chase, and perhaps this fact produced their inspired performance before a partisan Penn crowd of more than 9,000.

Whatever the reason for its fine play, there is no guarantee it will continue this weekend against Brown and Yale, the fourth and fifth consecutive Ivy road games for the Orange and Black. It's anybody's guess whether it will come away with two victories, a split or a pair of defeats. Brown will be the opponent Friday night, Yale, the following evening, with both contests starting at 7:30.

Pete Carril deserves the credit for turning his Tigers back into winners, but not even he can be sure what kind of performance he'll see this weekend. The one certainty, this year more than ever, is the race for Ivy honors will be wide open.

Brown, which had spurted to a 3-0 record, fell to Yale last Wednesday, but remains in first place, a half game ahead of the Quakers, while Yale has evened its mark at 2-2. Six of the eight Ivy teams have already won twice; everybody has won at least once.

Brown will be the opponent Friday night, Yale, the following evening, with both contests starting at 7:30.

Pete Carril deserves the credit for turning his Tigers back into winners, but not even he can be sure what kind of performance he'll see this weekend. The one certainty, this year more than ever, is the race for Ivy honors will be wide open.

Brown, which had spurted to a 3-0 record, fell to Yale last Wednesday, but remains in first place, a half game ahead of the Quakers, while Yale has evened its mark at 2-2. Six of the eight Ivy teams have already won twice; everybody has won at least once.

Both the Bruins and the Elis have overall losing records. The Bulldogs, which haven't defeated Princeton in five years despite numerous close calls, are led by senior Butch Graves, the league's leading scorer a year ago. He's right up at the top again this season averaging more than 20 points per game, followed by junior Chris Kelly at 16 ppg. Graves is third in rebounding.

Brown, which beat the Tigers in Providence two years ago, is led by junior center Stark Langs, sophomore Mike Waitkus, and has been bolstered by the return of Ira James, who sat out last season.

If the Tigers can repeat their Palestra performance, especially the final 20 minutes, they could win both, but that's a big "if."

Penn Tight at Home. Watching the Quakers Saturday night, one would have found it hard to believe they had not lost an Ivy league game at home since February 28, 1976, a string of 48 consecutive victories.

The Red and Blue could not find the basket in the first half, shooting a miserable 6 for 22. That improved a little to 14 for 34 in the second.

Which is the only college in America ever to have both the national rushing champion in football and the national scoring champion in basketball in the same school year? ... The only time it ever happened was when George Rogers of the University of South Carolina led the nation in rushing in college football in the fall of 1980, and Zam Frederick of the University of South Carolina led the nation in scoring in college basketball in the spring of 1981.

Give the Tigers credit for using an aggressive zone defense, that denied the home team many shots from inside. Freshman forward Bruce Lefkowitz was limited to seven points, half his average, and did not score from the field in the first half.

Junior Anthony Arnolie, the hot shot on the trip to New England, did not get a field goal all night. The game's top scorer, Karl Racine needed 22 attempts to achieve his 20 points.

Princeton gained control early, jumping from a 4-2 deficit to a 12-4 lead on the strength of 10 consecutive points. The Tigers' shooting was not particularly sharp at first, but they kept getting good shots, and maintained a four- to six-point lead throughout most of the half. It was 21-14 at the intermission, as Penn went the last three minutes without scoring.

Using an occasional fast break to good advantage, the Orange and Black upped the margin to ten, 30-20, with 16:20 to play. Rarely able to put two or more baskets together, the Quakers never were able to mount a serious challenge. They switched to man-to-man coverage in the second half, and Princeton responded with a couple of successful back door plays.

Late in the game it was 58-42 with the Tigers employing a four-corner offense to run the clock down. Kevin Mullin hit for 15 points, and Howie Levy, showing off a nice outside shot on two occasions, had 13, and a season high eight rebounds. Levy is as good or better than Rich Simkus was a year ago in the center spot.

John Smyth, still not scoring up to expectations, had nine, but the key was the 10 points by Billy Ryan. Any time the Tiger floor leader gets that many, he is bound to open up the Princeton offense to its full potential. Starting his first game of the season, Isaac Carter had a good all-around effort, and eight points to show for it.

The victory put the Tigers at 8-6, the only Ivy team besides Cornell with a winning record, while Penn fell to 5-8. These two teams will meet again in Jadwin on Tuesday, February 14; by that time the Ivy race may have narrowed a bit.

No Contest in Chicago. Last Wednesday in Rosemont, Ill., the Tigers shot themselves into the record book against second-ranked DePaul. Their 39 point output tied a record for the lowest number of points scored in the Rosemont Horizon, set last year by Davidson.

The game was predictable from start to finish. Playing their usual patient game, but not making the baskets when they did shoot, the Tigers fell quickly behind and never caught up. The Blue Demons, who rolled to their 15th consecutive win without a loss, hit their first three shots, and never had to worry about Princeton's slowdown tactics. The home team used its considerable height advantage to control both boards, and gradually extended its lead to 25-15 at the half. That grew to 34-19 early in the second half, but Carril was content to have his players continue their zone defense and deliberate passing game.

The game rolled along quietly to its inevitable conclusion, with the Tigers staging a minirally to close the gap to 11 at the end. Unlike Houston, which blew the Orange and Black away in the final minutes, DePaul felt it nothing to prove.

The Tigers looked a bit rusty after their 15-day exam break, but certainly no worse than they did against Harvard and Dartmouth. They made 18 of 40 shots from the field and three of four from the line, and had 10 fewer rebounds (31-21) than DePaul.

Smyth led his teammates with 12 points, Levy had nine and Mullin, six. Ryan was moved to a forward slot to fill in for Aaron Belz, sidelined with stress fractures in his feet, and Scott started in the backcourt. Returning to his hometown, Carter picked up four fouls in the first half, and then settled down and canned four baskets in the second.

HOCKEY TEAM SPLITS

Beats Brown, Loses to Yale. The young Princeton hockey team may not have many victories in hand by season's end, but the events this winter will have instilled plenty of character.

Saddled with an eight-game losing streak (the last victory had come Dec. 10), the team took off for a two-day road trip last weekend without its leading scorer, Ed Lee (see box). Nonetheless, the Tigers managed to defeat a much improved Brown squad for the second time this season, 4-3, on Friday night.

Along with the victory, however, came another blow, the loss of junior center Steve MacDonald for the rest of the season with a torn ligament in his knee. Moving on to New Haven Saturday night, the Orange and Black came within half a period of knocking off Yale for the second time. Two late third-period tallies by the Elis sent Princeton down to a 4-3 defeat.

They may only have a 3-11-1 mark so far, but these last two games are strong proof that this freshman-sophomore team has not resigned itself to merely playing out the schedule. The spirit is still there, and at least a few more victories should come the Tigers' way.

After a Tuesday evening game scheduled to be played against Williams in Baker Rink, coach Jim Higgins' skaters will head back to New England this weekend for back-to-back games against Vermont and RPI. The two teams are at opposite ends of the ECAC's Western League.

Saturday night's opponent, the Engineers, with a 12-2 Divison I mark (21-3 overall), are comfortably on top, and virtually assured of capturing one of the eight post-season playoff spots. The Tigers won a 9-4 shoot-out in their last visit to Troy, N.Y. two years ago, but lost in another wide-open contest here last season, 11-7.

Princeton will have a better chance of beating Vermont on Friday. The Catamounts have won only three of 12 Division I contests, losing a pair to RPI

Ed Lee Ends Hockey Career Here; Hopes to Play in NHL after June

Ed Lee's days of playing hockey for Princeton came to an abrupt end last week, when the senior forward chose to leave the team and turn professional immediately, cutting short a season of mixed success. He was not only the team's leading scorer, but its leading combatant as well, and the latter ultimately brought about his departure.

Unlike its professional counterpart, college hockey does not condone fighting. Automatic one-game suspensions are the rule for the first infraction, two games for the second, and the third time the player is banished for the season.

Lee incurred his first after a fight in the Colgate contest, and his second for precipitating the melee in the Boston University game January 7, when he chased a BU player all the way to the bench. That would have kept him out of the Brown and Yale games this past weekend, and coach Jim Higgins added an indefinite suspension of his own.

Rather than sit out several of the final games in his college hockey career, and possibly be provoked into another fight when he did return, Lee opted to end it at once, and spent the mid-winter break playing for the Fredrickton Express in the American Hockey league, a minor league team owned by the Quebec Nordiques. Lee hopes to eventually play for the Nordiques in the NHL.

The Tigers will miss Lee's scoring punch much more than his fighting. He led the squad in scoring with 20 points, 10 goals and 10 assists, a figure that had placed him third in the Ivy League and fifth in the ECAC Division I. In three and a half years of play, he had amassed 106 points, (42 goals and 64 assists) good for fourth place on the all-time Princeton scoring list.

His assist total was just one shy of tying the mark set by John Cook 20 years ago. Lee also had a good shot at surpassing Cook's record of 132 points in a career. Cook compiled his totals in just three years of varsity play, before freshmen became eligible.

Lee's departure leaves the young team, composed mainly of freshmen and sophomores with just one senior, goalie Wally McDonough, and three juniors, Steve MacDonald, Tom Daccord and Rob Scheuer. And both MacDonald and Scheuer are injured at the moment.

TEST DRIVE A VOLVO THAT FLIES IN THE FACE OF TRADITION.
Traditionally, Volvo has built solid, dependable, long-lasting cars.
But our DLs and GLs have never been mistaken for SST's on the road.
Now there's a Volvo that blows away that image: the Volvo Turbo.
To be sure, the Turbo provides all the comfort and luxury you'd expect: standard plush velour or optional leather interior, sunroof, power windows and door locks, air conditioning and much more.
But what makes it so special is its power to hurtle you from 0-55 in just 8.6 seconds.*
Think how comforting that can be when you want to enter a highway or pass an 18-wheeler.

In a home-and-home series last weekend, Vermont has won the last two games between the two, and leads in the series, 5-2.

The team will have little time to catch its breath from that trip before it will face St. Lawrence Monday, Feb. 6 in Baker Rink. The Saints already own one victory over the Orange and Black this season, winning the consolation game of the Syracuse Tournament, 6-3, late in December.

Ladda the Difference. A pair of goals by Todd Ladda proved the difference in the Brown victory. The sophomore forward scored the winning goal with 2:21 left in the game to lift the Tigers to their 11th consecutive win over the Bruins in the last five years.

Sophomore defenseman Cliff Abrecht scored twice for Princeton in the opening period, which ended in a 2-2 tie. The home team took a 3-2 lead in the second, but Ladda tied the score 14 seconds later on a 15-foot slap shot, setting the stage for his winning tally.

Abrecht tallied in the first period of the Yale game to give the Orange and Black a brief 1-0 advantage. The Bulldogs tied it at one apiece a minute later, but Tim Cole scored with less than a minute remaining in the period to send Princeton ahead, 2-1.

Yale's Bob Logan scored the only goal of the second period with the Eli's skating five on four. Bill Brady put Princeton back in front for the last time early in the third, but goals at 13:52 and 17:36 provided the home team's margin of victory. Logan notched the game-winner.

Wally McDonough had a superb game, making 44 saves, as the Tigers were outshot by a margin of better than two to one.

PDS SPLITS A PAIR

In Basketball. The Princeton Day basketball team had little trouble knocking off Pennington last week, but came up three points short against Peddie.

In the 72-58 triumph over Pennington, Frank Little led PDS with 16, Tim Howard had 15, and Jamie Zahner, 11. PDS took a 22-12 lead in the first period, and expanded that to 40-22 by halftime.

However, on Friday, it was nip and tuck all the way, with Peddie finally winning, 64-61. Jon McConaughy was high for PDS with 16, Zahner added 14.

PDS will play three games away over the next week: Morristown-Beard on Wednesday, Hun on Monday, and Rutgers Prep, next Wednesday.

PHS FIVE FALTERS

Loses State Tourney Bid. Unlike the previous seven years, Princeton High will not be a participant this year in the annual post-season state basketball tournament.

Needing to win three of four to qualify, the Little Tigers fell quickly to the wayside when they lost three straight last week, failing to hold early leads against Peddie Saturday and Ewing the day before and committing 35 turnovers in a 49-44 loss to Steinert earlier.

"The state tournament? We never were a threat," said Trotman. What pained the veteran PHS coach even more than the losses was what he felt was a poor attitude among the players. "Sometimes," he said, "I'm embarrassed the way we play."

Trotman described Princeton's 67-71 loss to visiting Peddie Saturday as a "lacklustre effort. We didn't play up to our potential. I really believe the attitude of our kids is they don't really care. We just don't have a positive attitude.

"I like to think that's not going to be the case the rest of the year," continued Trotman. "It's hard to assess. We've got the other half of the CVC to play but if they continue with the attitude as I see it right now, we're not going anywhere."

After a scheduled game against Hamilton this week, PHS will play Lawrence in a CVC game at Lawrence on Friday night, the same team it defeated in its season's opener in December. The Little Tigers will then be idle for a week before resuming at home next Friday evening against Nottingham.

Princeton began its must win situation last week by losing to Steinert. The 35 turnovers that PHS was guilty of were not as much a factor as the foul line. The home team Spartans connected on 23 of 35 charity tosses while PHS was only 10 of 17. Trotman railed at the referees for calling 26 fouls against his quick club which used a man-to-man, foul-prone defense to get back in the game. The Little Tigers overcame a nine-point deficit, tied the game at 36 early in the final period and took a brief 44-43 lead.

But they couldn't stop the Spartan parade to the foul line. Both high scoring Darryl Hemingway, who had 15 points, and Freddie Young (6) fouled out of the game for PHS. Keith Green had 12 for PHS while Dave Tartaglia had 22 for Steinert. Ken Durfee was six-for-six for the Spartans from the foul line.

Ewing Trails by 10. Friday night, heavily favored Ewing invaded the Princeton gym and was stunned to find itself trailing by ten points at the half.

PHS shut down Ewing's high scoring Tom Berry in the first half with a good zone defense. Berry took some shots he shouldn't have out of frustration but that ended when Ewing made some adjustments at halftime. Berry broke loose to score 13 of his game-high 29 points in the third period when Ewing outscored the Little Tigers to charge back into the lead. In the final eight minutes of play, Ewing shut PHS down, limiting the Little Tigers to four points to make it a 68-48 final. Princeton's 12 points in the second half were eight fewer than it scored in the first period.

"We had 'em by ten but we ran out of gas. We couldn't hold it," said Trotman. Young with 20 points -- the first time he has reached the 20-point level this season -- and Green with 16 were the leading scorers for PHS.

Peddie Prevails. When PHS played Peddie Saturday afternoon, both teams had played the night before.

Twelve points by Green, eight by Jon Davidson and seven by Young helped PHS take a narrow 34-32 lead at the half. Monty Gallant, the PG from South Brunswick, kept the Falcons in contention with 17 points, 13 in the second quarter.

The two teams battled on even terms throughout the second half. The score was tied five times, the last at 51 with 5:15 to play. Trotman called time out with 28 seconds left after an underhand layup by Young brought PHS to within one, 62-61.

When play resumed, Scott Fisher fouled Peddie's Steve Sargenti who hit both ends of the crucial 1-1. After Jon Lysaker missed a short shot in front of the hoop, Keith White rebounded, was fouled and connected on his first shot to give Peddie a 65-61 lead. His second shot hit the rim. Gallant grabbed the rebound and stuffed it to seal the win. Six of Peddie's eight final points had come from the foul line.

Green and Young each finished with 17 points while Davidson and Lysaker added eight apiece. Gallant led all scorers with 29, getting an assist from teammate Rich Rebh who had 15.

"I felt our play was good in the second half," said Peddie coach Al Lozier, whose team had lost to PHS, 62-60, on a buzzer shot by Green in the opening game for both schools last year. "I feel we had poor concentration in the first half," continued Lozier. "We were kind of lethargic."

"When Marv went to man-to-man he did us a favor. It woke us up. When we executed we were fine; we didn't do it all the time."

Trotman for his part could not refrain from trying to analyze his team.

"Athletics takes dedication and hard work," he said. "There are no short cuts. Our kids are not at that point. We make mistakes and continue to make the same mistakes. We're just not getting the job done. We don't have the maturity.

"Maybe I expected too much," continued Trotman. "Against Ewing in the first half the way we played -- I couldn't even imagine that this team (Peddie) would be in the same ballgame with us. Gallant is the only decent player they have. When we play against a team like this we play up to their intensity level. Last night we came out smoking; this time we came out lackadaisical.

"I'm convinced of one thing at this point. We don't have the intensity to play man-to-man. It requires a certain amount of hustle and determination as a team. A few kids do but we don't as a team."

PHS STILL STRUGGLING

On Wrestling Mat. "Again, we didn't want to win as much as the other guys," commented Princeton High wrestling coach Lee Merrill Saturday, after he watched visiting South Brunswick bury his team, 46-15. Hamilton High did the same thing earlier in the week, when it posted a 55-12 victory over the Little Tigers.

PHS will have two chances to try to improve its 1-9 record when it travels to West Windsor this Wednesday night at 8 and entertains Nottingham Friday at 8. The Little Tigers' best chance will be against Nottingham which is competing for only the second year in all varsity sports.

The following weekend at Steinert High, PHS will compete in the annual Mercer County Tournament.

Princeton led only once in its match against visiting South Brunswick. Freshman Jeff Robinson scored an escape and takedown in the second period to take a 3-2 lead over Doug Wickman and then added a near fall and another near fall with 10 seconds left in the match for a 7-3 decision. That gave PHS a 9-6 lead after the Vikings had forfeited the 107-pound class and Princeton suffered a pin in the opening match.

Paul Crystal had swarmed over his opponent, Jim Valenti, in building a 10-2 first-period lead in the opening match. Twice he had Valenti on his back. But early in the second period, Valenti caught Crystal and pinned him.

To have a chance, PHS had to win some matches in the middle until its two best wrestlers, 187-pound Brett van deBovenkamp and heavyweight Tamer El-Shakhs, both with 7-2 records, came up.

It was not to be. Josh Bagley gamely fought off a couple of pinning holds but dropped a superior, 13-0 decision to Ed Edwards at 121 pounds; Gabby Ondetti was blanked 8-0 at 128 pounds; and Evan Cohn was decisioned, 9-1, by Jamie McGuigan. PHS forfeited at 140 pounds.

After John Blankstein was pinned by Viking 147-pounder Steve Crane in 3:02, and Matt Taylor followed with a 3:30 pin over Princeton's Dominic Tracey, the visitors had a commanding 37-9 lead.

Matt Cohen then battled the Viking's Dave Cerneski, taking a 3-2 lead on a reversal in the first period, then a 5-4 lead. Cerneski gained a near fall at the end of th second period and went on to win their 169-pound bout, 8-5.

The day's most excitng match followed when VandeBovenkamp came out fast and quickly had Nick Kydonius, South Brunswick's 187-pounder, in a near fall. Ahead 5-1, VandeBovenkamp soon was in a pinning hold by PHS MAT MYSTERY: WHO GOT PINNED? In top photo Princeton High 100-pounder Paul Crystal has Jim Valenti on his back for the second time in the first period in running up a 10-2 advantage. Twenty seconds into the second period, Valenti pinned the Little Tiger freshman. At bottom, PHS heavyweight Tamer El-Shakhs is almost pinned in the opening seconds of his match with John Ruedemann as referee Steve Povalac looks on. Thirty seconds into the second period, Shakhs pinned Ruedemann to raise his record to 8-2 – best on the PHS team. PHS lost the match, 46-15.

Kydonius but managed a reverse to take a 7-3 lead. The tiring VandeBovenkamp was ahead 7-6 when Kydonius pinned him 39 seconds after the third period had started.

"Brett just pooped out," said Merrill after the match. "You could hear him breathing heavy," added Merrill, who reported VandeBovenkamp had entered the match with a heavy chest cold.

El-Shakhs appeared to be in for an easy win against his smaller opponent, but he was in for a surprise. No sooner had the match started than John Ruedemann of the Vikings had El-Shahks flat on his back and squirming for his life. El-Shakhs manged to squirm free and came back to record a pin at 2:30. "Tamer got lucky," said Merrill.

Ondetti Lone Winner. Earlier, against streaking Hamilton, Gabby Ondetti was the only winner for PHS on the mat, pinning Don Riketti of the Hornets in 3:21 in the 128-pound match. VandeBovenkamp won by forfeit.

In the remaining ten bouts, Hamilton won seven by falls and two by forfeit. PHS sophomore Marco Cucchi lost a 10-2 decision at 108 pounds.

MAT TOURNEY SATURDAY

At Hun School. The third annual Hun School Wrestling Tournament will be held Saturday at Hun when seven teams will begin action at 10 a.m.

In addition to host Hun, schools participating include Newark Academy, Wardlaw-Hartridge, Rutgers Prep, Pennington School, Chestnut Hill Academy and Moravian Academy. Hun coach Dave Faus reported that he is trying to get an eighth team -- Malvern Prep. Undefeated Newark Academy, which stopped Hun, 46-14, last week, is the defending tournament champion.

Hun will engage in two dual meet matches before the tourney. It will be at Pennington School this Wednesday afternoon and will host Lawrence Friday at 4:30.

"Pennington will be very competitive but I like to think we can beat them," predicted Faus. As for Hamilton, Faus observed that the Hornets are "on a hot streak. They're wrestling very well."

Against 4-0 Newark Academy, the best 2-10-1 Hun could do was win two bouts -- both by falls -- and tie one. Once-defeated Todd Lipani continued his impressive performance this season for Hun with a pin in his 157-pound match while Seth Wheaton also got a pin at 187 pounds. Rob Cohun battled his opponent to a draw.

"We really didn't wrestle all that badly," commented Faus. He singled out his 132 pounder Steve Wolf who lost a hard-fought 4-0 decision to an opponent who was second last year in the prep school state championships. "I was really impressed," said Faus.

Despite giving up 18 points in the last three matches (2 by forfeit), Hun managed to post a 36-34 victory over Marie Katzenbach School for the Deaf earlier in the week. All of Hun's points for its second win of the season came off six pins by Pong Unakal at 100 pounds, Dan Zumbrun (107), Nick Wolsy (121), Rob Cobun (140), Steve Bobin (147) and Lipani (157).

HUN DEFEATS HAMILTON

For 15-5 Court Record. Like an implacable grinder, the Hun School basketball team continues to chew up the opposition.

Combining a 20-9 first-period lead and a balanced scoring attack, Hun outlasted Hamilton, 67-62, Monday on its home court. Earlier in the week, Hun, the fourth-ranked team in the area, defeated Blair Academy and newcomer Abington Friends to raise its record to 15-3.

Three games are on tap for the Raiders this week, starting with another public high school, West Windsor, this Wednesday evening at 8 at home. On Thursday at 3:45, Hun will oppose Lawrenceville for the second time this season at Lawrenceville and on Monday it will host Princeton Day School -- again for the second time. Starting time is 3:45.

Battle to the Wire. Hun's early lead against Hamilton evaporated in the second period when the Hornets outscored the Raiders, 27-19. With two minutes left to play, a long jumper by Hamilton's reserve player Anthony Nitti gave the eighth-ranked Hornets a 62-61 lead.

Hun regained the lead when 6-3 forward Ted Bransfield, the former Pennsbury High standout, grabbed the rebound of his missed layup and stuffed it in. Bransfield then came up with the decisive play when he grabbed a defensive rebound under the Hornet basket, fired a court-long pass to John McDonough who turned it into a three-point play with 16 seconds remaining.

McDonough, the PG from Christian Brothers Academy, led Hun with 24 points. Terry Dearden addded 13, and Bransfield and Joe Mackin 12 each, as these four accounted for all but six of Hun's points.

Todd Wilson and Michael Dye paced Hamilton with 22 and 18 points respectively. Both fouled out with more than two minutes to play and their departure hurt the visitors in the climactic final minute of the game.

Blair Is Easy. Friday at Blairstown, Blair Academy made it easy for Hun by scoring less than 10 points in each quarter, bowing 54-28. Nine players scored for Hun, headed by John McDonough's 10.

Earlier, Abington Friends, which told Hun coach and athletic director Bob Hendrickson it wanted to play Hun

YOUNG LION: Sean Couch, who led the Hun School basketball team in scoring last year as a PG from John F. Kennedy High School in New York, is averaging 6.4 points per game for the Columbia University basketball team. The 5-11 freshman guard is also third in assists for the Lions.

Leschley, Sherin Win Title

Two Princeton High School seniors, Jacob Leschley and Jon Sherin, were upset winners in a platform tennis tournament held last month.

The pair won three matches, including victories over the number one and two seeded teams to capture the Boys 16-18 title in the Rumson-Sea Bright Junior Invitational. They beat the top-seeded team of Dwight DeBree and Bryan Roberts, 6-3, 7-5, in the finals.

Jacob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jan Leschley, 106 Winfield Road; Jon is the son of Mrs. Pam Sherin, 137 Jefferson Road, and Edwin Sherin of New York City.

Intergenerational Program

When a client cannot pay the $3.50 per hour, YES makes up the difference. These subsidized visits are limited to two hours a week. When clients can pay the full $3.50 themselves, students may work an unlimited number of hours. For some students, it is a job and they would not do it without the money they need.

In addition to the pay, they receive five academic credits. They attend an orientation course given by Jocelyn Helm of the Senior Resource Center, they write up their visits, they discuss with Ron and others the various stereotypes of the elderly and, inevitably, they are going to have to learn to deal with the terminal illness and death of someone who has become a friend.

Relationships Grow. "At first I did it just to get the credit," one girl admits, "but it's not that way, any more. About half the time I do things like mop, wipe the table, open cans for her. But the rest of the time is just talking — or listening. She'll talk about things that are bothering her and I find I can pull her out of a depression. I think her daughter was jealous of me at first but then she realized I wasn't taking her mother over, but was actually helping."

In Mrs. Helm's training, students stuffed cotton in their ears and wore glasses with clear plastic wrapped over the lens — to see what it's like when the world doesn't come through clearly.

They pored through magazines looking for stereotypes about the elderly — ads for laxatives, homey "mom" types, how rare it was to have a picture of an elderly person on a bike.

YES students are told to be Professional, Dependable, Patient and Courteous.

Privacy of the elderly is "extremely important: do not use their real names." "Be sure to be on time: your visits are very important." "Be patient: they sometimes repeat themselves"

"This program has helped me with my own grandparents," one girl found. "I just hadn't been able to get through to my grandmother, to get her to talk. But now I find I can get her to say things she's never said before. I know how to listen better, I show her more respect, I guess, than I ever did before and maybe that's the reason."

———

Good Listeners. "Some kids can just sit and listen — this is a rare trait," Ron points out. "We have one girl who does nothing but read aloud and do some writing for her elderly friend. Another just sat and talked and found herself more and more in a companionship role."

Yes, there have been dropouts. But not since Ron and Learning in the Community became part of the program.

In the beginning, there was only an ad in the "Tower," Princeton High's newspaper, inviting students to sign up. Response was weak.

Then Ron began asking teachers to recommend students and before long there were more students than elderly men and women to match them with. A YES person goes with students on their first visit. There is follow-up along the way, with calls to the elderly to make sure it's working out satisfactorily. If there is a problem, the elderly can call YES any time.

Now, Ron is thinking of another idea — having students interview the elderly, asking what it was like half a century ago.

Intergenerational Council. There is also a Council where students can share experiences, exchange information, talk about the difference between myths and realities as they apply to each generation and discuss growing old and dying. Anne Jacobs, a junior, is head of this PHS Intergenerational Council, and also did the calligraphy on the program poster.

The Council consists of a faculty advisor, a YES representative, students who work with the elderly and those who would like to.

"You need to screen students carefully to find patient, committed, dedicated students who are enthusiastic about working for, being with and learning from, the elderly," Ron explains. "And you need to find elderly who are willing to trust youth and to relinquish independence in order to gain companionship and helpful services which other age groups more readily welcome.

"Education can help dispel the myths peculiar to both groups — the young and the elderly."

—Katharine H. Bretnall

SYMBIOTIC RELATIONSHIP: I need you, you need me. Princeton High School students David Hunt and Florence Jean-Louis belong to the YES-PHS Intergenerational Program that provides helping companions for the elderly. One of the clients, shown here, is Mrs. F.L. Ruegg.

to gain some experience against better competition, brought a fine 12-3 record to the Hun gym but left with its fourth defeat and a lesson in how to play the game. Hun won, 62-49. Bransfield and Dearden were the big guns for Hun, combining for 37 points, Bransfield hitting for 21. Hun led 30-19 at the half.

WALDREN GETS 26

But PHS Girls Lose Again. Paige Waldren scored a career-high 26 points on 13 baskets but it was not enough to prevent the Princeton High School girls basketball team from losing a CVC league game to Ewing Friday, 76-46.

Actually, the outcome was never in doubt as Ewing jumped to a 23-6 lead in the first period and then did not continue to press its advantage. With Monica Greenland's leg in a cast, perhaps keeping her out for the rest of the season, coach Joyce Jones admits the outlook for the Little Tigers this campaign is not bright. The loss to Ewing was their tenth against one victory.

Opposite Steinert, which had lost its first ten games in a row, PHS earlier in the week matched the visiting Spartans basket for basket for three periods. Down by one, the Little Tigers could not sustain it and went down, 46-38.

"We should have won that game," said Jones, "but we couldn't keep the pace up."

Waldren again led PHS with 18 points, followed by Tracey Hemmingway's 11. Five free throws by Dawn Wilson in the final period iced the game for the 3-10 Spartans who were paced by Diane Morreale's 14 points.

PHS will entertain Lawrence next at 3:45 Friday and play Princeton rival Stuart Country Day School Monday afternoon at Stuart.

NUGGETS ON TOP

In Dillon Basketball. After two weeks of action in the Dillon Basketball League, the Nuggets are on top with a 2-0 mark, followed by Blue Crew and Blue Demons, both 1-1, and Hawks, 0-2.

———

Last week, the Nuggets edged the Blue Crew, 30-26, as John Brunett and Roland Glover combined for all 30 of the victors' points. Jay Jackson led the losers with 18.

In a second game, Barry Phox with 17 points, and Anthony White with 12, sparked the Blue Demons to a 39-36 decision over the Hawks. Nimrod Maleweu added six for the Blue Demons. Shawn Miller paced the Hawks with 14 points, while Matt Elliot contributed nine, and Bernard Simpson, eight.

———

In a lone senior division contest, The Fellas defeated the Kumquats, 59-40.

Tim Rumer connected for 18 points, David Gross for 14 and Brian Trelstad for 12 for the victors as these three also enabled the taller Fellas squad to dominate the boards. Pat McKellar had a game-high 20 points for the losers, while teammate Mokey Thomas added 10 more.

PANTHERS WIN 4-0

Over Livingston in Hockey. The Princeton Day hockey team, has had its ups and downs this season, but last Friday's game against Livingston was definitely an "up" contest.

Scoring twice in the first and third periods, the Panthers blanked the north Jersey school, 4-0, behind the fine goaltending of Brad Smith. The junior netminder stopped all 19 shots that came his way.

The Blue and White wasted no time getting on the scoreboard; Tom Foster and Mike Blaxill both tallied within the first three and a half minutes of play.

Princeton Day held that advantage into the third period, when it scored two more goals about a minute apart. Dave Supple, assisted by Blaxill, tallied at 6:09 of the final frame, followed by Cary Paik at 7:19. Wings Jack Cook and Chris McCabe both picked up two assists in the game.

PDS will face tougher oppostion this week, meeting a pair of opponents who have already beaten it this winter. Hill will play at PDS this Wednesday, and on Saturday the Panthers will travel to Peddie.

Committee Considers Question of How to Keep Enough Affordable Housing Available in Town

How can Princeton keep from becoming a Golden Ghetto? How can the Borough retain, and even increase, its stock of low and moderate income housing?

Would mandatory "set-asides" work, particularly on re-sale? or a public trust fund as an incentive to developers? or reinstituting rent control? or changes in zoning ordinances?

Or is it a matter of searching the nooks and crannies of Borough real estate for sites for new construction, or of trading parking lots — or even public parks — for housing in a re-ordering of community priorities?

These are some of the public policy questions that a broadly based new committee appointed by Mayor Barbara B. Sigmund will be wrestling with in the coming weeks. The Princeton Borough Committee on Affordable Housing, chaired by Councilmen Peter Bearse and John Huntoon, held its first meeting last Wednesday.

Some 30 residents attended, some tenants, some landlords, some professionals in housing and community affairs. The committee has been given a broad mandate to look into all aspects of the problem of affordable housing, to consider solutions and review existing ordinances. A preliminary report is expected by March 26.

Remarking that it was "absolutely inspirational" to see so many people at the meeting, Mr. Huntoon invited each person to state his or her views on the subject. Housing above stores, in renovated large dwellings and in greater density on existing lots were suggested. Architect Fred Travisano said he thought there were lots of opportunities for affordable housing, but that "it might take looking at our

Appraisal Is Given For Institute Land

What is the value of development rights for lands belonging to the Institute for Advanced Study?

An appraisal of that value — dollar amount still confidential — was presented to the Institute last Thursday by members of the Friends of Princeton Open Space as part of their on-going negotiations to keep the Institute from developing its property with 400-600 houses. The Institute had suggested a deadline of last December 31 for the Friends to make a proposal.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the Sierra Club this week emphasized the group's continuing interest with a comment about the Institute's position.

Sigmund Attacks Sewer Bill as Excessive; Borough Will Not Pay without Explanation

"I do not intend to pay this bill until I am satisfied that it is justified."

Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund stated this week that in a week-end of digging through Borough sewer charges, past and present, she discovered figures leading her to write Arthur K. Kling Jr., executive director of the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority declaring that the Borough will not pay the first quarter billing until there is satisfaction regarding the bill.

Mayor Sigmund was scheduled to ask Council at this Tuesday's meeting to hold the bill for the Authority's 30-day grace period, expiring March 15.

Highlights of the mayor's research:

• Although there has been "virtually no change" in the 2 million gallons per day average sewage from the Borough since 1978, the costs for the Borough's share of processing the same amount of flow have increased 200 percent. Figures exclude debt service

• During those same years — 1978 to 1984 — the Borough's share of the Authority's basic services has declined from 39 percent in '78-'79 to a projected 27 percent in 1984.

• Borough sewer users today are paying more than 1000 percent more in treatment fees than they did in the last three years of the independent sewer plant ('75, '76, '77) for basically the same amount of effluent. These figures do include debt service on the plant.

• In the years Princeton had an independent sewer plant — 1933 to 1977 — total costs to Borough sewer users over the whole 44 years increased less than 125 percent. Between 1979 (the first year debt service was applied) and projected 1984, the increase has been 208 percent.

• In that '79-'84 period, projected flow in the entire system has increased only 25 percent.

Mayor Sigmund demands construction of the 1984 Authority budget from a zero base, not solely in relation to last year's budget. The Authority has said the Borough owes $953,406 for 1984. The first quarter billing is $238,351.50.

"I have doubts about the accuracy of your metering system," the mayor's letter reminds Mr. Kling, "as you know from inquiries by the Borough engineer and Borough attorney.

Tigers Top Penn Lead by a Game

"On a night when so many things went wrong, to win is a very good thing."

Ten minutes after coaching the Princeton basketbaall team to a come-from-behind 45-41 overtime victory over Penn Tuesday night in Jadwin, a relieved Pete Carril had a good handle on the game.

His players had all sorts of problems in the first half, started slowly in the second, and at last managed a tie near the end of regulation time. Finally, in the five-minute overtime, the Tigers took command, winning from a stubborn Penn team. The young Quaker quintet could have won it earlier, but buckled under the pressure.

In winning the Orange and Black moved a game ahead of Brown and Harvard in the standings, and now is a heavy favorite to win its second consecutive Ivy title. (See Page 10B).

After their 12-point Palestra triumph in January, the Tigers were solid favorites Tuesday night, too, but they looked anything but

Affordable Housing

community in a little bit different way."

Rodney Fiske, who sold his New York apartment to John Lennon and moved to Princeton because it is "the most cultivated spot in the northeast," spoke on behalf of market forces and against government subsidy. Mr. Fiske has renovated a multi-room house on John Street which he bought as an investment into eight rental units, but not without tangling with the Zoning Board.

Michael Floyd, coordinator for neighborhood preservation, specifically in the Witherspoon-John Street area, is concerned about new construction that goes on but is high priced, and would like to see that construction halted. He urged invoking set-asides under the Mt. Laurel II decision to "buy time" until municipal ordinances could be passed. "Something has to be passed soon," Mr. Floyd said, "like the day after tomorrow."

Stabilization Needed. Others spoke of the way high rents and high taxes, coupled with high utilities, are forcing long-time residents to move out of Princeton. The elderly and others on fixed incomes need some stabilization in these spiraling costs in order to stay in Princeton. Pierine Thayer, who chairs the rent registration board, said it was "absolutely necessary" to re-institute rent control to maintain heterogeneity.

See Mailbox Page 17

Of the 1680 families in the Borough, according to the 1980 census, 40 percent earn less than $25,000 and 19 percent earn less than $15,000. By HUD definition, that 40 percent is within the low- to moderate-income range, Mr. Huntoon said.

According to Linda Felstein, rent registration officer for the Borough, there is "very little that the average working family can afford" by way of housing. Taking $500 as an affordable lower limit, even without heat, she finds that there are very few units other than efficiency one-bedroom units at this price.

Ms. Felstein also points out that older dwellings don't have storm windows and screens and that there are no requirements or incentives for landlords to "do efficiency-type things." Moreover, she says, "when landlords come before the zoning board, there are so many hassles, they don't do what they want to do and the result is illegal units. We need zoning changes to alleviate these problems," she said.

Adversary Role Deplored. Among the landlords present, Maureen Fasanella applauded the idea of incentives and deplored the adversarial relationship between landlord and tenant. "There is a lot of burden on landlords," she said, "and it is a business, after all, like any other business."

Benjamin Kahn noted that the cost of paint is $15 a gallon and plumbers "that are out of sight. I have people approaching me every day looking for housing," he said. "It hurts; they have no place to stay." Someone suggested it was unfair to put the entire burden of affordable housing on landlords and suggested that companies responsible for the building boom be asked to subsidize tenants.

In the middle of the discussion, Karl Light, longtime realtor, asked, "What is affordable housing? What do we mean by that term? How exactly are we going to meet all these needs and strains? I have no easy answers — I'm looking at the whole spectrum and trying to get a handle on where to start."

Mr. Light said he thought financing was a critical factor and he questioned whether increased density would solve the problem.

Mr. Huntoon suggested that the group come up with plans for creating 200 additional units of affordable housing by March 26, when its preliminary report is due. He listed by title the committees that are to work on the problem between now and then. They will research such topics as local ordinances, contributions by developers, zoning changes, models, such as the Witherspoon-Jackson Development Corporation, housing trust funds, conversions, intergovernmental sources for grants and other funds, and enforcement of violations.

Township Schedules Meeting for Feb. 27th To Hear Residents' Comments on Its Budget

Township residents will have a chance to comment on the municipal operating and capital budget at a public hearing scheduled for Monday, February 27.

The meeting will begin at 8 in the meeting room of the Valley Road building. Township Mayor Winthrop S. Pike will also hear comments from the public on the proposed five-year repayment of the Township's share of the $1.2 million underbilling by the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority and the sewer user fees of $3.21 per 100 cubic feet of water consumption. According to Mayor Pike, if the Township had elected to pay its $600,000 share of the $1.2 million underbilling in one lump sum, the charge to sewer users would have been $4.39.

Township Committee introduced a proposed operating budget that totals $7,448,897 on February 7 and has set February 27 as the public hearing before final adoption of the budget. The estimated municipal tax rate is 37½ cents per $100 of assessed valuation, up 3.7 cents from last year's 34 cents.

The public will also have a chance to comment on Committee's decision to opt for budgeting at a 6.5 rather than the 5 percent cap increase. By electing to budget at the higher rate but spend at the lower figure, the Township salts away approximately $62,000 and builds a bigger base on which next year's cap is figured. The $62,000, representing approximately one tax point or one cent, is later turned over to surplus.

When it came time to adopt the 1984 salaries for municipal employees, Committeeman William Cherry voted against the measure. Mr. Cherry pointed out that inflation as measured by the Consumer Price index and other indicators was now at around three percent, whereas the 1984 across-the-board wage increments for municipal employees are at the level of 6.5 percent. He said he preferred to see increased employment in the Township to provide increased services.

Mayor Pike reminded him that the Township was currently in the second year of a two-year contract with police officers and that it had been customary to grant other municipal employees the same rate of increase arrived at in negotiation with the PBA.

Amendments. As a last minute amendment, Committee agreed to a $1,500 request from the Senior Resource Center and $500 requested by the Joint Commission on Aging. It turned down an additional $8,179 for the public library voted by the Borough subject to Township approval. Noting that the governing bodies had already approved an 18 percent increase over last year in the library's appropriation, Committeeman Richard Schoch moved to deny the request. He was joined by Mayor Pike and Mr. Cherry, who expressed concern about access to the library from the parking lot. Councilwoman Barbara Cantrill abstained without explanation.

TOPICS Of The Town

"Once again we are maneuvered into the position of being the bad guys," commented Mayor Pike, after the vote.

Setting Precedents. At its last two meetings Committee wrestled with what might be called "housekeeping" items, were it not for the precedents they might set. In one instance, Trinity Church sought a retroactive tax exemption as a non-profit institution for a dwelling on Mountain Avenue purchased by the church for the assistant rector. The house was purchased in the spring of 1983, but the church would normally have had to file for tax exemption by the preceding October 1. Committee was asked to consider a full rebate for 1983.

Pointing out that when the Township gives rebates, it does so for the full tax dollar and is not itself reimbursed for the school and county share, Committeeman Richard Schoch proposed a compromise solution whereby Trinity pays half and is refunded half.

Unpaid Taxes. The following week, Committee learned that there are some eight properties in the Township against which liens have been placed for non-payment of taxes. This startling fact came to light when Eleanor and Wells Drorbaugh petitioned Committee to assign liens against two lots adjoining their home on Oakland Street to them in return for payment of $16,500 plus interest due on 10 years worth of unpaid tax bills.

Township Treasurer John S. Clawson Jr. told Committee there were three possible ways of dealing with the situation, which involves an owner in Ohio, who may have died in the interim, and dower rights for the lifetime of his widow — if she is a widow. One was to accept the Drorbaugh's offer, which he said would be the quickest and easiest way of recouping the unpaid taxes. If after two years no one comes forth to claim the two lots, each assessed at $35,000, and to reimburse the Drorbaughs for the back taxes, the title to the properties becomes theirs, he said.

A tax sale had been held for the two lots in 1974, but there had been no bids, he said. Another alternative would be to put the liens out for bid. Still another would be to foreclose on the property and sell it. Township Attorney Edwin W. Schmierer said this would be a long and tedious, although not impossible, process. Committeeman William Cherry felt the properties would fetch much more than $35,000 apiece in the market and supported foreclosure and sale — a bonanza for the Township taxpayer rather than the Drorbaughs.

A vote to assign the liens to the Drorbaughs failed in a 2-2 tie (Committeewoman Gail Firestone was absent, Mr. Schoch and Mr. Pike voted yes). Mayor Pike asked Mr. Clawson to prepare a list of the eight properties which have an accumulated backlog of $42,000 worth of unpaid taxes before a decision was made as to what to do with the Oakland Street lots. It seems likely the liens will be put out to bid. This would give the Drorbaughs another chance.

Other Business. In other business, Committee adopted an ordinance which raises license fees and stipulates that fees for retail liquor consumption and retail liquor distribution automatically increase each July 1 by 20 percent until the maximum license fee allowed by the state is reached. An ordinance prohibiting parking on the east side of Riverside Drive in front of Riverside School was adopted.

J. Oliver Gluyas of 58 Magnolia Lane came before Committee to object to the number of cars parking along the street and on his lawn as a result of Littlebrook School being rented out for other purposes. He asked that the current signs pertaining to parking during school hours be taken down. Mr. Schmierer told him his office was conducting an investigation as to whether the present use of Littlebrook was in compliance with educational purposes.

Committee approved a resolution placing responsibility for measuring ice thickness and determining whether conditions are safe for ice skating on Lake Carnegie and the Community Park Pond squarely on the shoulders of the Recreation Board. Police Chief Anthony Pinelli told Committee none of his men wanted to perform that task any longer, although the department was willing to patrol the ice after the decision had been made, or to keep people from skating if it wasn't safe. Mayor Pike did not conceal his disappointment that the police were no longer willing to act as ice safety officers in off-hours.

MEETING PLANNED

For Families of Mentally Ill. The Mercer Alliance for the Mentally Ill (Mercer AMI) will hold its first "coping" meeting, called "Rapport," Monday evening at 7:30, at 145 Witherspoon Street. Relatives of mentally ill persons are invited. The evening is planned to be informal and supportive. Those wishing to attend may phone 924-6468.

Township Profits from Recycling

Not only is "resource recovery" good for the soul and good for the environment; it is also good for the municipal pocketbook, as Township Engineer Robert O. Kiser made clear in announcing the Township's "credit" with the state in tonnage of recycled goods. These include not only the glass and newsprint collected at the recycling center in the Princeton Shopping Center, but also corrugated cardboard and food waste at a supermarket and the leaves raked up from the lawns of residents.

According to Mr. Kiser, there is a state incentive program which rewards municipalities in hard cash for items and amounts above and beyond that which was collected last year. In 1982, 260 tons of newsprint and 131 tons of glass were collected at the recycling center in the Shopping Center, and Princeton Township received $3,011 from the state.

For 1983, the Township will be credited for newspapers and glass collected in amounts above these tonnage figures. However, three new items were added for which the Township will be credited, even though in one instance it took no part in the recycling process. The Acme Market in the Shopping Center recycled 87 tons of corrugated cardboard and 24 tons of food waste. These amounts were reported to the Township and are credited to the 1983 recycling total for the state grant.

In addition, leaves which had been hauled to the Sewer Operating Committee's landfill site, composted for a year and then under an arrangement with Princeton Nurseries taken by the Nurseries for their own composting and mulching purposes, were, in 1983, taken directly to Princeton Nurseries. This saved the Township $20,000 in dumping fees paid in 1982, is credited to the 1983 recycling total and is a benefit to Princeton Nurseries as well.

Mr. Kiser says that Princeton Township stands to gain between $2,000 and $5,000 in 1984 from these recycling activities, depending how the state pot is divided. The state dollars are alloted to participating municipalities proportionately, not on specific amounts collected.

12 TIRES PUNCTURED

On Three Patrol Cars. Borough police did not appreciate the Valentine's Day greeting someone left them.

At 5:50 Tuesday morning, police discovered that all twelve tires on three patrol cars had been punctured in the sidewalls while they were parked overnight in the Borough Hall parking lot. The replacement cost is $933.

"Some Valentine's Day present," commented Chief Michael Carnevale. Police have no suspects.

A resident of Redding Circle Thursday morning discovered that the passenger side of the windshield of his 1981 Oldsmobile had been cracked while it was parked overnight in a lot at the housing project.

Police report that there was no evidence of any object thrown at the windshield. The approximate damage is $160.

TRANSMISSION BLAMED

In Car Fire. A faulty transmission is being blamed for a car fire which erupted early last week while a Cranbury resident was driving on South Harrison Street.

The driver, police said, noticed smoke coming up through the gear shift. Two fire trucks responded to an 11:42 a.m. call and extinguished the blaze. Police said the interior of the 1973 sedan, which had to be towed from the scene, was burned.

THEFT REPORT

Necklace, Camera Stolen. A $200 gold chain necklace was reported stolen last week from a desk drawer in a room in Walker Hall on the Princeton University campus. Police report no signs of forced entry. Three days later, on Saturday, they investigated another theft in the same dormitory in which a 35mm camera valued at $230 was stolen from a closet in a student's room. Again, no forced entry.

In one of two thefts from a locker at the YMCA building, a university student lost a watch, clothing and $15 when his unlocked locker was rifled between 1 and 5 Sunday afternoon. Earlier in the week, another unlocked locker yielded a leather jacket valued at $160, a $10 pair of socks and a key ring with five keys. The victim is a Westminster Choir College student.

Taken from an unlocked car parked overnight in a driveway in the 200 block of Witherspoon Street were 50 to 75 tapes valued at $200 and a $100 cassette tape deck. The victim, who lives on Witherspoon Street, discovered the theft at 10:30 Sunday moring.

An unlocked student's bicycle valued at $157 was stolen Monday morning from the grounds at Princeton High School.

According to police, a truck with Pennsylvania plates pulled into the station and the driver pumped his own gas. He paid the attendant $5. The attendant later told police he felt it should have been more because the pump had been running for three minutes. A check of the day's pump receipts revealed a $12 discrepancy between the number of gallons pumped and the amount of money collected. Police believe the suspect pumped in some gas, then reset the pump and took an additional $5 worth.

HITS STOPPED CAR

Driver Charged with DWI. Ivan T. Riddick, 45, 52 Redding Court, was charged Saturday with driving while intoxicated, after he struck the rear of a car that had stopped on Witherspoon Street to make a left turn onto Leigh Avenue.

The accident was witnessed by Ptl. Robert Buchanan who had stopped another car near Leigh for a motor vehicle check.

Mr. Riddick was taken to police headquarters where he was one of the first drivers to be filmed by the department's new camera, charged and later released. He faces a court hearing March 13.

A passenger in the other car operated by Frank Petrone of 2663 Main Street, Lawrenceville, refused treatment for a minor injury.

BURGLAR IS CAUGHT

After Cleveland Lane Break-In. A 29-year-old Winslow resident, Kenneth T. Jones, is in Mercer County Jail in default of $5,000 bail, after he was apprehended early Sunday morning and charged with the burglary of a Cleveland Lane home.

Jones was grabbed shortly after 2:30 by Ptl. William Clark and Ptl. Ralph Terracciano after police had received a burglary report from a Cleveland Lane home at headquarters.

The officers making the initial response, Ptl. Donald Dawson and Ptl. William Nathan, approached the house from either side. The occupants were upstairs asleep, unaware of the drama taking place below. As Ptl. Dawson noticed a door that had been forced open, he saw a man run from the area. He identified himself as a police officer and ordered the suspect to stop. He continued to run.

Ptl. Dawson gave the location of the suspect to Clark and Terracciano in a backup car. They pursued and apprehended him on Cleveland Lane, subdued him, handcuffed him and transported him to headquarters.

While in the Cleveland Lane home, Jones had taken a leather briefcase from a chair, police said, a silver dish, and a second piece of silver.

A number of stolen items were recovered as the police investigation continued, Chief Michael Carnevale reported, including more than $300 in cash and two drawers of silverware which had been stolen earlier from the dining room of a home on Elm Road. The latter were recovered by Township in a wooded area while investigating a break-in on Westerly Road.

Charged with burglary and criminal attempt, Jones was later arraigned before Borough Judge Russell W. Annich Jr., who set bail of $5,000.

LOSS IS $4,500

In Leigh Avenue Entry. A Leigh Avenue home was entered last week and articles valued at approximately $4,500 were stolen.

Included in the haul were two television sets, a stereo system, tape deck, cassette tapes and a watch. Entry was gained by breaking out a storm window screen and opening a first-floor window.

Police report that the intruder first tried to enter the home — unsuccessfully — through the cellar by kicking in a basement window. The entry took place between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Borough police reported two separate entries last week in the 200 block of John Street.

Two kerosene heaters and a color television set with a combined value of $590 were stolen from a home which was entered overnight by breaking a pane of glass in a door and reaching in and unlocking the door.

The same day, an apartment was entered by breaking a pane of glass and unlocking a window. Stolen were a stereo system, a shortwave AM-FM radio and a clock radio.

The Stanworth area was the scene of two more break-ins -- both Sunday evening between 8:30 and 9:20.

Taken from one apartment entered through a ground-floor window were a stereo receiver, two speakers and a tape deck. Occupants from a second apartment were returning home at the time of the theft, police said, which prompted two intruders to run from the apartment toward John Street but not before they were able to cart off a $350 television set. A window had been broken to get inside.

From evidence at the scene, police believe two suspects were involved in both entries. One would enter the apartment and hand out the stolen items to an accomplice standing outside.

In another Borough entry during the weekend, an outside window was broken to gain entry to an office in the YMCA building. Two typewriters were stolen, police said.

Two on Westerly Road. At 11:20 Saturday night Township police investigated a report of a burglary in progress in a home on Westerly Road. The owners told police as they arrived home, they discovered the house had been entered and thought they heard someone running from the rear of the house. Forty feet from the house police found a screen from a sliding rear door, which they felt may have been dragged there by one of the intruders as he fled the house.

The house was lightly ransacked and police are waiting for a report from the owners as to what was stolen.

While Township and Borough police were checking the area (the home was near the Borough-Township line), police discovered an attempt to enter a second home on Westerly Road. They found a pane of glass in a garage door had been broken and although the garage was entered the house was not.

Ptl. Robert Buchanan uncovered two drawers containing silverware in the underbrush alongside a small stream which runs next to the house. In one drawer was a women's wallet containing credit cards and personal papers. As the police investigation continued, it was later ascertained that the items in the underbrush had been stolen from a home on Elm Road in the Borough.

A wallet containing $50 was stolen last week in an overnight entry into a home on Audubon Lane. It had been removed from a pocketbook.

The theft was discovered at 9:30 in the morning when one of the occupants came downstairs and noticed a window open. The wallet was later found some 150 feet from the open window minus the $50. Police report the house had been lightly ransacked.

CLEAR CUT CHARGES

On a Foggy Day. A foggy day in Princeton town has led to some clear cut police charges for two Trenton residents.

Ptl. Ralph Terracciano was on patrol at 6:58 Monday morning when he observed a car driving in a dense fog without lights on Wiggins Street. He stopped the car.

A computer crime check revealed that the passenger, Jimmie Lewis, 30, of Trenton, was wanted by the Trenton Police Department on a contempt of court charge. He was also charged with possession of cocaine. Lewis was issued a complaint summons calling for his appearance in court here on March 7 and then turned over to the Trenton police.

The driver, Kenneth Jenkins, 30, of Trenton, was charged with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana and with operating a car in fog without headlights. When Ptl. Terracciano also found a hatchet and knife in the car, he was charged with

Burger King Will Do It Our Way

It'll be a three-month wait for your first Burger King whopper. Princeton's Burger King is scheduled to open May 1 at 84 Nassau, where Buxton's used to be and there hasn't been so much excitement in town since they repainted the kiosk.

Landlord Umberto Roberto, who owns Hinkson's next door and in fact the whole building, says of franchisee Anthony Palagano, "I think he'll do a nice job. It'll be good for the town."

Burger King will provide full breakfasts, a salad bar and all the goodies. Princeton University students are ecstatic, and the Daily Princetonian ran an editorial saying "This new addition to the list of local dining options gives students cause to rejoice."

Mayor Barbara Sigmund has conferred with Mr. Palagano and obtained from him a commitment to clean up all the litter from Burger King for "half a mile in each direction." Also, the new sign will be like Buxton's — black and orange without any ketchup.

Elderly Invited to Attend PACE Activity Center at Redding Terrace

If you're elderly — over 55 — bored with watching television all day, kind of lonesome when daughter and son-in-law go off to work and leave you alone, you're invited to free-of-charge PACE, the Princeton Activity Center for the Elderly.

PACE meets twice a week, Tuesdays and Thursdays, in the Community Room at Redding Terrace. A van, driven by Greg Jones, picks you up every morning around 9 and takes you back home around 3:30. You get lunch. It doesn't matter if you need a wheelchair.

The chief criterion is income. Your own personal income cannot be more than $10,250 a year, if you are single, or $13,404 if you have a spouse. This means YOUR income. The son or daughter with whom you live could be a millionaire, but if your own private income is less than the figures above, you are eligible.

You must also live in the Princeton area or Mercer County.

What do participants do at PACE?

Well, in a table-top garden project, they've already planted seeds for this summer's garden. They've heard a classical guitarist. They've seen films on health, life-style and other subjects of interest to the elderly.

They marked the Chinese New Year. Ruth Howard, Program Activities Coordinator, baked a Valentine's Day bread. Mr. Jones baked cup-cakes for last week's Open House. (A bus-driver baking cup-cakes? Indeed. He also shoveled everybody's sidewalk snow after a recent storm so PACE people could make it out to the van. He calls you in the morning to remind you it's The Day.)

There is sewing, art, crafts, dance-exercise for those who want it.

And it's all free. You don't pay anything for anything, even for the no-salt-no-sugar lunch.

PACE is run by the Family Service Agency of Princeton. The director is Elaine Friedman, and she asks that you call her at 683-0083 all day Tuesdays or Thursdays if you are interested. She will take it from there.

THE ARAB WORLD AT THE LIBRARY: The newly formed Princeton Middle East Society has arranged an exhibit of books and artifacts from Arab countries that is currently on display in the front windows of the Public Library. Presenting a check to Robert Staples, center, director of the Library, are David Sisson, right, and Donald Wilbur, president and vice president, respectively, of the Society. At far left is Margaret Slighton, who has compiled a list of the Library's holdings on the Middle East, and Jane Clinton, head of acquisitions for the Library, is at far right.

WHAT'S UP WITH GYM

As a Senior Center? What ever happened to the Borough Hall gym as a Senior Center?

The question, raised last September by several interested groups, came up again this week. Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund and Council member John Huntoon now promise — or at least say — that the opening date for the Center is — next September.

"Now we have a time-line," the mayor declared.

The Princeton Art Association, which is leasing part of the gym from the Borough, will have its own section completed by this April, according to Mayor Sigmund. When the PAA part is done, then the Borough will seek bids on completion of the Senior Center part, with work to be done this sumemr.

All this came together at a meeting last Friday called by Mayor Sigmund and Mr. Huntoon. The mayor invited E. Harvey Myers, who is donating his services as an architect; Joseph Richards, president of the Princeton Senior Citizens Club; Alex Duthie and "Pat" Petrozzini of that organization; Mary Yess of the PAA; Karin Slaby, director of the Housing Authority, many of whose tenants are Seniors, and Marjorie Blaxill and Margaret Goheen of the Family Service Agency.

The gym roof has now been repaired and is intact, the mayor reported. So far, there have not been firm discussions about an operating structure and an operating budget, she added, but those will be coming along.

At the next meeting on February 27, Carl West, director of Mercer County's Office on Aging, will be present and it is expected that he will discuss programs.

MIDDLE EAST IS FOCUS Of New Organization. Drawing from the many Princeton residents who have lived and worked in the Middle East, as well as those for whom recent events have aroused concern for the area, The Princeton Middle East Society has been formed. Headed by David M. Sisson, a recently retired U.N. official, and Donald N. Wilber, a scholar of Iran, the Society is an outgrowth of humanitarian concern at the time of the Israeli invasion of Lebanon and a subsequent, successful fund raising event for the American University Hospital in Beirut. Its purpose is educational.

The Society has given the Princeton Public Library funds and specific titles to flesh out its collection on the Arab world. It will do the same for other areas of the Middle East. To celebrate formal incorporation, members last Sunday put on a large Iranian dinner, where, between dishes of lamb and spinach and tiny cups of tea, they listened to Jerome Clinton, of the University's Near East Department, discuss the implications of his correspondence with friends living under the Khomeini regime.

A window display at the Princeton Public Library for the month of February features articles belonging to members of the Society, among them a medieval cup from Iraq, Syrian brocades and Palestinian embroidery. Artist Carin Laughlin, the Society's treasurer, who was born in Beirut, made the Lebanese-style arches which frame the exhibit. Other members have produced for the public a book list from the Library's collection on the Arab world.

The library exhibit parallels a lecture series co-sponsored by the Society with the Princeton Adult School. The series is entitled "Middle East Minorities: Behind the Headlines," and consists of lectures by authorities in the field on five consecutive Thursdays at 8 p.m. This Thursday's lecturer is Prof. Mansur Ajami of Princeton University, speaking on the religious minorities in Lebanon.

Next week, Ira Silverman, president, the Reconstructionist Rabbinical College, Philadelphia, will speak on the role of political minorities in Israel. Although the series is heavily subscribed, individual lectures

The Princeton Middle East Society's brochure describes its purpose as a non-profit organization of American citizens constituted to interest and involve a larger segment of the American public in the problems and cultures of the Middle East.

"In keeping with United States ideals, the Princeton Middle East Society believes that there is a paramount need for peace and justice in this most critical region; that peace cannot be imposed by military might, nor can peace be attained if the rights of any group of people are systematically denied; that the long-term interests of the United States and its highest traditions demand that its foreign policy rise above factionalism; and that the potential for Soviet-U.S. confrontation in this area, which is vital to both, does not permit the luxury of public indifference towards, ignorance of, or simplistic solutions for, this tormented region," the brochure states.

The program of the society "strives to broaden understanding of Middle East complexities, to reduce racial and ethnic stereotyping of its peoples, to challenge bigotry about its cultures and religions, and to defend the free expression of less frequently heard points of view about its issues.

The Society's mailing address is 275 Mt. Lucas Road. Its membership fee is $25, and inquiries may be made at 924-5742.

TO FIGHT BLINDNESS

With RP Benefit. A new business in Princeton — H. Gross & Co.-Outfitters — has joined with the Retinitis Pigmentosa Foundation to present a benefit whose proceeds will go toward research into the hereditary blinding affliction.

The party will be held Saturday, March 3 and tickets are $100 each, of which $60 is tax-deductible. There is also a $150 Patrons ticket with $110 tax-deductible.

Festivities will begin at 7 with cocktails at H. Gross, One Palmer Square. (The store is scheduled to open March 5). In the store, guests may watch and listen to The Princeton Nassoons, barbershop quartets, mimes and the Princeton University Band, whose members will lead guests down Palmer Square to dinner at the Nassau Inn.

After the dinner — which will feature Quail Veronique, described as "a specially created entree" — there will be a "Broadway Cabaret" with the American Ballet Comedy, a dance troupe specializing in a blend of ballet and comedy.

IT'S NEW To Us

THE COUNTRY WORKSHOP located in the Marketplace on Route 27 has many new designs to offer shoppers this year. Duo upholstered sofas and sofa sleepers such as the one displayed here by owner Linda Milstein and Michael Gilmore, a handsome butcher block extension table and a new computer modular system are among the furnishings in stock. All pieces are made of beautiful solid hardwood of maple, walnut, and oak.

QUALITY FURNITURE

At Country Workshop. There is no substitute for quality in furniture. A mass-produced piece of inferior materials cannot compare to the beautiful solid hardwood furniture of white maple, oak, and walnut offered by The Country Workshop Classic, yet contemporary in design, this versatile furniture fills a showroom in the Marketplace on Route 27.

The Country Workshop, owned by Linda Milstein and Marsha Dowshen, and in business for 12 years, has added many interesting pieces to its line, yet continues to manufacture the same modular designs which have sold so well for so many years.

"Because our furniture is modular and pieces are meant to be added to year after year, it would be unfair to discontinue a design which has sold well. People are comfortable with the fact that they don't have to buy the whole system right now because it will be here for years to come," explains Mrs. Milstein.

All of the furniture is beautifully constructed of ¾ inch thick solid wood; drawers are completely dovetailed and center guided; drawer bottoms are set in a groove on four sides and reinforced with glue blocks, and cabinet tops are joined to sides with a locking joint and glue, resulting in a durable piece similar to one-of-a-kind pieces made by cabinet makers. All of the furniture is smoothly sanded and ready to finish, although pieces may be stained, finished, or painted to order by the shop's own craftsman.

Wide Selection. Substantial bookcases, cabinets, modular wall systems, chests, beds, baby cribs (which later can be transformed into a good looking sofa), butcher block tables, desks, hanging units, and many accessories are among the choices at The Country Workshop.

Chairs and sofas are new in the shop since our last visit and they are good buys. Stunning simple designs, such as the classic rush seat chair, the Windsor style, the bent-wood and the nutmeg chair, to mention a few, will please the shopper looking for a fine selection. A solid beech rocker will complement any room.

"That's what this type of furniture is all about. It can be used in any room in the home. It complements other special pieces which people have collected or inherited," continues the owner. Her partner, Mrs. Dowshen, is a talented potter. Several examples of her interesting work — bowls, mugs, plates and vases — are displayed on the many different styles of shelves in the store.

One very useful set of shelves is the collapsible set which are efficiently packed in an amazingly small box. At $49 each, one can be stacked on the other, an excellent way of displaying treasures or housing books.

The Country Workshop now carries one of the finest names in sofas and sofa sleepers — Duo upholstered pieces that can be ordered at prices considerably lower than the large department stores have to offer. Designed with hardwood frames, block bracing in full or queen size, the sofas are reliably delivered within eight weeks, according to Mrs. Milstein. The trundle bed, a space-saving design, has hardwood arms with one bed sliding under the other, and comes in a 30- or 39-inch width, as do the shop's bunk beds, which convert into twins.

Of special note this year is the Country Workshop's handsome butcher block extension dining table. The leaf conveniently pops up from where it is stored underneath.

Tripp-Trapp Chair. One of the biggest sellers here is the famous tripp-trapp chair for children, a unique adjustable chair designed in Norway. The seat and foot platforms can be raised or lowered so the chair grows with the youngster. A child's table and bench in maple will serve any size child for several years.

As the home computer becomes commonplace owners have to find a convenient way to place it in a room. Disk storage, monitors and printers can be cumbersome if not stored on the right kind of table. The Country Workshop has designed an ideal computer table this year, complete with a separate moveable shelf ideal for a printer. The top can be used with any file or a bookcase depending on program and family needs.

"The computer is being used in many different rooms of the house now, and this sytem insures flexibility," explains Mrs. Milstein, who does all of her bookkeeping at home on her personal computer conveniently stored in a handsome modular system. There are hundreds of pieces from which to choose at The Country Workshop.

NEW TRAVEL AGENCY

In Rocky Hill. Edie Deutsch is the kind of travel agent who will go the extra mile to make sure that her customers are not only happy with their travel plans but well suited to the places they will visit. Her new agency, The Travel Registry, located at 127 Washington Street in Rocky Hill, opened in June of last year.

An artist by profession and a former art teacher in the Princeton Regional Schools, Ms. Deutsch's offices reflect her good taste and flare for visiting interesting places. Portuguese pottery, baskets from various countries, and works of art, many her own work, decorate the walls and a large bay window. Sun pours in on a grouping of handsome upholstered chairs where clients sit and read brochures and travel books over a cup of coffee or tea. The atmosphere is unhurried and homelike.

"I have made a wealth of friends since I began working in the travel business more than ten years ago. I started my own business because my Princeton customers were so supportive and they have all come with me," explains Ms. Deutsch.

Her change of career was the result of a serious car accident and many long months of recovery. She then decided that "life was too short" to stay at home all the time and that if she could not travel herself, her friends would!" While she still manages to do some traveling, her business is so successful that there is little time in which to do it. "It's always a problem to work for friends. One worries more about all of the contingencies, and takes so much more care, but it's worth it," she laughs.

A good friend and client, who just returned from a fabulous trip to Africa which included a balloon safari over the Serengetti plain between Kenya and Tanzania, attests to the fact that Ms. Deutsch offers a personal service unusual in the business.

While the Travel Registry does a good amount of commercial work, the business is mostly geared to pleasure travel. Services include such important details as visas, passport arrangements, car or van rentals, all reservations necessary to make the trip pleasant.

Sophisticated Clientele. "I have a sophisticated clientele who have traveled extensively, so if I don't know something, I'll keep researching it until I find what our best options are. I have to do my homework, which is why Sunday has also become a working day for me," she continues.

Her research includes finding the best bargains available, but also the bargains which she considers most reliable. She will refuse to book her travelers on carriers which may not refund tickets or who may indeed not fly!

Now is the time to book reservations on summer charters if you are looking for a good buy. Ms. Deutsch suggests Greece or Portugal as good bargains this year. She has planned several vacations for clients interested in these countries from May through August. Airline charter rates are often cheaper than flying from one U.S. city to another.

What is most important to the Travel Registry, however, is working on a one-to-one basis. "It takes a good deal of experience and expertise to find what the right place might be for your client, a certain psychology and trust. What is terrific for one may be terrible for another. That's why I like this business. It's never boring," claims the owner.

So Many Options. There are a number of excellent charters to Germany and London right from Newark this year, perhaps a wiser course than a carrier such as People's Express which offers service on a first come-first served basis, according to Ms. Deutsch. Her main point is that there are so many different options to think about and that international travel is by no means out of the question for many travelers.

A trip to Spain or Portugal on a charter flight and reservations at the government-run posadas (small inns) can be rewarding and reasonable. Villas in the south of France or perhaps in Greece can be explored by the Travel Registry, and Israel is a good buy this summer, suggests Ms. Deutsch.

If this winter has been stress filled, book now for island reservations, because St. Maartens is already full for the Christmas holidays!

It is worthwhile to look at what Amtrak will offer this summer, according to the experts, who also believe that very few special fares to the west coast will be found this summer due to the Olympics. Ms. Deutsch is negotiating a group trip to the Orient on Northwest in October, when travelers may be able to take advantage of their travel coupons.

"I write a lot of tickets for free because of the coupon system," says Ms. Deutsch, "but that is what this business is all about. I want individuals to come here and feel that they've gotten their money's worth. That's how I designed this company and that's how I'm going to run it," she confirms with a smile.

Hours at the Travel Registry are from 9 to 5:30 Monday through Friday, from 9 to 4 on Saturdays and in the evening by appointment.

Low-Income Housing - Who Cares?
To the Editor of Town Topics:

RE: "Low-Income Housing for the Handicapped." (Town Topics, February 8th issue.)

Who Cares? I was born at Princeton Hospital, now The Medical Center at Princeton, when it was one, single dwelling. As a child, I would play under the evergreen trees, near what is the Medical Arts Building. The landscaping was so lovely.

My parents were forced from Princeton in the 1960's. Each time my father received a raise he also received a rent increase. We moved from Clay Street to Franklin Terrace and then to South Brunswick. (My dreams were shattered because I always wanted to attend Princeton High School).

I left Princeton to attend school and returned five years later. I returned because I wanted my children to experience the landmarks of my childhood; the community that molded my life; the environment of my ancestors. My great-uncles, uncles, aunts and cousins, began their adult lives, working and living in this community.

Today, everywhere I look, luxurious new homes are rising for sale. Or the older, well-built homes are for sale. Where are the less-fortunate (financially) to live? These people who lived and worked in this community, all of their lives? (Of course on my salary, I don't dare dream of owning anything in this area!)

Do they, because they are non-professionals, have to leave this community because they will no longer, be able, to afford it? My father has worked for the Borough, twenty-plus years. He won't be able to retire here, even though soon he will own his own home. The taxes and cost-of-living will drive him and my mother out. My uncles and aunts are already making plans to move elsewhere when they retire. (I'll have to move this summer and I'm nowhere near retirement age). They are all such lovely people. I think their predicaments are a true American tragedy.

I also believe good citizens should be cherished. What I'd like to know is why this state, especially this community, cannot come up with a plan to keep these wonderful, historical, characters, in their proper settings? If they can concentrate on building lovely homes I'm sure they can concentrate on a profitable plan for themselves and their citizens. Can anyone answer me? Who cares?

CYNTHIA J. POPE
Princeton Community Village

P.S. I'm not pleading for my families, alone; there are many families I've come to know in this predicament. I'm also very happy for the handicapped who will receive low-income housing, but what about we happy and "health-ies"!

Protests Bearse Choice.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Democrats, who should be uniting behind the best candidate they can offer the public to run for Congress this year, seem to be crowding the field. One of the newest is Borough Councilman Peter Bearse of Princeton, who doesn't live in the district but is hoping redistricting might put him there.

What disturbs me about this candidacy is how Mr. Bearse intends to open it. He says he is planning a fundraiser built around the appearance on his behalf of Melvin King, a failed candidate for mayor in Boston.

Mr. King created a stir in Boston by his declaration that he would welcome P.L.O. terrorist leader Yasir Arafat to that city with a "warm embrace." Anyone who would welcome that champion of murderous violence to a great American city is not only insensitive to Jews, and victims of terrorism the world over, but shows a disregard of basic values of civilized nations.

Confronted by public indignation at his embrace of Arafat, Mr. King snapped that the late Roman Catholic cardinal archbishop of Boston, Humberto Madeiros, was also an anti-Semite. This smear further inflamed the Boston community, which overwhelmingly rejected him.

The fact that a would-be candidate for Congress in our area should even think to identify himself with a politician of Melvin King's ilk deeply concerns me. I see it, at least, as a serious error of judgement on Councilman Bearse's part to ally himself with a man of King's views.

$38,000 SOUGHT

By Choir and Orchestra. Trumpet players raked leaves, cellists baked brownies and tenors sang for their future suppers as Princeton High School students topped the $12,000 mark last month for this summer's trip to a music competition in Vienna, Austria.

Eleven musical groups will represent the United States at the International Youth and Music Festival in Vienna. Princeton High is the only school to send two groups — the choir and orchestra — in one year.

Toward a goal of $186,000, parents have pledged more than $100,000 and individuals and corporations have contributed more than $12,000. A chrysanthemum sale brought in $4,200 and a cabaret show netted $12,000, but at least $38,000 is still needed.

For a work month last fall, the students coordinated a job service for which the singers and instrumentalists wielded rakes, served at parties, did odd jobs, and serenaded with chamber ensembles.

Michael White, a trombone player and choir member, was one of the many leaf rakers. Kate Schneier, an avid cook and cello player, catered parties and baked brownies for the cause, while Hilary Beggs, a choir member, cleaned attics.

Now that the work month is over, the teenagers recognize that the efforts produced more than money. "Though it would have been nice to have the money fall from the sky, the fundraising has served to forge a unity," says Simon Miller, choir president. Chamber quartets and small singing ensembles continue to fulfill engagements at parties and weddings.

For information on the group's entry in the competition or to make a donation — contact Florence M Burke, 924-5600.

HUNGER IS TOPIC Of Meeting Tuesday. The Princeton Hunger Coalition will hold a Hunger Resources Meeting on Tuesday at 8 at the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill Road.

The meeting is planned to give information and resources to representatives of local hunger groups and to others interested in fighting hunger. The program will start with a showing of slides prepared by a state blue ribbon commission on hunger, showing a variety of hunger-fighting activities carried on across the state.

Speakers who will describe hunger needs world-wide, in the Princeton area and in Trenton, are Joan Diefenbach, director of New Jersey Impact, Terry L. Grove, regional director of Church World Service-CROP, Carol Kerbel, director of the Community Crisis Ministry in Princeton, and the Rev. Barbara North, consultant on hunger needs in Trenton.

The Princeton Hunger Coalition has prepared for distribution at the meeting a directory of hunger organizations that are active locally, nationally and internationally, with a brief description of their activities. An updated directory of the membership in the Princeton Hunger Coalition will also be available.

In addition there will be a resources display of newsletters and other publications and materials produced by hunger-fighting organizations.

The public is invited and is asked to call Adrienne Anderson, 921-6697, if planning to attend.

DEADLINE IS FRIDAY

For Trip Registration. The Recreation Department is sponsoring two trips for which pre-registration and a deposit are due on Friday.

The first is a trip to Perona Farms on Wednesday, March 21, to see "Two by Two." The cost is $20 for the show, transportation and lunch.

The second is a four-day trip to The Concord in Kiemesha Lake, N.Y., June 11-14. The cost of this trip is $165 per person, which includes all meals, accommodations and transportation.

A $10 deposit is required for the Perona Farms trip, while a $50 deposit must be made for the trip to The Concord.

For additional information, call 921-9480.

CLASSES AVAILABLE

In Aerobic Expression. Evening classes in Aerobic Expression are underway on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6 to 7 at the John Witherspoon School gymnasium. The classes will continue for 10 weeks until April 26.

The cost is $15 for Princeton residents and $30 for non-residents. Registration forms are available at the Recreation Department. For additional information call 921-9480.

HOST FAMILIES SOUGHT

By AFS. Princeton sent seven students abroad in 1982-83 through AFS International-Intercultural Programs.

Five of these returnees have joined the Princeton Chapter to share their experiences and to assist in the drive to recruit host families. Jessica Greenstein, Lindsey McCord, Keith McNeill, Christine Nielsen, and Bryon Price lived in Denmark, Belgium, Peru, Norway and Venezula respectively.

The Princeton Chapter has 14 qualified candidates awaiting final acceptance and assignments in 1984. "Princeton needs additional host families if we are to sustain a sending program of this magnitude," says Anne Bolick, Princeton Chapter president. The primary requirement is that the family be open to new ideas and interested in people. Although many host families have children of high school age, families with small children or no children are eligible to apply.

Host families are not asked to make special expenditures for their AFS student, but they do pay food and incidental expenses as they would for a member of their family. Host families may take a monthly deduction of $50 in accordance with the provisions of the US Internal Revenue Service. AFS extends medical coverage to its students as well as sending them monthly allowances.

"More important than the financial contribution a family makes is the interest and attention they provide the AFS students," Mrs. Bolick stressed. "They are more than compensated by the rewards they gain in return."

Princeton presently has one host family. Javier Jimenez, from Ecuador, is with The Henry Gallaghers, 148 Herrontown Road, who have previously been hosts.

Families interested in participating in the AFS experience should call Keith Wheelock, 466-3229, or Mrs. Bolick, 921-3298.

introduced its own $7.5 million budget.

Borough and Township share library expenses, the Township paying two-thirds and the Borough one-third. The additional $8,179 means $2,944 more for the Borough, $5,235 for the Township. For a report of Township action, see Page 3.

The additional library money would provide $5,000 more for books and money to keep the library open Thursday nights and on Saturdays in the summer. The full library budget is $651,412.

In other budget decisions, Council set a $12,000 maximum for grants consultant Charles Nathanson, added $12,000 for road repair, $1,900 for the Shade Tree Commission and $122 for Rent Registration to publicize the requirement that landlords register rental units.

The new budget includes money to replace three police cars, hire three sewer-crew members and, at mid-year, a fire inspector.

The new rate is 48 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. With reassessment, a house formerly assessed at $100,000 is now worth 15 percent more, or $115,000. Owners will pay $27 more a year in local taxes, not counting school or county levies.

Borough residents will pay more for garbage disposal. By March 1, all communities in the county must go to GROWS, the Pennsylvania landfill. The cost will go from $2.90 to $4.17, but the figure includes a seven percent saving by working through the Mercer County Improvement Authority.

Public hearing on the Borough budget will be March 13 at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. Copies of the budget will be available for the public at the hearing.

NEED MORE POLICE

Council May Act. "This is what taxpayers' money is for — protection from crime and fire, decent roads and sewers — and you can't ignore these basics."

Borough Police Commissioner Barbara Hill was scheduled to make this plea at Tuesday's Council session, backing up the request of Police Chief Michael Carnevale for at least one more officer. There are now 29 members on the Borough force.

She said on Tuesday that she doesn't know whether she will have Council's support, adding, "I would be really appalled if Council turned this down."

In a nine-page report to Council, Chief Carnevale states that 90 percent of the time, his department is operating at minimum strength and, with illness, sometimes below that. It has been necessary to cancel attendance at training courses because of shortages.

"We have finally reached the point where the issue of additional help has reached serious proportions," the Chief declares.

The Department has four squads of five officers each. Daytime is not particularly a problem, Commissioner Hill explains, because the detectives and senior officers are on duty. But the 3-11 p.m. shift is bad, especially on Monday when court is in session.

Officers who are supposed to testify either cannot come because they are on duty, or must leave in the middle of testimony so that Judge Russell Annich must stop the case, begin another and return later to the original case.

"Sometimes," Commissioner Hill explains, "an officer will be brought in early for the 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. shift so that he can testify. But if he comes in four hours early, he will go home four hours before the 11-7 shift is over.

"If the shift is one down already, perhaps because of illness, it will be down a second man for the last four hours. We must have one man on the desk. This leaves only two for the last four hours.

"It is required to have two officers for 'Driving While Intoxicated' cases, and this is the shift when the DWIs occur. It takes time: breath analysis, videotapes of the alleged drunk driver. Even if the shift is at full, five-man strength, there is only one left to answer a call."

Chief Carnevale says there has been a 100 percent increase in DWI cases from 1980 to 1983, and most arrests occur in evening hours.

Chief and Commissioner also report many calls for help from elderly or infirm people.

"During the 7-11 shift," Commissioner Hill says, "a frail, elderly man may be unable to get out of the bathtub and his elderly wife is unable to lift him and calls the police. Or a nurse cannot lift a person who has fallen out of bed.

"We get a fair number of these calls — 44 in 1983."

There are also cats in trees, bats and raccoons and op-

IRS Memo

The IRS is again warning taxpayers to be sure and return the W-9 forms recently received from banks and similar institutions. Unless these forms are returned, taxpayers run the risk of having 20 percent of interest and dividend income withheld this year.

The forms, which ask you to verify your Social Security number, must be signed and returned, but apparently they have been ignored by many taxpayers. If you have ignored yours, you could not only be subject to the withholding, but also be penalized $50 on each account that lacks the signed verification.

In another message, the IRS points out that if you are self-employed and earned over $400 last year, your income is subject to a 9.35 percent self-employment tax in addition to the regular Federal income-tax.

The 9.35 is actually a social security tax, and it must be paid on self-employed income up to $35,700. It can cover part-time work done at home or earnings derived as sole proprietor, member of a partnership or an independent contractor.

possums in the house, "and we'd rather the householder didn't deal with these."

"You can't tell someone who has fallen to wait, or ask that robberies, assaults and burglaries be at sometime other than night."

Estimated cost of another officer is $20,000. Chief Carnevale thinks an additional officer could, through traffic enforcement, bring to the Borough about $66,000 a year.

SNAGS ABOUND

In Dredging Project. Those who were involved in the negotiations in the 1970s to turn the 9.9 acres of swamp and dumping ground at the foot of Alexander Street into Turning Basin Park fully expected that the state would dredge the basin at the same time it was dredging a 32-mile section of the adjoining Delaware and Raritan Canal.

A 50 percent Green Acres grant, for the $100,000 estimated cost of removing some 4,000 cubic yards of sediment from the turning basin, was released when the Township decided to proceed with converting the 6.3-acre portion west of the Alexander Road Bridge and leave the dredging of the turning basin east of the bridge to the state.

But such a promise, if it was a promise, was never put in writing. In December, the Township discovered that the turning basin is not included in the dredging project that is scheduled to be carried out later this year by the New Jersey Water Supply Authority which owns and operates the canal.

The authority has concluded that the Princeton basin does not come under its purview because it is on land owned by the municipality and not the state. By contrast, the Kingston turning basin is on state-owned land and will be dredged.

But even the ownership of the Princton turning basin is in question. According to Township Attorney Edwin S. Schmierer, the university spent much time and money in searching the title for the 3.6 acre parcel east of Alexander Road. When the property was transferred to the Township in 1977 for recreational and historic preservation purposes, the title was not clear.

Township Mayor Winthrop S. Pike says that one option may be to deed the property to the state so that the Water Supply Authority can reconsider its decision not to include the dredging. He also says there may be "legislative help" for the situation, but prefers not to specify what this might be as yet.

MANY PRIZES OFFERED

In Boychoir Benefit. More than $5,000 worth of door prizes will be presented at the American Boychoir School's benefit, "Just Desserts," to be held on Saturday, March 10, at the Hyatt Regency.

The event will feature three courses of desserts interspersed with seven musical groups giving performances of Gilbert and Sullivan, ragtime, Sousa, Dixieland and popular music. One of the door prizes, a Cybis ballerina, has been appraised at more than $500 and is a specially decorated artist's proof and the only one of its kind.

Others are a round trip flight to Washington, including an overnight at the DuPont Plaza; four tickets to a Philadelphia 76ers game; dinner for two at Scanticon; a music album a month for a full year; a car wash a week for three months; Sunday brunch for two at the Hyatt; a watch; tennis racquets; Handel Messiah albums by the American boychoir and four tickets to great Adventure.

The deadline for ideas and suggestions for additional doorprizes is 8 p.m. March 10 when the event begins at the Hyatt Regency. For more information, or to contribute to this list, call Julia Holofcener at the American Boychoir School, 924-5858.

COURSE AVAILABLE

In Scuba Diving. The YWCA and Princeton Aqua Sports are offering a "Learn to Scuba Dive" course.

Phase I, the academic and pool training, requiring six sessions, will be held at the YWCA, beginning Friday, February 24, and will meet every Friday from 7 to 10:30 p.m., through March 30. The fee is $135. The student must supply mask, fins, snorkel, weight belt and textbook. Princeton Aqua Sports will supply tanks, air, back packs, buoyancy compensators, regulators, and pressure gauges. The instructor will be Kenneth A. Wood, PADI No. 15655.

For scuba certification, students must complete academic and pool training (Phase I) and Open Water Training. A letter of referral will be given to each student after the completion of Phase I, which is the prerequisite for Phase II, Open Water Training. Open Water Training may be taken locally or on a warm water trip.

Call Princeton Aqua Sports, 924-4240, for details. Register for the course at the YWCA, Paul Robeson Place, or at Princeton Aqua Sports, 306 Alexander Street.

SPEAKER PLANNED

By Jobseekers Group. Larry A. Evans, executive vice president of Right Associates, will be a workshop entitled "Optimal Re-Employment" for Job Seekers of Princeton on Tuesday from 7:30 to 9:30.

Job Seekers is a support group/workshop for those who are unemployed or underemployed. It meets Tuesday evenings at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street.

Mr. Evans will stress self-assessment, defining career objectives, effective networking, interviewing and negotiating. He is one of the original founders of Right Associates and calls himself a re-employment specialist.

Job Seeker programs are free, and those who are unemployed are encouraged to join.

PTA TO BENEFIT

From Fashions and Games. The St. Paul's School PTA will hold a Fashion Show and Game Night on Friday, February 24, at 7:30 in St. Paul's Church basement, Nassau Street.

Fashions will be provided by Hit or Miss of Mercer Mall. Among the door prizes will be tickets to a Broadway show. Refreshments will be served, and participants are invited to bring their favorite game or cards.

Tickets at $5 per person will be available at the door or by phoning 448-3837 or (201) 359-6821 in advance.

CLARIFICATION

A story in last week's Town Topics about new state building permit applications referred to reactions on the part of Borough officials to the new forms and seemed to imply that Township officials felt the same. Township building inspector Betty Jablonski stated this week that for her part, she is "satisfied" with the new procedures.

Institute Lands

The appraisal, by a professional retained by the Friends, will be presented to Institute trustees in April.

The Institute has explained that the kind of research it supports is costly, and that money from developing the lands is essential for income.

Last March, the Institute told the Planning Board it would need approximately $10 million not to develop its lands. The 537-acre property lies along Quaker Road and includes woodlands, farmlands, wetlands and parts of Stony Brook.

———

Two proposals, and a long-range third, have been suggested to Institute trustees by the Friends.

In one, the Trust for Public Land would approach foundations and corporations for money to buy the Institute's development rights. The buyer, by giving money to the non-profit Trust, would obtain a tax advantage and the Trust would give the money to the Institute.

In another, there would be a land swap. A property-owner anywhere in the United States would give the Institute land of comparable value to the 537 acres. In return, the Institute would give up its right to develop the property.

Advantages to Donors. "The advantages to the donor would be real and substantial," explained Rosemary Blair, president of the Friends. She also said it could be a "bargain sale," in which a property is sold at less than market value, resulting in tax savings through a reduction in capital gains liability, plus a charitable contribution deduction.

William Starr, a Friends trustee, cited a north Jersey community which wanted to preserve AT&T lands. Although AT&T wanted $5 million, it agreed to $1 million and took a tax loss. The Trust for Public Land picked up the property and is developing only a small part, leaving the rest in open space.

The third proposal, more long-range in nature, envisions a Greenway through central New Jersey along the Delaware and Raritan Canal parallel to Route One (and embracing Institute property). The Greenway could consist of privately-owned land with easements allowing the public to enter, park space, corporate parks like those of Lenox or Squibb or such public lands as Princeton's Turning Basin Park, the Mercer County Golf course or the Port Mercer conservation area.

"We have a very good, upbeat relationship with the Institute," emphasized James Sayen, second vice-president of the Friends. "They have not cancelled their development plans, but the more options we unveil, the more important their crown-jewel of land becomes and the more they see it is to their advantage to resolve their financial problem without building 400 houses."

The Friends number almost 600 members, Mrs. Blair reported, adding that the quality of this membership list has not been lost on the Institute.

"We're very appreciative of their sensibility and their willingness to listen and to keep up a working relationship," she stated.

———

But Jose Garcia, of the Sierra Club has a different perception.

"We would like a very positive, unequivocal statement from the Institute that they will not develop their land," he declared. "There are enough reasons, given the ecological value of the land — it's not just a woodlot or a farm — and the amount of public opposition to development.

———

"The burden shouldn't be on the Friends, but on the Institute. The matter shouldn't have to depend on the success of the Friends or the Trust."

Friends who presented the report to the Institute were Laurence Norris Kerr, Mrs. Blair and Mr. Sayen. Institute representatives were Harry Woolf, director of the Institute, and Alan I. Rowe, associate director for administration and finance.

Sewers

"I was genuinely shocked when I learned that the total flow at the plant itself had never been measured until this year, so that all (participating) municipalities were being charged on what the Authority calls a 'synthetic total.'"

Engineer George Olexa and attorney Walter Bliss are continuing these inquiries, Mayor Sigmund reminds Mr. Kling, in light of the Authority's three-year underbilling of both Borough and Township, and the subsequent demand for payment.

They are attempting to correlate raw meter data from past years, Mayor Sigmund explains, with figures the Authority's auditor has repeatedly stated "do not constitute an examination made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards." The words are those of the auditor.

Audits of the Authority in 1980, 1981 and 1982 add, "We do not express an opinion on the amounts refundable to or receivable from individual members as of November 20 (of those three years.) The auditing firm is Arthur Young & Company.

Mayor Sigmund has sent copies of her letter to the mayors of West Windsor, South Brunswick and Princeton Township — all Authority members.

after a first half that saw them shoot only 32 percent from the floor. Playing a collapsing zone, Penn gave Billy Ryan an uncontested shot from the top of the key, but he could sink only four of 15 attempts.

John Smyth was one of four from the side, but the team's leading scorer Kevin Mullin, playing in close, rarely saw the ball, and never attempted a shot. A brief Princeton lead at the outset disappeared with 12:09 left in the half, when the Quakers took a 6-5 lead. They twice built it up to five points before the intermission, and might well have put the Tigers away early had they not committed several turnovers.

The Red and Blue led 22-17 at the half, and increased that to a seven-point bulge early in the second. But Carril had made an adjustment that began to pay off, moving Carter to the top of the key and Ryan to the side, where he could get the ball to Mullin. "Billy's the only one who could get the ball into Moon," Carril commented later. "He has the good low pass."

A three-point play by Mullin brought the Tigers to within four, 30-26, and Levy then hit his first basket of the night to cut the deficit to two midway through the second half. But it

LET'S TALK ABOUT

NOTES FOR NEW GARDENERS
with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

If this is your first home, you're probably anxious to put the personal touch on the exterior of your home. Here are a few suggestions to help you plan your landscape design for spring. Whether your home is brand new or an older home that you feel might need a new look, choose your trees and shrubs now so warmer weather will not catch you without a plan of action.

Your property, soil, outdoor interests should be considered before investing in plants that will hopefully become permanent assets. Your property size, type of home and existing trees will play a part. If there are trees check where shadows fall, both winter and summer. Take a soil sample to the local county agent and have it tested. Is the property hilly and dry, or flat and damp? This will obviously play a part in just what shrubs and trees will be suitable.

What are your interests? How much time do you want to give to your garden? If you have young children you may want to consider a large lawn area with a large tree for the children to climb. Do you want a garden and fruit trees or a large deck or terrace for entertaining and lots of flowers for picking? Do you want a grove of trees and eventually a shady glen for ferns, wildflowers and birds?

Think about what you really would like. Consult a landscape designer or perhaps, if you are a do-it-yourself family, you might think about working on one area each year. This is a most economical approach and each year will bring new and exciting areas to your property. Whatever your final decision, remember that your trees and shrubs are living, growing things and need care to survive. WOODWINDS (924-3500) offers complete Annual Maintenance Programs to fit your property needs. Call us!

took Princeton another six minutes to get the tying basket. A lay-up by Mullin with 4:34 to go made it 36 apiece.

The Tigers were lucky to get to that point. On two occasions, Penn's Rick Maloney and Bruce Lefkowitz missed a pair of two-shot fouls. The Tigers, got the ball and ran three and a half minutes off the clock waiting for the last shot, but Isaac Carter missed a jumper from the side, sending the game into overtime.

Smyth hit a jumper to make it 38-36, and then made a key steal after Levy and Karl Racine had both hit one of two from the foul line. Mullin and Smyth connected on both ends of one-and-one situations to give Princeton a six-point lead, 43-37 with 52 seconds left. Two more by Mullin with 16 remaining, sealed the victory.

He and Ryan ended with 12 on the night, as Princeton improved its shooting percentage to 56. Ryan, who can go a whole game without taking a shot from the field, attempted 20, the other four starters between them took 23.

Children Act Fast... So Do Poisons!

Call this number — anytime during the 24 hours. It's the Poison Control Center of the Medical Center of Princeton.

If you know what was swallowed or splashed in the eyes, tell the person who answers the call.

If you don't know, describe the symptoms.

From the hospital's file of poisons and antidotes, you'll be given emergency instructions. Don't make the patient vomit unless instructed to do so.

Take the victim to the Center's Emergency Room.

Most accidental poisoning happens to children under the age of five. But even if you have no small children — pay attention! You might have young visitors ..... you might have medication in your handbag when you visit a home with young kids ..... and you, yourself ought to be wary.

Little kids are vulnerable because they automatically put everything into their mouths. They imitate what they see grown-ups do. They are curious.

But child-resistant packaging helps: in the five years after 1972, when safety-packaging laws went into effect, deaths of children from causes related to poisoning declined 56 percent

Here are some pointers.

- Drain cleaners and other cleaners and furniture polishes shouldn't be stored under the sink, where crawling babies can reach them.
- Don't leave medication on a bedside table or in your handbag, within reach of a toddler's hand.
- Lock up these products if you can, even if safety packaging has been used.
- Don't put gasoline, turpentine, paint thinner or lighter fluid for barbecue fires into cups or soft-drink bottles. Kids associate these containers with something good to drink.
- If you're using furniture polish or any household cleaning substance, never let it out of your sight, even to answer the doorbell.
- Keep medicines in a different place from household products.
- Keep everything in its original container and leave on the label.
- When you're taking medicine yourself, or giving it to a child, turn the light on. Don't grope in the dark and use the first bottle you find.
- If possible, don't take medicine in front of a child. Kids love to imitate grown-ups.
- Call it "medicine" when you give it to a child — never refer to it as "candy" to get your child to take it.
- Clear out the medicine cabinet frequently. Throw out what you no longer need

OBITUARIES

Alan W. Richards, 84, died suddenly at his home February 7 of a heart attack. He lived at 617 Princeton-Kingston Road.

A resident of Princeton for 49 years and a well known freelance photographer, he was a familiar figure as he walked rapidly along Nassau Street, often accompanied by his purebred English bulldog, Bobo or — since 1977 — a smaller bulldog called Tiger Lady.

In a 1979 article about Mr. Richards and his relationship with Albert Einstein, a Town Topics reporter said the photographer was "voluble, as full of nervous energy and enthusiasm as a man half his 75 years." He retained those qualities to the end of his life, although he was plagued in recent years by a back ailment that kept him confined to his home.

He met Dr. Einstein in Princeton in 1945, and to mark Einstein's 100th birthday in 1979, published a book, "Einstein As I Knew Him," containing anecdotes about the physicist and conversations between the two men.

In the book, Mr. Richards recalls showing Einstein the new invention called the strobe light, explaining why he preferred it to flash bulbs. After hearing Mr. Richards' explanation, the photographer reported, Einstein remarked "You are now involved in the bombardment of particles."

———

Born in Scotland and educated at Fettes College in Edinburgh, he served with the Royal Air Force during World War I.

A self-taught amateur photographer, he came to the United States on the advice of a grandfather who said to him, "England is dead. I'll give you enough to live on in the States for three months. See if you can make it there."

"I took it and came here," Mr. Richards once related, "and I never went back."

Answering a "photographer wanted" ad in 1943, he found himself at Princeton University in the Palmer physics labs photographing "I knew not what." He learned later that it was the atom bomb Manhattan Project."

———

Continuing as a free-lance with the University, he photographed football, basketball and baseball games and served as a stringer for the New York Times, Time Magazine, Life, and various papers in England and the Continent. He worked with Town Topics for many years as a free-lance, covering a variety of sports and news events.

One of his proudest pictures was taken in 1947 during Princeton University's Bicentennial. It was his "Three Presidents" photograph, showing present-President Harry S. Truman, past-President Herbert Hoover and — although no one knew it then — future-President Dwight D. Eisenhower, all with University President Harold Dodds.

Mr. Richards was a member of Princeton Lodge No. 38 F&AM and was a 32nd Degree Mason. He was a strong supporter of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad and several years ago mounted a one-man fund-raising campaign, writing to individuals and institutions in Princeton and obtaining for the Squad the entire Princeton University Chapel collection for one Sunday.

He is survived by his wife, the former Glenda Gilmore whom he married in 1946 and with whom he traveled extensively, circumnavigating the world twice and making frequent trips to the Soviet Union. He covered the 1948 Olympics in London and the 1956 Olympics in Melbourne.

Mrs. Richards, now retired, taught Latin at Princeton High School for 29 years. He is survived also by a sister and two nephews in England.

A memorial service will be held at 3:30 this Friday in Marquand Transept of Princeton University Chapel. Dr. Donald MacLeod, Professor Emeritus of Princeton Theological Seminary and a long-time friend of Mr. Richards, will officiate. Burial will be in Grove City, Pennsylvania, in Mrs. Richards' family plot. Princeton arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Rescue Squad, P.O. Box 529, Princeton, N.J. 08542.

Louis Gerber, Princeton Township Magistrate for 27 years, died February 7 at the Merwick Unit of Princeton Medical Center. He was 92 and lived on Edgerstounc Road.

Born in Tuckerton, Judge Gerber moved to Princeton from Trenton in 1929 to set up a general practice in law at 20 Nassau Street. He was a 1917 graduate of Colgate University where he earned a B.A. degree in history, and in 1920 he received his law degree from Harvard Law School.

For 48 years he was counsel of record for Princeton Savings and Loan Association and was named director emeritus. He served as Princeton Township Attorney as well as Magistrate for many years until New Jersey law required separation of the two. As Township Attorney, he joined Borough Attorney William van de Water in 1932 to draw up the original Sewer Operating Committee agreement among Princeton University and the two municipal governments.

Judge Gerber served for 60 years in the governmental affairs department of Public Service Electric & Gas Co. as liaison with the New Jersey Legislature and in those years never missed the opening session of the Legislature. He received two citations from the chairman and the president of Public Service. He also served as counsel and New Jersey Legislature liaison for the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey.

He was admitted to the New Jersey Bar in 1922 and after 50 years was awarded life membership. He was also a member of the Princeton Bar Association and the Mercer County Bar Association. In 1981, the New Jersey Assembly recognized his long years of service by a resolution in the Assembly.

He is survived by his wife, Mary E. Gerber.

A private service was held with burial in Princeton Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to Colgate University, Hamilton, N.Y.

Simon Marcson, 73, retired professor of sociology at Rutgers University, died February 12 at Princeton Medical Center. He lived on Marion Road East.

Born in Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, Dr. Marcson had been a resident of Princeton since 1955. He held A.B., A.M. and Ph.D. degrees, all from the University of Chicago. Before joining the Rutgers faculty in 1955, he served in teaching and research positions at the University of Chicago, Columbia University, Princeton University, Wayne University, Brooklyn College, Temple University and Penn State University.

Dr. Marcson specialized in the sociology of science and organizations, and his work had been published broadly. Author of The Scientist in American Industry (1960) and Scientists in Government (1966), he was a contributor of numerous journal articles, reports and monographs. He had also served as a consultant to the United Nations, NASA, the U.S. department of Labor, and the U.S. Civil Service Commission, as well as to industry.

He was the recipient of grants from the U.S. Office of Education, the National Science Foundation, Carnegie Foundation, the American Academy of Science, Columbia University Social Science Research Council and Rutgers University Research Council. In addition he had served on a number of commissions on educational issues for New Jersey State, Mercer County and Princeton Township government.

Dr. Marcson was a fellow of the American Sociological Association, the American Anthropological Association, the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the Society for Applied Anthropology. He is listed in American Men of Science, the Directory of American Scholars, Who's Who in American Education and Who's Who in the East.

Surviving are his wife, Florence Marcson; two sons, Michael Marcson of Baltimore, Md., and R. Anthony Marcson of Bowling Green, Ohio; a granddaughter, Nicole Marcson of Maryland; a grandson, John Marcson of Ohio; and a brother, Frederick Marcson of Chicago.

The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home, Rabbi Melvin J. Glatt of the Princeton Jewish Center, officiating. Burial was private. Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, PO Box 529, Princeton 08542.

Lilian C.B. Moore, age 86, died February 11 in Vermont after a long illness. She was the wife of the late Dr. J. Leonard Moore, a Princeton pediatrician.

Mrs. Moore was born in Sweden. She and her husband lived in Beirut, Lebanon, where Dr. Moore was head of pediatrics and dean of the medical school at the Ameican University of Beirut. Mrs. Moore, a registered nurse, taught nursing at the AUB Hospital. Their three children were born in Beirut.

During the Second World War the Moores moved to Princeton where Dr. Moore, with the help of his wife, started the Princeton Medical Group.

Mrs. Moore was active in volunteer work in Princeton. Her greatest interest was going weekly to the Fort Dix hospital as a Red Cross Gray Lady volunteer. She did this faithfully for more than 25 years. She was also an active participant at the Nassau Presbyterian Church and the Present Day Club.

———

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Leighton H. Laughlin of Princeton; a son, Dr. Thomas J. Moore of Plainfield, Vt; nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Another son, John L. Moore Jr., died in May, 1980.

A memorial service will be held in the Nassau Presbyterian Church chapel on Saturday, March 10, at 2 p.m.

———

Minnie F. Rodweller, 81, died February 11 at the Lawnwood Memorial Hospital, Fort Pierce, Fla. Born in Princeton, Mrs. Rodweller was a lifetime area

GUEST PREACHER SET

For Black Heritage Sunday. The Princeton Univeristy Chapel invites the public to attend its celebration of Black History Month on Black Heritage Sunday, February 19.

The Rev. Dr. James Goode, O.F.M., will be the guest preacher at the 11 a.m. worship service, and the Angelic Ensemble of Shiloh Baptist Church, New Rochelle, N.Y., will be the guest choir. Princeton University students have assisted in designing the service, in conjuntion with the Aquinas Institute, the Baptist Chaplaincy and the University Chapel.

Black Heritage Sunday will conclude with an organ concert by Princeton senior Gregory Jack at 7 p.m. in the University Chapel. Mr. Jack is the organist at the Church of St. Peter the Great, Brooklyn. The concert program will include works by Dietrich Buxtehude, J.S. Bach, Johannes Brahms, Felix Mendelssohn and Cesar Franck.

INTER FAITH SYMPOSIUM

At Seminary. A Global Community Symposium with the theme, "What Is Our Calling as Neighbors," will be held on Monday at the Campus Center Auditorium at Princeton Theological Seminary. This meeting is open to the public, and community participation is encouraged.

Representatives of Buddhism, Christianity, Hinduism, Islam, Judaism, Sufism and other faiths will be present.

The cost of the Symposium will be $10. Students may attend for a fee of $5 and scholarships are available. Pre-registration is appreciated, but registration at the door is possible beginning at 9 a.m. Monday. The Symposium begins at 10 a.m. and ends at 8 p.m.

Participants are asked to bring their own lunch. Beverages will be available. A natural vegetarian dinner, at a cost of $5 will be served for those who have registered by Thursday noon. Those who wish to pre-register should call the Professional Studies office at 921-8049.

BULLETIN NOTES

The first in a series of monthly covered dish suppers sponsored by the Princeton Monthly Meeting, Religious Society of Friends (Quakers), will be held Saturday beginning at 5:30. Participants should bring a dish that will serve others as well as themselves.

At 7:30 there will be a half hour intergenerational activity, at which young children are welcome. At 8 p.m., Steve Slaby, professor of civil engineering at Princeton University, will present a talk and slide show on his recent trip to China.

Dr. Edward Frost, minister at the Unitarian Church, will offer a 10-week adult education program entitled "Building Your Own Theology" on Thursday evenings from 8 to 10. The course will begin March 1 and continue through May 3.

"Building Your Own Theology" is a program designed by a Unitarian minister, Richard Gilbert, and is intended to help participants develop a theological perspective out of their own experience. The program involves a process of writing one's own "credo" based on a religious model and an experiential seminar to help persons understand, develop and articulate their own values.

There will also be reading, writing, discussion reflection, exercises and worship. Participants are asked to make a commitment to all ten Thursday evenings and to be willing to enter into discussion with another person and in groups of varying sizes of their life experience and to devote time, energy and thought to the homework.

For information call the church office, 924-1604.

Dr. Bruce Metzger, professor of New Testament Studies at Princeton Theological Seminary and chairman of the Revised Standard Version Bible, will give the sermon Sunday at Princeton Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Metzger is editor of the Reader's Digest Condensed Bible. His topic this Sunday will be "John's Vision of the Eternal God and of the Lamb." Princeton Presbyterian Church meets at John Witherspoon Middle School, Walnut Lane. Morning service begins at 11 and all are welcome.

For further information call the church office at 921-1020.

David B. Brown, a psychologist in private practice in Lawrenceville, will speak before the Men's Club of the Jewish Center, 457 Nassau Street, on Sunday, February 26, at 9:30 a.m. He will discuss the relationship between parents and teenagers.

Dr. Brown, whose doctorate is in education, has specialized in the treatment of the emotional problems of children and adolescents for the past 10 years. He is a consultant for a number of schools for emotionally disturbed youngsters and is an adjunct professor in the Graduate School of Education at Rider College.

The donation to the bagels and lox breakfast is $3.50.

Separated and divorced Roman Catholics are invited to see a video-tape presentation of the Rev. James Young, C.S.P., pioneer in ministry to divorced Catholics, speaking on the topic "The Divorced Catholic and the Eucharist," Monday, February 27, at 8 at St. Paul's School, Nassau Street.

For information call Pat Cleaves, 921-6863, evenings, or Marjorie Gilbert, director of religious education at St. Paul's, 924-2681, daytime.

Elmer and Joseph H., both of Trenton, Leo R. of Coventry, Long Island, Charles of Ringoes, and Edward of Fort Pierce, Fla.; two daughters, Catherine Kennedy of Fort Pierce and Frances Schumacher of Oklahoma; a brother, Albert Falzman of Princeton; 17 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

The service was scheduled to be held Wednesday at 11 a.m. at the Buklad Yardville Memorial Chapel, 30 Yardville-Allentown Road, Yardville, the Rev. Ernest J. Siska, pastor of St. Raphael's Roman Catholic Church, Trenton, officiating. Burial will be in St. Paul's Cemetery, Princeton.

Memorial contributions may be made to the DeCou Fire Company, Ruskin Avenue, Trenton 08610.

Olga T. Smith, former headmistress of The Chapin School in Princeton, died February 12 at Rose Medical Center, Denver. She was 71.

Born in Trenton, Mrs. Smith had lived in Princeton most of her life before moving to Colorado 11½ years ago to live with her son. She was a graduate of Miss Fine's School in Princeton, received a B.A. degree from Wellesley College in 1935 and a master's degree in education from Columbia University in 1937.

She began her teaching career at Finch College in New York City and later taught at Junior School No. 3 in Trenton. She joined the faculty of Chapin School in the early 1950s and was appointed headmistress in 1956. She served until 1967.

She was a member of the Present Day Club, the Junior League of Trenton, the Wellesley Club in Colorado and Trinity Church, Princeton, where she served on the Altar Guild. She was a former member of the Princeton Township Board of Education.

Daughter of the late John and Mary Lexa Tomec of Trenton, she is survived by her former husband, Paul S. Smith of Princeton; a son, Tomec C. Smith of Aurora, Colo.; two grandchildren, Whitney L. Smith and Mason S. Smith, also of Colorado; and a sister, Mrs. H. Perry Mileham of Falls Church, Va.

Requiem Eucharist will be held Thursday at 1 at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street. The Rev. Richard A. Bower, associate rector, will officiate. Burial will follow in Ewing Cemetery under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to the Olga Tomec Smith Memorial Fund, in care of Chapin School, 4101 Princeton Pike.

Chester M. Potts Jr., 74, of Fisher Avenue, died February 9 at Princeton Medical Center after a brief illness.

Mr. Potts was born and grew up in Princeton. He lived in Kingston from 1932-1951, where he was a heavy equipment operator for Kingston Trap Rock. Most recently he was an employee in the athletic department of Princeton University for eight years, retiring in 1974. He was a past president and life member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Husband of the late Alice S. Potts, he is survived by six sons, Chester of Columbiana, Ohio; Roger of South Brunswick, John of Griggstown, Robert of Plainsboro, David of Mercerville, and William Potts of Hopewell; two daughters, Margaret Perone of Lawrence Township and Phyllis Boccanfuso of Princeton; 22 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

The service was held at the Mather-Hodge funeral Home, the Rev. John Maltby officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the Salvation Army, 575 East State Street, PO Box 99, Trenton.

John R. Broadway Jr., a Princeton resident for 48 years, died February 6 at St. Francis Medical Center.

Mr. Broadway was born in Wadesboro, N.C., and lived in Trenton for 10 years and Princeton for 48 years. He was a retired waiter from the Nassau Inn and the Cranbury Inn, as well as several restaurants at the New Jersey shore. He was a veteran of World War II, in which he served in Italy, France and North Africa.

Surviving are a son, William J. Hammond of Los Angeles, Calif.; a step-mother, Jossie Broadway of Princeton; five brothers, Henry Clayton of East Orange, John O. of Lawrenceville, Ervin Husted of San Jose, Calif.; and Herbert T. and Romus, both of Princeton; and three sisters, Johnsie B. Burnett of Hamilton, and Lina Mae Broadway Boone and Frances B. Craig, both of Princeton.

The service was held at First Baptist Church, the Rev. Jerome Bedford officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery.

softlight shades by del mar

Not a metal blind but a beautiful woven and pleated fabric.
From soft transparent sheers to cozy private opaques, Softlight Shades are simply elegant, perfectly complementing traditional as well as modern interiors. So practical they can reflect up to 87% of the sun's heat and glare, or insulate against winter chill. Softlights are also so compact they almost disappear when not in use. Available in a rainbow of colors.
